BHMS still going — for a while

I appreciate your concern regarding the demise of the Buddy Holly Memorial Society and its publication, Reminiscing, but a couple of things need to be clarified (GM Jan. 30, 1987).

First, and I'm glad you pointed this out, the BHMS has recently inaugurated a new publication, Rockin' '50s. Not only does this terrific new magazine feature news about the 1950s in general (already there have been incredible informative "Spotlight" articles about Alan Freed, Gene Vincent, the Everly Brothers, and more to come about other '50s personalities and artists) but, also, articles and photos of Buddy Holly and the Crickets will still be presented when available. In each issue of Rockin' '50s is a new column entitled "Tex-Mex: The Lubbock-Clovis Connection." Anyone who reads this column would have to agree it is just like reading a typical issue of Reminiscing!

Second: As for the termination of the BHMS, it is not all over yet. As Bill Griggs has indicated in his Nov. 23, 1986, letter to all Reminiscing subscribers, he will terminate the society at the end of this fiscal year (1986-87). Thus, those who wish to join the Buddy Holly Memorial Society before Sept. 15, 1987, still have a chance to do so.

As 1986 was the 50th Birthday celebration, 1987 looks just as promising. This year is the 30th Anniversary of Buddy Holly and the Crickets and the Picks — and there may well be another Lubbock Music Festival, to commemorate this event. 1987 will also mark the 60th birthday of the great recording pioneer, Norman Petty.

The Buddy Holly Memorial Society will also present its 10th Convention. After that, who knows?

The bottom line is this: Many wonderful friendships have been made because of the BHMS. I not only hope those friendships will continue, I also hope many more can happen and for all of us that remember Buddy Holly and the Crickets and the Picks and Norman Petty and rock 'n' roll in general can still reminisce with Rockin' '50s!

To join the Buddy Holly Memorial Society and receive a subscription to Rockin' 50s, please send a SASE and request the info sheet from: Bill Griggs, BHMS/Rockin' '50s, 3022 56th St., Lubbock, TX 79413.

Post - 1980 10CC LPs

I greatly enjoyed your piece on Gouldman-Stewart/10cc in the Jan. 16 issue. My only objection was not including the post-1980 10cc LPs. They are: BSK 3575, Ten Out of Ten, Warner Brothers, 1982 (with Andrew Gold); SRM 1-4087, Windows in the Jungle, Mercury 1983 (distributed by Polygram-Canadian Issue).

Titles on Ten Out of Ten: "Don't Ask," "The Power Of Love," "Les Nouveaux Riches," "Memories," "We've Heard It All Before," "Don't Turn Me Away," "Notell Hotel," "Overdraft In Overdrive," "Tomorrow's World Today," "Run Away."

From Windows in the Jungle: "24 Hours," Feel The Love-Oomachasaooma," "City Lights, "Food For Thought," "Working Girls," "Taxi! Taxi!"

I hope these help augment an otherwise flawless discography.

Loved the Patti Page article

Goldmine has done it again! You always seem to highlight the "Tops in Pops" along with the best in other categories. Your article on "The Singing Rage," Patti Page, was terrific!

For four decades, "The First Lady of Pop Music" has thrilled the world with her songs and style. She hit the charts in the 1940s, and is still hitting the charts in the 1980s. Her music will live long after we are all gone.

I've had the occasion of meeting Patti Page several times, and even had lunch with her on a few occasions. She is an absolutely delightful lady, and a truly fine person. Forty years in show business for Patti Page has not spoiled this fine lady. She's terrific!

Goldmine, thanks for the honor bestowed on this great performer who is so deserving.

The last "mambo maniac?"

From classical, blues, jazz, swing, and be-bop, right through rhythm 'n' blues, rock 'n' roll, country, and reggae, Goldmine covers it all! However, there seems to be a gap in there that I, as a collector and fan, must question. I'm referring to a style that has its roots in the 1940s and is still with us in one form or another, Latin jazz, cu-bop, or, using a more general term, the mambo.

How can the contributions of artists such as Machito (Frank Grillo) go undocumented? With musical director Mario Bauza, he and his "Afro-Cubans" initiated the first serious fusions of jazz/big band arrangements and authentic Cuban rhythms. Largely through the efforts of Machito and his Afro-Cubans, and their collaboration with the likes of Charlie Parker, Doc Cheatham, and others, the world of be-bop adopted Latin rhythms as part of their movement and dubbed it Cu-Bop. The form evolved into the mambo craze of the early '50s, during which time many other Latin bandleaders came into their own: Tito Puente, Jose Curbelo, Joe Loco, Alfredito, Charlie Palmieri, Chico O'Farrill, Luis Del Campo, and Tito Rodriguez, to name but a few. Jazzmen such as Cal Tjader and George Shearing worked largely on Latin themes. Even Perez Prado, the quality of whose music varied greatly, started out with some arrangements that were way ahead of their time.

As a collector of this style, one soon learns that patience is the most useful tool. We're not just talking about the long wait for that "special" record either. Most used record stores in my area don't carry anything other than a small selection of cocktail Latin. A request for an original pressing Tico, Spanish Music Center, or Seeco label usually gets a grin. Dealers at shows don't bother to bring Latin records with them, and a request for anything by an artist other than Xavier Cugat usually invites an answer such as "Who?" Sad but true.

So, Goldmine readers, I'm asking: Am I the last surviving (at age 19, I'd best be classified as a new recruit) "mambo maniac?" Are there any clubs devoted to the style? I've even taken out an ad in the showcase section to make contacts. (Write, please!) I hope you can help.

Many thanks for providing us collectors with a great magazine!

Still the King

Your Jan. 16 article regarding Elvis' meeting with Nixon seems to have been written with a bit of sarcasm. We must remember that the physical and emotional condition of Elvis was quite different in 1971, when compared to later years. Elvis' dad, Vernon, requested the autopsy and, of the traces of different drugs found in Elvis' body, the collective amount would not have been enough to kill him. Also, the drugs found in Elvis' body were medically rational drugs and not street drugs like LSD, PCP, cocaine, etc. Elvis was not a junkie. He had many real medical problems and let Dr. Nick (as incompetent as he may have been) take care of his medical business. Even though the obesity, glaucoma, liver and colon disease, and hypertension may have been controlled, emotionally Elvis would have died anyway. He needed people around him who really cared about him.

In 1971, I could not think of anyone who would have reached the public as Elvis. Had he led a nationwide drug abuse campaign, many people may have been saved. There will never by another Elvis Presley, and rightfully so. In the '50s he opened the doors for many performers and broke racial barriers. In the '60s and '70s he entertained the world. Today, his records are among the most collectable, if not the most collectable.

Let's give the man the respect and credit that is due him. We need more of the "Collecting Elvis" articles and less National Enquirer type material. Since Elvis' death, many people, through books, magazines, etc. (including Geraldo Rivera) have been destroying the memories of Elvis through sensationalism and cheap shots. But, through it all, they have not been able to take away Elvis' achievements nor his crown. Elvis is still the King. I'll bet my 18-year, 400-plus Elvis record collection on it!

The 45 rpm Single: 1949-1987
Does the bell toll?

by Jeff Tamarkin

Late late year The New York Times — yes, The New York Times — ran an editorial — yes, an editorial — bemoaning the imminent death of the 45 rpm single: The little round ones with the big holes; the 7-inch ones; the singles. Maybe nobody told you: They're dying.

Why would The New York Times, the "newspaper of record," care about such a seemingly trivial matter as the demise of the 45? Well, surely not because The Times's editors are big record collectors nor because they're the first in line at Sam Goody's every time a new Madonna single is released. The Times, it seems, considers the passing of the single the death of a true cultural artifact, the end of an era. The single, it seems, represented more than just a song on a slab of vinyl; it was a way of life, a rite of passage, a part of life for a few generations. And now it's dying.

Maybe you hadn't noticed. Indeed, a trip to the local record shop, be it the K-Mart or the local collector store, would yield little proof that the single was in trouble. There's still a shelf or three's worth at any record store. Billboard still runs a Top 100 every week and there's never any trouble finding any of those discs. So what was The Times talking about? Did they have a slow news day? No, it's really true.

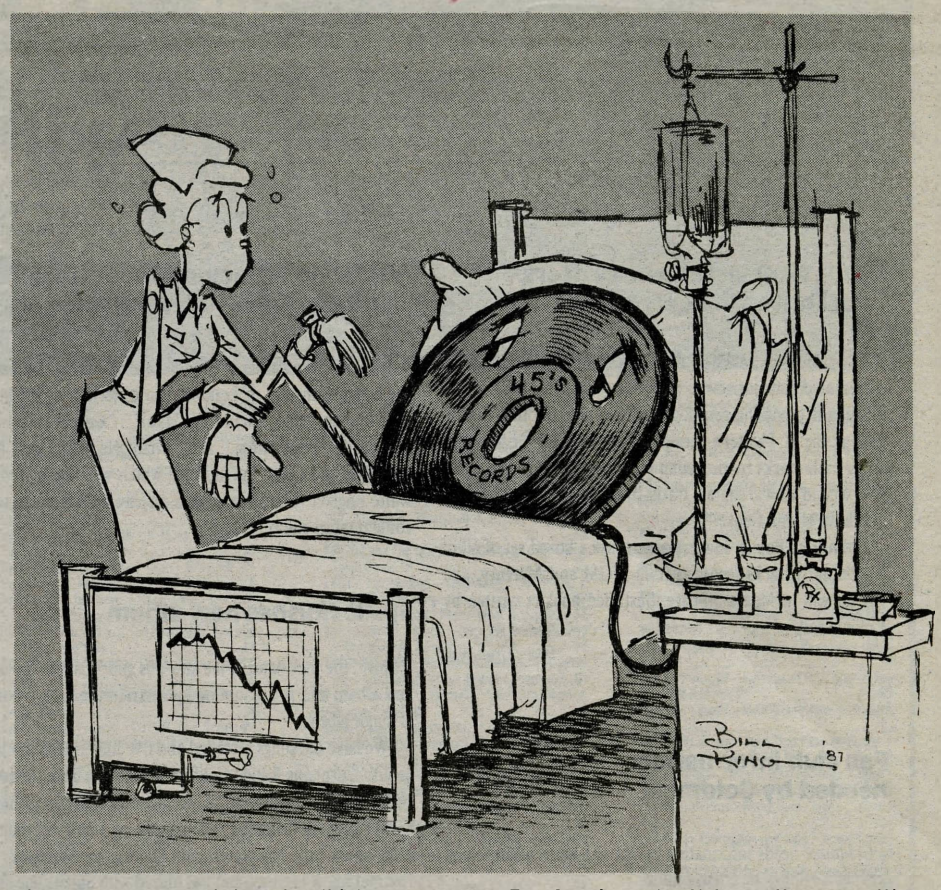
In 1986, the 45 rpm 7-inch single accounted for only a slight percentage of total record sales, a mere 1.6 percent in 1985. Even CD sales outpaced singles with 2.9 percent sales and they cost 10 times as much. (Latest sales statistics through the RIAA are only complete through 1985; sales statistics for 1986 are not yet available.) Many major lables had already begun cutting down on singles releases in the past few years and these latest figures were enough for them to start disconnecting life support systems. And for once, it wasn't their fault: It's our fault, the record buyer's, that the single is breathing its last breath. We stopped buying it.

When The Times was putting its editorial together, I received a phone call from one of its writers. As an editor of Goldmine, he wanted to know, would I miss the single if it disappeared from existence today? I had to think about it for a minute. I saw my life flash in front of my eyes. And then I said no. It hurt.

It's not because I don't love the little buggers; indeed, I have thousands of them neatly stored away. But, like most Americans, I just don't buy too many of them anymore, haven't for years. Oh, I bought a few dozen last year, but not your garden variety hit single. I bought a few Springsteens, R.E.M.s, a Fogerty and a Mellencamp. But in each case I bought them for the unreleased B-side, not for the hit A-side. And I bought a bunch of indie label and import singles by bands I'd wanted to check out and which didn't have LPs out yet. But I know me, and if those bands had had albums out, I would've gone for the LP.

The Times reporter made me think about the single and how I'd been taking it for granted all these years. He made me feel guilty as hell is what he did.

For me, as for most fans and collectors my age (mid-30s), it was the single, and not the LP, that brought me into record collecting. My first record purchase, back in early 1963, was a single (the Four Seasons' "Walk Like A Man"). I had at least 20 or 30 singles before I took the big plunge and spent my hard-earned teenage dollar on an album. They looked so big and ominous and it was a hard decision. A single was no big gamble. You heard the song on the radio and you knew what you were getting for your 59¢. But an album? What if you didn't like all of it? What if you went and spent $2.98 on it and only the two or three songs you already knew turned out to be any good? And what could you do with the things, anyway? They were so bulky, you couldn't take them to a party like a stack of 45s. No, albums were meant to be an occasional thing, but it would always be the single that you concentrated on when you went record shopping. Right.



The Beatles changed all of that, of course. They changed everything, didn't they? When you bought a Beatles album you knew it was all going to be good. Same for the Stones, Dylan and that whole lot. But it wasn't a clean break. You weren't going to buy a whole album by Herman's Hermits or the Dave Clark Five (except maybe a greatest hits); you bought the hit single. For me, they coexisted nicely for a few years. I didn't see any cultural trend pulling one arm in one direction and the other in another; if I wanted to buy a Mothers of Invention album and a Box Tops single, who was gonna stop me? Just as I could listen to FM rock stations for my progressive rock and switch back to the AM for my pop singles and soul music; I could buy a Buffalo Springfield album and a Sam and Dave single at the same time.

By the time the '70s really got rolling, though, singles purchases for me began to dissipate. I didn't have much use for "Me And You And A Dog Named Boo." Gimme the Allman Brothers, man.

And so it continued for a while. Only when punk rock came into being in the late '70s did I start to think small again. Punk bands put out great singles. Like the best '60s pop bands, punk bands were singles bands. Sure, you'd buy the Sex Pistols and Ramones albums, but you'd want to check out those strangely-named groups you never heard of in Rolling Stone — X-Ray Spex, the B-52s, Joy Division, Television, Wreckless Eric — one song at a time.

Also, there was a sense by rebellion to the punk single, just as there was to the movement

Clyde McPhatter, the Drifters spotlighted in new releases

The late Clyde McPhatter and his group, the Drifters, will be featured in major new record releases for early 1987. WEA-Canada is preparing two double-album sets, the first to contain all the McPhatter's vocals with the original Drifters plus other early tracks by the group recorded from 1953 to 1958. The second set will contain tracks by the later Drifters lineups. Producer is Kim Cooke.

From Bear Family in Germany comes a boxed set of all of McPhatter's tracks recorded from MGM and Mercury, and the set will include a 50-page illustrated booklet written by Colin Escott.

Vestrong Musicvideo to release "Spandau Ballet — Live Over Britain"

Spandau Ballet — Live Over Britain, filmed at the Sadler's Wells dance theater in London, is a collection of the band's best known songs, including "True," "Communication," "Lifeline," "Foundation," and "Chant No. 1 (I Don't Need This Pressure On)," the latter of which was one of the first white English records to receive airplay on American urban contemporary radio.

Spirit finishes new album

Spirit, the rock band of the late '60s and '70s, has finished a new album and is negotiating for distribution with a number of major labels.

"We have ten songs recorded and five fully mixed to master quality," explains Randy California, who has been the band's guitarist and vocalist since its inception. He is joined by Spirit's original drummer, Ed Cassidy, as well as keyboardist Mike Lewis, who has played with Quicksilver Messenger Service and Mark Lindsay, and has toured with Spirit. The album was recorded at Utopia Studios in London with California and Cassidy co-producing.

Spirit, whose last album (Spirt of '84) was released in late 1984 on Mercury/PolyGram Records, got together again in early 1986 when Randy California returned to Los Angeles from London, where he had been living and working with his own band. Spirit hit the road and performed more than 100 dates throughout North America during 1986 and worked on the new album over a six-month period during breaks from the concert trail. The Chrysler-sponsored "Legends of Liberty Tour" (benefiting the State of Liberty fund) included a number of major outdoor festivals in Detroit, Washington, D.C., and the Los Angeles area. The shows exposed Spirit's music to another generation of listeners and built a solid new corps of fans.

"The current 'classic rock' radio format made a real demand for us to go out on the road," California says. "Once we started playing together again, it inspired us to start writing some new songs and we found the audiences were completely receptive to the new material. The crowds were a healthy mix of our old fans and teenagers who were seeing us perform for the first time."

Goldmine initiates test ordering program

by John Koenig
Advertising Manager

The staff of Goldmine strives to deliver the best possible publication it can. A large part of this publication is advertising, and we go to great lengths to make sure our readers get what they ordered in the grade that they ordered.

In efforts to improve our customer services, Goldmine has begun to test order dealers who advertise in our pages. We use collectors from across the country and overseas to file orders for us. These collectors then forward the orders back to us for inspection. If they meet our grading standards for that which was advertised, nothing is said. However, should the order produce items that fall substantially below what the advertised grade is, Goldmine will confront the advertiser. A negative finding such as this will produce a warning. A second test order by us at a later date allows us to ascertain if corrective action was taken by the advertiser. A second failure to pass our staff inspection may be grounds for suspension of advertising privileges.

In addition, Goldmine will be actively monitoring other concerns of the mail order business, such as prompt refunds if our readers aren't satisfied with the items ordered. At Goldmine, the collector is king and we intend to serve you and help our advertisers serve you to the best of our abilities.

Oldies stations information being sought by Goldmine

Information on the status of oldies stations across the country is being compiled by Goldmine magazine. Included in the oldies coverage of radio stations is the new format called "classic rock."

Readers who know of radio stations that are all oldies or classic rock in format are asked to send us the following information: Radio station call letters, frequency, address and phone number.

Readers who listen to special oldies or classic rock programs (local, not nationally syndicated) featured by rock/pop/R&B stations are asked to supply Goldmine with the following information: Radio station call letters, frequency, program DJ, station address and phone number.

Results of this survey will be published in a future issue of Goldmine.

itself. Many punk bands weren't being signed by the major labels so they put out their own records. The indie record was reborn. Labels like Stiff, Two-Tone Rough Trade, Slash and Factory were to the late '70s what Chess and Atlantic and Sun were to the '40s and '50s. Sure, the punk bands with the better press coverage were getting inked by the majors but not the little guys that fueled the movement from below the surface. So they did it themselves. And they did it on singles first.

The indie record movement has continued to blossom through the '80s and as the decade winds down, it shows no sign of falling away. Most bands don't have much of a choice; albums are expensive to make so they put out a single. Many of today's hottest bands rose up from the indie single underground to the majors — R.E.M., Husker Du, Elvis Costello and many others first put out singles on indies before they found big-bucks backers. For them, the single was no novelty, it was the most important first step.

But still, even in the indie world it's getting to be a truth that the single is a losing proposition. Last year a new band called me to ask some advice. They'd gotten together enough money to record their first single and wanted to know whether to put it out on a 7-inch or 12-inch single (the 12-inch single, a '70s invention, by the way, is still an important promotional tool; it's the 7-inch 45 we're discussing here). I told them not to put out either one if they really wanted to be noticed by anyone. Press and radio people ignore singles for the most part. They receive hundreds of albums a month and can't even get to all of them; there's no way they'll play a single by an unknown band. So I told these guys to save up some more dough until they could record at least an EP of four or five songs, or preferably an album. In my own small way I guess I contributed to the death of the single.

It's not that I don't still love the single. When I told the reporter from The Times that I wouldn't miss the single if it disappeared, it was because I'm as guilty as the next person for letting it die. I don't buy singles for the right reason: To have a hit song. I buy them as a collector: To have something rare. And for me, because the music has always come first, that's not enough of a reason. I'll miss the single if it really disappears, but I'll know I did as much as I could to save it before old age simply took its course. And what have you done for the single lately?

The Sex Pistols
Working-class anti-heroes

by Dierdre Rockmaker

If you're not already feeling old today, try this on for size: The British punk movement reached its climax 10 years ago this year. By 1977, the Sex Pistols had become a household word, to the admiration disgust or chagrin, or at least amusement, of a worldwide audience.

Starting an article about the English punk movement is difficult to do simply because it never really happened here as a mass social movement. But in England, punk rock was a much heralded, great explosion intent on getting rid of the early '70s "dinosaur" bands—those that played songs that rambled on in tune with the artists own excesses. Concerts had become an empty even, a non-participatory spectacle full of lights and flash but never something that anyone could aspire to or emulate.

The Sex Pistols in particular were quite concerned with breaking down the barriers between the "haves" and the "have nots." With their working-class roots and literally no future plans except signing on to the dole, playing music was something that none of the members had actually considered before being asked to take part. And once the Sex Pistols had proven it could be done, the floodgates were opened for literally hundreds of compatriots with similar frustrations and motivations.

But punk was also a specifically British movement. Despite the best efforts of bands like the Ramones, it could not have happened here, for punk was a class movement disguised as a youth movement. It was the proving ground for those who had always been told they would never amount to anything. It was an outlet in which people were allowed to exist as individuals and create, even if their families were not moneyed. But it was also a phenomenon that was alien to the American psyche. The Sex Pistols could never have been understood or tolerated by a nation for whom, in 1977, rebellion was represented by the image of the blue collar worker with a day job that provided much spendable wealth, to be blown in the disco on weekends ala Saturday Night Fever, the hit film and biggest selling album in America in 1977.

Sociologists agree that working-class uprisings are usually provoked by a middle-class instigator and the punk movement was no exception. Malcolm McLaren had been involved in political organizations while in art school. Most pertinently to this story, he was a member of the French "Situationists" movement. In a nutshell, the Situationists doctrine taught that one must create on environment wherein "a person would be responsible for his own actions and freed from the drudgery [for example] of going to work." There "situations" were supposed to take place in "the spirit of anarchy" using "scandal and shock tactics," according to an article by Michael Watts in the June 16, 1977, issue of the English music paper Melody Maker. McLaren's actions and beliefs during this period were an eerie precursor of what was to happen in 1977.

The reign of the Sex Pistols as the epitome of punk was only three years, yet their precedents, and those of the other prominent bands of the time, would forever change the relationships of performers with their audience, their record companies and the media. So while punk is gone, it is not forgotten, here's the story of Johnny Rotten . . .

Even though the year of the Sex Pistols' greatest prominence was 1977, their roots went back to the school days of Steve Jones, Paul Cook and the long-forgotten Wally Nightingale. After their senior year in high school, the trio decided to devote their time to rehearsing a band. Cook took on the drum duties (after an earlier attempt at the instrument by Jones), Nightingale was on guitar and "Q.T." Jones sang lead vocals. Their equipment had been, umm, "borrowed" from music stores.

It was 1973 and much of the group's time was taken up hanging out at a clothing boutique called Let It Rock. Located at the far end of London's now trendy Kings Road, it was in an area fittingly known as "World's End." "Let It Rock" catered to '50s Teddy Boy styles. It was owned by Malcolm McLaren and his common-law wife Vivienne Westwood. McLaren was reputed to have an interest in managing a band. Jones, Cook, and Nightingale asked him if he wouldn't mind looking out for a bass player to complete their outfit.

Glen Matlock had been a Saturday clerk in Let It Rock. But when asked by McLaren whether he would like to play bass for a band, he responed affirmatively. The quartet rehearsed in a former BBC sound studio owned by Nightingale's father. Their repertoire consisted of '60s pop tunes including those by the Beatles, the Small Faces, and early Who numbers.

Meanwhile, McLaren got his chance at managing a band when the New York Dolls visited his shop, which had by now changed its name to Too Fast To Live, Too Young To Die and its direction to '60s leather-bound rocker fashions. McLaren followed them back to New York after their tour and talked his way into becoming their manager. He convinced the group, which had been best known until now for its platform shoes and otherwise flamboyant looks, to incite ire instead of shock. He draped hammed and sickle Communist flags over their amps and created a theme called the "Red Patent Leather" show. As he would later do with the Sex Pistols, he booked them on an off-the-beaten-track circuit tour of the Deep South. He dressed them in red clothing designed by his partner Vivienne Westwood. But, almost as a harbinger of things to come, the New York Dolls imploded while in Florida and, without a band, McLaren returned to london in June 1975.

Meanwhile, the Jones, Cook, Nightingale and Matlock aggregation had been playing tiny pubs alternately under the names the Swankers and Q.T. Jones and the Sex Pistols. Westwood had again changed the name of the clothing store this time to Sex, and was now designing leather and bondage gear. Upon his return, McLaren talked the band into taking a new direction by writing their own songs. He also convinced Jones that he would make a better lead guitarist, thus leaving Nightingale to depart, never to be heard from again. Jones had never been comfortable as a frontman and it was now up to them to seek a suitable lead singer. Enter John Lydon.

Steve Jones had first noticed John Lydon as he had browsed through Sex about six months previously. It must not have been difficult, for he was sporting green hair at the time. Along with his friends, John Simon Ritchie, renamed Sid Vicious by Lydon, in deference to the Lou Reed song "Vicious," the lyrics of which described Vicious's passive nature and John Grey, Lydon was a known terror along Kings Road. His favorite hobby was ridicule, especially when he encountered those too inflated by ego and image.

The next time that Lydon entered the boutique, McLaren asked him if he wanted the singing position. Lydon was noncommittal and replied that he "wouldn't mind." He was "auditioned" by the rest of the band in front of the jukebox at Sex, singing along to an Alice Cooper record. Although he didn't know the words and could not sing, the rest of the band and McLaren though he had the perfect look and defiant attitude they needed in a mouthpiece. Not long after, Lydon was redubbed Johnny Rotten by Steve Jones because of his uncanny knack for getting the group kicked out of pubs and because of his green, unbrushed teeth.

The new formula Sex Pistols' first gig was at St. Martin's College of Art in November 1975.

It was an insuspicious start for after only a few numbers an audience member pulled the plug. But by March 1976, after several other London college gigs, they had amassed enough of a following to secure a residency at the 100 Club on Oxford Street.

In and around this, they also played the Marquee and Nashville Rooms in London. Their repertoire of '60s covers—including a version of the Small Faces song "Watcha Gonna Do About It" in which the lyrics had been changed, in typical Rotten fashion, to "I want you to know that I hate you baby/I want you to know I don't care"—was giving way to originals with lyrics by Johnny Rotten and music by either Glen Matlock or Steve Jones. It was also during this time that Johnny Rotten's stage persona was really starting to emerge.

The best description of this phenomenon is contained in Caroline Coon's book, 1988, The New Wave Punk Rock Explosion (1977, Hawthorn Books, Inc.):

"Once he moved over the stage squirming and jiggering like a spinderly, geigercounter needle measuring radio activity. Lately, he rarely moves. He can be quite sickeningly still. This deathly, morgue-like stance sets skin crawling and his lyrics are as suffocating as the world they describe."

It was also during this time that the punk dance the pogo was started. Rotten's loyal buddy, Sid Vicious, got so excited by the music he started jumping up and down and back and forth in order to see the band over everyone's heads. For this he was later branded the "Chubby Checker of Punk" by Family Tree author Pete Frame.

By July 1976, the Sex Pistols found themselves as the leaders of a new English movement dubbed "Punk Rock" by the English music paper the New Musical Express. Although the term had been in use since the '60s, it was one for which the band members had disdain. Meanwhile, other punk groups like the Damned, the Clash, the Buzzcocks and Slaughter and the Dogs were forming fast and furiously.

On Sept. 20 and 21 of that year, the 100 Club Punk Rock Festival was held. The Sex Pistols headlined the first night. One of the other acts on the same night was the first incarnation of Siouzsie and the Banshees.

The group featured two members of the "Bromley Contingent," a fiercely loyal bunch of fans who had followed the Sex Pistols to every gig since their college concerts, and Rotten's pal Sid Vicious on drums. Their 20-minute medley of "The Lord's Prayer," "Twist And Shout" and "Knocking On Heaven's Door" did not go over well.

One of the other people to witness the Pistols at the 100 Club was Terry Slater, creative director for EMI Music. Slater persuaded his company to quickly draw up a contract that included an advance of £40,000 the largest offered to a new band up until that time. In signing them up, EMI beat out Polydor, RAK and Chrysalis.

Texas responds to the Pistols' local concerts.

On Oct. 8, 1976, the Sex Pistols signed a two-year contract. Immediately they went into the studio to record their first single, "Anarchy In The U.K." Rumors are that earlier recording studio forays had yielded demos produced by guitarist Chris Spedding and Sex Pistols soundman Dave Goodman. Nonetheless, Roxy Music producer Chris Thomas was hired to produce this first EMI funded single.

When "Anarchy In The U.K."/"I Wanna Be Me" (EMI 2566) was finally released in the U.K. in November, there were two different pressings. The first 1,000 came in a plain black sleeve that listed Chris Thomas as the producer of both sides. All subsequent copies correctly credited Dave Goodman as the producer of the B-side and were packaged in EMI's generic sleeve. Demo copies were packaged in a white sleeve with a note to indicate the proper production credits. A one-sided white label copy also exists.

