

Enrollment curbed next fall

Lower division enrollment for SF State and San Jose State have been limited by order of the State Board of Trustees, effective Fall, 1964.

The education policies committee of the State College trustees, meeting in San Francisco last week, agreed upon the limitation in an effort to keep enrollment figures at the two Bay Area colleges from surpassing adequate building facilities on the two campuses.

The committee declared a limit of 12,000 full-time students for SF State and a maximum of 15,000 full-time students for San Jose State.

The problem of determining criteria for the limitations was given to State Chancellor Glenn Dumke for further study.

According to a story in the San Francisco Chronicle, Dumke favors choosing only the best-qualified students for acceptance on the theory that they would gain the most benefit from the four-year college.

This would, in effect, however, place higher requirements for entrance at the SF State and San Jose campuses than at other state college campuses.

Other alternates would be to accept students on a first-come, first-serve basis, or to give students living in the area of the college a preferred registration.

Students in courses not offered by other campuses might also have preferred registration.

Charles Luckman, president of the trustees, stated however, that it is no longer possible to regard state colleges as belonging to a specific area.

The limitation move falls in line with the California master plan of education which is attempting to direct freshmen and sophomore students into junior colleges and concentrate on upper division and graduate programs in the state colleges and universities.

Last spring, the trustees moved to limit students transferring from junior colleges unless they had completed all lower division work.

7000 students will register smoothly?

If all goes as expected, seven thousand students will register smoothly and without incident today.

Director of Orientation and Registration, Dan Long, is looking forward to a duplication of last semester's efficient operation.

Registration week ends with 'rally'

The climax of a hectic registration week will be a series of events entitled, "Rally Round the Campus," Saturday, September 14.

Between the hours of 9 p.m. and midnight, the campus will be hopping with a more relaxed type of activity than had been experienced earlier in the week.

The Jerry Olsen Band will be playing for the dance in the main Gym. In the Redwood Room, decorated for the occasion with checkered tableclothes and candlelight, Cyril Bennett will be playing a honky-tonk piano.

Folk singer Rod Albin will lead an impromptu hootenanny in the Gallery Lounge. Cool refreshments will be served in the coffee shop.

Country-minded folk may be interested in the motorized hayride around the campus. Dress is informal.

"We expect smooth registration," Long said, "and, if all goes well, registration should be ahead of schedule again this year."

During the Spring registration, the later lines were moving an hour or two ahead of schedule. This achievement was credited to the scheduling of classes all day, five days a week. The same practice will be followed this time.

Long offered some pointers for easing the registration process:

- There is no need to queue up all night in order to enter the Gym earlier than others. The lines will move rapidly with about 75 students entering at once.

- Have a Program Planning Sheet signed by an advisor, a pen and registration fees with you.

- Have an alternate schedule ready in case any classes close.

An aid to the freshman registration process will be the shortened physical exam program. Due to a budgetary cut back, the exam is limited to a medical history form and a chest x-ray.

The number of students getting pre-reg has been reduced because of the limited physical exams, according to Long. The number of women working on the exams has been reduced from 300 to 70. There are only 35 men working as opposed to 150 last year.

Club offers book listings

A clearing house for used books has been set up by the Business Club again this semester.

While not handling any books, the clearing house will have listings of books to be sold.

The prospective seller fills out a card listing the title, author, edition, division, course number of the book, asking price and his name, address and phone number.

The seller is required to pay four per cent of the asking price, or a ten cent minimum charge.

Prospective buyers thumb through the listings until they find the books they are looking for.

The Business Club will assume no responsibility for deceptions and will not guarantee that any book will be sold. When a book is sold, the seller must notify the clearing house.

Business hours are: Thursday and Friday, September 12 and 13, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Monday through Friday, September 16 through 20, 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Before you register...

Two steps in the registration process contribute to bottlenecks at some points.

At Station one, a card requests confirmation that a student has not attended college since last semester. The next question then asks, "If yes," indicate which ones. It should read "If no."

