

Anti-control faculty slapped down

Trustees kill capitol query

By LEONARD ANDERSON.

The threat of a legislative investigation of Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke and the Board of Trustees was virtually killed yesterday when the Trustees of the California State Colleges approved a resolution for an "ad hoc" study committee.

With the formal adoption by the Trustees of the committee resolution the hopes of over 400 SF State faculty members for a Sacramento investigation also died.

The ad hoc committee, an original proposal of the State-wide Academic Senate, is designed to keep the dispute between the SF State faculty and the Trustees within the state college system and not in Sacramento.

The SF State signers of a petition protesting the "centralized control" of the state colleges by Dumke and the Trustees and the "irreparable harm" that would result from this "control" were virtually slapped in the face by the Trustees at their meeting in the SF State Downtown Center.

The committee will consist of 10 members with six of these representing the interest of Dumke and the Trustees.

Of these six, two will be members of Dumke's office, two members of the Trustees — Charles Luckman, chairman, and Louis Heilbron—who will have no vote, and two members of the State College Presidents Council.

The Presidents Council has already expressed a "vote of confidence" in Dumke and the Trustees. This was done in a resolution passed by the council on March 24.

The remaining four posts will be divided evenly between representatives of the local faculty senates and the State-wide Senate.

The Trustees will consider recommendations of the committee only after they have been presented to the State-wide Senate and the Presidents Council, and the advice of those bodies has been reported through Dumke's office.

Governor Edmund G. Brown, in one of his rare appearances at a Board meeting, agreed with the committee resolution and commented that Sacramento is "too busy" at this time for a legislative investigation.

However, he said that an investigation could result if the committee study breaks down.

This was also the view taken by Leo McClatchy, chairman of the SF State Academic Senate, who recommended a legislative probe if the committee fails.

Art Bierman, associate professor of philosophy at this college and a signer of the petition protest, argued against the committee resolution and asked that a "curtain" not be put around the dispute.

Bierman asked for a public investigation with an outside "referee" to oversee the affair. He claimed that a body being protested should not be asked to judge itself.

Governor Brown replied that the matter should be handled by the Trustees and "ended there."

But Bierman, along with John E. Carr, a Trustee, was alone in his fight as support for the study committee began to roll in.

SF State President Paul Dodd voiced his backing of the committee and said the dispute should be "solved by working together through established channels."

The committee resolution was passed with only Trustee Carr dissenting. Carr was advocating that the present "machinery" of the Board handle the study.

The dissenting Trustee claimed that "too much time, work, and expenses" of a committee will "set us back."

SF State called bottle that has blown cork--BOT meet

By DOROTHY SMITH

San Francisco State was referred to at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Trustees as a "bottle that had blown its cork."

News briefs

Elections committee meeting will be held in Library G-14 at 12:30 Friday, April 3, 1964. New petitions will be reviewed and complaints will be heard along with the regular business.

Deadline for entries to the Student Art Show of SF State's fourth annual Contemporary Arts Festival is tomorrow. Entrance forms are available in AD 162 and will be received in the rear of the Gym.

Called upon by Charles Luckman, chairman of the Board of Trustees, to portray and clarify the position of the state administration on the recent charges made by members of the SF State faculty, Louis Heilbron, a trustee, went on to say that "it came as a great shock to find that a large segment of the faculty had gone completely out of channels to publicize a petition of protest and charges against the Chancellor and the Trustees."

Heilbron scolded the faculty members who had signed the petition saying that they were setting a bad example for students by their actions of anarchy and distrust.

Heilbron went on to deny many of the charges in the petition. Referring to the charge of growing control over and loss of autonomy of the individual State Colleges, he defended the Trustees by saying that "the architecture and landscaping of the campuses are far more varied, since the trustees, than ever before."

"But the truth is," he added, "that you cannot have effective coordination without substantial control."

Heilbron conceded that there were some real and complex problems implicit in centralization and some "knotty questions of educational policy."

The 1960 Master Plan of Education brought the separate colleges "together in a kind of a union."

"Let us preserve that union," he concluded.

An editorial

TRUSTEE JOHN CARR said yesterday the State College System should be run like a corporation. The small businessman, he said, was being pushed out by the efficiency and economy of operation of the big corporation. If the educational system of California emulated big business, it could save the taxpayers money.

SF STATE IS ALREADY a subsidiary of California's educational plant. Carr's efficiency requires that the head office controls the process at each branch because diversity costs money. Former State Director of Finance Carr is all for saving the citizens of California money.

PERHAPS INSTRUCTORS should teach to larger classes, squeezing more students into the already inadequate facilities, thus getting more fees and making taxpayers money go farther.

WITH SHORTER SEMESTERS, students go through college faster and give the facilities a faster turnover. As all good businessmen know, the more use you get from the plant, the more money you save.

TRUSTEE CARR WANTS to save Californians money. But, is he willing to do this, at the expense of quality education?

Circulate petition

Students for investigation

Several hundred students at SF State have signed a petition that is being circulated backing the faculty petition for an investigation of the state college system.

The petition is being circulated by no particular group, and several copies of the petition are circulating.

Guy Sandler, who instigated the student petition, said that Art Bierman, professor of philosophy and a supporter of the faculty petition, thinks that the student petition will be useful in drawing attention to the issue.

Copies of the petition with the student signatures will be sent to Governor Edmund Brown, Lieutenant Governor Glenn Anderson, Hon. Hugh Burns, and Hon. Jesse Unruh.