Plans were set into motion for the Pistols' first major British tour in December 1976. During the "Anarchy In The U.K. Tour," the Sex Pistols were to be supported by the Damned (who were thrown off the tour early on for cooperating with, instead of condemning, a city council's restrictions), the Clash and Johnny Thunders' Heartbreakers, which contained two former members of the New York Dolls. But on Dec. 1 the punk movement in general and the Sex Pistols in particular were suddenly jet-propelled from relative obscurity into English living rooms and front pages.

The band had been asked to appear on Thames TV's teatime Today show, hosted by Bill Grundy. Fuelled with drink provided by the station, and egged on by Grundy, who also made suggestive remarks to Siouxsie, who was seated in the background of the stage, Steve Jones, Johnny Rotten and Glen Matlock unleashed a four-letter word fest on live television.

The next day the Fleet Street newspapers had a field day. Front page headlines proclaimed, "The Filth And The Fury," "The Punk Rock Horror Show" and "TV Fury At Rock Cult Filth." Pages were filled with reports of people jamming the station's phone lines and even kicking in their television sets. Bill Grundy was suspended for two weeks. The Sex Pistols had nonstop coverage in the daily newspapers and a single in the Top 30.

Dates of the "Anarchy In the UK" tour, due to begin two days later, were hastily cancelled by many of the student unions of colleges they were designated to play. Packers in EMI's pressing plant refused to handle the single. At their annual general meeting, EMI's Chairman of the Board, John Read, raised the question of whether or not to terminate the group's contract.

By January 1977, the band had returned from their tour and the decision had been reached. EMI was to let the Pistols go in return for a cash settlement of £50,000 (the extra £10,000 a result of a publishing contract). The label pulled "Anarchy In The U.K." off the retail shelves and melted down all the remaining copies, making it the first Sex Pistols collectible. Depending on the pressing, copies have a valve between $20 and $30, with the single-sided demo giving for as much as $250.

The banner year of 1977 continued with an even bigger upheaval within the band. In February, Glen Matlock was fired as their bass player. Although the official reason given was "because he went on too long about Paul McCartney," as Malcolm McLaren stated in a telegram to the editor of the NME, closer to the truth was his increasing personality conflicts with the rest of the band, particularly Rotton. Sid Vicious was immediately designated as Matlock's replacement and taught to play bass by Steve Jones.

Meanwhile, Malcolm McLaren had been nogotiating a new record deal, this time with A&M (UK). On March 10, the record company staged an elaborate "photo opportunity" for the media. The Pistols signed their latest contract on a table set up outside the gates of Buckingham Palace. The label's promotional gimmick was to advertise the band's next single, "God Save The Queen." The Sex Pistols signed for a £150,000 figure this time.

However, less than a week later, this contract too was mysteriously terminated by the record company. The payoff was £75,000. Several unsubstantiated theories were put forth as to the record company's sudden decision. They included pressure from other artists on the label's roster and A&M employees, fear of the words to the anti-royalty single and its cover art, and increasing reports of violence at punk clubs. The official reason from Derek Green, managing director of A&M, according to Fred and Judy Vermorel's interview with him in their book, The Sex Pistols (1978, Universal [UK]), was "I changed my mind."

Although A&M had pressed 25,000 copies of the group's second single, "God Save The Queen"/"No Feelings" (AMS-7284), it was never released. Yet rare copies of this supposedly non-existant single have surfaced in both Great Britain and America with asking prices as high as $1,000. (Collectors should be aware that the catalog number is imprinted in the run-off groove of the real copies to avoid forgeries.)

On May 21, 1977, the Sex Pistols signed with Virgin records in England. Virgin was a much smaller company and had always been outbid in previous attempts to claim rights to the band. But with the Queen's Jubilee (25th anniversary of her coronation) celebrations impending, record companies were especially leery of releasing "God Save The Queen." Although McLaren was reticient about signing to such a small company, the band itself got along better with its young, impulsive owner, Richard Branson. "God Save The Queen" was finally released, albeit with a different flip side, "Did You No Wrong" (VS181). Despite the fact that it received no airplay, it quickly went to #2 on the British charts. Unfortunately, a seven-second TV commercial for the group which was supposed to be aired during Bill Grundy's program, was axed by Thames Television. But an ever bigger publicity stunt did see the light of day.

On June 15, Jubilee Day, the band hosted a secret record release party aboard a yacht named the "Queen Elizabeth." The party of strictly invited guests was scheduled to cruise down the Thames, along the Queen's parade route. Underneath each Thames bridge crossing, a tape of the British National Anthem was to be played, followed by a live set by the Pistols. However, as they played, a battery of police cruisers forced the boat to dock. Among those arrested in the resulting melee were Malcolm McLaren and Vivienne Westwood.

Within three days of the Jubilee Day incident, various members of the band and management employees were physically attacked. Johnny Rotten's face was slashed by a gang that accosted him, Chris Thomas, and engineer Bill Price. The next day Paul Cook was clubbed over the head with an iron bar as he entered a tube station. Jamie Reid MacGregor, the graphic designer for the band, also suffered injuries in a third attack. Rotten retreated into hiding until things cooled down.

In July 1977, the band released its third single, "Pretty Vacant" backed with a cover version of Iggy Pop's "No Fun" (VS184) that had been produced by Dave Goodman. Under pressure from Virgin, the band did something it had previously scorned, both for themselves and other punk bands—they appeared on the weekly English music countdown show Top Of The Pops, albeit on video. The band did not really see the necessity of this appearance, as the single was already #7 on the charts. At least they had already recorded this straight concert video, as they had for both previous singles. As long as they didn't have to mime to the record, they agreed to appear.

It was also around this time that Malcolm McLaren began the complicated negotiations that, four directorial changes and eight scriptwriters later, would eventually lead to the movie, The Great Rock And Roll Swindle. McLaren felt the film medium was a natural progression if the Pistols would continue to be banned from playing live concerts.

McLaren's first choice as a director was soft-porn king Russ Meyer. From the start their ideas clashed on how the film should present the band. Up until then, existing footage of the band had been revealed in Don Letts Punk Rock Movie and a short film called Sex Pistols Number 1, a collection of TV appearances and promotional videos that had been shown at a few live shows. The original title of this new movie was Who Killed Bambi?. Among the trail of rejected scriptwriters was Roger Ebert, of Siskel and Ebert's At The Movies fame. Ebert had written Meyer's biggest sexploitation success, Beyond The Valley Of The Dolls. Ebert's script of Who Killed Bambi? pitted stereotypical soft porn characters against the Pistols' anarchistic behavior. Wonder if Siskel would have given a thumb's up to that!? Meyer did not get on well with the band and later disassociated himself completely from the project.

With the Pistols' image still making it difficult for them to obtain venues in the U.K., the group went on a Scandinavian tour in August, during which they were accompanied by many English and American writers. Upon their return, they performed five "secret" concerts in Great Britain under pseudonyms like the "Spots" (Sex Pistols On Tour Secretly) and the "Tax Exiles." There were not many new songs, although one of them, "Belsen Was A Gas," was briefly considered as their next single. Acetates of this are said to exist. The song would eventually surface of the soundtrack to The Great Rock And Roll Swindle sung by both Rotten and Great Train Robber Ronnie Biggs.

However, in October they instead chose to release another post-Matlock song, "Holidays In The Sun"/"Satellite" (VS191.) Of course this song was also banned from radio play for lyrics that akinned English holiday camps with "the new Belsen." The picture sleeve had to be recalled when it was learned that the drawing had been "procured" from a Belgian travel brochure. This first sleeve, though, is among the more common Pistols rarities, with an approximate value of less than $10.

Also in October, the Sex Pistols signed their first (and, fortunately, only) American record deal with Warner Brothers. Almost diametrically opposite in views and strenght to their English label, the mega-company had definite opinions on marketing the Pistols in the United States. They chose "Pretty Vacant" as the first domestic release and looked towards New York's Madison Square Garden for the Sex Pistols' American live debut. The idea was to charge a very low admission price in deference to punk's anti-grandiose ideals. Malcolm McLaren's publicist-like instinct made him vehemently veto this idea. He felt that a stadium concert would lessen the feeling of intensity generated by the group.

Back in England, a whole new tempest in a teapot was brewing when the Sex Pistols released their first (and only official) album, Never Mind The Bollocks, Here's The Sex Pistols (V2086) on Oct. 28. An earlier version of the album had been available as a bootleg, Spunk, at least a month earlier.

Spunk appears to be a rough draft of what later became the legitimate release. Although it contains most of the same tracks, most seem to be alternate takes, others much earlier versions with different production or even alternate lyrics. The "greatest hits" quality of Never Mind The Ballocks is played down on Spunk with its use of alternate titles. For example, "Nookie" is "Anarchy In The U.K.," and "Lots Of Fun" is a precursor of "Pretty Vacant" in unfinished form. B-sides of singles that are featured on Spunk never made in onto the Virgin album. They were replaced by later songs like "Bodies" and "Holidays In The Sun." Due to its nature, Spunk is on the Blank label with no further information.

Never Mind The Bollocks, with its bold yellow and pink sleeve and cut and paste style graphics, including torn photos of the band and pencilled in credits, were all in line with the Pistols' "do-it-yourself" image. Although many derided the inclusion of so many previous releases (all but two tracks had been written while Glen Matlock was still in the band), the advance orders topped 125,000. This ensured the Sex Pistols of a #1 position in the British charts.

But the Pistols were once more embroiled in a national fury, this time for the title they chose for their album. Bollocks is a slang obscenity in Great Britain, and some record store owners, particularly in Nottingham, were prosecuted under the 1889 Indecent Advertising Act by the police. In a court case in Nottingham, attended by Johnny Rotten, an English professor was called upon to give the derivation of the word "bollocks." After a witty discourse on its many usages through the years, the courts decided in the record owners' favor. Bollocks was now recognized as a legitimate word. Ironically, the daily newspapers, which were deploring the record's title, had no second thoughts about reproducing the album cover for inclusion with their stories. However, there were no reports of any arrests of newsstand owners.

The first 50,000 copies of the English album contained an extra one-sided single, "Submission," and a poster. Supposedly a second pressing contained "Submission" on the album. The back cover of this variation was stark white, with no track listing. First pressing albums are now worth about $20, the single alone about $8. This second pressing has a current value of $25. Later, "Submission" was added on with the proper credits. A picture disc of the album (VP 2086), released in January 1978, is now estimated at $25.

A few weeks later, the American release of Never Mind The Bollocks (BSK 3147) was greeted with much less fanfare. It differs from the English in cover color and the always included "Submission" track. It debuted at the bottom of the charts and reached a high of #107 in Billboard.

Meanwhile, McLaren's and Warner Bros.' disagreements over an American tour continued. First the band had set up, and at the last minute cancelled, an appearance on the season opener of NBC's Saturday Night Live. (Elvis Costello and the Attractions was the last minute replacement. Ironically, Costello proved to be more problematic than the Pistols when he hastily changed his mind about what number to perform in mid-song. Bassist Bruce Thomas sported a "Thanks Malc" t-shirt during the show.)

McLaren, in an effort to create American media stunts equal to those in England, suggested a tour of the Deep South with concerts in Selma, Ala., Tupelo, Miss., and Tijuana, Mexico. In the end Warner Bros. granted a compromise. The January 1978 tour would start in Atlanta, Ga, and continue on to Tulsa, Okla., Memphis, Tenn., Dallas and San Antonio, Texas (the only city to survive McLaren's original list), Baton Rouge, La., and, finally, end at San Francisco's Winterland. The record company secretly had hopes that the band would then return to New York to play Madison Square Garden.

From bible belters bearing banners that proclaimed "Life is ROTTEN without God's Only Begotten—JESUS" to various brawls with patrons, particularly intent on goading Sid Vicious, this seven-city American tour was a case of living up to what Americans might expect of the Sex Pistols.

Then suddenly it was over. The last night of the tour, January 18, at Winterland in San Francisco, Johnny Rotten walked out on the band (or was fired, depending on whose version one believes). His parting words to his audience and the band were, "Ever get the feeling you've been cheated?"

By the next day Rotten was on a plane to New York and back in London a week later. He had been rescued by NME photographed Joe Stevens after leaving with just the clothes

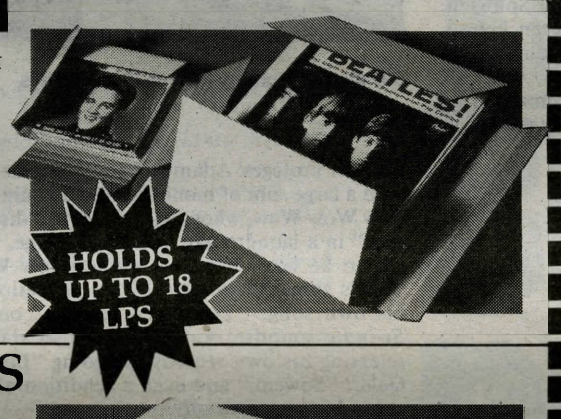
NEW! MAILERS

Nostalgia's new mailers are perfect for shipping LP's or 45's across town or across the country. Easy to assemble, they accommodate any number up to eighteen LP's or up to twenty-five 45's. Our competitors hold only 6, so there's really no comparison...except in price!



STORAGE BOXES

If it takes hours to find the record you want, you need Nostalgia storage boxes and dividers. Nostalgia was first on the market with extra-strong corrugated record boxes for both LP's and 45's. Our custom design gives you more box for the money, with a full 2 sq. ft. more board per box than the competition; so you can stack up to 5-high with no risk of collapse or record damage. Our stronger board has a much higher bursting strength than others, and our boxes are heat-tested in the Southwest to withstand high outside temperatures. Nostalgia's design eliminates the puzzle-like assembly required by others. Perforated hand-holes can be punched out for easy carrying, or left in to keep out dust.

DIVIDERS

Nostalgia's on-going product development has left us with the strongest, simplest, and most economical divider card available today. Our cards are sized just right for quick scanning. These cards will fit any box and won't bury your records. Write directly on the card or use standard stick-on office labels. No need for expensive coating, just plain, functional, and more affordable than ever. So if it's value you want, you want nostalgia dividers.

on his back. Also en route to New York, Sid Vicious collapsed from a drug overdose.

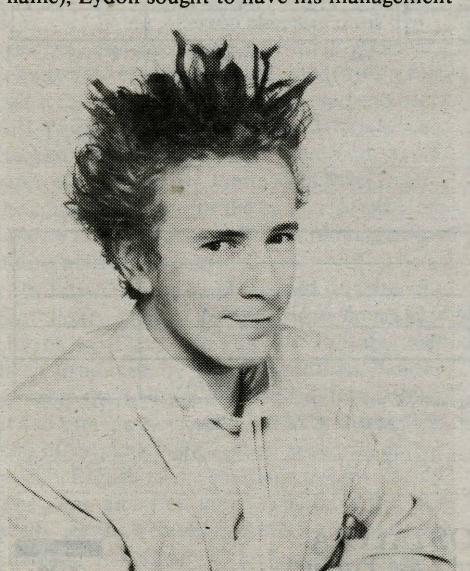
After seeing Vicious safely home to London, Malcolm McLaren joined Steve Jones and Paul Cook in Rio de Janiero where a meeting had been set up with ex-Great Train Robber Ronald Biggs. A fugitive, he had been hiding out there to avoid extradition. Not one to waste time, McLaren brought with him a contract that essentially made Biggs the new lead singer of the Sex Pistols. Biggs recorded a single with the two ex-Pistols that was alternately titled "God Save The Sex Pistols," "Cosh The Driver" and "No One Is Innocent (A Punk Prayer By Ronald Biggs)" (VS220.) The single was backed by Sid Vicious's version of the Sinatra-Presley standard "My Way." The 12-inch version had yet another title, "The Biggest Blow."

For the remainder of February, Julien Temple, who had been an associate within Malcolm McLaren's management company, was given the job of finishing the film, The Great Rock And Roll Swindle. The finished product was a highly stylized, basically fictionalized account of McLaren's "how to" guide on creating "cash from chaos." Jones, Cook and Vicious played brief roles and footage of the American tour was incorporated, the only time Rotten is featured. The soundtrack album featured only brief excerpts of Rotten's vocals. Each of the others sing lead at least once, as does Ronald Biggs and even Malcolm McLaren.

Alternate footage of the American concerts was filmed by Lech Kowalski for his 1981 film, D.O.A. Despite bans by both Warner Bros. and Malcolm McLaren, Kowalski managed to sneak in his film crews and equipment. Interwoven with vintage clips of other early punk bands, the film's biggest draw is what was to be the final interview of a barely conscious and strung out Sid Vicious and his girlfriend, Nancy Spungen.

The release of The Great Rock And Rock Swindle, as well as its final editing, was put on hold, though. A year after the Sex Pistols' breakup, Johnny Rotten and Malcolm McLaren had their day in court. In the case of Lydon versus Glitterbest (McLaren's corporate name), Lydon sought to have his management contract with McLaren declared void, so as to obtain monies that he contended had been withheld from him. The issue of who owned the Sex Pistols name was also on the docket. One of Lydon's allegations was that most of the monies made during the Sex Pistols' heyday went into a movie that only McLaren wanted made.

At the last minute, Steve Jones, Paul Cook and the estate of Sid Vicious all sided with Lydon. The judge decided the case in the three ex-Pistols' favors and placed the assets of Glitterbest, including the unfinished Rock And Roll Swindle film, in the hands of a court-appointed receiver (although by that time the soundtrack album had already been released). These assets would remain in receivership until 1986, when Lydon and company were awarded £1,000,000.



John Lydon

Postscript

While the post-Sex Pistols careers of its members never achieved the notoriety of their early years, they each continued on in the music business. It's hard to tell, though, just how much of their successes were based on their now legendary pasts.

Sid Vicious

The saga of Sid Vicious and Nancy Spungen is by now all too familiar. Vicious and Spungen moved to New York City, with which Vicious had fallen in love during his brief time in America. His increasing drug addiction led to his complete failure as a solo performer. After his arrest for the murder of Nancy Spungen, Vicious died of a heroin overdose on Feb. 2, 1979. Virgin released a posthumous album entitled Sid Sings (V2144). In 1986, Alex Cox directed a loosely based, highly romanticized view of their lives, entitled Sid & Nancy. It was as dismal as his portrayal.

Malcolm McLaren

Glen Matlock

Glen Matlock went on to form the Rich Kids after his rift with the Sex Pistols. He has also appeared in the bands of other performers, including Iggy Pop. During his involvement with Pop, several dates on an English tour were cancelled—not because of Pop's eccentric reputation but because of Matlock's former liaison with the Sex Pistols.

Steve Jones and Paul Cook

After their return from Rio, Steve Jones and Paul Cook briefly joined forces with Jimmy Pursey, the lead singer of a failed punk group called Sham 69. It was all too easy to dub them the "Sham Pistols." Under the name the Greedies, Cook and Jones also released a one-off Christmas single, "A Merry Jingle" (Greed 1), with Thin Lizzy members Phil Lynott, Scott Gorham, and Brian Downey, on the latter's Vertigo label.

Cook and Jones also co-produced the first solo single and album by Joan Jett. In July 1980, they formed the Professionals and released one album, I Didn't See It Coming (Virgin V2220), which was supported by an extensive American tour. Jones was also involved with the short-lived group Chequered Past, which also only lasted one album. Jones now lives in California and has appeared and recorded with Michael Des Barres and Iggy Pop. He most recently worked with ex-Duran Duran guitarist Andy Taylor on Taylor's first solo album. Ironically, a solo Jones track is featured on the Sid & Nancy soundtrack.

Malcolm McLaren

Malcolm McLaren continued to put his media manipulation prowess to good use with his later proteges: Adam Ant (by whom he was paid a large sum of money to find a gimmick); Bow Wow Wow, whose lead singer he "discovered" in a laundromat; and Boy George, with whom he was trying to replace Bow Wow Wow's singer. Prompted by his attraction to his own song, "You Need Hands," on the Swindle soundtrack, McLaren also started releasing his own records including "Buffalo Gals," "Soweto," and even a rendition of the opera Madame Butterfly.

Johnny Rotten

Johnny Rotten reverted back to his given name of Lydon and formed P.I.L. in 1978. Since then, Public Image Ltd. has gone through many incarnations and record labels. Since winning the right to do so, Lydon has gone back to calling himself Rotten and stopped denying his past. In fact, his most recent concerts with P.I.L. included a version of "Anarchy In The U.K." In addition, Lydon/Rotten tried his hand at acting in a starring role opposite Harvey Keitel in the mid-'80s film Corrupt. He too now lives in California, after the continued pressures of English repression caused him to migrate there.

Bootlegs

There are literally dozens of Sex Pistols bootlegs in existence. Five were released in 1985 alone. Many of these recordings were made by the people who actually were present in the studio at the time, although their rights to releasing these tapes have never been determined.

Books

While there are many books that handle the punk movement in general, two deal exclusively with the Sex Pistols. One is Fred and Judy Vermorel's 1978 book, The Sex Pistols (Universal Books, U.K., Tandam Publishing Ltd., 44 Hill Street Dept. G, London W1X 8LB). This book itself has become a rarity. It contains interviews with all the people involved with their career, including the diary of McLaren's secretary. The Sex Pistols File (ed. by Ray Stevenson, 1978, Omnibus Press) is a fascinating collection of press clips and comments on and by the band.

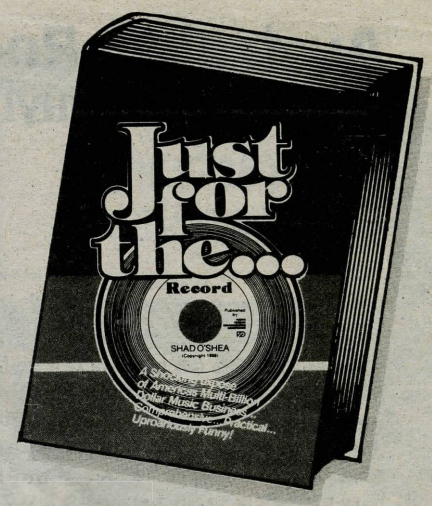
"THE BOOK THAT STRIPS THE MUSIC BUSINESS DOWN TO ITS UNDERWEAR"



Here's what they're saying about Just for the Record...

"Looking for that pot of gold? Read this book before your rainbow fades."
Shelby S. Singleton Jr., President Sun Records and Tapes Nashville, Tenn.

"Forget about any other book on the music business. There's only one...this is it! Get two copies...You'll wear out the first one in no time!"
Larry Stidom, Goldmine Magazine

"A hilarious look at the music business...a real shocker! Shad O'Shea blows the lid off!"
Billy Joe Royal; Recording Artist; Columbia Records, Atlantic Records

"This book is not only authoritative, but as exciting (and fun) as music itself."
Dr. Demento; Nationally syndicated radio personality

"A book that should be read by every breed of musician, including the certified platinum bozos who still read by running their thumb under the words and moving their lips."
Cliff Radel; Pop Music Critic; The Cincinnati Enquirer

"It is the best book ever written on the music business."
Randy McNutt; One Shot Magazine

"This book strips the music business right down to its underwear...it's the only book you need about the music industry."
Larry Boden; Mastering Engineer, Elton John, The Who, Crystal Gale, etc.

Australian Rock In The '80s
At the scene vinyl survey, Part 1

by Jeff Tamarkin

As long as there has been rock 'n' roll music there have been certain geographical regions from which the best rock has emerged. Besides the obvious entertainment centers such as Los Angeles, New York and London, we can trace a huge percentage of the music of a given era to such seemingly unlikely places as Memphis, Detroit, Liverpool, San Francisco, and several other cities. Today that concentration on regional rock focuses on equally improbable burgs such as Minneapolis and Athens, Georgia.

"At The Scene" is a three-part look at three locations that have been responsible for some of the most exciting local rock scenes in recent years. One is a continent (which doubles as a country), one is a country, and one is a city. Each has a remarkable great-to-lousy music ratio. In the near future this series will cover Austin, Texas, and the garage bands of Sweden. But part one, this article, takes a look at the music of Australia.

Ask most casual observers of the music scene to name an Australian artist, and you'll probably be assaulted (or insulted) with a shopping list of wimps and hype jobs ranging from the soft-rock of Little River Band or the Bee Gees to the pseudo-new wave of Men At Work or INXS. An easy-listening maven might think immediately of Olivia Newton-John while a heavy metalhead will raise a fist and shout AC/DC. As you might have guessed, those people are not what this article is about.

Australia has always harbored a love for good bone-crunching rock 'n' roll. There was a very active beat scene there in the '60s, best represented by the always-underrated Easybeats ("Friday On My Mind") and equally wonderful bands such as the Masters Apprentices, Missing Links and Larry's Rebels, which never made a name in the U.S. Those bands and dozens like them can be heard on the excellent compilations and reissues put together by Goldmine contributor Glenn A. Baker's Raven Records (P.O. Box 92, Camberwell, 3124, Australia).

Those bands, for the most part, were just imitating the British Invasion bands though (as many American bands also did in the '60s), and it wasn't really until the punk explosion of the mid-'70s that Australia began to develop its own rock 'n' roll identity. Australian punk bands such as the Saints and Radio Birdman (the only two to be signed by an American label, Sire, in their time) produced fiery, nononsense rock 'n' roll that ranked with the best England and the U.S. had to offer in the late '70s. But because they weren't from England or the U.S., and both major labels and the media tend to ignore most rock that isn't, those bands never received the popular acclaim given to their often less exciting contemporaries. Today those bands (though Birdman is defunct) still retain a relatively small, but still growing, cult following outside of Australia, where they are practically worshipped.

In the years since punk took off, Australia has produced literally hundreds of bands worth a listen. Some of the most musically daring and most prolific, like the Scientists and the now-defunct Birthday Parts, have had a devoted core following both a home and abroad. Some — the Go-Betweens, Hoodoo Gurus, Lime Spiders, Celibate Rifles — have managed to find distribution deals for their indie recordings in the U.S. But the vast majority of Australian (and New Zealand, which we'll include in this survey as well) bands must remain content packing local beer halls and releasing local indies until their turn comes along. It remains to be seen whether these Aussie bands with some of the strangest names known to man — Dead Travel Fast, Terminal Twist, Kill The King, Ku Klux Frankenstein, People With Chairs Up Their Noses (really!), Soggy Porridge, Decline Of The Reptiles, Shower Scene From Psycho — will have their music appreciated by more than a handful of adventurous listeners in the U.S. in the near future.

Australian rock 'n' roll today is largely the product of bands which have honed their chops sweating it out in the competitive pub scene in the five major Australian cities: Sydney, Brisbane, Adelaide, Perth and Melbourne. When we say pub here, however, don't think just of the local corner watering hole; Australians like to frequent massive monuments to demon alcohol, and some of the establishments where these bands work will hold a couple of thousand patrons on an off night.

Australians like their rock as sweaty as the rooms in which they hear it, and the bands have always looked to the raunchiest for inspiration. Perhaps no band has helped shape the Australian sound as much as the Stooges; it is that all-out, nothing-to-lose rock 'n' roll abandon which Australian bands appreciate and aspire to. But theirs is not necessarily a very happy sound. The worsening economic situation (in the midst of this sunny tourist mecca) and general lack of much to do Down Under has helped contribute to a particularly dark form of rock, and if some of the Australian bands sound miserable, well it's because they are.

Yet another contributing factor to the high percentage of unartsy, unfashion-conscious Australian working-class rock is the relative lack of R&B tradition on the continent. Black music has never had as much influence in Australia as it had in the U.S. or Britain, and accordingly the Aussie rock scene is a particularly white one. It is also a band scene; few individual "stars" have emerged from the Australian rock scene. It is also a male-dominated scene; if there are many women rockers there we haven't heard them.

Now that we've painted such a lovely picture, don't despair. There are signs that some of the newer bands to come out of Australia are taking in other influences and aren't the least bit interested in bashing it out mercilessly. A new sense of melodicism has marked several recent recordings, and everything from the Byrds/R.E.M. folk-rock sound to the harmonies of the Beach Boys can be heard in the latest Anipodean imports. In early 1987 there is more variety and more rock 'n' roll in general coming out of Australia and New Zealand than ever before.

The following survey is a capsule look at both the major and some relatively unknown Australian bands and records. Most of these recordings were released in the past few years, but we'll throw in a few seminal LPs as well. Many are imports; however, when there has been a U.S. release, we've attempted to use that as our example. The listing is alphabetical by band, and many of these records are available by mail order through certain Goldmine advertisers.