Registration officials also suggest that five sort numbers off the IBM class cards should be transcribed into the registration booklet, four black ones and the first red one.

Legislative budget axe cuts health services to skeleton

By JACK HUBBARD

One happy and unhappy aspect of registration is the absence of the rigorous physical examination that has been given to all new students in past years.

The happy side is that students don't have to spend from four to five hours standing in line waiting to undergo a check-up on everything from athlete's foot to a chest X-Ray.

The unhappy flip of the coin is that as a result of fifty per cent cut in staff at the Student Health Center, students at SF State are being deprived of many medical services that were provided in the past.

The staff cut came as a result of action taken by the State Legislature this summer which cut all part-time medical staff from the State College Health Service.

The budget cut has severely limited the ability of the Health Center to administer an effective medical program, according to Director, Dr. Eugene Bossi.

"The physical exam has now been reduced to a rudimentary health exam," Bossi said. "In addition, our medical staff has been cut in half, drastically changing the philosophy as well as the scope of our service."

"We must attend to the basic medical needs of our students and in doing so will now have little time for anything else. This constitutes a regression to the basic type of medical service which was provided prior to World War II."

By "anything else," Bossi was referring to the consultation service offered to students by the Health Center. Also included are such items as psychiatric counselling and limiting the total of visits for a given illness to three instead of an unlimited number.

Bossi said that sufficient X-Ray, laboratory and physical therapy services will still be offered.

According to AS President Tom Ramsay, the student health plan offered to students at $10.50 a semester is still in effect.

AS Prexy predicts best year in history

Welcome to what I think will be the best year in SF State's history. Your officers have worked through the summer and the programs we have developed will, I believe, give greater meaning to your Association.

We have been contacted by the Bayview Citizens' Committee and have worked with them in the Hunter's Point area on the development of a tutorial program for grammar and high school students.

Max Rafferty has agreed to speak some time during the year, and we hope to present other leaders in education in a series of programs examining education in California.

Meetings of the Foundation Executive Committee have continued this summer and, while I am still not satisfied the Foundation is providing the services it should, I do think the basis has been established which will result in a changed attitude toward the students.

The Commons is now financially stable and is in a position to concentrate on specific benefits to students.