Several thousand signatures will be on the petition before it is released, according to Sandler.

Editor's desk The Campanile

By Eugene Grundt

The Campanile, one fine day,
Turned into a giraffe,
And soon she was trotting about the grounds —
The pride of the students and staff!

Her neck was stony and classic and long,
And her gait, of course, was trochaic;
Her head held high, as she pranced around,
She looked quite wise and archaic.

And then one day she summoned all
To gather at Sather Gate:
To hear, as she said, a proclamation
Of "grave academic weight."

She looked at the crowd, paused for a while,
And began her declaration:
"Only those whose necks are long Can profit by education!"

"Necks that are long belong to the wise,
Short necks belong to fools:
Giraffes have known this for thousands of years —
And it's taught in the finest of schools!"

"The longer the neck, the purer the strain,
As the Ancients knew long ago;
The shorter the neck the smaller the brain —
So the Short Necks have got to go!"

A nervous gasp ran through the crowd,
There was tension in the air;
But they listened on to the wise giraffe
With the wise, archaic air.

"And so I've devised the perfect test —
And all, of course, may compete:
To kiss the arch of Sather Gate
Is the test of the true elite!"

So those whose necks were "a little too short,"
Or refused to kiss the gate,
Wended their way across the bay
And entered S. F. State.

The moral, of course, to this scholarly tale
Is easy to surmise:
If giraffes are allowed to make the rules,
No wonder they think they're wise.

Giraffes, you see, feed high on the tree,
Where the tender leaf is found;
But Taste and Beauty and Life and Growth
Grow short-necked from the ground.

Dark Days Ahead

To many people today, man is his own God. It is claimed that man himself has the power to control his destiny and cultural evolution.
Many naively believe that man will be able to bring about world peace by his own endeavors. Christians are certainly among those who hope for world peace on earth; however, they know that this can never come about by man's efforts apart from God. Man's depraved nature must be changed, regenerated by God before he has the ability to live a moral righteous life. The problems in the world today are all the result of sin and man's basic nature is sinful. This is why God never reworks the old nature of a person who becomes a Christian, but instead gives this person an entirely new nature:

"Therefore, if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold all things are become new." II Cor. 5:17.

As world leaders renew their efforts for world peace and strive for Christian unity, the prophetic portions of Scripture should be kept clearly in mind, for the last days on earth will be very dark indeed, before the Lord Jesus Christ returns to bring about his long-sought reign of peace and righteousness.

"When he (Jesus) was sitting on the Mount of Olives the disciples came to speak to him privately. 'Tell us,' they said, 'when will this happen?
And what will be the signal for your coming and the end of the age?'
Jesus replied: 'Take care that no one misleads you. For many will come claiming my name and saying, 'I am the Messiah,' and many will be misled by them. The time is coming when you will hear the noise of battle near at hand and the news of battles far away; see that you are not alarmed. Such things are bound to happen; but the end is still to come. For nation will rise up against nation, kingdom against kingdom; there will be famines and earthquakes in many places. With all these things the birth pangs of the new age begin. You will then be handed over for punishment and execution; and men of all nations will hate you for your allegiance to me. Many will lose their faith; they will betray one another and hate one another. Many false prophets will arise and will mislead many, and as lawlessness spreads, men's love for one another will grow cold. But the man who holds out to the end will be saved. And this Gospel of the Kingdom will be proclaimed throughout the earth as a testimony to all nations; and then the end will come . . .

"It will be a time of great distress, such as has never been from the beginning of the world until now, and will never be again. If that time of troubles were not cut short, no living thing could survive, but for the sake of God's chosen it will be cut short. . . . As soon as the distress of those days is passed, the sun will be darkened, the moon will not give her light, the stars will fall from the sky, the celestial powers will be shaken. Then will appear in heaven the sign that heralds the Son of Man. All the peoples of the world will make lamentation, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with great power and glory. With a trumpet blast he will send out his angels, and they will gather his chosen from the four winds, from the farthest bounds of heaven on every side. . . . He will sit in state on his throne, with all the nations gathered before him. He will separate men into two groups, as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats, he will place the sheep on his right hand and the goats on his left. Then the king will say to those on his right hand 'You have my Father's blessing; come, enter and possess the kingdom that has been ready for you since the world was made. . . . Then he will say to those on his left hand, 'The curse is upon you; go from my sight to the eternal fire that is ready for the devil and his angels. . . . Matt. 24:3-14, 21, 22, 29-31;
25:32-34, 41, N.E.

Are you among the sheep or the goats? Jesus Christ can be your shepherd if you will receive him today as Lord and Master of your life.

power and glory. With a trumpet blast he will send out his angels, and they will gather his chosen from the four winds, from the farthest bounds of heaven on every side. . . . He will sit in state on his throne, with all the nations gathered before him. He will separate men into
place the sheep on his right hand and the goats on his left. Then the king will say to those on his right hand, 'You have my Father's blessing: come, enter and possess the kingdom that has been ready for you since the world was made. . . . Then he will say to those on his left hand, 'The curse is upon you; go from my sight to the eternal fire that is ready for the devil and his angels. . . . ' Matt. 24:3-14, 21, 22, 29-31;
25:32-34, 41, N.E.

Are you among the sheep or the goats? Jesus Christ can be your shepherd if you will receive him today as Lord and Master of your life.