BEASTS OF BOURBON

Even if Beasts of Bourbon had never recorded anything but their cover of Leon Payne's "Psycho," Perhaps the most harrowing country weeper about a mass murderer's psyche ever committed to vinyl, they'd be worth a listen. But their lone album, The Axeman's Jazz (Big Time, 6777 Hollywood Blvd. Dept. G, Hollywood, CA 90028) goes on to remain a thoroughly chilling collection of whiskey-drenched blues, with hints of everything from Iggy to the Cramps to Creedence, whose "Graveyard Train" is covered. Band was a one-off project featuring members of the Scientists, Hoodoo Gurus, etc.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

One of the most uncompromising bands of Australian post-punk, the Birthday Party's roots actually stretch back to the early '70s, when some of the current members first came together. In '77, influenced by punk, they became the Boys Next Door and, in '79, released their first LP, Door Door, for Mushroom Records. That same year, they became Birthday Party and switched to the indie Missing Link label, and released a self-titled LP t following year.

By that time, their trademark aggressiv manic, clanging clamor had earned them a re utation outside of Australia. Nick Cave's ho rific, snarled vocals and Rowland Howard Beefheartian atonal, screwy guitar wo resulted in some of the least accessible mus being made, and it's best represented on the second LP, Players On Fire, released in t U.S. on Thermidor (c/o Subterranean, 5 Valencia St. Dept. G, San Francisco, C 94110), and A Collection. . .Best And Rare (Missing Link/Suite Beat, 3355 W. El Segund Blvd. Dept. G, Hawthorne, CA 90250), whic like it says, is a compilation of the group's ea liest singles, LP cuts, alternate takes, etc., son of which originally appeared on Missing Li and some on 4AD, a U.K. label. The Birthd Party was not easy-listening music; it w monstrous, gnarled abrasive, dark, jarri stuff. Imagine Tom Waits backed by Teena Jesus and the Jerks, one eye on unsettling pu and the other on gutter blues. Then, whe you're done with that, move on to. . .

NICK CAVE AND THE BAD SEEDS

After dissolving Birthday Party, Nick Cav along with that band's drummer, Mick Harve Barry Adamson of Magazine (soon to b replaced by Birthday Party bassist Tracy Pew and guitarist Blixa Bargeld formed the Ba Seeds. Cave took a sharp right turn with th new band, leaving a lot of the sharper edg behind. Now he thinks of himself as some so of mutant cross of Beefheart, Jim Morriso and a Delta blues singer.

There is a lot more breathing room here tha there was in Birthday Party; Cave and c don't tear at your skin, at least not as mal ciously. Anyway, the handful of vinyl they' left in the past couple of years (all out in th U.S. on Homestead, P.O. Box 570 Dept. G Rockville Centre, NY 11571-0570) is interes ing if nothing else. The Firstborn Is Dead L would be worth it even if just for the lead cu "Tupelo" (also released as a 12" single), frighteningly convincing rewrite of the story o Elvis's birth.

Lime Spiders

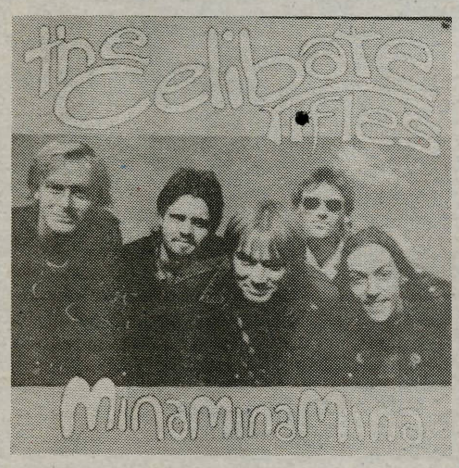
The Singer is a three-song EP that finds Cave taking on relatively straightfowardly the Johnny Cash title track, Roy Orbison's "Running Scared" and Leadbelly's "Black Betty" (done acappella). That concept is continued on the LP Kicking Against The Pricks, an all-covers record including, among others, "Hey Joe," "By The Time I Get To Phoenix," John Lee Hooker's "I'm Gonna Kill That Woman," and "Long Black Veil," best known by the Band. These are halfway between parody and reverence, not always easy to take, and ultimately add little to the familiar versions.

In contrast to the early Birthday Party, Cave's latest album with the Bad Seeds, Your Funeral. . .My Trial, is practically accessible. It's also his most musically diverse; the infatuation with rural blues and C&W seems to have been integrated into a more structured (but still infused with lotsa improvisational time) experimental game plan. Cave the storyteller takes precedent here over Cave the shock merchant, and the result is a two-EP set that will invite more repeat playings than the Birthday Party's barrage or the first few, direction-finding Bad Seeds discs. Also check out Crime and the City Solution, featuring current and ex-BP and Bad Seeds members.



CELIBATE RIFLES

The band's name, an obvious take on the Sex Pistols, should be the giveaway. Celibate Rifles came on in the late '70s/early '80s as just another thrash 'n' shout punk band. Their songs, almost all loud fast rules, would appear to have broken no new lyrical ground, having centered on the usual anti-authoritarian, anti-imperialist, boredom 'n' nihilism, alienation 'n' anti-society stuff. Which is actually kind of refreshing in a way — how many other bands are naive enough to hold onto the ideals (and speed) of circa '77 punk-rock and sound fresh and innocent doing it?

The early recording can be found on Quintessentially Yours (What Goes On, P.O. Box 570 Dept. G, Rockville Centre, NY 11571-0570), which combines two 1982-83 EPs released on Hot Records in Australia. Mina Mina Mina (What Goes On, released 1986) also draws from Australian releases (Celibate Rifles and Sideroxylon LPs). While there is some evidence of the group tempering its approach here (on the material from the self-titled LP), other tracks (from Sideroxylon, which also donates tracks to Quintessentially Yours) are even more incendiary than the early stuff. There is evidence here of the Rifles expanding — "Wild Desire" is practically power pop while "Thank You America" is a noise-voice collage — yet the sampler is never limp or dishonest.

The Sydney group's latest, The Turgid Miasma Of Existence (Rough Trade, 326 Sixth St. Dept. G, San Francisco, CA 94103), finds the Rifles becoming more concerned with personal matters than political, and more confident in their move away from punk cliches. While some tracks here are as scorching as anything they've done, there are also attempts ("Sentinel," "Glasshouse") to hash things out at a slower pace. Celibate Rifles are still far from content, and they've finally found an original voice with which to voice their displeasure. The next move is theirs. (Note: the original release of Turgid, on Australia's Hot Records, includes an additional three-track EP.)

CHILLS

This Dunedin, New Zealand, band formed in 1980, and has developed into a uniformly excellent pop band with sonic ties to everything from the Zombies to Robyn Hitchcock to early Floyd to XTC — you get the idea. There's a defined new-psych tint, a jazziness, the occasional try at acting tough, and mostly just gobs of great pop hooks. Kaleidoscope World collects the early (1981-84) singles (Creation, 83 Clerkenwell Rd. Dept. G, London EC1, England) while The Lost EP (Flying Nun, P.O. Box 3000 Dept. G, Christchurch, New Zealand) contrasts those pretty tunes with a sharper edge and often disturbing, introspective lyrics. Down to two original members, it'll be interesting to watch Chills.

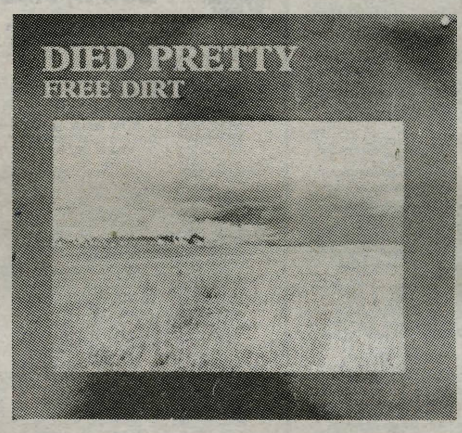
Chills are a Top 20 act at home, and the first group since Split Enz to really gain notice outside of the NZ/Aussie circuit. Other NZ bands to look for in the vinyl bins: The Clean (defunct), Doublehappys, Sneaky Feeling, Verlaines (see later).

CHURCH

The Church formed in Sydney in 1980 and has been one of the few bands to graduate from the Australian underground to a U.S. major label. Though they were quickly dropped, Warner Brothers released the Church's Heyday in 1985. It's not difficult to see why WB thought they could have a hit. The sinewy but bold guitar-dominated sound is clean and well-produced, the band just moving out of a more psych-oriented phase to make denser, more crafted music. There are horns and strings here, and this is a group effort as compared to the previous work, primarily the brain child of singer-songwriter Steve Kilbey. Although Heyday wouldn't be out of place on an MTV-type playlist, it's still quite listenable and far from being as offensive as most radio-ready new music. Look also for the group's earlier Australian LPs: Of Skins And Hearts, The Blurred Crusade, Seance, and Remote Luxury.

DIED PRETTY

The Sydney band formed only in 1983 but has already left behind a mound of respectable vinyl: Two EPs and one brillian album. Although the band itself rejects the term psychedelic as a pigeonhole (as well it should), those who've found pleasure in anything from the Doors to Rain Parade might well get a jolt from their music. But even where the guitars chime prettily or strum lazily, singer Ronald Peno's Richard Hell-meets-Van Morrison dynamics assure that Dies Pretty aren't easily trapped.



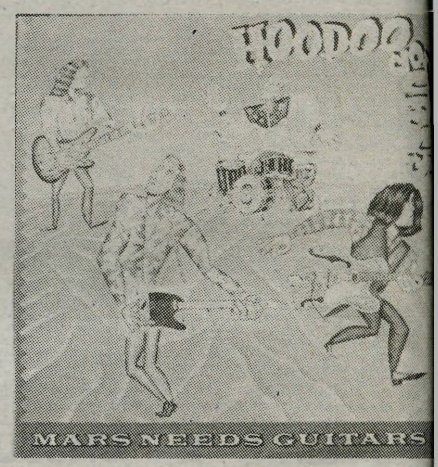
The band is quite proficient technically and not afraid to show it, but there's also that all-important sense of tasteful restraint that keeps them from getting carried away with virtuosity. The four-song EP Next To Nothing (What Goes On, see Celibate Rifles for address) is the blueprint; Free Dirt (What Goes On) is the majestic LP they've been working toward.

GO-BETWEENS

Guitarists/vocalists Robert Forster and Grant McLennan formed the Go-Betweens in Brisbane in 1977; bassist Robert Vivkers and drummer Lindy Morrison joined up later. The band released singles on Australia's Able label before going on the make albums that were released in the U.K. on Rough Trade, Sire and Beggar's Banquet, as well as a single for Scotland's Postcard label.

Finally, the U.S. label PVC (c/o Jem, 3619 Kennedy Rd. Dept. G, So. Plainfield, NJ 07080) released Metal And Shells, a compilation of songs from their second and third albums. It was not a particularly exciting affair, lightweight English-inspired folk-pop, not unlike but not as inspired as the best of U2 and Teardrop Explodes, with a touch America's Feelies present in the repeti rhythms. The poetic lyrics were rather den trait that continued onto the band's album, last year's Liberty Belle And The D Diamond Express (Big Time, see Beasts Bourbon).

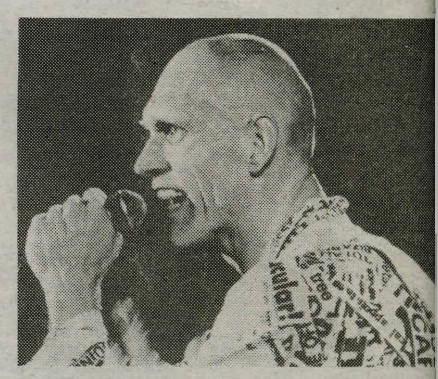
It would be presumptuous to liken the Betweens to R.E.M., but there are lyrical structural similarities, and if someone claimed the band was from Athens, Ga. wouldn't be that hard to believe. In f there's nothing hard about the Go-Betwe they make likable modern pop and keep th simple. And they do it reasonably well.



HOODOO GURUS

Hoodoo Gurus are Oz's reigning garag psych-punk-pop band, not to mention sim one of the coolest bands anywhere. (Would y fault a band that dedicated its debut album Arnold Ziffel, the pig on Green Acres, amo others? Certainly not!) The band can be trac to Perth in the early '80s, when remaining or inal member, guitarist/vocalist Dave Faulkn formed the first incarnation. After a couple singles, Big Time picked up the Gurus, a their debut LP, Stoneage Romeos, was releas (it came out on A&M in the U.S.).

The LP was strong and hinted at what Gurus were capable of, but by the time it h been released here, their live show was mi ahead of the album. The second album, M needs Guitars (for which they switched to Time for the U.S. as well as at home) remedi that. Led off with "Bittersweet," a pop g perfectly produced and even mainstrea enough to gain AOR and MTV play, the stayed tough throughout, without sacrifici hooks as it rides through surf, cowpunk a some of the most dynamic guitar-pop goi The Gurus have yet to truly capture th manic live crunch on record, but there kn how to work a studio admirably.



Midnight Oil lead singer Peter Garrett.

HUNTERS & COLLECTORS

Hunters & Collectors, from Melbourne, h just about undergone a complete an unfatho able metamorphosis since their 1981 sta Judging by the Anglicized, smooth Brit-soul their latest LP, Human Frailty (IRS), o would never guess that the band once churn out a near-industrial, Fall-like fake funk th would've spit on the current stuff. Hec they've even got a video ("Throw Your Ar Around Me"), a ballad no less, on MT Human Frailty's not a terrible record, just innocuous one, and compared to an earlier o like, say, The Fireman's Curse (White Label Aus.), it's tired.

LIME SPIDERS

Mick Blood sounds like he's spitting up some of his surname every time a syllable escapes from his mouth in "Slave Girl," the 1983 single that put the Lime Spiders straight into the garage band hall of fame. These Sydney clowns are about as grungy as you can git, an Aussie answer to the Chesterfield Kings or the lyres, cavemen who snarl when they smile, drive their guitars into the ground, and just generally scrunch out some of the hardest '60s-inspired punk in years. Their Slave Girl (Big Time) EP includes that single and the tracks that comprised their 25th Hour EP at home.

More recently, the Spiders released a new single, "Out Of Control"/"Save My Soul," on Australia's Citadel label (P.O. Box 316 Dept. G, Darlinghurst, 2010, Australia) that's no less brutal on the A and goes mid-tempo/harmonic ala Hoodoos on the B, with just enough requisite raunch to qualify it as a Lime Spiders record. One killer band!

MIDNIGHT OIL

Don't let the major label deal (Columbia) or the high-image profile (singer Peter Garrett, a six-foot bald guy, ran for national office in Australia) keep you away. Midnight Oil is an important Australian band, and has probably done as much as anyone to focus attention on the country. Highly political most of the time (with intelligence behind their ideas, unlike some others), intimately personal the rest (without being mushy about it), Midnight Oil's smart mix of hard rock and synth textures is organic enough to attract roots fans and commercial enough to push them past cultdom.

10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1, the band's 1983 U.S. debut, is a smorgasbord of sounds and ideas, jumping from rocking anthems to electro-experiments and peaking with one genuine college radio-type hit, "Read About It." Red Sails In The Sunset doesn't really bring Midnight Oil anyplace new, preferring to further what was done last time, but there's some equally strong writing and music-making here.

MOODISTS

Melbourne's Moodists go back to around 1980. Not much from them has found ity way here, although the group had recorded at least one full LP and two mini-LPs. The 1985 EP featuring "Justice And Money Too"/"You've Got Your Story"/"Take Us All Home" is marked with a distinct Bunnymen/Teardrop/Smiths feel, albeit with skewed rhythms and stretched-out guitarisms none of those outfits would attempt. If you want another reference point, how about the Doors in a dreamy jam mood (the piano work borrowed from Bad Seed Mick Harvey helps conjure that comparison)? But there's enough here to suggest that the Moodists can break away from sounding like anyone else and just sound like the Moodists. (Above EP on Creation Records UK).

OLYMPIC SIDEBURNS

Great name even if they don't all have sideburns. The Melbourne group likes it loud, hard, fast, and even louder. The band's sole U.S. release, a 1985 eponymous LP on Epitaph (see Suite Beat, above) is a quasi-metallic attack of drunken noise, a shaken-up mix of the best mutant rock 'n' roll of the '50s, '60s, '70s, '80s — the Stooges meet Little Richard at Black Flag's (Black Sabbath's?) funeral. If you like things chaotic, just about to go off the edge, music that flirts with insanity and never gives in, find this.

PAINTERS & DOCKERS

Don't know what became of these guys after their lone LP, 1985's Love Planet (Big Time) came out, but there hasn't exactly been a search party formed to find out either. Going on the one release, Painters & Dockers weren't quite sure what they wanted to be. While some tracks lean toward the party-time rock 'n' roll of the Fleshtones (with a nod toward the Ramones), there's also too much synthin' goin' on here, a shame 'cause the guitars hold up quite nicely. Paul Stewart's voice is also lost below the surface of the rockers, and that too is too bad. Wouldn't mind hearing more from these guys as soon as they figure out who they are. If they still are at all.

PSYCHOTIC TURNBUCKLES

This bizarre bunch would seem to be a natural for 15 minutes of fame with the right hype behind them. Picture five guys that look like a cross between the Hullabaloos and Iron Maiden. Add on a better-late-than-never obsession with wrestling, a sense of self-importance to rival Sigue Sigue Sputnik's, and a sound that puts the Jesus and Mary Chain in real rock 'n' roll shoes — a wall of fuzz soldered onto a buzzsaw surf metal life-or-death crusade — and you're on the right track. Supposedly these jokers are really from Pismo Beach and relocated to Oz in '84. It wouldn't be surprising to find Americans behind these masks of ludicrousness, but whatever, they sure can punch out rock 'n' roll. LP: Destroy Dull City (Rattlesnake, c/o Survival Music, P.O. Box 49 Dept. G, Rushcutters Bay, Sydney 2011, Australia).

RADIO BIRDMAN

The granddaddies of the present-day Australian underground, along with the Saints, although to listen to their first album now, one would wonder what made their punk-rock any different from the hard-rock Detroit fans had been banging to for years in the form of the Stooges, MC5, et al. One member, guitarist Deniz Tek, did in fact come from Michigan before settling in Australia, where he played in a Sydney band called TV Jones. Joining with the nucleus of a band called the Rats, Radio Birdman resulted circa late 1974.

At the time there weren't, to say the least, many Australian bands playing the aggressive pub-rock that Birdman steadfastly stuck to, and they had a rough time of it until punk's '76 outbreak suddenly put them squarely in fashion. After an EP or two, 1977 brought the now-classic debut Birdman LP, Radios Appear. The Australian release (on Trafalgar) was followed a year later with the worldwide release on Sire, although the second version contained some new tracks and re-recorded cuts.

In 1978 the group entered Rockfield Studios in Wales to record a second album, but before Sire could release it, the group had split up. It seemed that although Birdman was quite popular at home, there were more than enough bands in the U.K. and U.S. doing similar things and little attention was paid to them.

Ironically, Radio Birdman loomed much larger in death than in life. There is nary an Aussie band that doesn't practically worship them and owe at least a little something to their sound and style, and each of the members continued, at least for awhile, to remain musically active, in bands such as New Race (Tek with ex-members of Stooges and MC5), Lime Soiders, Screaming Tribesmen, the Hitmen and others. And, oh yeah, that second album, Living Eyes, finally came out in Australia in 1981. Both LPs were recently repackaged as a double-LP set by Big Time (Aus.). A worthy investment.

SAINTS

Only Chris Bailey remains from the orig '76 lineup of the Saints, but it is somew amazing that the group still survives at all a eight or nine albums. A comparison between the group's late '70s albums and t newest, All Fools Day (Mushroom — Aus., released in the U.S. on Tee Vee Toons, 59 19 St. #5B Dept. G, New York, NY 100 would prove fruitless, however. The fire fury of (I'm) Stranded (1977) and Etern Yours (1978) (both on Sire in U.S.) has been cooled down, and All Fools Day is def tely the sound of a grown-up band.

The Sire albums reveal a band with its on the basement R&B of the early Stones another on the '77 punks the Dead Boy snarling, angry sound that characterized period's punk. By the second album, the b had even begun considering going further t punk by bringing in a horn section in spots, Eternally Yours still slashes with the best L don pub bands of either '66 or '76. Prehist Songs (Harvest UK, 1978) collected some the early Saints singles and added a handfu well choses covers ("River Deep, Mount High," "Lipstick On Your Collar," Otis R ding's "Security").

By the turn of the '80s the Bailey-led Saints had slickened up measurably, but the '85 Live In A Mud Hut (New Rose, France) indicates that the new Saints' live show still shows considerable thrust, if not a whole lot or originality — at times there's little to distinguish them from any of countless British guitar-pop bands that are plentiful today.

All Fools Day is a gem though. If only for the exquisite guitar work (heavy on the acoustic too), this would be one worth playing repeatedly. As it is, Bailey has written his most satisfying set of songs ever — full-sounding pop and blues, all larger than life, with at least one track, "Empty Page," an addictive little gospel-like sucker that'll draw you in over and over again. May they continue another 10 years. Note: Bailey has also recorded solo, while ex-Saint Ed Kuepper went on to form the highly acclaimed Laughing Clowns.

SCIENTISTS

More than a few rock critics think the Scientists are God, which ought to give a clue that they're a noisy, creepy, swamplike bunch, grunting and moaning while their guitars go every which way but in a straight line. Familiar influences can be piled up again — Cramps, Beefheart, Fall, Suicide, Stooges, even Birthday Party — but Scientists do manage to throw it all into the blender and make their own something out of it.

The band came to be in Perth '78, moved to Sydney after a coupla lineup changes in the early '80s, and recorded the first of a handful of singles and EPs for the Au-Go-Go label (G.P.O. Box 542d, Dept. G, Melbourne 3001, Victoria, Australia) in 1982. The Blood Red River Ep was probably the best of their output on that label, and by the time they left to move on to such labels as Soundwork and Karbon, longtime followers say the group had already used up its inspiration. Typically, the band's first U.S. release, an album titled Weird Love (Big Time), came after the group's peak at home. And included re-recorded material to boot.

SCREAMING TRIBESMEN

Yet another garagey hard pop band from Sydney with a finely tuned ear for a classic hook. The Screaming Tribesmen's first U.S. EP on What Goes On, Move A Little Closer, had more than its share of shining guitars, steady drums and bursting bass. For the followup, Date With A Vampyre (What Goes On), the band added ex-Birdman Chris Masuak, who also produced. Naturally, the band took a step closer to the Birdman territory it obviously already had a thing for But "Ice" is more like something the Only Ones or Undertones might've come up with, and there's evidence in the other three tracks here that a major pop outfit is just now finding its own way to go.

STEMS

The Stems stem from the same label that gave launch to the Tribesmen, Citadel (P.O. Box 316 Dept. G , Darlinghurst 2010, Australia), and if their EP, Love Will Grow, is a sign, yet another psych-garage-pop-harmony band with millions of wonderfully shimmering guitars is available for the discovering. Not much background on these guys 'cept that it's a quartet and this was recorded in mid-'85, so they should've gotten lots more material this great together since then. Four tracks here, not one that's less than sensational. File it next to your other fuzz guitar/slinky organs/pristine harmony vocals stuff; just prepare to go back to it more than a few times.

TRIFFIDS

This Perth band has been leaning toward a countryish-folkish sound, with a strong dose of blues thrown in, since they first hit vinyl about four years ago with Treeless Plain, a paean to the thousands of miles of desert that begins at their town's doorstep. Not surprisingly, the Triffids aren't thrilled about calling such a place home, and their songs are more often than not wrapped around some fairly dreary subject matter.

That's the contrast, because '84's Raining Pleasure EP (Hot, 314-316 Victoria St. Dept. G, Darlinghurst, Sydney NSW 2010, Australia), and to a much greater degree Born Sandy Devotional, their '86 mini-masterpiece (Hot, c/o Rough Trade, 326 Sixth St. Dept. G, San Francisco, CA 94103), are really rather pretty records.

Similar in spirit and approach to Brit neo-folk-rockers The Men They Couldn't Hang and the Mekons, the Triffids take a classic folk tale, marry a can't-lose hook to it, and bathe it in exquisite arrangements. Both side openers on Sandy, "The Seabirds" and "Wide Open Road," are among the most majestic cuts of recent years, and even the politically-inspired "Stolen Property," despite its title, is a lush, semi-orchestral beaut. You want extremes, play the ornery "Chicken Killer" next to the mood-piece, Cocteau Twins-ish cuts sung by keyboardist Jill Birt. Also worth digging up: The early cover of "You Don't Miss Your Water." This is a class act. (The group's latest album, In the Pines, was unavailable as import yet at press time.)

UPS AND DOWNS

You'd think from listening to some of these Aussie pop bands that Sydney was next door to North Carolina, so close in thought is the approach of the two areas' best guitar poppers. Ups and Downs, formed 1983 by brothers Greg and Darren Atkinson (after a series of other bands failed), are among the best of the Byrds/R.E.M./jang-boppers. They probably know as well as anyone that they're not breaking any ground with this stuff, but a good song's a good song, and so far Ups and Downs have those to spare. Their EP The Living Kind (What Goes On) was an impressive sample, but the band really shines on the Sleepless LP which followed. The EP's title cut is also here, and since the LP is leagues better produced than the EP, that's the one to go with. Nine slices of breezy pop that Mitch Easter would envy, and a nifty cover of Neil Diamond's "Solitary Man" the Monkees wish they thought of first.

OZ & ENZ

The above roundup focused on the bands this writer considers to be the most important and most exciting of the current Australian scene. The following are brief mentions of other records discovered during the search for Australian music for this article; they are not necessarily the bands getting the press coverage or the overseas record deals, but they're worth a couple of lines anyway.

CUCKOOS

Sticks And Stones (Survival, see above for address) — Yet another Aussie band suf from an overwrought fixation with A pseudo-dance soul. If these guys would taking themselves so seriously they mig enjoyable some day.

EXPLODING WHITE MICE

In a Nest Of Vipers (Big Time) — Ad band took its name from the subjects of experiment in the Ramones' film Rock 'N High School. It's not surprising, therefo find that the Ramones are a main influen these three-chord maniacs. Throw in Stooges, MC5 and a few others and you what to expect.

FERAL DINOSAURS

You've All Got A Home To Go To (M P.O. Box 236, Dept. G, Port Melbourne toria, Austraia 3207) — It was bound to pen: Aussie country-punks. Not quite D Yoakam or Randy Travis but more co than Kenny Rogers'll ever be. Honky piano, slide guitars, covers of Waylor Hank. Down Under Yee-Hah music!

GRAVITY PIRATES

This Way To The Cargo Cult (Surviva Snoozeworthy electro-art-rock. Origi released '85; this is a reissue.

JAMES GRIFFIN AND THE SUBTERRANEANS

The Immigrant Tango (Chase, c/o Sur — One of the few examples singer/songwriter with backing band found. Griffin is a Dylanesque writer, nods to Dire Straits, and Eric Andersen the way. His songs are somewhat poli somewhat personal, and always well wr Still, there's no denying this is a pickup ba work 'cause the sparks are few.

GRONG GRONG

Grong Grong (Alternative Tentacles, Box 11458, Dept. G, San Francisco 94101) — More Beefheartian growl. The tars sound like they're being played with and everything else sounds like it's b played by monkeys. The singer's chewi rocks or somethin'; this is discordant, h stupid. A studio side and a live side; the was recorded, probably, on a $20 cas recorder stuck under someone's coat: U tenable.

HAREM SCAREM

Pilgrim's Progress (Au-Go-Go) — bourne band puts a lot of blues in the mi never sounds pretentious doing so. This straight-ahead, good-rockin'-tonite gu crazed roots album, and one that bodes we the band's future. Once described as a between John Lee Hooker and the Sex Pi but that may be a bit off-base; to describe as a band well in control of itself with cho spare wouldn't be.

SCREAMING BELIEVERS

Communist Mutants From Space (Big T — Mostly a non-descript hard-rock AOR band. But in a few spots the band break and revs up. LP could've used a less slick duction.

SPIKES

6 Sharp Cuts (Big Time) — Defunct b one domestic mini-LP featured some t chord rockers that moved, and a coupla sl jams that didn't do much. "Flashback To Beach" is fun.

TALL TALES AND TRUE

Tall Tales And True (Survival) — P trio's best asset is the supple guitar wo Matthew de la Hunty, adept at sliping fro funky to the jazzy to the frontal R&R a like nothin'. Sharp production gives TT full sound that greatly aids their too-av material.

VERLAINES

Hallelujah — All The Way Home (F Nun, see Chills for address — Truly pr tious LP cover prepares you for the worst, yeah, there are spots where classical musi dent Graeme Downes leads his trio to gothic-art-rock overreach — Jethro Tull the Incredible String Band come to mind for the most part, XTC would be a r appropo reference; the Verlaines just ha

Beasts of Burden

to be smart enough to break away from confining rock cliches and give depth and body to their tunes — which require that treatment. If the idea of cellos, French horns, etc., on a rock album appall you, stay away. If you want something refreshingly different, give 'em a go.

