CAPTAIN WILLIAM BIRCH HAYLER, USN (Ret)

Those who know Bill Hayler know that he represents the true sense of the phrase, "An officer and a gentleman". This quality is rarely so clearly defined in the social values of today's generation of seamen.

After 30 years of active service with the United States Navy, Capt. Hayler studied and received his Master's license. Shortly after that he arrived as the new Deck faculty member at California Maritime Academy. Not resting on his past successes, he jumped right into the middle of the program, assisting the management by acting as Administrative Officer until a position was established.

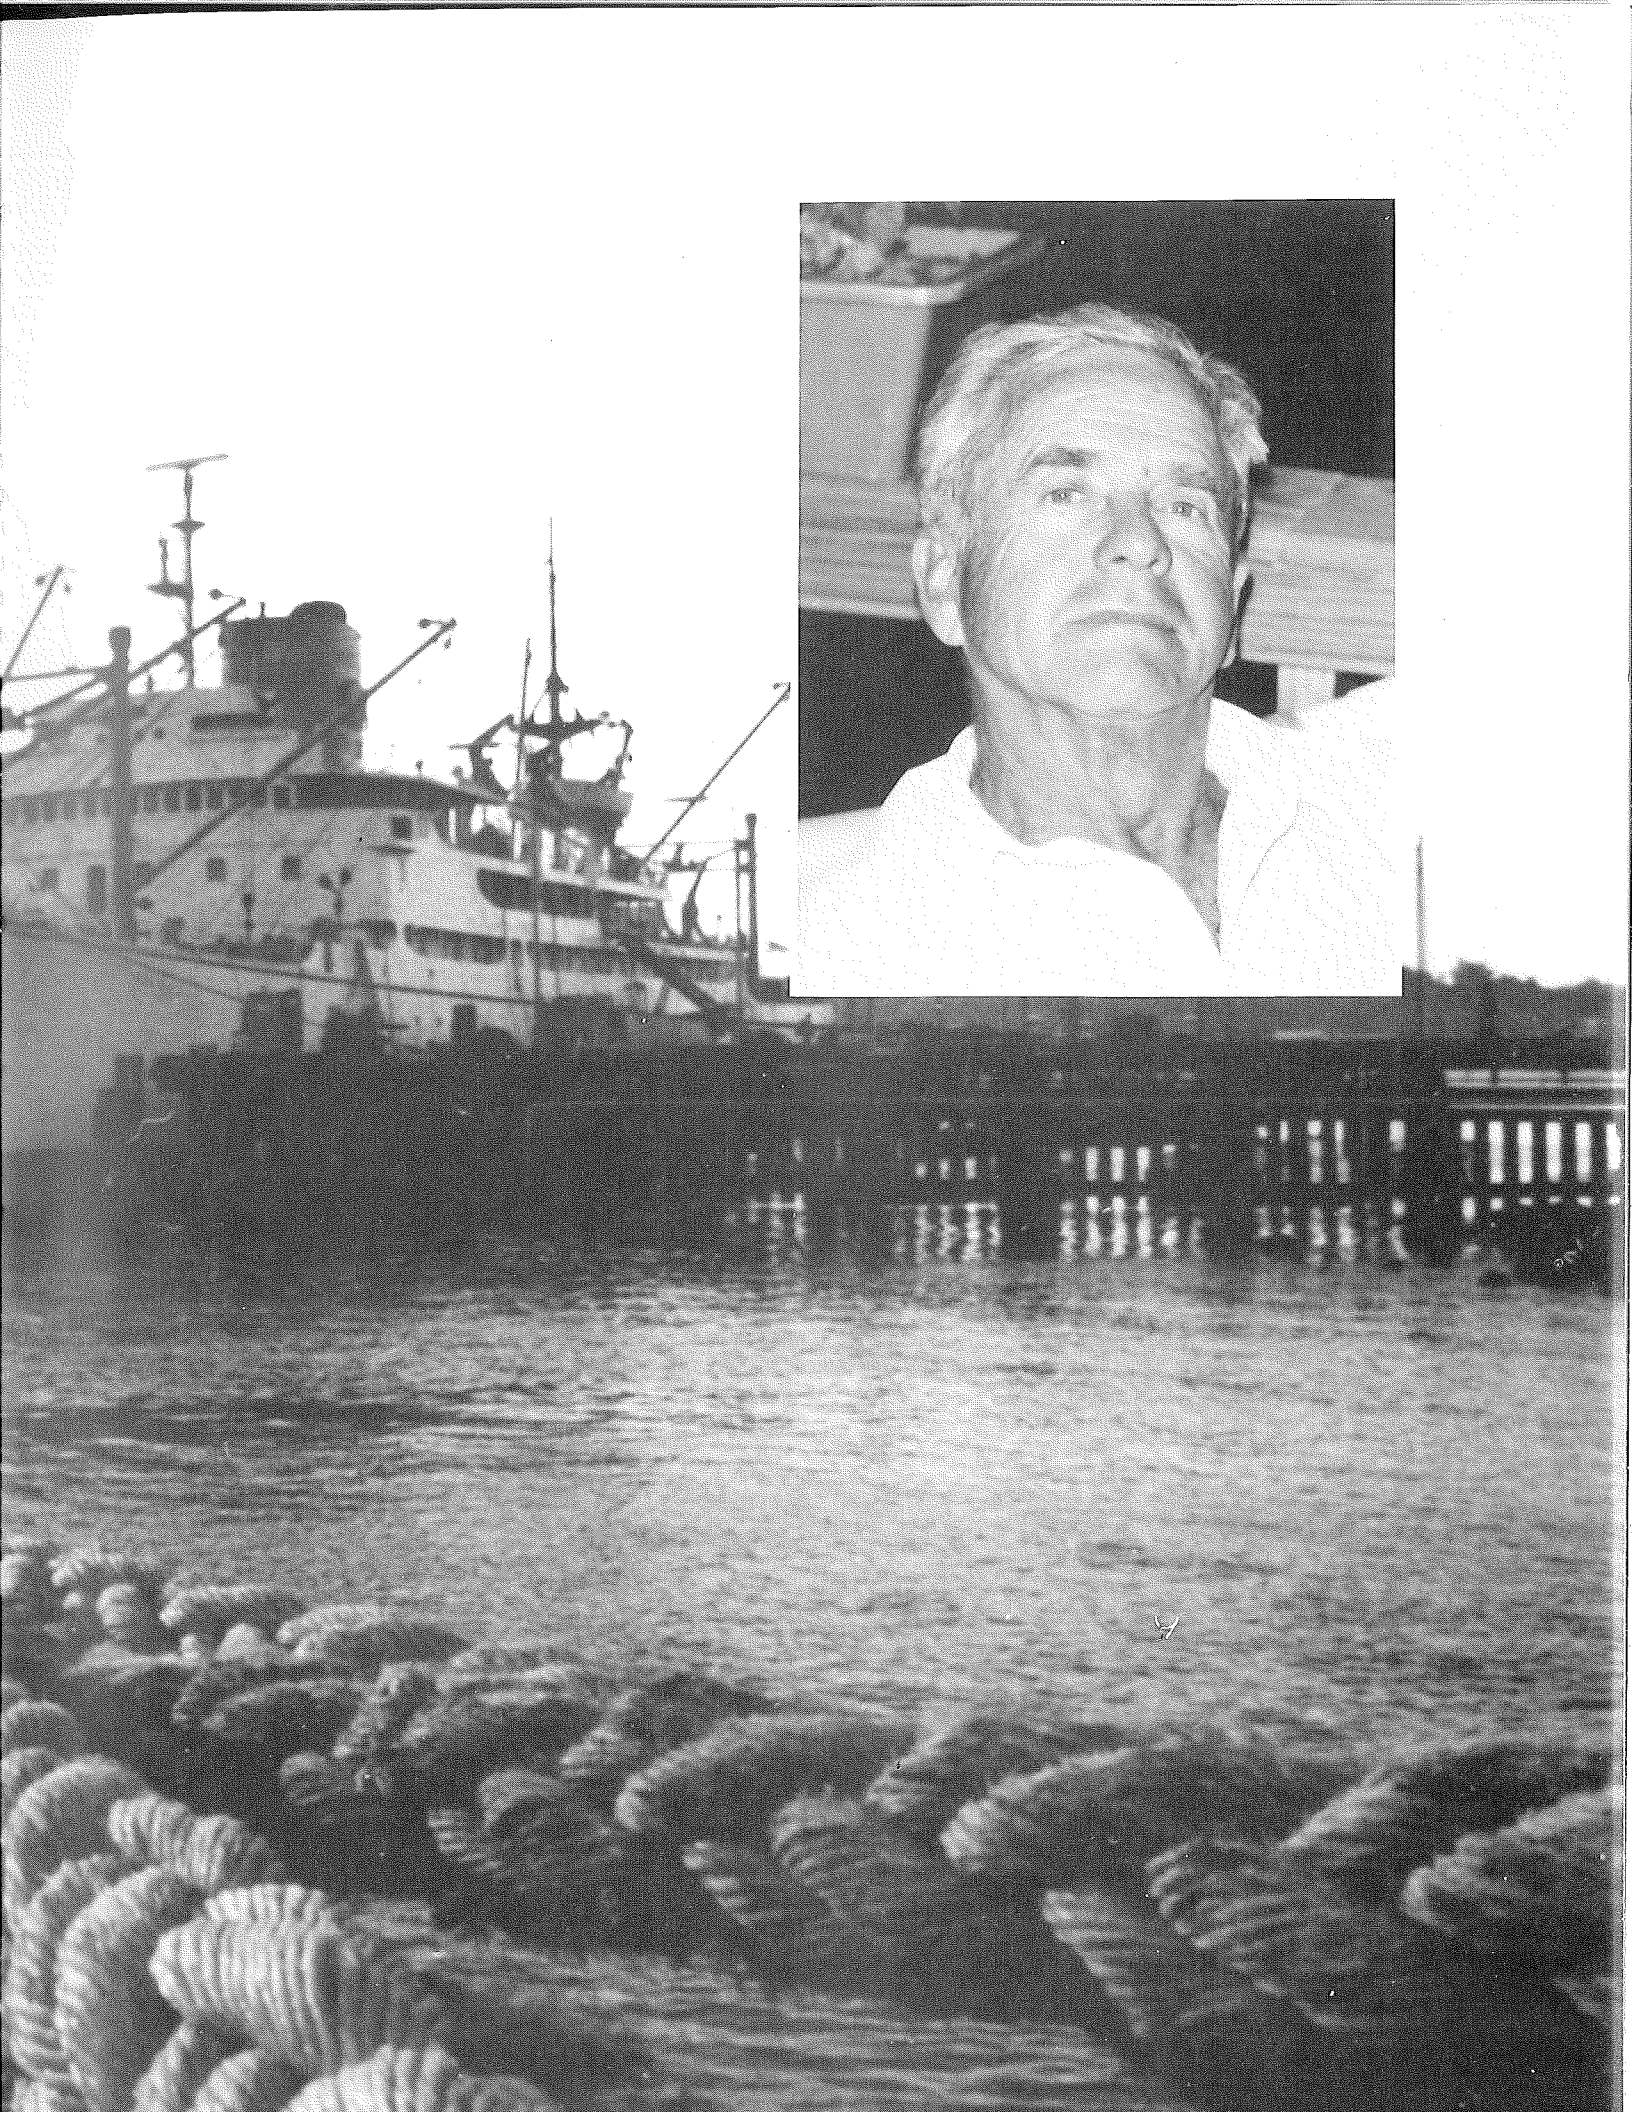

During the 18 years of his tenure at CMA, Capt. Hayler's presence was always very visible at Academy and midshipmen functions. He sponsored many midshipman activities himself.