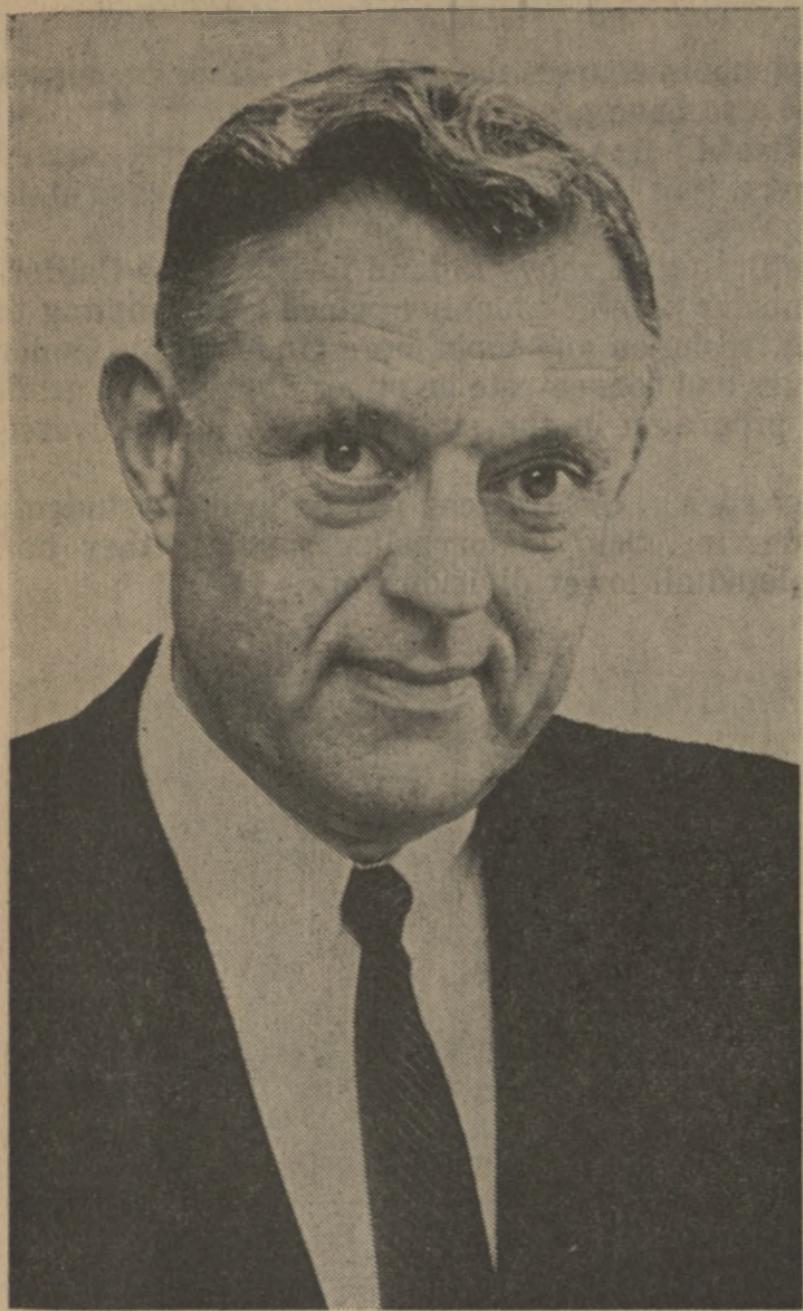

The excellent beginning we saw last year towards meaningful student participation in the educational processes is continuing. I am delighted the student body has returned and that our work will no longer occur in a vacuum.

TOM RAMSAY

TOM RAMSAY
... A welcome to all

Dodd's salutation

PRES. PAUL A. DODD

This fall semester of 1963 finds San Francisco State College expecting its largest enrollment. This sizeable figure is beside the point. The significance is you.

As a comparative newcomer to this campus I can both relate and enjoy with you the experiences you are undergoing. The physical beauty contained in our Quadrangle, which must remain inviolate from the increased building, projects a particularly effective landscape. Traveling around the periphery of the college, one is unable to appreciate the graciousness of the inner sphere. When it is entered, it's a surprise to a newcomer, a recurring joy to the experienced. To move on into the classrooms and meet with the faculty of the college brings one to the heart of the institution.

The decision which you made to enter or return to San Francisco State College has brought you to the core of the institution. This decision, yours alone to make, will be a determining factor in your life. All experiences of the future will be tempered by it.

You have declared yourself. You have entered into a relationship with a particularly vital center of experience. What you learn will continually stimulate and excite you; the remembrances you draw will be with you throughout life.

As president of San Francisco State College, it is my pleasant reward to offer you welcome.

Dr. Paul Dodd

'SF State 10 years ahead' -- NSA reps

Eight of the nine SF State delegates who attended the National Student Association Conference this summer are against the Associated Students permanently joining the organization.

The AS joined NSA, comprised of colleges throughout the United States, last year on a tentative basis. The student body will vote this semester on whether or not to permanently join NSA.

Attending the two week conference at Indiana University last month were AS President Tom Ramsay, Speaker of the Legislature Bill Burnett, SF State NSA coordinator Jim Nixon and delegates Aditma Mukerji, Dick Bakkerud and Robin Mighell. Andy Weiling, AS treasurer, Joe Persico and Ken Bowman attended the conference as alternate delegates. Bowman was the only one who thought that SF State should continue membership in NSA.

Ramsay criticized the organization on three points. "The vast majority of the problems discussed at the conference were problems that we solved here 10 years ago," the president said. As examples he cited approval of speeches, pre-publication censorship and en loco parentas that are found on other campuses but, according to him, are not found at SF State.

"I don't think NSA represents the student. It is an organization of the student government and not of the student body. Most of the delegates were there by student government presidential appointment.