X

At Home With You (Major, P.O. Box 236 Dept. G, Port Melboure, Victoria, Aust. 3207) — No relation to the California band of the same name (letter?), and around just about as long, this X takes a funk-punk approach that veers from semi-hardcore to New York-style whiteboy dance-groove. Probably would've been more effective if the singer stopped thinking he was in Motorhead.

ZIMMERMEN

Rivers Of Corn (Au-Go-Go) — Another inevitable band name, but don't expect Dylan clones. Sure, the '60s looms largely, but it's the '60s of ringing guitars variety. Actually, you might find more in common with '70s popsters like Chilton or early Twilley, an innocent yet assured take on hook-pop. With subtle shifts of texture and dynamics, and an unerring ear for melody, the Zimmermen would have at least half a dozen hit singles in a better world. The Three O'Clock/Rain Parade/Dream Syndicate crew only wish they could make it sound so effortless.

Compilations

To close out this roundup, the following reviews cover a handful of compilation albums featuring only Australian and/or New Zealand artists.

A Slab Of Vic (Au-Go-Go) — This includes 15 Melbourne bands from '85-'86, ranging from the send-up country-gospel of the Slaughtermen to the electronic cover of Chris Montez's "Let's Dance" by Shower Scene From Psycho that's not to be believed. Everything from trashabilly to sludgecore to the greasy garage of the Arctic Circles and the '60s R&B/punk of the Inner Sleeves. Half 'n' half cool-lame ratio.

An Oasis In A Desert Of Noise (Greasy Pop, P.O. Box 136 Dept. G, Rundle Mall, Adelaide, South Australia 5000) — Subtitled "The 1985 Greasy Pop Collection of Adelaide Bands," and further broken down into a pop side and a greasy side. It gets ff to a great start with the Verge's "Here With No Fear," a guitar driver boasting vocal harmonies and cheesy licks any '60s West Coast act would've died for. Not much else happens on the pop side till the Primitive Painters' "Undertow," what with Ded Nats just yer basic Bangles/Go-Go clone. The greasy side is often poppier than the pop side, and the Mad Turks From Istanbul's "Yet You Wonder Why" is enough reason to give them an album's worth of studio time. The Primevils are psych-noise that'd make any Pebbles band jealous, and ain't "Lazy Mosaquito Soup" a charming song title?

Beyond The Southern Cross (Ink, The Metrostore, 231 The Vale Dept. G. Acton, London W3 7QS, England) — This one's a double, with only a few familiar names aboard (Triffids, Clean). The first great surprise is Samurai Trash, whose "Come Out And Play" runs around in circles to a refreshing Middle Eastern rhythm. Upside Down House also take to decidedly non-Western instrumentation for their niche. Beyond that and the Clean's clean pop, there's all too much electro-noodling here to hold interest for long.

Party At Hanging Rock (54321 Countdown, no address available) — Some high standard stuff here, right at the top with Ups And Downs and the Saints. Happy Hate Me Nots provide manic pop thrills, Dynamic Hepnotics give a twist to '60s soul, Huxton Creepers shoot "Gloria"-like riffs left 'n' right, and Sons of Guns wrap it nicely with a creepy blues that builds to an LP-ending frenzy that'll have you begging for more.

This Is Hot (Hot, no address available) — More wonderful Triffids to intro it, a taste of the semi-wimp Lighthouse Keepers to follow, and the Ramones-go-psych Mushroom Planet to complete the hat trick. Wet Taxis come on like the early Who on a good bender, while the Benders bring some real jazz to the proceedings. Laughing Clowns are disappointingly dull, Plays With Marionettes gotta learn to play, Coloured Stone take a poke at racism at a square dance tempo and Celibate Rifles paint a pretty picture. A formidable sampler, but let's dump the filler, please.

This Is Hot Too (Hot, no address available) — Lotsa repeat offenders: Triffids, Rifles, Mushrooms, Keepers, Benders, Coloured Stone. And therein lie the LP's better moments. Not much else to talk about here.

Tuatara — A Flying Nun Compilation (Flying Nun, c/o C.D. Presents, 1230 Grant St., Suite 531 Dept. G, San Francisco, CA 94133) — The first of two New Zealand comps is another which yields mixed results. Sneaky Feelings' "Throwing Stones" is a feisty Dylanesque parade, the Expendables' pretty "Man With No Desire" is anything but expendable, and the Tall Dwarfs' "Brain That Wouldn't Die" is one of the worst Cramps cops we've heard.

Unexplored (Strange Weekend, c/o C.D. Presents, see above) — Fake funk and electro-nonsense dominates this '82-'86 N.Z. collection on one side, pop claims the second. And not a single cut makes me wanna come back to it again.

That about does it for now. Some bands we didn't get to mention, but which're worth investigating: Trilobites, Moffs, Sunnyboys, Johnnys. For more info, write Au-Go-Go for their mail-order catalog or check dealer ads in Goldmine.

YEARS AGO

by Don Bohentin

30 Years Ago (1957)

In the week ending Feb. 27 and March 6, Sonny James' "Young Love" (Capitol 3602, value M- $4) held the #1 pop singles post. In its second week on top of the chart, James' song would remain at #1 through the week ending March 13. Holding #1 on the pop LP chart was Harry Belafonte's Calypso (RCA LPM-1248, value M- $10; EP of the same title, RCA EPA-768, value M- $4). Fats Domino's "Blue Monday" (Imperial 5417, value M- $8) was tops on the R&B single chart and would remain there until the week ending March 13, when his own "I'm Walkin' " (Imperial 5428, value M- $8) displaced "Blue Monday."

In the United Kingdom, the #1 pop single for the weeks ending Feb. 27 and March 6 was Tab Hunter's version of "Young Love" (Dot 15533, value M- $5).

Chuck Berry and Muddy Waters both have records released by Chess on March 1. They are Berry's "School Day" backed with "Deep Feeling" (Chess 1653, 78 rpm value M- $10, 45 rpm value M- $5) and Waters' "I Got My Mojo Working" backed with "Rock Me." Dave Somerville and the Diamonds debut on the pop charts with their #2 hit "Little Darlin' " (Mercury 71060, value M- $5) on March 6.

Muddy Waters

25 Years Ago (1962)

In the week ending March 3, Gene Chandler's "Duke Of Earl" (Vee Jay 416, value M- $4) was #1 single on the pop chart and was replaced in the week ending March 10 by Bruce Channel's "Hey! Baby" (Smash 1731, value M- $4). Chandler's song was a #1 hit on the R&B chart both weeks, and would last as the top song there until the week ending March 24.

Welcome to my first list in some time. To those of you I've dealt with in the past, THANKS again. To the new people out there thinking of ordering from my ad, PLEASE DO. As a collector myself, I appreciate the challenges afforded the mail order buyer, and to make a long story short - SATISFACTION IS GUARANTEED on each and every order. Now " ON WITH THE SHOW ".

THE " I HATE AUCTIONS AUCTION "

All the items listed below are "ONE OF A KIND" & represent the collection of a local area D.J.. These records are all very nice and fresh with the original sleeves in most cases. No picture sleeves were included. Many are hard to find early promotional labels. Quite a few of the tougher artists & titles are included. Rather than list prices, and then refund checks to 100 other people who also wanted the same record, I've decided to go the "AUCTION" route with these records. Now I know a lot of my past customers hate the word "auction", but I really dont have much of a choice on this one. At any rate, standard Goldmine rules apply & the BIDDING DEADLINE IS 15 DAYS from the COVER DATE of this paper. Please don't bid unless you want the record!!!! Not honoring a bid just screws it up for all parties concerned.

* PRICES REALIZED LIST ****

Just to make things interesting, I'm going to compile a price list of the winning bids for this auction. I will give a copy of this list to all winning bidders FREE of charge. This will give some invaluable information as to where the market is on some of the more obscure or seldom available items listed. Un-successful bidders or other interested parties can also get a copy by sending $2.00 and a S.A.S.E..

All records guaranteed originals. All records are visually graded. Minimum bid is $2. per item. Only winning bidders notified. MINT means MINT. wol = writing on label (usually an "X" or DJ play "#" in orange crayon) rwol = writing has been removed & is detectable only under close examination
Postage & Insurance. will be added to all orders

THE 1960'S MUSIC AS ART

These are the original Fillmore West and Avalon Ballroom posters (printed 1966-71). They are the expression of an era: bold, experimental, revealing — and are also becoming highly collectible. The quality is such that they have been exhibited at museums such as the Museum of Modern Art (NYC), as well as others. They are all in mint condition; the paper has not yellowed and the colors remain brilliant. To order, please send $2.00 for a 18 page photo catalogue to: Backlash Posters, Suite 272-G, 2269 Market St., San Francisco, CA 94114, USA. Or call Collector's Hotline: (313) 663-4544 (no collect calls)

UNIT SPACE HINTS:

Only send in full unit spaces. Do not send partial sheets.

Each unit must be 8½x11 inches. If you send 8½x14 sheets we'll have to cut 3" off to fit.

We would like to discourage handwritten units whenever possible. They are difficult to read, and sometimes quite sloppy to the eye.

Unit Space Advertisers:

Please do not type your unit ads on onion-skin paper. Due to the off-white shading, and the thinness of the stock, sometimes they are impossible to photograph. When this happens, we can only return them. So please use heavy, white typing paper.

"I'M BACK WITH AN LP AUCTION"

I'm back!!! After several years of regular monthly ads, I had to take about nine months off to complete a change of address. We're finally settled in and ready to provide you with a wide variety of hard to find items. I am one of the few advertisers who play-grades every disc. Yes, it takes a takes a tremendous amount of time to do this but I feel this is the only way the disc can be graded accurately. For those of you who are used to buying visually graded records, I can assure you that the visual grade on each of these would be better than my play-grade. All items are original, 1st pressings unless noted and your satisfaction is guaranteed. This auction ends one month after the cover date. Give me a try!

I. LPs - 50's and 60's Rock m=mono / s=stereo

"YOUR HIT PARADE & AMERICAN TOP 10 HITS"

"Your Hit Parade"

From 1935 to 1958, YOUR HIT PARADE was a popularity chart of music prepared by the advertising agency for the American Tobacco company; sponsor of the radio program (and later television show) of the same name. For over 20 years this program charted the rise and fall of popular tunes all across America. Within this new book, you'll find the weekly top ten tunes, printed exactly as they appeared week after week.

The compilation of the top 10 hits after 1958 has been derived from Billboard, Cashbox, and Record World publications. Specialty charts were derived from similar sources that included R.I.A.A. sales and several polls.

Inside you'll find

- Your Hit Parade 1935-1958
- American Top 10 Hits 1958-1984

Hi.Welcome to my first Goldmine ad in a while..hope there's something here for you.Please write first to reserve the records.Postage is extra and I'll quote on this when I write back.All prices are in U.S.$'s.All the records are orig. Australian copies.Note that Australian promos are much scarcer than their US counterparts..usually only 200-300 copies are made.Records are graded cover/disc. Wants lists are welcome.I can supply any currently in print LP for $14 and 45's for $5.If you collect Australian groups write for my regular auction lists too.

BOB PEGG 8420 SOUTH 16TH STREET TACOMA, WASHINGTON 98465 (206) 564-2846
Auction of 50's and 60's vocal group 45's, with a few single artists thrown in. Auction will close 30 days from the cover date. Minimum bid $3.00 per record unless otherwise stated. Feel free to call if you want to hear any of these great sounds over the phone. Best time to contact me would be between 8:00 and 8:30 PST any morning. I have some collectible 45's in quantity in the categories of 60's Girl Groups, Doo-Wop, Surf-Car Vocal Groups, Rock and Roll Instrumentals, and 60's Punk and Garage Bands. I would be interested in trading for similar types of records in quantity, or buying your surplus stock at wholesale prices. Send SASE for trade list. A "Y" under the DJ column indicates promo copy. Thank you and Happy Hunting!

RCA RECORDS and ELVIS SPECIALTIES
PROUDLY PRESENTS
THE MOST IMPORTANT ELVIS BOX SET EVER !!
"THE ELVIS PRESLEY COLLECTION"
(DML3-0632)

Elvis' 50th Anniversary Celebration continues with THE RAREST ELVIS MULTI RECORD BOX SET ever!! This "RCA SPECIAL PRODUCT" will not be available elsewhere at any price!! This collector's treasury comes in a deluxe box, a black Leather-Like cover with gold trim featuring a portrait of ELVIS on the cover with a pink background. This ELVIS PRESLEY collection was originally conceived by CANDLELITE MUSIC as the ultimate addition to their earlier classic box sets. There were approximately 500 copies pressed when CANDLELITE MUSIC WENT BANKRUPT! In our continuing efforts to serve you, "THE ELVIS COLLECTOR", ELVIS SPECIALTIES was fortunate enough to obtain the ENTIRE INVENTORY!! This collector's box set which is one of the rarest ELVIS records ever pressed by RCA is sure to increase in value throughout the years!!!!!

This set is available in both LP and cassette. The cassette version also comes in a deluxe box, similar to the LP set. ELVIS SPECIALTIES brings to you this collection addition at our very low price of $60.00 for the LP set and $50.00 for the cassette set. The price includes FIRST CLASS postage. AirMail Postage to countries other then the U.S. is $10.00 per set. There is no limit to the number of sets you may purchase , but PLEASE be advised these sets are being sold on a FIRST COME FIRST SERVE basis. So order immediately to avoid disappointment!!!

I will trade any item in this ad for prerecorded reel to reel tapes of the Stones, Beatles, and Kinks
I will trade for prerecorded reel to reel tapes of albums recorded between 1964 and 1972. Preference will be given to Stones,Boatles,Kinks, and Badfinger. I will also trade or Deep Purple/Bolin/Alphonse Maisson lp with Bolin/Glenn Hughes-Play Me Out LP-White label promos(LPS only) of Deep Purple.
I am also looking for press kits on the Stones/Kinks/Faces/Deep Purple.

The following are all MINT UNUSED Concert flyers from 1972 with pics of the band from conerts here in Odessa. I Have one copy of eac left...
Z.Z. TOP-BEAUTIFUL pic of these guys when they were hippies not beards.....Mint
Allman Bros-this pic was prior to Berry Oakley's death Mint
Trapezo- These guys believed in long hair from the looks of this pic Mint
James Gang-These guys believed in long hair and bears from the look of this Mint

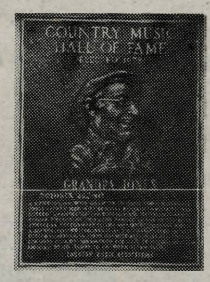
The Country Music Foundation



The Country Music Foundation (CMF) is the world's largest and most active research and exhibit center dedicated to a form of popular music. Chartered by the State of Tennessee in 1964, it is a tax-exempt educational organization with a distinct purpose: to preserve and illuminate the rich heritage of country music. To achieve this, the Foundation acts as a repository for information and artifacts relating to country music and its history, and works to share and communicate this material in a variety of ways.

Located on Nashville's famous Music Row, the CMF has gained international recognition for its Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum, as well as its comprehensive library and research facilities, while maintaining strong local and state support for its service as a community museum.

Among other wide-ranging Foundation activities are an oral history project, a reissue record label, educational out-reach programs, the operation of a recording studio as a historic site and learning lab, consultation services, a museum store and mail-order service, and the production of numerous publications, including the Journal of Country Music.

For more information write: Country Music Foundation, 4 Music Sq. E., Dept. CS, Nashville, TN 37203.

12,000 RECORD CATALOG

ALL NEW ILLUSTRATED EDITION

Wouldn't you like to contact a single source and obtain just about every charted re... from the past thirty five years?

Our new 1985-86 catalog shown on the right provides complete listings of more th... 12,000 records that we stock including thousands of titles collectors want that ar... listed in any other catalog.

The latest edition of our publication is really much more than a simple catalog. In a... tion to a standard catalog section there are special sections for Big Band, Elvis Pre... Christmas, all time best sellers and two full pages (400 + listings) of Beatle rec... This edition even includes more than 40 photos of early rock and roll pioneers sp... through the record listings. It is the only catalog so complete that it has been prov... with cataloging numbers so it can be used as a reference book by libraries.

We serve collectors and broadcasters world wide and are number one with the best ... sonal service, the largest selection and the finest quality 45 rpm records. Because we've been buying records for our stock for fifteen years our selection of popular and rock and roll records is second to none and our prices are so low they defy competition. All the records we sell are brand new quality - guaranteed.

Too good to be true? Our past catalogs have been purchased by more than 10,000 collectors and today's newest, largest catalog is still the same price - $3. Postpaid. We'll even include a coupon so you can obtain the purchase price back with your first order.

We make daily duty free shipments to the U.S.A. and regular shipments overseas too. Why not join our growing list of satisfied customers.

The clip-out coupon below has been provided for your convenience. If you do not wish to cut it out, you can send your name and address with payment for the catalog to the address on the coupon.

New Discovery Restores Sound!

by Bill Williams

I am about to tell you a true story. If you believe me, I will refresh your dreams and memories. If you do not, then I will ask you to give me a chance to change your mind at my own risk and expense. Let me tell you why I am excited and why I think you will be too.

In the research lab of my company one of our people accidentally spilled a liquid over about half the surface of an old phonograph record. When he saw what he had done, he wiped the liquid off the record and later played it to see if it was damaged.

To his relief and surprise, the part that had been wetted sounded as if it had just been opened and played for the first time. The unwetted area still had the background noise and scratches it had before the accident. This was especially important to him since the recording was one of the big band 78's from the forties and belonged to his boss . . . me!

I knew from that day on that we had a new product valuable to anyone who has a stack of 45's, 78's, or 33⅓ albums that they love but don't play because scratches, pops and clicks and background noises detract from the enjoyment of listening to their old favorites. I knew we could restore all the old favorites in everyone's closet to as good as new. Then I learned that we actually made them better.

I know it sounds too good. That's what I thought. But in a moment you will see how it works, just as I did.

The product that was spilled on my record was a metal treatment which my company manufactures. It is designed to penetrate deep into the surfaces and clean out all residue of oils or solvents and dust or other particles. It then forms, inside the surface, a film of dry lubricant which is described in the Guiness Book of World Records as the slickest stuff in the world. Slicker than wet ice on wet ice.

You can now understand, as I did, why the record sounded so good; first it was really clean, maybe for the first time. Second, the film actually filled the microscopic pores in the surface which had held dust particles which cause pops and clicks, and background noise. Third, the dry film reduced stylus drag to almost nothing, so, I now get hiss-free sound. Then, best of all, the film filled the scratches and healed them so the stylus glided by smoothly. Not a pocket knife gouge, mind you, but normal needle scratches and plain old handling abuse.

Broadcast stations began to buy SCRATCH FIXER from as far away as Sweden. Then the Library of Congress bought a supply. Individuals who heard about it bought it and raved! They told us that treating their new records as they buy them stops stylus drag which wears them out, and even more important, they told us that treatment with SCRATCH FIXER actually makes the new records sound BETTER THAN NEW.

I have decided to make SCRATCH FIXER available to all of you who want to re-live those wonderful memories through your record collections, whether from the 40's, 50's, 60's, 70's, or your "future memories" from the 80's.

That's the WHY. Now, you can have SCRATCH FIXER in only a couple of days by UPS Blue Label, or in a week or so by UPS regular service, or tomorrow by Federal Express if you call before their pick-up today. A 20 record supply costs only $5.95. The 125 record supply at only $24.95 costs only 20 cents per record to revitalize, rejuvenate and restore them. (Add $2.00 each shipping and handling for UPS or US Mail.)

What's more, you risk nothing! My Unconditional MONEY-BACK Guarantee assures you that if you are not 100% satisfied, simply return the unused portion within 30 days and I will personally send you my check for the entire price to include shipping and handling charges.

For VISA/MasterCard orders call our order desk at (512)629-8062. If you have a question call us at (512)629-0556. Or mail your check or money-order to SCRATCH FIXER, P.O. Box 310630, New Braunfels, Texas 78130.

WATCH FOR OUR AD ON PAGES 2 & 3 IN THE NEXT ISSUE.

'50s R&B finds
Sleuths unearth treasures

Just when you think you can sit back smugly and reflect on your vast knowledge of the hobby, along comes a spoil sport like Mike Carmon of Chicago. Faster than you can unstuff a shirt, he parades in front of you a whole bunch of records you never heard of and didn't even dream existed. Maybe I've been living in Caledonia a bit too long. And, maybe these records are as common as spit. Please let me know how many of them you've got, O.K.?

First up is a Regal 45rpm. Regal is that offshoot of the original DeLuxe label, founded by David and Jules Braun right after Syd Nathan snatched DeLuxe out from under them in 1949. Very few Regal releases ever made it to the small wax with the big hole, and most of those were of the pop/novelty persuasion. Regal is known to have issued 45s on a black and gold label in a 400-series, and a few R&B cuts such as 3315 by Larry Darnell have been seen on 45rpm.

Mike's Regal 45 is maroon with a gold top, and it bears number 468, unrelated to any other Regal series. The coupling is "Once There Lived A Fool" backed with "When You Come Back To Me" (same ballad done by the Clovers on their Rainbow record) done by Savannah Churchill & the Striders. This duplicates the 78rpm release on Regal 3309. Mike wants to know (and so do I) why Regal bothered to release a 45rpm version of a poor-selling 78, on a different label type and number series.

As for the Brauns, they left the business altogether in late 1951, later becoming the barons of slot-car racing, and you all know how big that hobby is, today. Nice going, Dave and Jules.

With the reissue specialists going berserk and emptying the vaults of every scrap and fragment of tape — true stereo, real true stereo, unmixed real mono, mixed real mono fake stereo, alternate takes of rehearsal tapes, more studio chatter than the Larry King Show (does anyone really care about all that stuff?), Mike's next find may someday be as common as people insulted by Frank Sinatra.

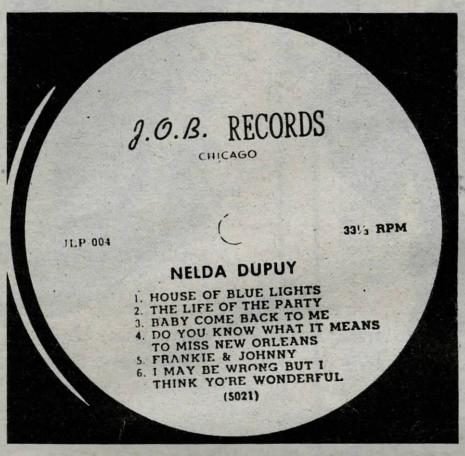
Mike has a goldtop Federal 45 of "That's What You're Doing To Me" by the Dominoes — the first issue, #12059. But, you say, everybody has one of those. Ah, but Mike's copy has a version of the song not found on the common discs or the re-release on Federal 12072. Nor is it found on the Gusto/King compilations in amongst the alternate takes. It is not an alternate take of the hit version.

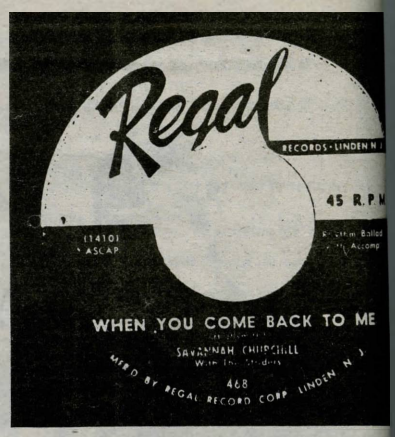
The matrix number in the wax is F-45-152-1, which rules out the possibility that it is from the earlier session that produced the unreleased version F-122. The arrangement is totally different, with Clyde and the boys taking it as a ballad over sparse instrumentation — no saxophone.

Oh, Mike and his buddy Gary Humphries have lots of stuff like this, we just don't have the space to detail all of it. They've found a couple of interesting 12-inch LPs, for example.

One is J.O.B. LP004, by Nelda DuPuy, black vocalist and pianist popular in Chicago clubs. This is the same J.O.B. label that gave us Eddie Boyd, Johnny Shines, Snooky Pryor, etc. — but, a 12-inch LP? The cover is autographed by Nelda to a Chicago deejay and there is a delta number 746 in the wax. How about J.O.B. LPs 001-003?

Then there is Gotham 12-inch LP X1. Mike found this one without a jacket (the record, not Mike), so if you have a spare copy of the sleeve, send it along, thanks. This is the same old familiar Gotham label of Lee Andrews & the Hearts, Capris, Whispers, and Gazelles. Gotham LP X1 is a Christmas item, one side bearing a white label with green lettering and the flip a white label with red design (gree red = Christmas, get it?). Tracks includ Davis Sisters, Harmonizing Four, An Gospel Singers, Dixie Hummingbirds, Brother Rodney — most, but not all t traced to Gotham single releases.





Mike and Gary have also turned up fine 78s. There's Danceland 403, a hard by Little Pork Chops (who he?) doing "vin' Blues" backed/with "Wayne Co Ramblin' Blues," the great "If I Had My To Live Over" backed/with "Managua, N ragua" by the mysterious Chickering Fou Signature 15086, and "Bring It On Down My House" backed/with "I Just Found by the Caldwells on Rainbow 10094. The wells had at least one other release on R bow, and a couple for RCA-Victor, and tured leads by Alex Caldwell and H Stewart.

Sure, Mike and Gary have been collec R&B a long time, and they certainly know wax and how to find it. The best news of that all of these records were found in jus past couple of years, and right in the Chic Wisconsin-Lower Michigan triangle. Ha hunting.

Larry Williams
An infectious bad boy

Chances are if you've heard the Beatles (and who hasn't?), you've heard the songs of Larry Williams. His infectious tunes with a slight comedic touch such as "Bad Boy," "Slow Down," and "Dizzy Miss Lizzy" were all recorded by that group from Liverpool. Larry Williams was just another great influence on them via his recordings on Specialty during the '50s. But the Beatles were more than casual fans; they didn't just cover his hits — these were covers of flip sides and minor chart singles, just further proof of the quality of Williams's material.

Lawrence E. Williams was born in New Orleans, La., on May 10, 1935. His musical beginnings were not realized in that town, but rather in the Oakland/Berkeley area of California, where he took up piano and guitar in his early teens. He joined two groups during this time: one called the Teardrops and the other called the Lemon Drops. When this group finally dissolved, Williams went out on his own, playing piano and singing with no real direction.

When Williams and his family moved back to New Orleans, his cousin Lloyd Price, a recording artist for Art Rupe's Specialty Records at the time, offered Williams an opportunity to work for him as both thumping piano player and valet. Williams travelled with him as part of the Lloyd Price Band and added his piano-playing talents to the music of other artists, such as Percy Mayfield and Roy Brown.

Larry Williams

When Price left Specialty for the service and Little Richard was already hot for the label Williams style was perfectly suited for Specialty. Unfortunately, Williams covered Price's "Just Because" as his debut single; it was not a smash beginning. However, when Williams cut his own "Short Fat Fannie" in 1957, he zoomed right up to #6 on the charts. Suddenly, he had a style and direction. Believe it or not, this turned out to be his biggest hit.

His follow-up, "Bony Moronie," only went to #18 but secured his style. The flip side, "You Bug Me Baby," was co-written by none other than Sonny Bono (He did just about everything at Specialty).

It was his next release that had the big influence on the Beatles and John Lennon in particular. "Dizzy Miss Lizzy" and its flip, "Slow Down," although peaking at #69 in the States, were both cut by the Beatles. Two singles later, "Bad Boy" made its debut; the single did nothing here, but once again, it caught the ears of the Beatles, who cut it on their Beatles VI LP. The Stones took the flip "She Said 'Yeah'" their December's Children LP. Three more gles were released as well as an album enti Here's Larry Williams.

Sadly, Williams's success seemed to short-lived. In the early '60s he moved on the Chess label where he cut some singles. T recordings were more R&B oriented except one entitled "Lawdy Mama," which altho he did not write, still had the Larry Willi touch. It was also in the '60s when he tou Britain; he was by that time feeling quite

Linda Scott:
Catching up with a '60s star

Goldmine '60s ROCK by Tom Morley

Linda Scott, one of the top female recording stars of the early 1960s, is currently teaching music and music directing at the Christian Academy in New York. Scott is best known for her million-selling recording of "I've Told Every Little Star" in 1961. For the next four years she was very busy recording other singles and albums for various record companies, including, Canadian-American, Congress, and Kapp Records.

Courtesy Tom Morley

Linda Scott

Cash Box magazine picked her as the most promising female vocalist in 1961, and a string of Top 40 hits followed. Most memorable were "Starlight, Starbright," "Don't Bet Money Honey," "Yesiree," and "I Don't Know Why." Her four best selling albums were Linda, Starlight, Starbright, Great Scott (her greatest hits) and Hey, Look At Me Now, now valued up to $45.