For those who sailed with Capt. Hayler on cruise or attended Deck Dept. ad hoc meetings at his home called "Lunch Bunch", he was a master of people power. Truly a good shipmate whether it was standing a watch for a sick mate or hemming a midshipman's pants to keep him out of trouble with the Commandant.

Bill Hayler will be missed at CMA, not only for his tennis game, and his motor bike with the captain's insignia, but most of all his pleasant and meaningful conversations. He is an irreplaceable asset lost to a changing world.

CALIFORNIA MARITIME ACADEMY
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

The Class of 1988 has achieved a milestone --- a shifting of gears from an academic and learning mode to a new phase.

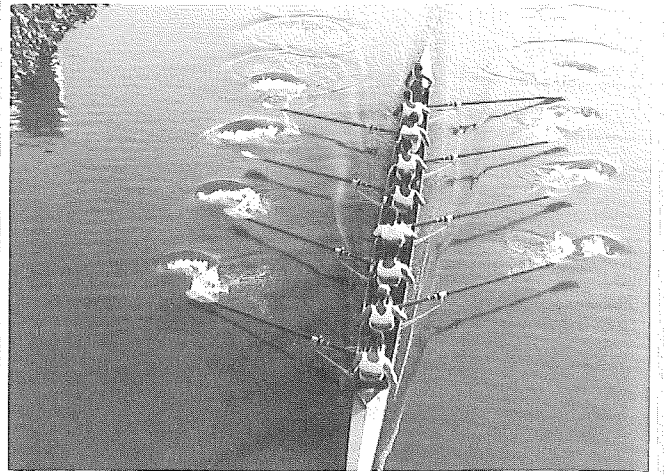

As with all graduates, I am sure you are ready for the change and eager for the opportunity to show your value. You have every right to be proud of your accomplishments. You should derive great satisfaction from the achievement of this goal you set so long ago, and I am pleased to add you to the roles of the alumni of the California Maritime Academy.

My thanks are due to the many members of the Class of 1988 who voluntarily provided the necessary leadership, time and effort to make things happen. This particularly includes the Corps and Division Officers and the various team club, council and committee members. However, I have found the Class of 1988 as a group to be a superior class in every respect. You are a talented group of young people who will make a mark in society.

The faculty and staff join me in expressing our wish for your every success.

There's a penguin and an elephant in the bathroom. The penguin's in the tub lathering up. The elephant (who's standing by the sink) turns to the penguin and says "Hey, can I borrow the soap?" The penguin responds "What do I look like - a typewriter?"