"I believe that conferences are good things—for the student. Some of the people whom I appointed to go I felt were the most unsophisticated people in the AS. But they were head and shoulders above the other college delegates. They ended up working as resource people," Ramsay said.

Student parlays $48 into $9,000 contract

According to Ron Crandall, the $48 registration fee is a bargain. At least it is on the basis of his experience with one three-unit geology course.

In success story parlance, Crandall has parlaysed his geology course into several sources of income.

It all started last spring when Dr. Ray Sullivan, taking his Geology 34 class to the East Bay, pointed out some white sand near Nortonville as having "potential economic value."

Crandall was in the class, took note of and interest in Sullivan's words, and had a friend look into the market.

They secured the mining rights to the area, and as a result, Crandall expects to make "around $9,000" from a contract with Owens Corning Ware.

Sullivan discovered his student's success after the final exam in June, when Crandall thanked him for a "profitable" semester.

But that's not the end of the story. On the basis of his one geology course, Crandall, now teaching at Half Moon Bay High School, hired himself out as a consulting geologist to a business firm, and collected $300 for two days work.

Since his last experience this tycoon in embryo had been laying plans for his own consulting agency, whereby he'll put businesses in touch with expert geologists—mostly college teachers—when they need some work done.

So there's at least a possibility that Dr. Sullivan, who so recently taught Crandall all the geology he's had, will soon be working for him.

Meantime Sullivan, who feels he could have had the $9,000 if he'd thought of it earlier, is expecting all his classes this fall to be full.

"However," Sullivan said, "I hope we don't get anyone who expects me to make them rich overnight. But in case that should happen, I'm working out a little arrangement whereby I get ten per cent of everything."

Applications for a $3000 plus Marshall Scholarship to study at a British university for two years can be obtained in AD 180.

The applications must be returned to the British Consulate - General, 343 Sansome Street, San Francisco 4, by October 22.

The scholarship includes a personal allowance of $1540 yearly, in addition to a round-trip fare to Britain, tuition, $70 book allowance, and $70 extra if the student is working for his doctorate.

The only restrictions for applying are that applicants must be 25 years or under. Veterans can be 28.

Selections will be based upon high scholarship, all-around development, campus activities, and potential ability to $9 buys $10-- of food only

Discount meal tickets, good at any of the campuses' food services, will be on sale in front of the Commons next week.

The $9 tickets, good for $10 worth of food, have changed slightly from last year. Certain denominations, the ones used more often, have been increased and others have been dropped.

The cards now fold over for easier storage in wallets and are considerably stronger.

One change in use from last year has been made. The cards will no longer be valid during the summer session. This is due to the anticipated increase in prices at that time.

Later in the semester, tickets will be on sale in the Commons office.

Loans offer help

A college education costs a lot of money, even at a state supported institution such as SF State. Many students find themselves in financial difficulties during the college year, especially during registration.

The SF State College Loan Program is designed to assist students who are in dire need of financial help during the semester.

There are two types of loans:

- Short term loan of $25 or less.
- Long term loan from $25.01 to $250.00 maximum.

The short term loan is obtained by signing a promissory note guaranteeing the loan be paid back within 60 days or by the end of the semester if less than 60 days of the semester exist.

The long term loan is repayable according to a repayment schedule worked out between the student and the loan counselor. A promissory note must be signed by a co-signer over 21 years of age who is not a relative of the student, or an employee or faculty member of the college.

If the student is a minor, the note must also be signed by a parent. If he is married, the spouse must sign.

Students eligible are undergraduates with a minimum of 12 units and graduate students carrying nine units who have:

- Completed one full-time semester.
- Shown good academic standing (not on probation).
- Shown the need for education - related funds (books, living expenses, etc.)

Students serving as a guarantor of a current loan may not apply.

There is a $1 filing fee for all loans, which is payable to the college business office.

The Office of Student Financial Aid stressed that there is no money available for registration or residence hall fees and that no loans will be made 30 days prior to the end of the semester.

Applications for short term loans will be accepted beginning Sept. 23. Long term loans applications will be accepted beginning Sept. 30.