Scott began singing in 1959 at the age of 15. Her first break was a recording of "In Between Teen" on Epic, which received heart airplay in New York, Miami and other East Coast cities. During this period she was the female vocalist on the Arthur Godfrey CBS radio show,

During the early '60s Scott was 16 magazine's vocalist of the year twice, in 1961 and 1962. This eventually led to her touring with the Dick Clark "Caravan of Stars" and various other tours in the United States as well as abroad. And finally she became cohost of the Clark TV production Where The Action Is.

During a recent interview with Linda Scott, Goldmine asked Linda Scott to bring us up to date on what she has been doing for the last 20 years.

Linda Scott: My time has been filled with the dealings of performing, creating, and career pursuits in show business. I did a two-year stint in the Armed Services from 1970 to 1972 in the Army, as being a medical laboratory technician stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. This brought about the metting and marrying of a fellow serviceman. The marriage produced one child and ended in divorce. My son was born in 1973. Since then, I have kept a low profile, being a full-time mother and living for a time in Minneapolis.

Goldmine: After so much success in the 1960s, why did you stop recording?

Linda Scott: I decided to further my education and switch careers. I needed a change, I

Roscoe Robinson
One more time. . .

Goldmine '60s R&B by Robert Pruter

There have been few artists who brought as much experience to their first rhythm 'n' blues recordings as Roscoe Robinson. When he entered the soul field in 1965 he had been heavily singing in the gospel field for some 23 years with some of the greatest gospel quartets ever to have been put on wax. The experience is well evident in his superbly crafted and sung records.

Robinson only sang rhythm 'n' blues until 1973, when he returned to gospel, but the foray was a natural one because during those years black popular music was at its most gospelized. Much of his work was done in the Southern soul idiom, but his biggest hit was recorded and released in Chicago, "That's Enough."

Robinson was born in Dumont, Ala., on May 22, 1928. His father, a minister, and his mother both sang spiritual music and imparted their interest to their son. His family moved to Gary, Ind., in 1938, and around 1942 Robinson started singing lead in a quartet called Joiner's Five Trumpets. Three years later he joined the Royal Quartet, and for five years jumped from quartet to quartet — the Highway QC's (with Sam Cooke), the Kelly Brothers, Norfolk Singers, back to the Royals, and then to the Southern Sons, who were based in Little Rock, Ark.

Robinson was only with the Southern Sons for about a year, but during that time the quartet recorded some of the finest gospel sides ever recorded, on Lillian and Willard McMurry's Trumpet label in Jackson, Miss. As Lillian McMurray told Living Blues editor Jim O'Neal in 1986, the group was her favorite: "until this day," she said, "I have heard no one with such harmony, rhythm, and chord progressions."

Robinson's gospel career was somewhat set back when in 1951 the Army drafted him. Before he got out in 1953 he sang in a group that won the Third Army talent contest.

Robinson continued his gospel career with the famed Fairfield Four out of Nashville, followed by a stay in Philadelphia with the Gate City and the Gospel Jays, followed by a stay in Oakland, Calif., where he sang with the Paramount Singers. About 1960 he joined the great Five Blind Boys of Mississippi, who were based in Chicago. Robinson stayed with the Blind Boys some five years, and then a lawsuit between Chess in Chicago and Peacock in Houston over the services of the Five Blind Boys precipitated his going into secular music. He first formed a group, called Blind Boys of Ohio, who recorded one single on Constellation, and then he went solo.

Robinson's first secular release was "What Makes A Man Do Wrong," which came out in 1965 on the Chess-distributed New York-based Tuff Records. The song is basically a gospel shouter and unexceptional, but Robinson's years of gospel experience revealed a singer who could take command of a song and ride it with assurance.

Robinson's next shot in the soul market was in April 1966, when he came out with the biggest hit of his career, "That's Enough." The song, one of the best numbers of the year, was produced and arranged by Robinson, and he employed a girl chorus in an exciting gospel-style call and response. The record pops! "That's Enough" was originally released on Robinson's own Gerri label based in Chicago. But when it looked as though the record would be a national hit Robinson leased it to New York-based Scepter-Wand for release on the Wand label. He also signed with the company. With the muscle of Wand's distribution, "That's Enough" went to #7 position and lasted 13 weeks on Billboard's soul chart in the summer.

Courtesy Blues & Soul

Roscoe Robinson

On the strength of "That's Enough," Robinson was able to chart with his follow-up, "How Much Pressure (Do You Think I Can Stand)" backed with "Do It Right Now." Both sides lasted about a month on the chart in December 1966, barely breaking the Top 40. "How Much Pressure" is an OK rouser, but it is "Do It Right Now" that is the winner, a great slow gospelized secular number in the same vein as Sam Cooke's "A Change Is Gonna Come."

The next release, "A Thousand Rivers," in 1967, is another terrific slow secular gospel number, but unfortunately it didn't chart. Before the year was out, he came out with an OK remake of the old Roscoe Gordon hit, "Just A Little Bit." The flip, "I Gotta Keep Trying," demonstrates that Robinson generally was doing better on slow numbers at this time.

In late 1967 Robinson signed with John Richbourg's Sound Stage 7 and started recording in Nashville. He stayed with Sound Stage 7 until early 1969 and during that time came out with 10 sides all heavily in the Southern soul style. Whereas much of the Wand material was written, arranged, and produced by Robinson, most of the Sound State 7 sides were the work of the in-house staff at the company. None of the Nashville sides is especially good, although the sly "Fox Hunting On The Weekend" (1968) is highly appealing in its lighthearted approach. "Let Me Know" (1968) is a good ballad in the Joe Simon mode, which one would expect because Simon was the company's big artist at the time.

In 1969 Robinson moved to Atlantic Records and came out with his last chart record, a remake of the Fred Hughes hit from 1965, "Oo Wee Baby I Love You." Produced by Robinson, he gives it a heavily gospelized treatment that works well for the song, and it lasted four weeks and went to #42 on Billboard's soul chart in July.

The following year, Robinson put out a few releases on his own Gerri label and one on Rick Hall's Fame label, with not much artistic or commercial success. In 1971 he joined Stan Lewis's Paula label in Shreveport, La. Most of his sides for Paula were produced by Chicagoan Cash McCall and most were written by Robinson. During his association with Paula he came out with 12 sides and got no hits. "You And Me," from 1972, is a worthy uptempo stomper. There were some others that also matched his best Chicago-produced sides.

Robinson left the world of soul in 1973 and returned to the gospel field, and has since

Albert King
Jimmy Reed's drummer makes good

Albert King was supposed to give an interview. "Don't count on it," his road manager or some such official said. "He's in bad shape." I poked my head through the cave-like entrance to this dank backstage area of one of Chicago's white boy blues bars. There was the King, one of "the Three Kings of the Blues" (B.B., Freddie &. . .). A big man, a mammoth presence in a sharp suit, six feet, four inches tall, some 250-plus pounds surrounded by two nearly as large women and they were sweating, all of them. "Not now," both companions said in shrill voices. Al flashed an expression that seemed to these eyes to say "I've only moments to live." "He's not well," said the larger and more menacing of the two.

Not many moments later King, appearing ragged but stylish, mounted the tiny stage and proceeded to slash the crowd with "Born Under A Bad Sign." All signs of fatigue or illness were gone. There King was sounding in top form doing what no other Delta bluesman was able to do in the '60s.

Mike Bloomfield has said, "He was the only bluesman who had a complete comfortable synthesis of the blues with modern black music . . . and sold copiously to a black audience as well as the white audience."

The late MG, Al Jackson, producer of King's early Stax sides, was largely responsible for this fusion. It was Jackson that took Albert into the Memphis studio with Booker T., the MGs, and other Stax sidemen and interwove King and the band into that distinctive Memphis sound that was not far removed from the R&B hits of that day. His records were hot . . . but then if you have followed his '70s career you know King has yet to step down from his throne.

Born in Indianola, Miss., on April 25, 1923, to an itinerant preacher and his wife, Albert Nelson, one of 13 siblings, was raised on and worked on a plantation. Throughout the '60s he and others stated that he was B.B. King's half-brother. No evidence has supported this other than the close proximity of their birthplaces.

Albert's early years are not that unusual from other black rural bluesmen. He was poor. He received just a touch of schooling and thereafter started working as a field hand, chopping cotton and doing other chores when reportedly he was only nine. In his early teens he bought his first guitar for $1.25 from some fellow who needed the money to take his girl to the movies. For years making music was a sideline. When grown he worked as a mechanic, bulldozer operator, truck driver and short order cook.

In 1951, Al Nelson moved to Gary, Ind., and seemingly, the big time performing as Jimmy Reed's drummer. King has said, "Jimmy got to where he wouldn't stay sober and wouldn't work one half of the time, so I said, "Hell, I'm going to make a record myself." A few sides for Al Benson's Parrot label and some Ike Turner-produced cuts leased to Bobbin and King followed. Even these early tracks find King in full bloom.

King has called his approach "string squeezing." He's left-handed and plays upside down and backwards. "I knew I was going to have to create my own style," King has said, "because I couldn't make the changes and the chords the same as a right-handed man could." To this day, King plays few chords, no speed-ball riffs, uses no pick, just a fat thumb, concentrates on

The Allman Brothers Band's
Live At Fillmore East Album

Live albums flew like frisbees during the fat years of '70s rock. After a few studio LPs, it was practically expected to pad an album obligation with a live set. Occasionally something good would come of this practice. But too often an artist or group not especially known for their live show would merely add a touched up greatest hits package with crowd noise to their catalog with a splashy "In Concert" disc.

Goldmine
'70s ROCK
by Stuart Winkles

Between 1968 and its closing in 1972, Bill Graham's Fillmore East in New York saw the recording of numerous live albums. Miles Davis, Jimi Hendrix, John Mayall, the Mothers of Invention and Humble Pie with Peter Frampton (later the ultimate achiever in live album sales with 1976's Frampton Comes Alive) each include a Fillmore East recording in their discography. The list goes on but that's another story. The point is, along with being the East Coast's premiere rock theater, the Fillmore East also boasted excellent sound.

The Allman Brothers Band had two well received studio albums behind them when they set up remote recording equipment at the Fillmore East in March 1971. The date marked their appearance at the Fillmore and with countless months of touring, Duane and Gregg Allman, Berry Oakley, Dickie Betts, Butch Trucks and Jai Johanny Johanson were a finely tuned playing machine. In July of '71 Phil Walden's Capricorn label made its debut with the Allmans' Live at Fillmore East. Later that summer the two record set reached #13 on the LP charts and since then it's held the status as one of rock's musically finest live albums ever.

Steeped in blues, with drummer Butch Trucks' proclivity for odd time signatures instigating distinctive jazz undercurrents, the Allmans played with the disciplined sense of an ensemble. It spread only seven cuts over four sides with songs such as Willie Cobbs' "You Don't Love Me" and their own "In Memory Of Elizabeth Reed" and "Whipping Post " becoming vehicles for lengthy jamming. But again, due to the ensemble nature of the band, the extended cuts — "Whipping Post" runs more than 20 minutes — never became mired in excess. Every note fit, every passage complemented and showed the way to the next.

The creative force behind this unified system was guitarist, extraordinaire Duane Allman. Though neither singer nor songwriter, Duane's breathtaking musicianship and egalitarian restraint in live performance earn him the right to be remembered as a Duke Ellington of rock, a dynamic spearhead who could both anchor the band as well as soar it to its highest heights.

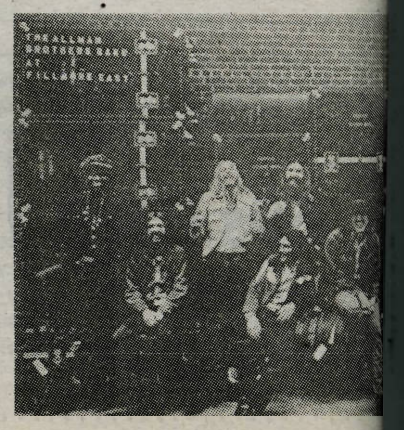
From the gentle arabesques he delivers to the extended codas of "Hot 'Lanta" and "Whipping Post," to the giddy emotion of his surging slide on the set opener, "Statesboro Blues," Duane functioned as a guiding force as much in listening to the other band members as he did in his playing. Dickie Betts' technically stepped-down, country-laced guitar got as much solo time as Duane. And this see-saw, which often led to strikingly situated double guitar harmony, was entirely necessary for the band's overall impact. A more accomplished organist than Gregg Allman would have somehow upset the ensemble balance as well. All the pieces fit in their varied strengths and limitations with Duane, Berry Oakley's bass and the two drummers supplying the best pure musicianship of the band.

The Allman Brothers Band

Live At Fillmore East holds up as well today as ever. Who knows where the band could have gone if their life line hadn't been cut. Only three months after its release, Duane was killed in a motorcycle accident. A year later, Oakley met the same fate. Of course, the band stayed together but it inevitably dwindled into being just another practitioner in the glut of what became known as "Southern Rock" in the mid-'70s.

Sadly the "play all night," good ol' boy progeny that the original Allman Brothers Band spawned — the Marshall Tucker Band, Lynyrd Skynyrd, et. al. — mostly missed the lesson of Live At Fillmore East: Strength and sturd in blues comes through restraint. Of all th Southern Rock bands, it was perhaps We lie with their knack for R&B that kept mu the true blues feeling alive.

Live At Fillmore East is still in print on dor after Capricorn's collapse in the late A mint pressing with original pink Capr label grabs up to $20 these days. A CD ha been released.



Hüsker Dü
Another new day rising

It's one thing to be incredibly prolific and another to be consistently great. Husker Du is both. The Minneapolis-based trio has just released its seventh album in five years — two of them doubles — and what's amazing is that Bob Mould, Grant Hart and Greg Norton keep finding new ways of defining just what Husker Du is.

Goldmine '80s ROCK by Jeff Tamarkin

In the beginning, 1979, they were pretty much your basic three-piece hardcore thrash band, although even then Husker Du — the name was taken from a board game and means "Do you remember?" in some Scandinavian language or another — challenged the rules of that restrictive genre. Although the band's early music did express the usual h.c. themes of angst and rage, Husker Du refused to be cast as part of a movement that often relied on quasi-fascistic adherence to certain nihilistic attitudes and fashions. And from the start there was evidence that the trio was eager to burst out of the three-chord bash/breakneck speed assault that is the hardcore prison.

Guitarist/vocalist Mould decided to play in a punk band after he heard the first Ramones album in the mid-'70s. After he moved to Minneapolis from upstate New York to attend college, he met drummer Hart in a record store. Although neither could play an instrument, they told each other they could and decided to form a band. To their own surprise they learned quickly, and with bassist Norton completing the lineup they began to attract a following in the Twin Cities. Using the logic that the faster they played, the less chance there would be for the audience to notice if they were making mistakes, Husker Du became a local leader of the burgeoning hardcore scene, supporting their full-frontal musical attack with finger-pointing diatribes such as "Guns At My School" and "You're Naive."

The first Husker Du single, "Statues"/"Amusement," launched the local Reflex Records in early 1981. The B-side already hinted at musical diversity by presenting a softer, more introspective side of the group than was evidenced by its live show.

A year later, by which time the Huskers' reputation had spread via the punk underground as far as L.A., Mike Watt of the Minutemen released the first Husker Du LP, Land Speed Record, on his New Alliance label. An EP, In A Free Land, followed on New Alliance, that summer ('82), and another album, Everything Falls Apart, put the band back on Reflex in January 1983.

Husker Du

Both of the albums, as well as their second EP, 1983's Metal Circus, this time on SST, went a long way to establish Husker Du as one of the more relentlessly hard-rocking bands in the U.S. As for the hopscotching between labels, that, says Mould, was simply part of the punk community's way of doing business. "Everybody was putting out stuff on every label," he recalls. "It was the SST-New Alliance-Thermidor-Subterranean connection. Everyone sort of floated from alliance to alliance."

Metal Circus launched the band as a full-time SST act until recently, however, and before long Husker Du became the California company's most popular act. The release of the two-record Zen Arcade (SST 027) in 1984 became the turning point in the group's career. The album proved beyond any doubts that Husker Du had more in them than most of their colleagues. While not exactly a concept album, the two records did provide a continuous storyline. The album's subject is a kid

New Edition:
Bringing the young teen lead into the 1980s

In its first three years, New Edition, the newest teenaged heart throbs since the Jackson 5's glorious Motown years, has had a stormy musical career. Not only has the group garnered international success, but it has had court battles over the use of its moniker, and then in 1986, one of the group's singers left for a solo career at age 17.

In 1981, the quintet sang a medley of Jackson 5 hits and finished second in a local Boston talent contest. When New Edition debuted on Arthur Baker's Streetwise Records in 1983, its members were: 14-year-old Bobby Brown, Michael Bevins, and lead singer Ralph Tresvant, and 15-years-old Ronnie DeVoe and Richard Bell. Their first single, the delightful "Candy Girl," reminiscent of the Jackson 5's "ABC," became the group's initial calling card — a #1 R&B hit and an international smash. New Edition then headed back into the studio with producer Maurice Starr to rush an album into the stores.

The resulting Candy Girl was surprisingly versified with the perky, upbeat "Popcorn Love," the rap influenced "Pass The Beat," and the syrupy ballad "Is This The End?" The group's success also was its cause for some future aggravation. In 1984, New Edition signed with New York management and with MCA Records, which resulted in various law suits.

One of the law suits, which was not decided in the courts until near the end of 1986, dealt with the group's name, New Edition. Maurice Starr argued that he owned the copyright to the name "New Edition" and wanted to make records with other singers using that name. Starr argued that he put the group together under the banner New Edition. The courts later ruled against Starr and in favor of New Edition stating that the public recognized the Boston teenagers as New Edition and to have anyone else use that banner would, in effect, defraud the public. By then, New Edition had its own following that was growing each year.

New Edition, the group's first album for MCA, was more polished than its debut and contained two Top 10 pop singles, the gold "Cool It Now," which went to #1 R&B and #4 pop in 1985, and Ray Parker, Jr.'s pop/R&B "Mr. Telephone Man." The group even wrote two of its own songs for the first time — "I'm Leaving You Again" and "Kinda Girls We Like" — giving credit to the entire quintet rather than individual members. The Los Angeles Lakers participated in the video to "My Secret (Didja Gitit Yet?)," where the teenaged members fantasized about playing professional basketball. Also included on the album was the delightful "Maryann," written by folk singer Steve Goodman with Rick Chudacott and Arno Lucas.

Goldmine '80s R&B by Bob Grossweiner

In late 1985, New Edition released All For Love, which contained the pop hit "Count Me Out," but the album seemed to lack some of the youthful innocence that highlighted its first two albums. A month later, they released their six-song Christmas EP, Christmas All Over The and despondent over his lack of hits, although he wasn't even 30! He would sit in his hotel room and play cards with his wife, according to writer Nik Cohn in his book Rock From The Beginning. Williams was still the essence of cool, what with rings on all fingers and shiny silk suits and shades, and his philosophical outlook was still ever present: "In truth," Williams remarked at the time, "rock has no beginning and no end, for it is the very pulse of life itself."

Williams's next stop was Smash Records, with a clever R&B tune called "Boss Lovin'." It mentioned other hit song titles but it never hit itself. A "live" album was cut for Sue in 1965. In 1966 Williams was also working with Johnny "Guitar" Watson and through a new deal with Okeh, he cut two for the price of one, and a greatest hits package.

Williams's work as a producer picked up when his old Specialty buddy, Little Richard, also signed with Okeh. Williams became his producer and was responsible for both the Greatest Hits Live album and The Explosive Little Richard LP, both reissued last year by CBS. Once again, the period seemed to be non-explosive.

After 1967, not very much is known about Larry's activity until he resurfaced in 1978 with a funk-oriented album on Fantasy entitled That Larry Williams. The lead-off cut from the album was "Bony Moronie (Disco Queen)," which capitalized on the then-popular dance oriented music. We even got a glimpse into the private life of Larry Williams with pictures of family and friends on both the inner sleeve and back of the album. Unfortunately, there was probably more than meets the eye as far as his private life was concerned; on Jan. 2, 1980, less than two years after the release of his last album, Larry Williams was found dead of a gunshot wound to the head. The official report was suicide, although there have been other speculations.

Although he died at 44, Larry Williams has sustained enough popularity to secure the release of two official (and unofficial) albums of rare sides from his Specialty days, and by the time you read this, yet a third album. "Bony Moronie" has been used recently for a dog treat commercial as well. A true rocker never slows down.

was very tired. Especially after all the club dates, tours, and a movie. I received a four-year degree in Theology from Kingsway Christian College And Theological Seminary in Des Moines, Iowa.

Goldmine: Do you even plan to record or go on the road again?

Linda Scott: Recording is always a consideration, and who knows, if the right deal comes along. Going on the road would be a little more difficult at this point in time as my teaching and local obligations here at home base take top priority and a lot of time.

Goldmine: What are some of your best memories of being in the music business?

Linda Scott: The close family atmosphere we had during the taping on location for the TV show Where The Action Is. Also the close attachment to the cast and crew of the CBS radio show with Arthur Godfrey. My roots are in New York City and from the years we spend taping that show. I miss Arthur very much. I sometimes wonder where my best friend Monica (Monkey) is, and what she is up to. I am grateful to the Lord for affording me the opportunity to have experienced the fame and fortune of show business. I have all these memories for which to be thankful, and I hope to make many more wonderful memories as the years go by.

Goldmine: What's in the future for you?

Linda Scott: I will be rooted in music, probably teaching the "up and comers" in the music business. Those who have true talent will prevail and go on. For myself, well, I like to think that I have the option of actively being the entertainer, or training the new stars of tomorrow, or both. Whatever will be will be.

only three strings and bends and squeezes and sustains more notes than any other bluesman.

In legend, King is known primarily for his '60s Stax sides, but the man actually tripled his number of R&B hits in the '70s. Opening the decade, Al King recorded at the Muscle Shoals studios. Only one hit resulted, a washed-out reading of "Everybody Wants To Go To Heaven." In '72 King was back in Memphis with backup by the Bar-Kays and the Memphis Horns. "I'll Play The Blues" and "Breakin' Up Somebodys Home" both charted. The latter became King's biggest hit of the decade, reaching #15 on Cashbox. Two years later he had his double-sided classic, "I Want To Get Funky" backed with "That's What The Blues Is."

King next moved to RCA's Utopia for possibly his finest cut ever, "Cadillac Assembly Line." Three albums and three hit singles resulted. Produced by Bert de Coteaux and Tony Silvestre and backed by Joe Sample, Charles Rainey, Maxine And Julia Tillman, Big Dee Irving, and other noteables, King is again remodernized.

Closing the decade, King switched to Tomato and under the guidance of Allen Toussaint updated with integrity some of his signature tunes. Yes, "Born Under A Bad Sign" too.

World. Two of the songs were New Edition originals — a rarity for Christmas albums. Tresvant and Bell wrote "The Joy of Christmas" while Bevins and DeVoe penned "Singing Merry Christmas." They also revivified "Give Love On Christmas Day," which the Jackson 5 previously recorded.

In 1986, Brown left the group to go solo and by year end, he released his first solo album, King Of Stage, on MCA Records. New Edition decided not to replace Brown and remained a quartet for its album, Under The Blue Moon, a loving tribute to the doo-wop era. New Edition revivified nine chestnuts pretty much in the mood that they were initially recorded. The album was far reaching in that the group's youthful followers had a chance to hear what generations before them had grown up on.

Dallas Taylor

Dallas Taylor, lead singer of the Danderliers dead at 50

Dallas, who sang lead in the 1950s for the R&B harmony group the Danderliers, died Nov. 14, 1986, of a heart attack. He was 50 years old.

Mr. Taylor was the major talent of the Danderliers, a Chicago group who excelled at vocal harmony on both jump and ballad sides. Mr. Taylor sang lead on the jumps, notably "Chop Chop Boom," "Little Man," and "Shu-wop," and James Campbell sang lead on the ballads, notably "My Autumn Love," and "May God Be With You." All these songs were written by Mr. Taylor, who with seeming ease could write the most aggressive and bluesy jump tunes and the most sublime and sweet ballads. All his songs are superb examples of '50s R&B, but only "Chop Chop Boom" made the national charts, in 1955.

Mr. Taylor was born on May 22, 1936, in Chicago. He attended Chicago Vocational High School (CVS), and in the early '50s he and fellow CVS students Bernard Dixon and James Campbell and Englewood High students Richard Thomas and Walter Stephenson formed the Danderliers. While practicing under the proverbial street lamp in Washington Park they were discovered by a record executive from United/States Records. The group recorded eight sides before breaking up in late 1956.

Mr. Taylor never joined any other group for any lengthy time. He is survived by his wife, Yvonne; daughters D... and Uliette; sons Dallas Jr., Donald, and Ronald; an... grandchildren.

At his funeral the former members of the Danderlier... "May God Be With You."

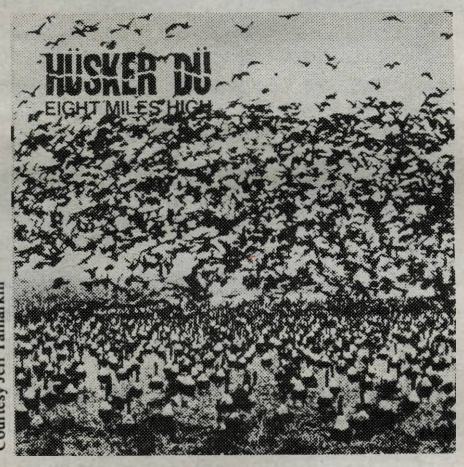
who leaves home not knowing what to do with his life. He joins the Krishnas, the military and a computer company before it's all over, only to wake up and — shades of Dallas — find out it was all a dream. His life goes on just as he left it. Husker Du didn't.

In a way the record was also Husker Du's message to their public that they too had some exploring to do. Zen Arcade found the trio trying out new stylistic areas their initial following would never have dreamed possible of them, and if the nearly 14-minute LP closer, "Reoccurring Dreams," didn't challenge some notions and free Husker Du from its audience's preconceptions of the group, nothing would. Says Mould of Zen, "It was a manic record, but we knew it was a damn good one. When it was perceived by critics as well as it was, it reaffirmed our belief that good things come to those who wait. It was a big step for us and we're real proud of that record."

And as for those fans who were alienated by the band's change in direction, its growth as a musical entity, Mould shrugs and says, "It's a snob appeal thing. People will always moan and groan that it's not the way it was. We're never gonna get rid of that. Don't those people want to do things better as they go along in life?"



Courtesy Jeff Tamarkin

Zen Arcade had followed a non-LP single, a cover of the Byrds' "Eight Miles High," which clued in some fans that Husker Du would be following a more melodic path. (They've also covered the Beatles' "Helter Skelter" and "Ticket To Ride.") That was confirmed with Zen and its followup, New Day Rising, which, while marking something of a return to the all-out attack of the pre-Zen days, also boasted a greater sense of songwriting structure than the early material. By the time the group's final SST album, Flip Your Wig, was released in 1985, there was already talk of interest from major labels. With Husker Du's growth as a band paying off in chart-topping albums on the college radio circuit and reams of great press, the next logical step was to break them into the mainstream.

Warner Brothers signed Husker Du and released the inconsistent Candy Apple Grey in early 1986. Having waited patiently for the right moment to go to the majors, Husker Du managed to work out a deal with the label in which the company would have no say in the creative process, thus allowing them to proceed on the natural course they'd set for themselves. "It's a big step for us and a big responsibility [to be on a major]," says Mould, "but as long as they get good records we get what we want. We don't tell them how to sell records and they don't tell us how to make music."

The company did balk somewhat, however, when Husker Du came to them with a two-record set for their second Warners release. After working out some details, however, the company agreed to go with it, and Warehouse: Songs And Stories was released last month to positive acclaim. While not a story album like Zen Arcade, the new one is consistent and undoubtedly a strong rock album, one destined to widen Husker Du's audience even further.

"This one's a nice continuum," says Mould of Warehouse. "Candy Apply Grey was a choppy record in the sense that the emotions were real jagged breaks. On the emotional levels, this one is nice, a nice roller coaster ride. It's a rockin' record. There's a lot to digest, but it's 20 good songs."

Husker Du says they won't release a record until they're satisfied they "can live with it forever." They're still learning to live with the new one, but that doesn't mean they're not already looking ahead. "I don't know what it is," says Mould. "We just can't stop. But that's what we do. That's what we're here for."

New York's 10 best record stores:
A visitor's guide

by Jeff Tamarkin

If you're like me, the first thing you want to do when you're traveling, probably before you even check into your hotel (if you can afford one after you do what I do), is check out the record stores. A record collector gets a certain inexplicable thrill going into a good collector-oriented shop that's virgin territory. This can drive a non-collecting travel-mate fairly batty. Ask my girlfriend if she didn't want to strangle me when we went to London. Big Ben? Who cares? Where's the next shop (and don't even bring up those sidewalk merchants selling rare cassettes)? Harrod's? Have fun, just let me loose in the Virgin Megastore.

During a trip to New Orleans a few years ago, we decided to take a drive outside of the city to look for some bayou country and Cajun fiddlers. Instead I slammed on the brakes as I eyed a little place called, of all things, Goldmine Records. So much for bayous.

Living in New York City one can get fairly jaded being a collector. In the Greenwich Village/East Village section alone, there are literally enough record shops to keep you occupied from sun-up to midnight. (But this being New York, most of them don't open till noon; and some stay open till 2 a.m.!) It's very difficult not to be able to find a record in New York. But even so, that doesn't stop me from spending all too many afternoons and evenings making the rounds, which is where this idea came from.

This article will be the first of what we hope will be a regular series in Goldmine, a visitor's guide to collector-oriented record shops in major U.S. (and hopefully foreign) cities. We have writers stationed all over the U.S. and abroad, and we're going to put them to work surveying the best shops in their home town. Even if you are not a regular Goldmine writer, if you think you know the record stores in your area well enough to give us an accurate, up-to-date semi-biased rundown, let us hear from you.

As for you record store owners, keep in mind that these articles do not represent any official opinion of the Goldmine/Krause Publications organization, just that of the individual author. And if we miss your store, it's probably because we don't know you're there, so let us hear from you.

For now, this is one record collector's look at the 10 best record stores in New York City (Manhattan in particular; we know you guys in Brooklyn, Queens and outlying areas have some great places too), with a handful of runners-up thrown in at the end. Listings are alphabetical, with major specialties pointed out. Happy hunting in the Big Apple!

Bleecker Bob's Golden Oldies, 118 W. 3rd St.

Bleecker Bob's (and Bleecker Bob himself) is a New York institution. In the Village for over 20 years, and usually open past midnight, Bob's is a cultural phenomenon as well as a record store. You'll find a great selection of used LPs and 45s from the '50s through the present, and an excellent stock of recent indie albums, imports, singles and live cassettes, plus fanzines and even clothing! Since the late '70s Bleecker Bob's has become a haven for punk fans and, more recently, heavy metal headbangers, but the oldies fan won't feel uncomfortable and there are some true gems hidden in the tightly-packed racks. Unfortunately, Bob's is also rather highly-priced on some items, but if you've really been searching for something and haven't found it elsewhere, he may just have it, and the staff is both knowledgeable and helpful.

Finyl Vinyl, 89 2nd Ave.

In the East Village near 5th St., a block from the site of the old Fillmore East. Finyl Vinyl is the new kid on the block, having only opened in the past couple of years. But it's rapidly gaining a reputation as one of the cooler places to go record searching. The store specializes in reissues of '50s-'70s rock 'n' roll and R&B, with a great selection of imported reissues (all the Ace/Edsel/Charly/See for Miles type stuff). Also a fine stock of current indies, especially in the pop/folk/psych/garage area. Rockabilly, soul, punk, glitter, surf, all the right stuff. And the guys who run the place know their stuff, so don't be afraid to ask.

J&R Music World, 23 Park Row

J&R isn't a collectors store but a huge record/tape/audio equipment/etc., outlet, downtown in the City Hall/Brooklyn Bridge/Wall St. area. Before Tower Records came to New York, J&R was Manhattan's leading record supermarket. It's still always bustling, and the reason the store is listed in this survey is because its knowledgeable buyers take great care in stocking the racks with hard-to-find stuff. I've walked out of J&R with many an import and indie I didn't know existed or couldn't find in a smaller store. There are lots of inexpensive cut-outs and a large selection of blues, folk, reggae, international, punk, imports, oldie reissues, etc. J&R also has a separate jazz/classical outlet a few doors down.

A bird's-eye view of Manhattan

Midnight, 255 W. 23rd St.

This longtime Goldmine advertiser started out as a mail-order firm before opening this store across the street from the famous Chelsea Hotel (site of the famous murder of Sid Vicious's girlfriend, among other things). In the past few years, Midnight has blossomed into one of the most impressive collector stores you'll see in any city. There are two rooms, one devoted primarily to used, often quite rare, '50s, '60s, '70s rock 'n' roll, R&B, soundtracks, psychedelic, you name it, the other to reissues and recent indie releases. There are thousands of records of all types here, that is, all types of cool music.

Don't come to Midnight if you want the new Phil Collins or Lionel Richie 'cause they won't have it. If, however, you need a single or a 12-inch import EP from a band down the block, or the third album by some third-rate psych band from 1968, this is the place. Also fanzines, singles, books, cassettes, budget LPs and the best selection of reissued rockabilly and R&B in town.

Second Coming, 235 Sullivan St.

Also in the Village, with two stores across the street from one another. The main outlet has the standard selection of rock collectibles but offers an extensive compilation albums department. There's also a good selection of live LPs and tapes and, for some reason, an abnormally large Bruce Springsteen section. The second Second Coming specializes in jazz, soundtracks, classical.

Smash, 1733 1st Ave.

This one is way uptown, between E. 89th and 90th Streets, but it's worth the trek if you're into finding uncommon CDs. Smash is way ahead of the other NYC collector stores when it comes to the compact disc. There's a whole wall full of hard-to-find ones, reasonably priced. There's also a good stock of rock and R&B LP rarities and a bunch of cheapo bins ($1-3) that yield surprisingly choice stuff, including recent used records.

A good browsing store but the leader for collectible CDs in Manhattan. Smash is opening a CD-only outlet in the Village on St. Mark's Place, which should exist by the time this hits print.

St. Marks Sounds, 20 St. Marks Pl.

In the heart of the East Village (St. Marks Place is an extension of 8th St., between 1st and 3rd Aves.), this is the place to go for used records, especially recent ones. Usually so packed on weekends that you'll have to look over a shoulder to even see the records. That's because the store has the rep for paying highest prices for recent used LPs of all kinds, and everyone in town knows this is where you'll find a new record for half price. Great for current R&B and dance, some country, blues, etc., but mostly rock of all persuasions. New stock daily.

Tower, 692 Broadway

Like J&R, Tower is not a collector's store. What it is is New York's reigning mega-store, four floors of records, video, tapes, CDs, magazines. This chain started on the West Coast and has only been in New York a few years, but it's already the leading record outlet in town. Unless it's an obscure indie, Tower probably has it if it's in print (that is, if it's not out of stock, a common problem at this high-turnover establishment).

Tower can keep you occupied and fascinated for hours; put it this way, their soundtracks department alone is bigger than most record stores. Great jazz department, lots of imports, a decent reissues department, 12-inches and R&B galore, reggae, a wall of singles, another wall of CDs, a whole floor of cassettes and video, great easy listening/pop section, and did we mention half a city block of rock?

Granted, this store is geared toward the buyer with an eye on the Billboard charts, but any store that would have Robyn Hitchcock do an in-store performance has its heart in the right place. Separate classical outlet around the block. A whole other Tower branch, almost as well-stocked, uptown at Broadway and W. 66th.

Venus, 61 W. 8th St.

Right off 6th Ave. (aka Avenue of the Americas). Ring the buzzer and walk on up the stairs to one of the best collector stores in the city. Small and tight but packed. About half the store is devoted to used records, both new and old, always reasonably priced. The rest is taken up with all sorts of rarities, imports, indies, 45s, reissues (with a special attachment to grungy '60s oriented garage/punk, psych, R&B/blues, rockabilly, etc.) and lots of new wave/punk and progressive rock. Plenty of hard-to-find records, and recently Venus has become a mecca for the hardcore and metal set. Fanzines, rare 45s, and an enthusiastic staff that'll even tell you when a record stinks and what you should get instead.

Vinylmania, 30 Carmine St.

The Village again. Vinylmania has four stores on the same block (and another uptown). One features rock and other LPs (nothing special, but worth a quick look), another nothing but CDs (good selection and some used ones for $9), and the others in 12-inch and LP dance records. Vinylmania is best known for the latter — they have more of 'em and get 'em faster.

Others:

Golden Disc (259 Bleecker) has a very large selection of used and obscure '50s and '60s rarities, excellent selection of 45s, and plenty of new wave, punk and progressive. Most are reasonably priced but some will set you back a bit. Jazz/soundtracks/etc. on a separate floor.

Freebeing (129 2nd Ave.), at St. Marks Pl., used to specialize in cheap used records, but the focus in recent years has been on newer punk, imports, hardcore, etc. Also, the personnel seems to think ignoring customers is cool.

Rock's In Your Head (157 Prince) in SoHo, isn't a bad place to check out if you're in this fun part of town, but after the Village shopping spree, a bit superfluous. Good selection of recent stuff though.

House of Oldies (35 Carmine), like Bleecker Bob's, is a New York legend (although it's moved from the original site). Two walls, a thin aisle between them, but quite a surprisingly fine stock of oldie albums and singles. I've never had a reasonable oldie LP or 45 want they couldn't fill on the spot, but, alas, you'll pay dearly for it.

Footlight (90 3rd Ave.) near 12th Street, is different in that it doesn't specialize so much in rock as in jazz, Broadway, soundtracks, big band, '40s and early '50s, etc. They do have rock, also cassettes and CDs, but it wouldn't be your first stop for that. Great place to look for the other stuff though.

Dayton's (824 Broadway at 12th St.) is similar to Footlight, specializing in out-of-print jazz, vocalists, spoken word, easy listening, comedy soundtracks, etc.

Colony (1619 Broadway) is in the midtown theatre district, and is great for out-of-print rock, jazz, vocalists. Also good for singles. Expensive.

Downstairs (35 W. 43rd St.) is another oldtimer, but hasn't really changed with the times as far as the collector market. Some good obscurities and lots of dance music.

Gryphon (2246 Broadway and 606 Amsterdam) is another uptown name for rarities, again in jazz, soundtracks, etc., and not so much rock. A good place for classical, however.

Record Runner (5 Jones St.) is a small collector shop with average stock but worth a browse.

Strider (263 Bleecker) is yet another Village oldies shop, with rock, R&B, soundtracks, pop, 78s and large Elvis selection.

It's Only Rock & Roll (49 W. 8th St.) is almost more of a rock museum than store (with prices to match). Large record selection (major and indie, live, cassette) but more a total rock 'n' roll store/hangout, with books, posters, video, magazines, Beatles memorabilia, etc. A heavy metal fan's paradise.

See Hear (59 E. 7th St.) doesn't sell records at all, but if you want something to read while sampling your vinyl, stop in. The best fanzine and regular rock magazine selection in New York. Also books, non-music zines, back issues and some tapes. But if you want to find really obscure homemade zines of all stripes, this is the place.

Now let's see if your city can top that!

GRAPEVINE

There's a lot of collector's activity in south central Pennsylvania planned for 1987. The Keystone record collectors begin their eighth year of activity with a full schedule of record conventions at the historic market house, Columbia, Penn. Club president Tom Grosh says, "Our years of hard work in organizing the club have really been worthwhile. The record shows in the past year have just been tremendous." Other officers are, Roy Robbins, vice president, Phil Schwartz, secretary, and Derek Shaw, treasurer. Appointments for 1987 include Vince Habel and Bob Atwater as co-market masters, and John Orlousky as club promotions director, a new position. The club roster grew to over 250 paid members in 1987. The $5 yearly fee includes all mailings, as well as "Recorder," a club magazine.

Formed in November 1979, the K.R.C. was orginally a spinoff of Baltimore's "Society of Record Collectors." The two groups had a reunion picnic late last year, with many members of both clubs attending. Those interested in receiving club information can write to P.O. Box 1516, Lancaster, PA 17604.

"Gatemouth" Brown to appear at MDA benefit

Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown, Gate's Family of Fans, and the Muscular Dystrophy Association are pleased to announce the eighth in a series of shows to benefit MDA. "An American Music Celebration" will be held on Saturday, March 28, 1987, starting at 8:00 pm. Featured will be Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown and Gate's Express, whose most recent release is a live album entitled Real Life (Rounder 2054). Also appearing will be Joe Russell, a singer who is best known for his work with the Persuasions. Joe will be backed up by the Derek James Band and the Lo-Cal Horns, who will also contribute their own set to the evening's entertainment.

Doors will open at 7:00 pm at the Polish National Home, 60 Charter Oak Ave. in Hartford, with free and secure parking on the premises. Door prizes will be awarded, and a cash bar and dance floor will be available. Records by Gatemouth Brown and other performers will also be on sale. Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door, with $1.50 from each admission going to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Tickets and information are available from Gate's Family of Fans, P.O. Box 963, Manchester, CT 06040, or by calling (203) 649-2534. 2534.

Bill sings for himself

Bill Drummond, former owner of Merseyside's influential Zoo label in the '70s, has surprised everyone by releasing an album of his own. With help from Australian indie favourites the Triffids, Drummond recorded "The Man" "in a week" in a village hall in wildest Scotland: Released on Creation Records, it's one of the U.K. critics' records of last year.

Drummond started life playing in the legendary Big In Japan, the outfit that spawned Frankie Goes To Hollywood's Holly Johnson, (among others). Together with keyboard player Dave Balfe, he formed Zoo and, by mortgaging his house, presented the earliest recordings of the Teardrop Explodes and Echo and the Bunnymen, as well as a now-rare compilation of Scott Walker recordings modestly entitled The God-like Genius.

Julian Cope, former Teardrop Explodes singer who wrote the sleeve notes for the Walker record, immortalized Drummond in his song "Bill Drummond Says." Now Bill has, replied in kind with "Julian Cope Is Dead," a reflection on the popularity of deceased pop stars and a tongue-in-cheek invitation to Cope to end it all!

Fan records tribute to Annette Funicello

Vince Smith, a country-western singer from Pottsville, Penn., has just released a single on Four Winds Records entitled "My Annette," which he dedicated to his idol and friend, Annette Funicello.

Smith, a fan of Funicello for the past 32 years, always wanted to make records. He got his chance last June when he, along with his partner, Ricky Smith, recorded their first country album, Old Country Love Songs. From the album came a solo, a song that he long wanted to do. When he wrote Guy Hemric in 1984 about writing a song about Funicello, Hemric was happy to do it, as he had written many songs for her when she was doing beach party movies.

When the record was finished and sent to Funicello, she called Smith on Jan. 2, to wish him happy new year and to say that she was honored to have a song about her.

Soap opera star revives hit

One of the less pleasant chart trends in the UK last year was a glut of singles from stars of the TV soap opera EastEnders. A vocal version of the Simon May theme tune by actress Anita Dobson made #4, while Nick Berry's rendition of May's "Every Loser Wins" made it to the top slot. No less than four other EastEnders actors have tried their luck at pop stardom, but Wendy Richard can claim to have been first to chart — back in 1962!

Richard, then an unknown actress, added her vocal talents to Mike Sarne's #1 hit "Come Outside" — the year after Mike Berry hit the charts with "I Remember Buddy Holly." Now the two have linked up to re-record the Sarne hit, for which Richard was paid the sum of £7.50 (then $20) as a session fee.

Berry's group, the Outlaws, included several British rock luminaries including Chas Hodges, later of Heads, Hands, and Feet and now one half of Chas'n'Dave. After Mike's musical fortunes faded, he became a comedy actor . . . which is where we came in!

Seventies survivors surface

The past couple of months have seen a number of names from the British rock scene of the '70s reappearing under different guises. First is Aylesbury lunatic John Otway who, with guitarist Wild Willy Barrett, delighted new wave audiences with such redoutable favorites as "Really Free" (a one-off UK chart hit) and a cover of Bob Lind's "Cheryl's Going Home." Otway's rendition of "The New Jerusalem" — his first major label release since a brief pact with Polydor — coincides with a role in the TV comedy series Supergran, while other recent television appearances have included commercials for lemonade!

On a slightly less manic note, bass player Darryl Hunt from one-time Stiff recording act Plummet Airlines has replaced Cait O'Riordan with new-wave folksters the Pogues, who currently inhabit the same label. O'Riordan, whose alter ego is Mrs. Elvis Costello, has apparently taken up further education classes, according to a spokesman. She and Hunt played together in a short-lived Pogues spinoff group, Pride of the Cross.

Collectible Costello

Elvis Costello is one of several distinguished artists to contribute to It's A Live-In World, a double LP compilation designed to raise funds to fight heroin addiction in the UK.

Costello offers his first officially recorded version of Richard Thompson's "End Of The Rainbow," a doomy track cut by its writer on 1973's I Want to See The Bright Lights Tonight and used as the closing song to Costello's solo tour in 1984. Costello fans will recall that another equally pessimistic Thompson song, "Withered And Died," backed his recording of "Peace In Our Time," released in 1984 under the nom de disque of the Imposter.

Another notable track on the collection, released by EMI, is a duet by the Icycle Works' Ian McNabb and ex-Wah! singer Pete Wylie. Their rendition of Neil Young's "The Needle And The Damage Done" was originally cut for a Liverpool anti-heroin project that was subsequently shelved. Coincidentally, fellow Liverpudlians Paul McCartney and Ringo Starr also appear on the album.

Cliff censors himself

Veteran British rocker Cliff Richard has censored live video footage of his chart-topping hit "Livin' Doll." Richard re-recorded his 1959 classic last year with alternative comedy team the Young Ones in the cause of Comic Relief — the British comedy actors' charity fund for Ethiopia.

Richard even took a break from his run in Dave Clark's theatrical extravaganza Time to perform the song live with the Young Ones, but apparently objects to its inclusion on a 90-minute videotape of the Shaftesbury Theatre shows "because the rest of the material was unsuitable." Richard's stance (he is a born-again Christian) is perhaps understandable given the title of the collection: The Utterly, Utterly Rude Video!

All parties appear to be satisfied with the solution which, of course, will leave early purchasers with a Cliff collectors' item. The revised release now features Bob Geldof singing the song with the zany foursome, while the video itself has topped the U.K. sales charts for the past month . . . with starving Ethiopians the ultimate beneficiaries.

Indie Island comes of age

Island Records, one of the all-time great independent labels, is celebrating its 25th Anniversary by bringing dozens of classic albums back onto its catalogue at budget prices in the U.K. Among the records to have been re-released already are Cat Stevens' Tea For The Tillerman, the Wailers' Catch A Fire, John Martyn's Solid Air, Sandy Denny's The North Star, Grassman And The Ravens and best-of collections from the Spencer Davis Group and Mott The Hoople (Rock 'n' Roll Queen).

These discs are available in their original artwork, with only the current Island label and a discreet gold Island life: "25 Years" monogram in the top right corner of the sleeve distinguishing them from the original issue. Island, who were instrumental in popularizing reggae in Britain with Jimmy Cliff and Bob Marley, also played host to progressive rock in King Crimson and Traffic as well as providing a home for folk-rockers Fairport Convention and the aforementioned John Martyn. A book and, possibly, a video are planned to complete the celebrations for Chris Blackwell and his long-running label.

Historical albums and songs receive Grammy nominations

Atlantic Rhythm and Blues, 1947-1974, Vol. 1-7 by various artists, Bob Dylan's Biograph, The Complete Keynote Collection (334 jazz performances by various artists of the '40s), The Mapleson Cylinders by various Metropolitan Opera artists (Rogers and Hammerstein Archives), and Frank Sinatra's The Voice: The Columbia Years 1943-1952 are the finalists in the Grammy Awards Best Historical Album category.

Six more songs have also been inducted into the Grammy Hall of Fame - songs of qualitative or historical significance released before the 1958 advent of the Grammy Awards. They are: "And The Angels Sing" by Benny Goodman and his Orchestra (Victor, 1939); the Complete String Quartets (all six of them) by Bela Bartok as played by the Juilliard Quartet (Columbia, 1950); Fats Domino's classic "Blueberry Hill" (Imperial, 1956); the Ink Spots' moody version of "If I Didn't Care" (Decca, 1939); Maria Callas and others in a version of the Puccini opera "Tosca" (Angel, 1953); and Mary Martin and Ezio Pinza featured in the Original Broadway Cast recording of "South Pacific" (Columbia, 1949). The six new additions bring the total of 67 recordings in the Hall of Fame.

The Grammy Awards will be presented on Tuesday, Feb. 24. Now in their 29th year, the Grammys are awarded in 68 categories.

Bob Grossweiner

Mandrake Memorial
Pioneering electronic rock band

by Mark Steven Brooks

As we all know, the year 1967 saw the emergence of psychedelic music and fashion from all around the United States. For whatever reasons, most of the East Coast bands never received the media attention and financial backing given to those from the West Coast, and their followings tended to be a loyal and "in" few.

One such band was the Mandrake Memorial. Using the sounds and forms common to acid rock backwards guitars, harpsichords, electronic sounds, feedback, orchestral collages, sitars, minor modes and extended improvisation they managed to create a language of their own, devoid of much of the political, spiritual and social rhetoric and dogma characteristic of much of the music of that time. Their songs — about rainy days and dolphins, imaginary birds and psychological inquiry — are characterized by a sense of fantasy and sensitive poetic imagery delivered with a kind of lyrical intensity and a touch of soulful melancholy.

The following interview with former Mandrake Memorial guitarist Craig Anderton took place in 1985. Anderton is a musician who has not ceased growing and exploring. Following the breakup of Mandrake in 1970 he formed an electronic music trio called Anomoli, and in the mid '70s was responsible for producing three albums of music by classical guitarist Linda Cohen. He is well known as a designer of musical electronics for rock musicians and (through his many books, and as a columnist for Guitar Player and many other magazines) as a reviewer and commentator on the world of advanced musical technology. He is naturally more interested in the present than he is about rehashing the past, and it was sometimes difficult to keep him from detouring into the world of computer software and MIDI keyboards. For the purposes of this interview all such comments were excluded. He is currently one-half of an electronic performing duo called Transmitter, which this past fall made its performing debut (Anderton's first live performance in 13 years).

Goldmine: Why don't we begin by getting some background information on the band?

Craig Anderton: Well, there had been a band in Philadelphia called Cat's Cradle prior to Mandrake that had Michael Katz in it; a club was opening up in Philadelphia called the Trauma and they were looking to put together a house band. I was in another band at the time in college called the Flowers Of Evil (after the Baudelaire book), and the guy who was sort of managing Michael said, "Hey, we're putting together this house band if you want to join." And it seemed like a good deal at the time because I didn't want to spend any more time in college.

Goldmine: Were you studying music in college?

Craig Anderton: No, I was studying electrical engineering. I did that for a semester, then I was an English major, then I found that I really didn't like college. I was much more interested in the electronics and music stuff and there weren't any real places you could go at that time to study these subjects. So, anyway, they got me sort of signed on and then I think it was someone from Lothar and the Hand People who actually recommended Randy (Monaco) and Kevin (J. Kevin Lally). They sort of came as a pair; you know, the rhythm section. They joined the band and I guess we did our first gig in the summer of '67. It was fairly early in the summer.

Goldmine: Do you recall where that was?

Craig Anderton: That was at the Trauma. We played at the Trauma steadily for the first year we were together and got on the road only occasionally. The second year we did a lot more playing outside of Philadelphia. We played all the clubs in New York; The Electric Circus, Cafe Wha and all those places.

Goldmine: How did you come up with the name for the band?

Craig Anderton: I think it was sort of a down-to-the-wire decision and we really couldn't come up with a name. One of the artists at the Second Fret, a Philadelphia folk club, did a poster for a group that had this picture of Mandrake the Magician on it, and so we thought, "Gee, we'll call the group Mandrake or something." It was like we had to have a name, and there were only a few hours to go before we had to settle on something before they started putting together our ad, so we called it the Mandrake Memorial and it stuck. You could get away with those things in the '60s. It got shortened to Mandrake later on; that's what everybody called it anyway.

Goldmine: How did your record contract with Poppy come about?

Craig Anderton: I don't really remember how we got hooked up with Poppy. We had a manager and he was always, of course, looking for gigs and labels and stuff like that, and Kevin Eggers from Poppy was interested in us. At that time we had a pretty hot reputation in Philadelphia and we figured well, what the hell, we can sell some albums. In fact, when the first album came out, and when the Nazz's first album came out, we outsold the Nazz album by 10-to-1.

Goldmine: How was Poppy with your distribution? Did they handle that well?

Craig Anderton: No artist is ever going to tell you that their record company does a good job on distribution and I'm no exception. They did the best they could; I certainly don't have any animosity towards them. They did a reasonably good job promoting the band. I think the band itself had some real limitations. On the last tour we did before the band broke up it was really a hassle 'cause Randy was drinking a lot, Kevin was often on speed and I was stuck in the middle. I basically felt that the band didn't have much of a future in terms of personality, and if I had been the record company I would definitely have kissed it off after that.

Goldmine: Which of the albums were you most happy with?

Craig Anderton: Oh boy, I would have to say the first one because it captured the feeling best, although it didn't capture the sound. The second album (Medium) was kind of a problem because the band was in transition. Michael had left. He had been on the basic tracks and split during the mixing and so it never had a very cohesive feel to it. On the one hand I kind of felt that the keyboards should be in there but the record company was like, "Well, you know, what happens when you go on tour? People are going to be used to hearing the songs with the keyboard." So, we never did reconcile that. There were keyboards on some things and not on others. I was never really too happy with the way we were recorded. I thought Puzzle was a big improvement in terms of the recording but even that was done in a little 8-track studio over a Chinese restaurant in New York City.

Goldmine: What about the orchestrations?

Craig Anderton: That was all done on one or two tracks of the 8-track; a lot of bouncing and stuff like that. The guy who did the engineering on that was Brooks Arthur. I thought he was a real good engineer, still is. I wish he had produced the album; the producer we had and I didn't get along that well.

Goldmine: Who was that?

Craig Anderton: A guy named Ron Frangipane.

Goldmine: Did he produce all three albums?

Craig Anderton: No, just Puzzle. To tell you the truth I was not happy with a lot of Puzzle. I thought a lot of it was overblown and overproduced. We did that material live in a much more powerful way, but they were really trying for some kind of commercial shot on that album and I think they made some wrong aesthetic decisions. Also, a wrong decision as to what was going to be commercial. I'm still very happy with the material on it. I wrote most of the songs on it even though we always credited the group for song writing. I'm real proud of a lot of that material. I would love to be able to go back and remix it. I'll tell you, the recording that I'm most happy with is a cassette that I have where someone stuck a tape recorder up in front of the stage at an outdoor concert we did, I don't remember where, and it sounded real good. It reminds me of what the group sounded like. I don't think anyone else could listen to it because there's like nothing over 5 KHz, but it sounded like to me what the group was all about; almost jazz-like moments where there was a lot of improvisation going on.

Goldmine: Is there any chance of that tape ever being released?

Craig Anderton: Oh no, no, I don't even know if it's in playable condition anymore. There's also a live album that's in the vaults at RCA somewhere and, did you ever hear the single? We put out a single of "Something In The Air," you know, the Thunderclap Newman song; a real whacked out version of that on the A-side and then the B-side was a song I wrote called "Musical Man." It had a great cover and climbed to like No. 20 on the college radio stations and that was about it.

Goldmine: Did Mandrake ever go to Europe?

Craig Anderton: We did go to England. We cut our third album over in England. It's kind of a strange story.

Goldmine: That would be the Puzzle album?

Craig Anderton: Yeah, it was actually pre-Puzzle. We went over there to do our third album and we hooked up with Shel Talmy and he hated the synthesizer. I unpacked and he looked at me and he said, "What's that box?" I said, "It's a musical instrument." He just kind of walked away like "God, what's wrong with these people?" At that time we had some electronic drums and things like that. This was 1969 and it was pretty radical for those days. I had a little portable synthesizer before the minimoog and everything. It was also equipment that I had built, it looked kind of non-commercial. So, we went over there to do this album and Shel Talmy signed off and he got an associate of his to do this album and his associate just kind of stood there and went, "Yeah, that's real good." He didn't really put in much input.

Randy had just gone for his Army physical about two weeks before we left for England and he had really been flipped out by the experience. He was in somewhat bad shape, and we had to come up with this album. We also had a whole bunch of gigs lined up but at that time there was some kind of problem between the British and the American musicians union and the British were retaliating by not letting Americans play there. So, we went over there and cut this album and then all the gigs fell through. It was kind of a strange thing. Incidentally, Shel Talmy is now living in L.A. and very much into computers. I talked to him recently and we had a good laugh about our initial encounter.

Goldmine: Did that British album turn out to be the Puzzle album or an album that was never released?