For further information, contact the Office of Student Financial Aid, AD 180 or phone 861-62.

SF State's administrative reorganization plan has changed the format of the Office of Scholarship and Loans.

Now dubbed the Office of Student Financial Aid, the new office is responsible for administering scholarships, fellowships, loans, student financial counselling into one package.

In charge of the combined operation is Dr. Helen Bedesem.

She indicated that the merger was part of a nation-wide trend.

"The merger is a facet of the reorganization plan designed to better meet the individual student financial problems," she said.

She said that at the present time, there would be little change from the old system in the form of increased scholarship funds.

All scholarship monies for the fall semester have already been allotted. This includes individual scholarships and NDEA Loans was indicated.

Paulson addresses faculty

Reorganization will be expensive

Dr. Stanley Paulson, new vice-president in charge of academic affairs, told a gathering of SF State's faculty that the new "university-type" organization will involve tremendous expense.

Chancellor Dumke, President Dodd and the Department of Finance will have to work closely in order to implement the new system, Paulson said.

In addressing the first faculty meeting of the semester, Paulson spoke in the absence of President Paul Dodd, currently making a survey of the college's school project in Liberia. He said that his information on the reorganization was "spotted," with only one week on the job.

As it stands now, four new positions have been created and staffed: Vice-president in charge of academic affairs, Paulson; Dean of the School of Humanities and Sciences, Dr. Daniel Feder; Dean of the School of Creative Arts, Dr. J. Fenton McKenna; Dean of the School of Education, Dr. Robert Smith.

Dr. George Feliz now holds the title of dean of the graduate division. His title and the previous four have all been approved. The following positions may not hold the title of dean, but the jobs are set;

School of Biological Science, Dr. John Hensill; School of Physical Sciences, Dr. Robert Thornton; School of Humanities, Language, and Literature, Dr. Jordan Churchill; School of Social Sciences, Dr. Eldon Modisette; School of Professional Education, Dr. Aubrey Haan; School of Health Physical Education and Recreation, Dr. Douglas Fessenden; School of Business, William Niven.

The post of School of Psychology is still vacant. Dr. Feder will continue as its head until someone can be named.

Four of the above positions are budgeted for 12 months and the remaining four are on a nine month basis. Paulson indicated that all may soon revert to a 12 month pay rate.

Paulson invited the new faculty to "join in making the quality of learning as rich as we can" at SF State.

Resolution refutes 'Dodd-faculty' rift

SF State's faculty threw its support behind President Paul Dodd's reorganized appointments last month, during the first faculty meeting of the semester on Monday.

This move was deemed necessary because of reports in a downtown newspaper claiming that Dodd was in trouble with Chancellor Dumke and the State College's Board of Trustees over his "unrealistic" changes and lack of faculty approval of appointments.

A resolution recommended by the Executive committee of the Academic Senate, was passed thanking Dodd for his close contact with the faculty while making the new appointments.

An amendment, adding that the faculty "deplored" the adverse publicity given to the appointments, was rejected.

The resolution:

"Resolved that the faculty of San Francisco State College duly assembled does hereby express its appreciation to President Paul Dodd for his constant consultation with representative members of the faculty regarding the appointment of administrative officers and the development of the reorganization plan."

The small opposition to the resolution, in the person of Dr. James Storey, head of the art department, was defeated. Storey said that such a document would give too much credence to the articles in the San Francisco dailies.

"We came here to work, let's get started," Storey said, to a smattering of applause.

Gerth moves up

Donald R. Gerth, assistant dean of students in charge of admissions and records, announced today that he is leaving SF State to assume the post of associate college dean of instruction and student affairs in the state wide Chancellor's office.

Gerth begins a leave of absence from SF State Oct. 1, to take over the state college system position.

Gater seeks ad staff

Jobs in the advertising world are open to all students on campus, Craig George, student publications advertising manager, announced today.

"The Gater needs students who want practical experience in advertising, from selling to layout," said George, who has his headquarters in Hut T-1, ext. 262.