Craig Anderton: It was an album that was never released. There were a lot of songs on it that ended up being on Puzzle but what we had done was we had taken a strange direction. We used a lot of acoustic instruments, highly electronic and highly acoustic sound as well, along with the regular rock kind of presentation. The record companies thought it was too off-the-wall. They basically shelved it and said, "Why don't you re-do it?" And of course a few months later Crosby, Stills and Nash hit real big and acoustic guitars were selling in music stores again and everything, so it's funny how these things happen. Yeah, a lot of stuff on Puzzle did come from the English album.

Goldmine: Were there any other bands at that time that you felt especially simpatico with?

Craig Anderton: Well, I think when we were a four-piece we had a lot in common texturally with the Doors because of the classical influence on the keyboard. You know, people who are into Bach, as Michael was, tend to play a certain way. I loved Hendrix and still do; I think he was great. But, I think we kind of carved out our own territory. It struck me as kind of pre-Yes; strange time changes, lots of keyboards, electronics and all that. I think we were more similar to the music that came afterwards. You know, whenever we played, the reactions we got were extremely polarized. People either loved it or hated it.

Goldmine: The band must have really had something to get that kind of reaction.

Craig Anderton: I thought so. I'll tell you, none of the albums come close to what we sounded like on a good night live, especially when we were a three-piece. What we did was we played one continuous set. We got on and we said, "Hi, we're the Mandrake Memorial," and that was the last thing we said to the audience. We just played continuous music for up to an hour-and-a-half or so; there were no pauses. We had orchestrated little transitions that went between the songs, so it was like one large Wagnerian kind of suite or something. We took a tremendous amount of chances that people just do not take anymore and it made it exciting for me. It also made us fall on our ass a couple of times but that's part of the deal.

I'm not one who's prone to nostalgia that much because what's happening now is just really exciting, but the one thing that I truly do miss is that those were experimental times. You could get on stage and you could do what you wanted to do and the audience would be supportive. Both the audience and the musicians were supportive; it was a very free kind of scene. It was OK to go up there and make a couple of mistakes as long as you did something that was real cool at some point.

You know, we played with just about everybody at one point or another, being a second act. One of the more interesting gigs we played was with the Association in New Jersey 'cause it was a family type of audience. The kids were all lappin' it up and the parents were horrified. I could tell you all sorts of stories about a lot of rock bands. One of my most vivid memories is of a gig with Janis Joplin. She was just incredibly insecure; she'd done this great set and she came off and was grabbing people saying, "Wasn't I great, wasn't I great?" like she really needed to be told that. It was kind of sad, you know. And the Mothers were great to play with. They were real cool people, especially Ray Collins, the singer. We did a week with Procol Harum in Chicago. They were a very underrated live band; they were excellent live. They had real power. You get the impression from the albums that they were kind of like a chamber ensemble up on stage but they were a very, very powerful group.

Goldmine: I would think you would have been a good double bill with Procol Harum.

Craig Anderton: Yeah, it went over real well because people who came to see them tended to also like us. But, the other thing is, we double-billed with a lot of blues musicians like Buddy Guy and people like that. You would think that something like that would not work out at all, but back in those days people were a lot more adventuresome musically. I think a lot of the audience regarded it as a real desirable thing 'cause they could see two completely different kinds of music. You just don't see that anymore.

Goldmine: It reminds me of early Pink Floyd concerts that I've heard about, not only in that respect but also in the long continuous sets that they used to do, in the free improvisation and also the fact that they were also a house band for a long time (at the UFO club in London).

Craig Anderton: Well, as a matter of fact you mentioned bands that we were simpatico with; I would say that Pink Floyd was definitely up there. We hung out with them for a little bit when they first toured again after Syd Barrett wasn't with the group anymore.

Goldmine: Mandrake, I think, was very clearly a psychedelic band. Were hallucinogenics an important influence on the band?

Craig Anderton: No, as a matter of fact. Well, it depends on which person in the band you're talking about; it was with Kevin and Randy. I was definitely the straightest of the lot. I was playing acid rock and I had never taken acid. The reason why is that I had known people who had, and they all seemed pretty wiped out. I really didn't want to have a part of that. It just wasn't my style: having a hold on reality is tenuous enough as it is. I certainly enjoyed smoking pot, but Kevin and Randy and the other hand were very much into it, and Michael was not into anything at all except occasional drinking. So, as far as being an influence on the band, I would say that we were pretty lightweight compared to a lot of stuff that was going on at the time.

Goldmine: I was thinking earlier about the many factors which contributed to the unique sound that Mandrake had. I think one of those factors was the way in which Kevin Lally approached the drum set. He played the drums as if they were a melodic instrument.

Craig Anderton: Yeah, Kevin was a great drummer, I thought. He had a hard time keeping time sometimes but the one thing he did, which people really didn't do so much at that time, was he really tuned his drums. He spent a lot of time tuning them and he used Sonor drums, which were the only things that would withstand his playing. He wasn't a real basher kind of drummer but he used to go through drum sets at an incredible rate and I'm not really sure why. He didn't pound them but he just used the hell out of them.

Kevin's selling insurance now. He got completely out of the music scene, got into a family and all that. Michael is now teaching somewhere in Minnesota. Randy died a few months ago (of cirrhosis of the liver). Of all the people in the band, he was the one I think I really cared for the most. Randy was almost psychically attuned as a bass player. I could change keys, I could throw in weird inversions, I could do anything and he could always deal with it. In fact, it sometimes was hard to say who was feeding off of who. That was the magic that really made the band happen, that was the best part for me; those nights where everyone was totally tuned and the audience was just rapt and it was great.

Hamilton 4-speed record players
An equipment review

by Peter Grendysa

Collectors with large or small numbers of 78s, or those interested in adding 78s to their collections, can forget about the problem of finding a suitable and economical player for those shellac antiques. The Hamilton Electronics Corp. still manufactures a satisfyingly wide range of self-contained 4-speed record players, and some of them have advanced features certain to please the most picky collector.

All of the Hamilton players have a superficial resemblance to those dime store "suitcase" type kiddie players that usually sold for $39, but there is really no comparison. Their players are intended for the rough life of dance studios, schools, and aerobics classes.

Construction of the Hamilton players includes a ⅜-inch plywood case, glued and nailed, with a scuff-resistant vinyl covering and metal corner reinforcements. Being self-contained, they are supplied with a luggage-type cover and carrying handle, and their compact size makes them ideal for toting around to swap meets and record conventions, although you will need a place to plug them in. To add to the bomb-proof philosophy, the speaker grills are "kick-proof" steel (don't kick the record player, shoot the piano player).

The motor board under the turntable is steel with a baked enamel surface and most models offer a steel turntable covered with a rubber mat. Under all of this armor is a state-of-the-art integrated solid state multi-stage amplifier with a frequency response of 30-20,000 hz. Controls include bass, treble and compensated volume, the stereo cartridge included is ceramic with a sapphire stylus (best for 78s), and distortion is less than 0.1% with -65db hum and noise.

Starting at the bottom of the line, the Model 910 offers all four speeds and a built-in 4x10-inch speaker with tone control. It weighs a mere 10 pounds and has a built-in 45rpm adaptor on the turntable. A speaker/headphone jack allows the use of external speakers, and the machine sells for $131.25.

Moving up a notch, Model 930 adds a 6x9-inch dual-cone speaker, a floating motor board, "power on" light, and a pause control. It sells for $162.75. When you get the Model 933, you get separate bass and treble controls and the price is $173.25.

In all, six models of four-speed players are currently available and the top of the line is Model 935M-VS. For $273, the 935M has a 10 watt output, all the above goodies, a lighted strobe, and variable speed. That last item is of special interest to collectors of pre-war 78s, many of which were actually recorded at 80rpm. It also has some value for fiddling with the speed of more modern records, some of which were speeded-up or slowed down by the engineers and record companies. The Model 935M variable speed control is fully solid state, impervious to line voltage flucuations, and provides a control range of -30 to +50%.

The Hamilton players are available directly from the manufacturer: Hamilton Electronics, 2003 W. Fulton St., Chicago, IL 60612, (312) 421-5442, and represent excellent values for the collector needing modern and reliable means of playing 78rpm records, or simply a tough, portable machine.

Tell them you saw it in Goldmine.

NRBQ
RC Cola and a Moon Pie
Red Rooster/Rounder (3090)

LITTLE AL
Red Rooster (EP-4)

Box On Wax
Red Rooster (EP-3)

Maybe NRBQ haven't issued an album of all new material since Grooves in Orbit in 1983, but the constantly touring band has kept its ever-growing following content by reissuing out-of-print albums and digging deep into its vaults for some unreleased gems. It's easy to forgive with Scraps, Christmas Wish, Lou and The Q, and their album with country legend Skeeter Davis readily available. Now, with these three slabs of vinyl, we should be further satisfied until NRBQ get into the studio and cut some of the new tunes they continuously tease their audiences with.

Most of RC Cola and a Moon Pie is drawn from their long out-of-print second Kama Sutra album, Workshop. Tom Staley was still on drums and Al Anderson, who was under contract to Vanguard, was only permitted to sing one song yet, due to Joey Spampinato's innocent vocals, Terry Adams' non-stop musical pranks, and a collection of tunes that are warm, rockin', and humorous, those who've grown to appreciate their versatility as musicians in recent years will still be able to dig these early '70s sides. None of this sounds dated, as NRBQ have this timeless quality, which is why each one of their releases remains fresh and entertaining.

Longtime fans who already own Workshop will need this for the few previously unreleased tracks and, especially, to obtain "Sourpuss." This tune was cut in Memphis in 1974 by Johnny Phillips (Sam's brother) for his SOH label. It was only released locally, and, until this reissue, so scarce even NRBQ, who are hardcore record collectors, hadn't located copies. Hopefully down the line, NRBQ will reissue Anderson's material with the Wildweeds and Adams' early sides with Merseybeats U.S.A., as these are also quite collectible. While it would have definitely been nicer to have a reissue of the complete Workshop and an album of outtakes and live material, RC Cola and a Moon Pie is, nevertheless, a true reflection of NRBQ in that there's great music played with wide-eyed youthful enthusiasm. This might not be as consistent as Tiddlywinks, Kick Me Hard, At Yankee Stadium, or Grooves in Orbit, but it's still a good place to begin an NRBQ collection.

Available directly from NRBQ's fan club are two records which are a bit more bizarre than RC Cola and a Moon Pie. The first is an EP by Little Al. No, Big Al Anderson doesn't have a son but, instead, these are sides cut by Al when he was only 10 years old! Admittedly, these sound pretty rough, but anyone who has seen burly Anderson onstage playing his flashy licks and singing in his soulful voice should get a few chuckles from this. Definitely an historical document no NRBQ fan could live without.

Finally there's Bax On Wax. Baxter is longtime Q friend/roadie and he cut these four tunes backed by NRBQ. While it's doubtful his remakes of "Wild One," "I Write The Songs," and "Venus" will cause much of a stir, it's the spirit of these performances, free of commercial restrictions, which gives this EP its charm. Obviously this is intended for fans and not those who haven't caught onto the humor which makes NRBQ one of rock's most special treasures.

THE SEARCHERS
Sweets For My Sweet
Star-Club (SCLP 4.00186J)
(German import)

This live recording was made at Hamburg's Star-Club in 1962, when the club was at its peak, hosting both American stars like Little Richard and Ray Charles and the Liverpool beat groups that have turned the name Star-Club into musical history. Because of the early date of this recording (a reissue of the original 1963 German Phonogram release), the Searchers had not yet developed the folky, harmonic sound they later hit with. But that's just as well, because this stands as a fine documentation of the group's R&B roots. Their first hit, a cover of the Drifters' "Sweets For My Sweet," starts off the LP, which also finds them attempting Ray Charles's "What'd I Say" along with lesser R&B recordings of the day. The sound quality of this white vinyl disc is understandably lo-fi, but that's worth dealing with to get at the rave-up approach which all but disappeared from the Searchers' later — and cleaner — sound.

THE KINKS
Think Visual
MCA (MCA-5822)

Lately, the Kinks have had a nasty habit of lapsing into turgid, hard-rock overkill, but the good news on their latest is that it only happens once (Dave Davies' self-satisfied "Rock 'n' Roll Cities"). The rest of the LP finds the band mining mid-tempo territory with an emphasis on melody and staying clear of sonic excess when they rock out ("Working At The Factory," "Repetition"). The former finds Ray Davies voicing his contempt for the business side of the music world, while the latter takes a jab at complacency in the face of numbing routine. Think Visual is a celebration of the mundane that entertains.

JERRY DALE McFADDEN
Stand and Cast a Shadow
Reptile (RR-1010)

This is a rockin' little record you'll want your jockey to play. McFadden musta spent his life in a honky-tonk listenin' to Jerry Lee, the Everlys, Dave Edmunds, Fats, and more Jerry Lee. McFadden's a piano player who knows how to pump them keys to attention. He plays a mean accordion, some guitar, has a most engaging singing voice, and writes a near rootsy rock 'n' roll tune with just enough country to make sure ya know why the label says Nashville on it. And, as if he doesn't have a handle on the sitch himself, McFadden recruited both Duane Eddy and Jason and the Scorchers' Warner Hodges to pick the strings that he couldn't get to in time. There ain't a song on this record you wouldn't want to play a whole bunch of times and feel better about it each time you do. Dave Edmunds, if you're reading: Produce this man's next record! (With no slight intended for Scott Tutt, who did a bang-up job on this one. But, oh, the possibilities.)

THE MUSIC EXPLOSION
The Very Best Of . . .
Performance (Perf 384)

With the current exploitation of any and all '60s music, the release of an LP by Music Explosion probably should be no exception. Although the band did not contribute a whole lot to the creative shaping of the period, it is to Performance Records' credit that they put together such a nice compilation. Fourteen tracks are included on disc and three more on a bonus-flexi disc as an insert. There is, of course, the obligatory

The Kinks

Ken Lewis-John Carter hit "Little Bit O'Soul" and its follow-up, "Sunshine Games." This is an extremely tough garage band sound and does not purport to be anything more. Some cuts are in stereo while others seem to be tapes of discs but, considering the rarity of some of these lost singles, they are to be forgiven. If you were into this group, you'll be amazed at the generosity of this record label.

Rhino's latest volumes of '60s psychedelic-era gems offer their share of truly transcendental moments. Volume 8, The Northwest, offers up old favorites ("Louie, Louie," "Just Like Me") alongside a wealth of obscurities. These range from the dreamy balladic splendor of the Daily Flash's "Violets Of Dawn" to the mean rhythm guitar buzz that powers the Wailers' "Hang Up."

Volume 9, Acid Rock, is better still. Though obviously awash in druggie references, at its best the music itself has a way of lifting you up to the proverbial higher plane. There's the Monkees' "Porpoise Song," a dreamy moment of inspired silliness, Love's galloping "7 And 7 Is" and the West Coast Pop Art Experimental Band's wonderfully stupid "I Won't Hurt You." All this and "Eight Miles High" and "Incense And Peppermints" too.

Volume 10, Folk Rock, is probably the best collection here. The Peanut Butter Conspiracy's buoyant "It's A Happening Thing" and the even cheerier Mamas-and-Papas-styling of the Sunshine Company's "Back On the Street Again" vie with the likes of "Eve Of Destruction," the Byrds' "Mr. Tambourine Man" and Scott McKenzie's "San Francisco."

Volume 11, Pop, contains the Third Rail's caustic stab at workaholics ("Run, Run, Run") sung in real choirboy fashion, Fever Tree's feedback-drenched "San Francisco Girls," and timeless gems like the Left Banke's "Pretty Ballerina" and the Grass Roots' "Live For Today."

Volume 12, Punk, gives new meaning to the word primitive, with emphasis on frantic rave-ups (the Woolies' "Who Do You Love," Mouse and the Traps' "Maid Of Sugar, Maid Of Spice"). Rhino's continuing psychedelic treasure hunts offer some of the best buys of this or any year.

DURUTTI COLUMN
Valuable Passages
Relativity (88561-8123-1)

Durutti Column is one person, English guitarist Vini Reilly. He's been releasing records for the Factory label in the U.K. since 1979 but this two-LP comp is his first domestic collection. The material compiled here stretches back to his first U.K album, but the four sides cohere nicely; someone unfamiliar with Reilly's work would have difficulty detecting any changes in approach over the years. Whether that's good or bad largely depends on whether one is a fan of atmospheric guitar soundscapes put through various synthetic treatments. Yeah, right, these days it's called new age, but Reilly has been at it long before the trend, and, frankly, he puts more heart into the concept, thereby making it rather more tolerable than the wallpaper merchants who've appeared on record store shelves and in elevators in the past couple of years. There's the occasional low-key vocal here, an added musician or two there, but the basic deal: "nice" background music made mostly with unobtrusive electric guitar, never extends beyond its self-professed bounds.

This collection of British garage bands includes both live and LP tracks from a variety of garage punk and R&B trash outfits. More than anything though, it sounds like the second coming of pub-rock, what with selections by Eddie and the Hot Rods, ex-Dr. Feelgood guitarist Wilko Johnson, the Cannibals and Wreckless Eric (with the Len Bright Combo). Labeling aside, what matters most is that this is a rock-out record, from the surf-punk of the Vulture Squadron to aforementioned Hot Rods' smashing live "Teenage Depression." Johnson's "Wooly Bully" and the Tattooed Love Boys' "Route 66" give the LP a slow start, coming off as lazy throwaways, but the pace quickly quickens and, by the time it winds up, this'll leave ya breathless. Recording quality could be better, but this is garage we're talking about, so who cares?

Sixteen cuts comprise this neat little package from EMI London. You get what it promises: "World Without Love," "I Don't Want To See You Again," "Woman," "True Love Ways," and all the later singles, including the Ken Lewis-John Carter tune "Sunday For Tea." Most everything is in stereo except, curiously, Lennon-McCartney's "Nobody I Know" and Del Shannon's "I Go To Pieces." The extra cuts include songs like "Baby I'm Yours" and "Crying In The Rain," which are not thrilling by these guys. No surprises here but a nice color photo does grace the cover.

JULIAN COPE
Julian Cope
Island (90560-1)

Julian Cope has not had an easy time of it since his days with the Teardrop Explodes, one of the early '80s bands that was supposed to trigger a second Liverpool resurgence. Cope's solo forays took on a schizophrenic nature which is still in evidence on this five-song EP.

The first side features two instantly likable, though very much opposite, songs — one an MTV-type dance club rocker, the other a garage-tinged number. Unfortunately, side two does not match this potential and displays little more than a few derivative melodies and throwaway droning.

Cope was never a consistently good writer. Yet he always managed to draw up a neat riff when needed. It's good to see that, after an extended absence, he's back to recording his own material.

SST (043)

SST Records has always been one of the more collector-minded punk indies, releasing cassette-only LPs, non-LP 45s, etc. This sampler is the second from the label that includes previously unreleased material by the majority of its roster, including the now-major label Husker Du, the defunct Black Flag and Minutemen, and the desert-rat rootsmen the Meat Puppets. Most of the bands opt for original material, while D.C. 3 contributes a fairly straight ahead version of Mountain's "Theme From An Imaginary Western." Granted, there are throwaways, but who's gonna complain about 15 bands at $3.49 list price?

Irma Thomas

IRMA THOMAS
Break-A-Way: The Best Of Irma Thomas
EMI American (ST 17213)

Irma Thomas is an seldom recognized soul artist; she is not included in the Rolling Stone Encyclopedia of Rock & Roll, even though many lesser-known r&b artists are documented. Bread-A-Way chronicles Thomas' records on the Imperial, Minit, and Bandy labels and includes brief, but caring, liner notes. The years 1962-65 are documented on this Legendary Master Series anthology.

Thomas was born in Ponchatoula, Louisiana and raised in New Orleans, so it was only natural for her to sign with New Orleans' Minit Records. She recorded Ernie K. Doe's "I Done Got Over It" and Allen Toussaint's (penned under his alias Naomi Neville) "It's Raining" and "Ruler Of My Heart," which was later recorded by Otis Redding as "Pain In My Heart." All three songs displayed Thomas as an earthy soul singer.

When Minit was absorbed by Imperial Records, Thomas went along for the ride. She had her her first and only hit (#17 pop in 1964) with "Wish Someone Would Care." The intriguing "Time Is On My Side" appeared as side B of "Anyone Who Knows What Love Is," but is better known by the Rolling Stones. Both versions were released in 1964.

"I Haven't Got Time To Cry" showcased Thomas as a soul shouter with the finest of the day, one of the two gems on the album along with Van McCoy's "Take a Look." On the other hand, "Some Things You Never Get Used To" displayed Thomas in the Dionne Warwick ballad mold, while "Look Up" had pop overtones and "Ruler of My Heart" was a tender ballad.

"Look Up" was scheduled for release my Minit but, when the label was sold to Imperial, the Toussaint-penned song wound up on a Thomas compilation on Bandy Records.

Break-A-Way aptly documents a soul singer who readily deserves a greater place in the history of music than she has gotten.

THE MONOTONES
Who Wrote the Book of Love?
Murray Hill (000180)

Who Wrote The Book of Love? by the Monotones is another fine compilation LP of rare East Coast Doo-Wop by Murray Hill Records of New York City. Once again, they've struck gold. The Monotones only hit was, of course, the vocal group classic "Book Of Love," but national charts hardly begin to tell the story of one of the unique-sounding vocal quintets in rock 'n' roll history. The Monotones were from Newark, New Jersey, and consisted of Charles Patrick, George Malone, Warren Davis, Frank Smith, John Ryanes, and James Patrick.

"Book Of Love" appears on the LP twice, both in original form and as an alternate take from their first session. With the Monotones patented triple bass and irresistable hooks, they define a style of uptempo group harmony singing that would be copied over and over again throughout the late '50s and early '60s. The Monotones made rock 'n' roll fun. Their great nonsense background sounds and full harmonies work fantastically behind uptempo creations like "The Legend Of Sleepy Hollow," "Zombi", and "Ride Of Paul Revere." In fact, "The Legend Of Sleepy Hollow" was reworked into "Rip Van Winkle" by the Devotions, which charted in early 1964 (during the British invasion, no less). These guys sound like they're having a great time on "Tell It To The Judge" and a real treat, the previously unreleased "What Would You Do If There Wasn't Any Rock And Roll."

The Monotones can sing ballads too. Listen to their spread harmony on "Soft Shadows," "Dreams," or "You Never Loved Me," the latter originally the flip to "Book Of Love."

Murray Hill Records, as usual, has produced a great-sounding LP. Working with mostly the original master tapes, the sound quality is outstanding for an LP of this style. In fact, my only complaint is that they quite often use alternate takes rather than the single-released versions of songs. I would rather have had the single releases of the great "Reading The Book Of Love" and "Tom Foolery" than alternate takes, but they probably sound almost identical. Great liner notes and a complete session history fill out a great LP.

The Valentines

THE VALENTINES
The Best of the Valentines
Murray Hill (000202)

The Best of the Valentines, released by Murray Hill Records of New York City, is the first LP ever put together on one of New York's most noted vocal groups. Their release for George Goldner's Rama Records in 1955 was the classic street song "Lily Maebell" which is one of those doo-wop tunes that can cause the listener to almost visualize long shadows of wire-meshed play grounds, shooting baskets on hot summer nights in the old neighborhood. True urban folk music, the original Rama singles of this group are some of the finest examples of street corner harmony ever waxed.

The Best of the Valentines contains all but two sides of their original Rama singles, plus four previously unreleased tunes. Most of the Valentines recordings were lead by Richard Barrett, later to become a talent scout, producer, and assistant for George Goldner and his complex of labels (Rama/ Gee/ End/ Gone plus many others). Barrett ran into a group called the Dreamers at a house party in a part of Harlem known as Sugar Hill, up by the Polo Grounds. The Dreamers (Raymond Briggs, tenor, Carl Hogan, second tenor, Mickey Francis, baritone, Ronnie Bright, bass) teamed up with Richard, changed their name to the Valentines, and headed for Old Town Records where they recorded "Tonight Kathleen"/ "Summer Love." Next stop was Rama Records in the summer of 1955 and "Lily Maebelle" which took off on the East Coast.

Best of The Valentines is a listening pleasure. Check out the rocking "Woo Woo Train" with some of the fastest tenor sax I've ever heard by session leader Jimmy Wright. Or turn the lights low and sway with your girl to the beautiful balladry of "Nature's Creation" (alternate version of the original but just as sweet) or "Twenty Minutes," or the Carl hogan lead "Don't Say Goodnight." Also on the LP is a theme tag recorded for Boston disc jockey Joe Smith (that's gotta be a show-biz name) which is a call-and-response street theme that is surprisingly fun listening.

Murray Hill's sound quality is excellent, taken from the original session tapes. Much of the chatter preceding the take is left in. Also excellent is the packaging with complete session data which should be rule-of-thumb for all reissue projects. The Best Of The Valentines is a winner.

CHARLES & INEZ FOXX:
Mockingbird: The Best Of Charles & Inez Foxx
EMI America (SQ-17243)

With 16 classic tracks, this Legendary Master Series album is a bargain. From the brother-and-sister duo's chestnut "Mockingbird" (#7 on the pop charts in 1963) to the lesser-known songs, the music is quite delightful. While "Mockingbird" had a pop/novelty oeuvre, "Don't Do It No More" had an alluring sensuality, "Hurt By Love" had a fuller orchestration with Inez shouting and Charlie singing deeper in the production, and "Selling Here" was more soulful. "I Fancy You" was a great groove duet, and the infectious "Ask Me" had a backing vocal chorus.

For the most part, Inez and Charlie Foxx were a vocal duo that employed a simple instrumentation allowing Inez's voice to override the production. Occasionally they tried to recreate "Mockingbird." "Broken Hearted Fool" contains the "Mockingbird" melody with Charlie singing under Inez's voice, but the track was a pale imitation.

Most of the material here, which is not properly documented in the liner notes, comes from Symbol Records. "Hi Diddle Diddle," "Hurt By Love," "I Stand Accused," "(1-2-3-4-5-6-7) Count the Days," and "Tightrope" are conspicuously missing from the anthology.

When the recorded for Musicor Records, Charlie freelanced and produced Gene Pitney's 1968 #16 hit, "She's a Heartbreaker." Two years later, the duo split up as a team. Inez recorded for Volt Records briefly and had some minor chart action. Neither Charlie nor Inez has any desire to resume their recording careers.

Mockingbird contains some wonderful music and shows that Charlie & Inez Foxx were more than one-hit wonders and more than novelty singers.

THE WRENS
The Best of the Wrens
Murray Hill (000199)

The Best of The Wrens is a fine compilation by one of the rarest of the George Goldner label groups (Rama/ Gee/ End/ Gone and many others). As mentioned in the liner notes, the original recordings (singles) of these tunes would cost well over $500 if they could be found. That certainly doesn't reflect on the quality of the sound of The Wrens.

George Magnezid, tenor, Francis "Frenchie" Concepcion, tenor, and James "Archie" Archer, bass, came up singing at Community Center 99 in the Bronx with such great ballad groups as the Chords, the Fi-Tones, the Chimes, and Dean Barlow & the Crickets. Looking for a lead singer, they came across Bobby Mansfield, who although younger than the rest of the group had already developed the smooth, polished, ballad lead sound that many of the older more experienced lead singers emulated. The sound that was knockin 'em dead at The Apollo in the early '50s had an abundence of emotion, to be sure, but also retained a detached coolness, unlike gospel. And Bobby Mansfield had the sound.

The Best of the Wrens contains their great uptempo hit (actually their only hit), "Come Back My Love." The group is smooth and super tight and Atlantic Records found the tune good enough to have The Cardinals cover it in mid-1955. Neither version ever took off nationally, probably because rock 'n' roll was still pretty undefined in early 1955.

The group's real strength is definitely their ballads. Check out the gorgeous "Serenade Of The Bells" with the chapel bell sounds or "Beggin' For Love," from their first release from the "Come Back My Love" session. Or listen to the super rare "C'est La Vie" recorded with two of the Valentines, Ronnie Bright and Richard Barrett, and it's hard to understand why these tunes weren't reissued sooner.

Once again Murray Hill had added previously unreleased material to this collection, and it's great. From a 1956 session that was planned as a solo release by Bobby Mansfield, we get, for the first time, "wreckless" and "House Of Cards." Backed by The Wrens, both of these recordings are just beautiful. This group should have gone far but, like so many others it didn't.

It's easy to see and hear that Murray Hill Records have their heart and priorities in the right place. The quality of the LP is superb and complete session information and well researched liner notes round out a great package.

VARIOUS ARTISTS
The Blues, Volume 1
MCA-Chess CH-9253

Originally released as Argo 4026 on May 15, 1963, The Blues, Volume 1 was intended to be a sampler of the Chess/Checker blues chestnuts. Nine artists and 12 tracks were included, and time has shown how important some of these tunes were. Cream became extremely successful covering Howlin' Wolf's "Spoonful," which was a B-side to his "Howlin' For My Darling" (not included here). Another group named itself after Wolf's "Smokestack Lighting." Johnny Winter immortalized Muddy Water's "Hoochie Coochie Man." And Waters' "Just Make Love To Me" was originally issued as "I Just Want To Make Love To You" and covered by the Rolling Stones. Canned Heat based its boogie sound after John Lee Hooker, whose "Walkin' the Boogie" is found here.

Three harmonica players (Sonny Boy Williamson, Little Walter and Wolf), five guitarists (Buddy Guy, Chuck Berry, Hooker, Waters, and Lowell Fulsom), and vocalist Jimmy Witherspoon are included with tracks recorded between 1952 and 1960. The Blues, Volume 1 was the first, and best, of five similar compilations, and one hopes that all five are eventually reissued. Interestingly, nine of the tracks do not appear on any of the initial MCA-Chess reissues and some of the artists have not had any of their albums reissued yet either.

BIG BILL BROONZY AND WASHBOARD SAM
Big Bill Broonzy and Washboard Sam,
MCA-Chess (CH-9251)

This album's listing of tracks is a bit deceptive as it shows that guitarist/vocalist Big Bill Broonzy is on side one, while washboard player/vocalist Washboard Sam (Robert Brown) is on side two. Actually, Broonzy sings on four songs and Sam on the remaining eight. Sam plays on all four of Broonzy's vocal tracks, while Broonzy also plays on three of Sam's vocal tracks. However, the arresting "By Myself" is obviously a duet, but there is no indication in the credits who the other voice is.

Broonzy's stark guitar and strong, affecting vocals, plus Sam's scratchy percussive work make these country blues tunes quite enticing. Recorded in 1953 but originally released on Chess 1468 in 1961 — three years after Broonzy died — Big Bill Broonzy and Washboard Sam captured an evolving era of the blues. While the old rural tradition is quite evident, some of the electric guitar of urban blues is felt as well. Lee Cooper's crisp guitar and Memphis Slim's tingling keyboards are also showcased on an album that is more than a side of each headliner. Studs Terkel wrote the original liner notes.

Ben E. King

BEN E. KING
Stand By Me —
The Best Of Ben E. King And Ben E. King With The Drifters
Atlantic (81716-1)

With Ben E. King stampeding the charts again with "Stand By Me," due to the current movie of the same name, it was only time before Atlantic would issue a King anthology. This 10-track historical perspective does not duplicate 1966's Ben E. King's Greatest Hits (Atco 33-165), which had 12 selections. Included are "Stand By Me" (#4 pop, #10 r&b in 1961), "Spanish Harlem" (#10 pop, #15 R&B in 1961), "Don't Play That Song" (#11 pop, #2 R&B in 1962), "I (Who Have Nothing)" (#29 pop, #16 R&B), "Amor" (#18 pop in 1961), and "Young Boy Blues." Missing are "That's When It Hurts," "Auf Wiedersehen, My Dear," "Around the Corner," "What Now My Love," "How Can I Forget," "I Could Have Danced All Night," and "The Record."

To round out the King perspective, Atlantic has chosen three Drifters' songs: "Save the Last Dance For Me" (#1 in 1960), "This Magic Moment" (#16 in 1960), and "I Count the Tears" (#17 in 1960). One has to ask why 1959's #2 smash "There Goes My Baby" was omitted if Drifters' songs are included. The 10th and last song included is King's 1975 disco era #5 hit "Supernatural Thing (Part I)."

Stand By Me is an excellent sampler of King's solo and group material from the tantalizing "Amor" to the better known chestnuts. This package was probably slapped together so quickly to commercialize the reemergence of the single that Atlantic failed to even offer any liner notes. Considering the fine work the label is doing on its other R&B reissues, one has to be somewhat disappointed with Stand By Me's meager amount of selections and lack of care in the packaging. The music, though, has many magic moments.

MEMPHIS SLIM
Memphis Slim
MCA-Chess (CH-9250)

Originally released as Chess 1455 in 1961, Memphis Slim contains sides recorded for Premium Records in 1950 and 1952 and later purchased by Chess. Although the production was a bit primitive and the disk suffers from surface noises, these rare sides display the two basic trademarks of Memphis Slim: His jazz-tinged barrelhouse blues piano and his strong emotive blues vocals.

As a blues artist, Memphis Slim (Peter Chatman) showed surprising diversity from the jazzy instrumental ("Reverend Bounce") to a slow blues ("Slim's Blues") and on through to a talking blues ("Marack") with its chatter in the background. The barrelhouse piano style, especially on "Havin' Fun," makes Memphis Slim a delightful treat, no matter what mood a listener is in. Slim's "Mother Earth" was an inspiration for Tracy Nelson to call her group Mother Earth, whose recording of that song was a vital revival. Chess was never able to find any information about three of the sides; however, some of the early tunes were recorded as Memphis Slim and the House Rockers. Memphis Slim is a valuable addition to any blues library. Studs Terkel wrote the original liner notes.

THE FIVE PEAKS
Hair Net/Sittin' on the Porch
Jay-R (1000)

This is a 45 rpm single that is garnering some air-play in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and Cleveland. "Hair Net" is an odd novelty tune with an old-timely R&B group sound that is rather appealing. The group is better than the material, however. "Sittin' On The Porch" has all the right elements for a fine 1950's weeper ballad, but the effect is somewhat marred by uneven recording. The Five Peaks are impressive and perhaps a better showcase for their talents will be forthcoming.

A bit pricey at $3.75 from Jay-R Records, Box 253, Macomb, IL 61455

VINTAGE EDITION EP

A four song 45 rpm disc containing previously unreleased R&B vocal group tracks from the 1950s. Stan Beverly and his Hollywood Saxons contribute "Thelisa," a medium tempo ballad with strong backing by the band and group, and a lovely a cappella version of Bobby Byrd's "Gee Whiz." The obscure Bell-Aires possessed a fine female lead singer and their "Tell Me Why" features unobtrusive group backing (supposedly with Jesse Belvin) and energetic onefinger piano by Gaynel Hodge. The Blossoms round out this single and George Matola's "Yellow Moon" has never sounded better done in a deliciously insinuating fashion by the whispery lead singer. You won't find a better way to part with five bucks.

Available from: Action Pac, Box 01473, Los Angeles, CA 90001.

Seeking Newton-John

There was no listing in your fan club section for Olivia Newton-John. Surely, there must be one for her somewhere! I hope so, I'd like to contact it.

Maybe I can get some help with the following: I have, for two years, been seeking the following two Olivia records: 1) A 45 rpm from France titled "Mon Amour, Mon Impossible Amour" and 2) an LP titled Toomorrow by Toomorrow (an early Olivia group). Do these records exist, or am I chasing something I can't get in the first place? One dealer said they were legendary, not real. Hopefully, some Olivia fan out there can help. Thanks.

CD defense written "with a little help from my friends"

After reading the letter from Mr. Frazier in "Please Mr. Postman" (issue #169), I began to "twist and shout." "This boy" needs a "ticket to ride." He has "something" "helter skelter" in each paragraph.

First of all, there hasn't been that much CD coverage in Goldmine. But I've got to admit, it's "getting better."

Next, hasn't this "fool on the hill" heard of Digital Audio & Compact Disc Review (also a fine periodical, "yes it is").

"It won't be long" before digital tape decks appear. But "I want to tell you" that your CD player won't be just an "old brown shoe." Audio stores "across the universe" are selling CD players "eight days a week," because of "every little thing" these machines can do. The CD is a "revolution" in sound and digital tape will only be a partner to it, not a replacement.

Anyone who thinks CD hardware costs a lot of "money" must have been hit by "Maxwell's silver hammer" and be in "golden slumbers" inside a "yellow submarine." That was "yesterday." "Here, there, and everywhere" I see ads for low cost CD players — even "your mother should know" that.

True, the cost of CDs is high. But be fair. Don't compare them to cut-outs and mid-lines. "You can't do that." If we can afford new LP prices, then "we can work it out" to pay the extra cost of CDs. "You won't see me" paying the high prices at some stores. If you do, you must need "help!" I've found that "there's a place" in most cities where you can get CDs for more reasonable prices. With increased sales, it will be likely that CD and LP prices will nearly "come together." But, until then, search "the long and winding road" for the best stores so that all your clothes won't fit in a "matchbox." Besides, "in my life," I don't expect a need to replace a worn-out CD as I would a record. I should be listening to the same clear sound "when I'm 64."

I'm not putting down LPs. They will certainly maintain their part in everyone's music collection. But give CDs (and peace) a chance.

I've spend a "hard day's night" writing about the benefit of CD. I'll have to admit that they have one current drawback, lack of selection, such as Beatles CDs. You can't find them "nowhere, man."

PLAYLIST

Playlist

The "Goldmine Radio Playlist" is a monthly feature in which Goldmine's editors, contributors and readers pick 25 songs from recently released records which are deserving of radio airplay.

The playlist is designed to make disc jockeys and record collectors alike aware of some new recordings which have not been given adequate exposure on the majority of radio stations in the United States. Featured are tracks from independent label albums, EPs and singles, overlooked major label releases, and recent reissues containing classic music that we feel should be programmed along with current music. An asterisk listed before a song title (*) denotes that the record is a current reissue.

Any Goldmine reader can contribute suggestions for the playlist. Any reader wishing to contribute or desiring further information on any of the music listed within, can contact Jeff Tamarkin, Rock Editor, Goldmine, P.O. Box 9, Cathedral Station, New York, NY 10025.

This month's playlist features contributions from Jeff Tamarkin, William Ruhlmann, and Tierney Smith.

Check Your Label

Consult the label on page 1 of this issue of GM The month and year your subscription ends can be found on the second line of the label. These are followed by the actual week of expiration. (Weeks 1-5 come in January, weeks 6-9 come in February, etc.)

A subscription label reading "APR 85/16" means that subscription will expire with the issue dated Apr. 20, 1985. (Note: The "Y" at the start of the line has nothing to do with the expiration date.)

If the month on the label is approaching, it's time to renew!

Please Mr. Postman

Thank you for printing my letter in Goldmine a few months ago regarding Motown and Jay Lasker's request as to what the Motown collectors would like to see released/re-released. I was thrilled to see equally enthusiastic response from other readers, and hope that our input convinces Motown that we are indeed a loyal following who will purchase these recordings once they're made available.

I'd like to thank Gary Bader of Vancouver, B.C., Canada, for his letter (Goldmine, Jan. 30, 1987) of mutual support for a first-time LP release of all those Brenda Holloway and Kim Weston singles. Gary incorrectly stated, however, that Brenda's "When I'm Gone," Kim's "Take Me In Your Arms," and the Marvelettes' "I'll Keep Holding On" were never made available since their original appearance on A Collection of 16 Original Big Hits-Vol. 5. When I'm Gone appears on Hard-To-Find Motown-Vol. 2 (Motown 5391 ML), "Take Me In Your Arms" appears on Every Great Motown Song (Motown 5343 ML), and "I'll Keep Holding On" appears on the Marvelettes Anthology LP (Motown M7-827-S2).

I'd like to make a quick point in defense of Motown (or any other company) regarding the collectors who imply that the release of "stereo" versions should take priority over mono versions. There are many instances where the mono mix is far superior to the stereo mix. A good Motown example is Marvin Gaye's "Little Darling (I Need You)." The mono mix sounds full and rich, and contains some of the sweetest string passages this side of heaven, whereas the stereo version has no strings whatsoever and is really quite dull. Another good example is the mono mix of Martha & the Vandellas' "Quicksand," where the drums on the break are echoed and powerful, but the stereo version sounds weak and shallow. Also, Marvin Gaye & Kim Weston's "What Good Am I Without You," where the mono mix contains handclaps that give the record a certain punch which the stereo version severely lacks. So go easy on the record companies, guys — sometimes they have a good reason for making their decisions as they do.

Observe the Archies' 20th

A group of record collectors, including myself, are trying to organize a national observance of the upcoming 20th anniversary of the Archies. This is for real. September 1988 will mark the passage of two decades since the first Archies songs were broadcast over CBS television. All of us are enthusiastic about the media response to the Monkees' 20th anniversary, and we're encouraged by the possibility it raises for something similar in 1988. Even though the Archies' cult following may not be as large as that of the Monkees, we feel that Don Kirshner's other hit creation is no less deserving of attention.

It's no secret that many people think of the Archies as the embodiment of everything that is worthless in popular music. This attitude stems from ignorance about the group's recordings. Ask most people what songs they remember by the Archies, and the only answer you'll get is "Sugar, Sugar." But people like me, who were entering their teens during the late '60s and early '70s, have fond memories of waking up early Saturday mornings so as not to miss the latest new song that would be featured on Archie. Personally, the Archies introduced me to rock and roll, and it's been a passionate love affair ever since. Anybody who claims that Archies' music isn't rock 'n' roll hasn't heard their fantastic first album. It's a shame that this record has never really been acknowledged as the classic that it is. It showcases a sound that is lean and hard — no frills, just guitars, bass, drums, and keyboards, with tambourine added here and there for effect. Searing rockers like "I'm In Love," "You Make Me Wanna Dance," and "Truck Driver" are the perfect fusion of garage-band punk and bubble-gum sensibility. Later, the music absorbed folk and Caribbean influences, but the Archies never lost the ability to rock out. While mainstream artists were losing themselves in pretentious self-indulgence, this piddlin' little cartoon band was kicking ass.

When my friends and I talk about the Archies, we are not referring to cartoon characters. We're talking about a group of crack studio musicians assembled by Don Kirshner in 1968 and placed under the supervision of Jeff Barry, one of the hottest producers in the business at that time. Yet, even to this day, the identities of most of these people are unknown. Over the years, a handful of artists have been confirmed as having been members of the Archies: Ron Dante (the lead singer), Toni Wine, Ellie Greenwich, Jeff Barry, Andy Kim, others, such as Carole King, Lindsey Buckingham, and Olivia Newton-John, remain the subject of rumor and speculation. We want to get the facts out once and for all. Our opinion is that the Archies will never have credibility unless they come out from behind the comic book image. Names and faces must be matched with the sounds in the grooves. Once they are perceived in the minds of the public and the music establishment as flesh-and-blood musicians, a serious comparison can be made with their contemporaries. Having heard the records, we're certain they won't come up short.

I decided to write this open letter to the readers of Goldmine so that I could ask for help in making an Archies 20th anniversary observance happen next year. I want to encourage all Archies fans to write to Rhino Records, RCA Records, and any of the reissue labels here or abroad and request a commemorative album. I'd also like anyone with connections in the music industry to help me contact Archies songwriters like Ritchie Adams, Mark Barkan, and Andy Kim. Of course, contacts with Jeff Barry and/or Don Kirshner would be especially appreciated. If anyone has tapes or acetates of unreleased Archies songs (over 200 are said to exist), I'd like to hear them. Please be in touch. Most importantly, if anyone knows or has access to details about the Archies' New York recording sessions (who sang on which record, who played what instruments, who arranged, what was recorded, and when), don't hesitate to correspond. And if you just love the Archies and have ideas about how to get this project off the ground, your letters are welcome, too. It's high time to give this most successful of all studio bands a place in rock history.

Where's "Kitten?"

After reading Allen J. Wiener's review of Charles Reinhart's review of Allen J. Wiener's book The Beatles: A Recording History (in Goldmine #169), I was inspired to get something "off my chest," something that has been bothering me for about five years now. It's called "Leave My Kitten Alone."

I remember reading in Goldmine many years ago about the expected EMI issue of the above Little Willie John tune, possibly on an extended-play. No follow-up, no nothin', no record!

And, if you guys/gals think I'm going to look for the bootleg album it appeared on, you're crazy. That would be ripping off the artists I admire! The message is: Let's all write to EMI and ask them to search those vaults. Let's tell them to take the lead from Jackie Gleason, who searched his vaults and turned up twice as many Honeymooners shows as anyone has ever seen. In how many books are we to be teased by long, long lists of Beatles' "unreleased recordings?"

To add to the overall unbelievability of the situation is the realization that other pop music legends have issued rare and unreleased recordings. Say what you want about RCA, but they've been giving us unissued Elvis at least since 1965. Specialty Records (mostly through Ace) has finally given us new tracks for Little Richard and Larry Williams. Chess Records is finally waking up to the interest in Berry, with two consecutive "rare" releases. You could go on and on. Remember the Stones' "Metamorphosis"? Not a complete success, but certainly a deserved gift for fans.

EMI (and the rest of you; Mercury, Atlantic, Vee Jay) give us collectors a break. We've never let you down.

Nicks clubs, no; newsletters, yes

In response to the question about a Stevie Nicks fan club, there currently isn't an official active one.

However, there are currently two newsletters that I am aware of that are devoted to Stevie: Velvet Underground, P.O. Box 30736, Phoenix, AZ 85046-0736; and Dreams, P.O. Box 215, Union, NJ 07083.

Both allow fans to share their experiences, poetry, and artwork and love for Stevie Nicks. Both are well-written, but Dreams has the most recent and inside news about Stevie's activities. I subsribe to both and I've gained many new friends through them. We all care for Stevie and want her to know that.

New Lettermen club address

Regarding the new Lettermen Fan Club address: Lettermen, Harmony Magazine, 14231 Cohassett St., Van Nuys, CA 91405.

The Lettermen, Tony Butala, Scott Tea, and Mark Preston, are celebrating their 25th anniversary with a new album to be released in February on Tony Butala's label, Alpha Omega. It's the great hits of the past done in '80s technology with two new songs written by Scott Tea on the album. Watch for it in your record stores in early February. The Lettermen recently appeared on the Tony Orlando TV show in Detroit to announce the album.

Grading

Use the following key when grading the condition of records: SS: Still sealed, never opened, never played. Absolutely Mint!!

M: Mint. Surface noise equal to an unplayed record. No marks, scratches, audio distortions. Original surface intact. LP or EP cover or PS perfect. Beautiful!!

VG: Very Good. Record may have slight surface noise. Light foreign noises. Very slight distortion. Noise is not seriously distracting.

G: Good. Record has a moderate amount of surface noise. Background may be somewhat irregular and cracking.

F: Fair. Good for skeet-shooting or substitute frisbee, and little else.

Grading may be suffixed by a plus or a minus to indicate a variation in grades.

Mail bid etiquette

Advertisers

- You cannot legally charge a premium to customers who pay with a credit card.
- Print or type your name and address. Your handwriting may be difficult to decipher to others.
- If you include your phone number in an ad or a letter, note the hours that you are most likely to be there. This saves time and the inconvenience of reaching the wrong people (at long-distance rates) or nobody.
- If you run an auction ad, send winning bid notes within two weeks of the close of your auction.
- State minimum bids when applicable. The phrase 'ridiculous bids ignored' is open to interpretation and seems to anger many prospective buyers.
- Only charge for shipping what it costs to ship, especially if you are re-using old record boxes and cardboards. If a dealer is using custom-made or purchased mailers, expect to charge a little premium.

Readers

- Send payment within two weeks of receipt of a winning bid notification.
- Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you write a dealer with any questions.
- Do not call persons or businesses collect unless they specify in their ad that it is acceptable.
- Be prepared to honor all bids. This is the most abused part of mail-order advertising today.

Customer Service Dept.

At Goldmine we have a full-time customer service representative who processes and updates each and every complaint we receive. Each situation is handled separately; if no solution is mediated between the party and/or parties and Goldmine, then the matter is turned over to the U.S. postal authorities.

With too many unresolved complaints, any advertiser's ads may be blocked from publication until matters are settled to everyone's satisfaction. The U.S. Postal Service won't act upon verbal complaints. We need to have them in writing. We also don't have the personnel to handle complaints over the phone. So, here are the steps to take in submitting your complaint:

Step #1: Make photocopies of all correspondence, cashed checks, delivery receipts, and any other useful information and mail them to the address below. If money orders were involved, go to the institution where you purchased them and have the orders traced to see if they were cashed.

Step #2: Write out your complaint in detail, citing any actions you have taken to contact the advertiser, and any responses you may have received. Also instruct us as to whether you want the merchandise ordered or a refund; or, if your complaint deals with quality of merchandise received, what you received as opposed to what you had ordered.

Step #3: Mail all of this to: Customer Service Dept. Goldmine, 700 E. State St., Iola, WI 54990.

Bootleg Policy

The sale of bootleg records, and tapes (both audio and video) is illegal. Goldmine magazine does not allow the listing of these items in our pages as a matter of advertising policy. Goldmine strives to delete them from advertising copy when noticed and, in the case of a large portion of an individual ad consisting of this material, we reserve the right to return the entire ad. From time to time, deadlines, quick turnover of the publication to the printer, and lack of personnel to check ad copy allows some bootleg listings through the security net. This is not to be construed as selective acceptance of bootleg listings by any particular dealer, but is rather the result of human limitations and/or error.

How to Advertise . . .

ADVERTISERS: You may use any bidding deadline you wish in your advertisement. Just make it clear in your ad copy. If no deadline is noted, it will be understood that it will be one month from the cover date of the issue your ad appears in.

Unit Space Advertising

Unit space ads are the easiest method for collectors and beginning dealers to list their merchandise in GOLDMINE. You have full control over the printed appearance of your ad.

One Unit Space equals One 8-1/2 x 11 typed sheet

Simply type your copy onto 8-1/2x11 sheets. We'll reduce it and print it as it is. On our page, it will look the same, except smaller. Remember to include your ordering information, postage rates, method of grading, name and address, phone number, etc.

Two Different Sizes

Regular Unit Space
$33.00 each
Full Page of 9 - $240.00
Each additional after 9 - $26.66

Super Unit Space
$69.00 each
Full Page of 4 - $240.00
Each additional after 4 - $60.00

On all our unit space ads, either size, we typeset your name and address to appear at the bottom of your ad, and a heading for the top (if you specifically tell us what you'd like placed there). There is no charge for this typesetting, and it is the extent of any changes we make on units.

It's important to clean the keys of your typewriter, and use a clean ribbon. Dark, consistent type will result in the best appearing ad. Always use black ink, never blue. Good white stock, not onionskin or colored paper, works best. Your ad will only appear as good as the copy we receive. Avoid typing in all caps or underlining large sections of listings, as this makes your ad difficult to read when reduced. Send no partial units, only full 8-1/2x11 sheets.

Collector's Showcase Advertising

Each ad is 2 col. wide by 1-1/2-in. deep, in its own box. $17.00 per box

The Collector's Showcase is the most closely read advertising section in GOLDMINE. Here your message is seen by the most potential customers. Each ad is in its own box, consisting of a space two columns wide and approximately 1-1/2" high, or a multiple of that size. You may buy as many boxes as you wish for one ad, at a cost of $17 per box, or multiply that for a large ad. All typesetting is done by us and is included in the price. We recommend no more than 30 or 35 words per box, but it's up to you.

Classified Advertising

Our "marketplace" section is a thriving, heavily read area of our publication. Base rate is 12¢ per word, with discounts for multiple issues. Our advertising rate page, next to this page, explains the rates in detail. You may also purchase display advertising, at regular display rates, to run in the classified section at no extra charge, in the classification of your choice.

If you have any questions about advertising in Goldmine, please call or write us. We will be more than happy to help you out. Ask for our ad rate package. You can always cut out an ad from an issue of Goldmine that is similar to what you want us to do with yours, and send it in with your copy.

New Advertisers

We must have your full name, street address, and phone number before you can run ads in GOLDMINE. This applies whether you use a PO Box or a company name, or your own. Ask for a full advertising package before you advertise, to receive complete information on contracts, discounts, and your other advertising options with GOLDMINE.

Display Advertising

When you purchase space in GOLDMINE, and we typet an ad for you, or you provide us with camera-ready copy of an ad, that's a display ad. Everything but Unit Space, and Showcase ads are displays. For the cost of your space, we'll typeset, shoot photos, and handle the graphics for nothing. Figure column inches by multiplying the number of columns across what you want (there are six across on a page) by the number of inches high. A 2x3" ad is two columns across and three inches high, or six column inches, it almost always takes two columns across to list our records. Mechanical information about widths of columns is included in our advertising rate card. The more items you wish to include in an ad, the smaller the type. In our smallest size, 6 pt. we can usually fit eleven or twelve lines per vertical inch. Contracts for consecutive issues will garner you a substantial discount; ask for a full ad package to receive this information. Camera ready displays ads receive a 15% camera ready discount. No agency discounts other than camera ready allowed.

Display Advertising Requirements

All advertising orders are accepted subject to the terms and provisions of the current rate card. Krause Publications, Inc., reserves the right to decline advertising or suspend advertising privileges for such periods of time as in their discretion they see fit, for any reason whatsoever, irrespective of the validity of the reasons for such declination or suspension. The forwarding of an order is construed as an acceptance of all rates and conditions under which advertising is at the time sold. The publisher will not be bound by any conditions, printed or otherwise, appearing on any order for advertising space, billing instructions or copy instructions, which conflict with its policies. Advertisers and advertising agencies assume liability for all content (including text representation and illustrations) of advertisements printed, and also assume responsibility for any claims arising there-from made against the publishers, it is the advertiser's or agency's responsibility to obtain appropriate releases on any item or individual pictured in their advertising. All agreements are subject to strikes, accidents, fire, acts of God, or other contingencies beyond the publisher's control.

Classified Advertising Requirements

Classified ads received after the closing date for any issue will be held for the next issue. When changing copy or requesting cancellation of a previously submitted ad, provide classification number, issue date and page references if possible. Include remittance for additional wordage. Refunds are not provided for unexpired insertions of cancelled classified ads, but appropriate credit will be granted, which may be utilized with future classified ad orders. Classified ads are not accepted by phone and must be accompanied by full remittance.

General Advertising Conditions

The publisher reserves the right to edit any advertising copy to conform with its standard advertising policies, and to reject any ad which in its opinion is unethical or objectionable for any reason. This publication does not guarantee and disclaims all knowledge of the right of seller or buyer to contract. The prices quoted in any ad are subject to change without notice in response to fluctuating market conditions. The publisher is not responsible to fluctuating market conditions. Typewritten copy is preferred. The publisher is not responsible for errors resulting from longhand or illegible copy, or changes submitted by telephone. The publisher's liability for any error shall not exceed the cost of the space occupied by that error. Post ofice box number ads are allowed, but the permanent home address or place of business of the advertiser must be filed with the publisher before any such advertisements may be presented. Minors are required to furnish a certificate of responsiblity from their parents or guardian before their advertising can be accepted. Advertisements offering prizes, grab bags or contests of any nature, are not acceptable unless prior written approval has been obtained from the U.S. Postal System, Washington, D.C. Advertisements offering modern copies, restrikes, reproductions or fantasy pieces which violate the Hobby Protection Acts are not acceptable.

Proof of Publication

Tear sheets of new display ads are mailed each week. We regretably cannot provide this service to classified advertisers and continue to maintain low classified rates.

DON'T 'BUTCHER' YOUR RECORD COLLECTIBLES

Instead, buy high quality archival supplies from Bill Cole Enterprises and let time INCREASE the value of your collection! We're the only company to offer a complete line of products designed specially for the needs of record collectors. Whether you need mailer, divider cards, boxes or the super protection of Mylar® - we've got it all!

Why? Because we've been in the business of providing archival quality supplies for over 13 years and have spent a lot of time researching record collectors' needs. Our experience and expertise has allowed us to deliver only the highest quality products throughout our entire line.

mylar® sleeves

Mylar® is the best material available for the preservation of paper collectibles and that includes your album jackets. Mylar® is an exceptionally strong transparent film that resists moisture, pollutants, oils and acids. With a life expectancy of hundreds of years, Mylar® will outlast most other plastics. Our 4 mil thick (Snugs™) and 3/4 mil thick (Mylites™) will not only permanently preserve your album jackets, but their brilliance and clarity will enhance the look of your whole collection. Don't you wish you had stored your "ButcherCover" in Mylar®?

divider cards

Here's a brand new item that is the perfect companion to our storage boxes (and your record racks or store bins!). These quality dividers are manufactured from durable .040", high impact polystyrene and shouldn't be confused with plastic coated cardboard. Specially designed rounded corners won't scratch you or your record jackets. Dividers are washable and mar resistant, yet readily take grease pencil, marker and stick-on labels for easy identification.

repair tape

A must for every record collection for repairing torn inner sleeves. Our archival quality repair tape will not turn yellow and stain like cellophane and scotch tapes. Thin and transparent, it is pressure sensitive and easy to use. Excellent for all paper repairs.

Cat. #84 REPAIR TAPE (size 1" x 98') Wt. 1/2 lb. each $15.35

cleaning pads

What every serious collector needs to help keep jackets and sleeves clean and looking good as new. This pad contains soft, grit-free powder and when gently rubbed over the paper, it will absorb dust, dirt and greasy finger prints, but will not smudge or remove pre-printed inks. Long lasting and easy to use. Note: This cleaning pad is not for use on the records, only the jackets and sleeves!

Cat. #91 CLEANING PAD Wt. 1/2 lb. each $2.60