Student workers receive a 15 per cent commission on each ad when it is paid. They will also receive 2 units of credit in journalism 102.

"This is a more responsible job, a chance to work on program development for the entire state college system," Gerth said.

"I am not resigning," he added. "This is a leave-of-absence. I leave the college with regret. I have enjoyed my relations with my colleagues and with faculty members."

Gerth predicts a great future for State colleges in California.

"We have the greatest system of higher education in California that the world has ever seen. We have to start pulling together to keep moving," he said.

"We have the chance in California to conduct a program of universal college education," he added. "As far as we know, 57 percent of last spring's high school graduates will enter college this fall.

"SF state is a great college with a great future."

According to Dean of Students Ferd Reddell, no replacement has been decided on for Gerth's vacant post.

A statement issued from Dean Reddell's office indicated that a replacement would be named by Oct. 1, when Gerth will leave SF State to assume his new position.

Football scrimmage at Cox Stadium tomorrow morning

The second in a series of full-dress Saturday morning scrimmages will be held tomorrow morning at Cox Stadium.

The head-knocking will commence at 9:30 a.m., and head coach Vic Rowen emphasized that the clash was open to anyone who wanted to get a preview look at the '63 Gator footballers.

After last Saturday's scrimmage, Rowen said that he was satisfied with the progress he has his offense has made, but seemed somewhat reserved about the defensive unit.

"The offense is ahead of the defense so far this season," he said, "and things are generally the other way around."

With injuries biting into the defensive line, and with most of last year's defensive secondary lost to graduation, Rowen is faced with the task of finding and/or developing replacements for these players.

Gone from last season's defensive backfield are Gordon Baird and John McGregor, Hilyard, Jim Zamlich, the latter an All-FWC pick.

Coming up with suitable replacements for these four has been one of Rowen's biggest problems so far this season, especially since there are only two returnees with experience Tim Tierney and Charles Mathews.

The secondary should be under even more fire tomorrow because the four quarterback candidates vying for the starting job will probably be an attempt to impress the coaching staff.

California snatches $46,000 of annual Foundation profit

The SF State Foundation will lose $46,000 of annual profit this year as a result of the State of California taking over the resident dining hall food service.

The Foundation, which operates the Commons and the Bookstore, has operated the residence food service since the dining hall opened last fall.

The State has taken over the operation so that profits generated from the service will go back to the students in the dorms, instead of being used by the entire campus. The State College Chancellor's Office requested the change so the State could have funds to build new residence halls.

According to George Changaris, housing co-ordinator, the change in management will not affect the quality, service or the menu of residence halls.

SF State is the first state college to adopt this plan. It is also the only college that has a separate food operation for residence hall students. On other campuses, residents eat in one of the central campus dining facilities.

According to Fred Aviles, Foundation Director, the cut in profit will cut further the Foundation contributions to the building and the College Union funds.

Last year the dining hall served the dorm's 800 residents and took in $456,000 in revenues.

Application for the hall went out on March 28 and by April 1 all vacancies were filled. 2300 women and 1000 men were turned away.

Preliminary plans for a new hall to house 600 women were submitted to the Chancellor's Office earlier this year. Changaris says that it is hoped building will start next year. Profits from the dining hall will help finance the project.

Encore films start with 'The Mark'

"The Mark," a British drama about a would-be child molester, will be shown Tuesday, September 24, as the first of twelve films to be presented by the Encore Film Series this Fall.

Stuart Whitman, Maria Schell, Rod Steiger and Donald Wolfit will be featured in the film scheduled at 3:45 and again at 7:30 p.m. in ED 117.

Other movies to be shown during the current semester include "A View from the Bridge," Oct. 1; "Shoot the Piano Player," on Oct. 8; "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning," Oct. 15; "General Della Rovere," Oct. 22.

A discount package is available to students, faculty, staff and alumni at Hut T-1. The package contains a choice of any six films for $2.40. Regular admission is 50 cents for members of SF State and 75 cents for the general public.
