

Another crown for Livie

LIVIE GARCIA

... Garden Club queen

By JOANNA BURKE

Livie Garcia has started a collection of crowns. Last Thursday SF State's Homecoming '64 beauty was chosen queen of the Bay Area Garden Club.

All it took was personality, poise, a good appearance and looks. Evidently this isn't too hard for the 20 year-old social welfare major.

Thus far Miss Garcia's experience with beauty contests has been quite spontaneous. A fellow student suggested she run for Homecoming queen and only a week ago she was asked to represent SF State at the Garden Club show.

A panel of three judges, including two SF State alumni, chose Miss Garcia from among a group of reigning queens from nine Bay Area colleges.

Proudly clutching her bouquet of white John F. Kennedy roses (with green tips) she spoke of parties, TV appearances and interviews leading up to her win.

"The funniest thing was last night when we all were guests of the businessman's Trade Club and had to walk around pinning daisies on their lapels. It was a riot."

"I've already been asked a couple of times to run for Miss San Francisco," says Miss Garcia, thinking of another crown for her collection.

Mrs. Lehan's future

Dodd's decision?

Rumors of a possible settlement to the eight-month-old controversy about the future of Erna Lehan, Commons manager, are being covered by the usual mists of secrecy.

The most authoritative but limited report so far received has come from Harold Cornacchia, chairman of the SF State Foundation Board of Governors.

Cornacchia said Friday morning a meeting on the issue was being set up for this week at which President Paul Dodd will make a presentation of his position or "decision" on the long drawn-out matter.

Cornacchia said the Foundation Board has been "led to believe" Dodd was ready to make a report on his progress. Cornacchia did not specify who did the leading.

Other Board members have also said that Dodd may have reached a decision. But Joe Persico, AS president and Board member, was not even aware of the possible meeting.

Later Friday afternoon Fred Avilez, Foundation director, said the meeting had been scheduled for May 4.

Avilez said the meeting would not be held this week because Harry Brakebill, vice president of business affairs, would be off campus Wednesday through Friday.

Brakebill has championed the Foundation Board's policy of secrecy by moving for most of the six secret meetings.

Brakebill has also criticized the Board for its public discussion of Mrs. Lehan. He labeled it "discourteous, almost disgraceful treatment" of Mrs. Lehan.

The Foundation Board spent more than six months in fruitless discussion, most of it behind closed doors, on the issue of Mrs. Lehan's future.

Finally Dodd personally took over the handling of Mrs. Lehan's case on March 2. At that time he said he was convinced an "adjustment" was necessary in her position.

Dodd did not then and has not since given his reasons for reaching this conviction.

Since taking over the case, Dodd has refused to comment on his plans or procedure. When approached on the subject he has answered with a flat "no comment" or with a statement that he was continuing his "efforts" for a fair adjustment.

Taking Dodd's lead, the Foundation Board members and Mrs. Lehan have kept a tight silence on the matter.

It is expected the upcoming meeting will be the usual closed-door "executive session" for a discussion of "personnel matters."

Miller, Clark in top CA positions

Clarence A. Miller and John Clark, two SF State professors, have been appointed to high positions in the School of Creative Arts.

Miller, a drama professor, has been advanced from drama department chairman to an associate dean of creative arts.

Clark, currently an English professor, will assume the vacant drama department chairmanship. Both appointments take effect today.

President Paul Dodd announced the appointments saying they had been made after consultation with the school of creative arts' dean and faculty.

"Both the college and the community will benefit," Dodd said, "as a result of the new positions and duties of Dr. Miller and Dr. Clark."

Miller has been drama department chairman since 1960 and has been at SF State since 1947. Clark came to the College in 1951.

Both men have been active in dramatic works. Miller has directed many of the College's musical productions.

Clark has acted and directed in San Francisco's repertory theater group, the Actor's Workshop.

Vital problems of SF State may be discussed at Asilomar

A group of students and faculty, who decided it is important to discuss the vital problems of SF State in an informal atmosphere at Asilomar, will ask the AS Legislature for $799 to sponsor the May 1, 2 trip.

Nancy Ostrow, co-chairman of the conference committee, said, "many students and faculty feel that the College Lecture Series, Faculty Focus and other on-campus speaker series do not provide an atmosphere for questioning the vital problems on this campus."

She said the conference is intended to be a part of a newly established Hostel Series, a program of away-from-campus informal discussions.

Although many administrative personnel will attend the two day affair, the students who will go have been chosen or asked because, "I know them," Miss Ostrow said.

The focus of the conference will be the "Revolution in Higher Education." Topics such as: What is the purpose of undergraduate education?; What role do students play in shaping their own education?; and, What values are being taught in institutions of higher education?, will be discussed.

Stanley Paulson, vice president of academic affairs, will explain the SF State Master Plan to conferees. Students representing Students for the Defense of Education (SDE) will present views on the financial crisis on the State College level.

"Many of the students who are to attend are already in student government or have a deep interest in the campus," Miss Ostrow said.

"We hope this kind of conference will help faculty and students get to know what each other think and can be a useful way of meeting student needs. We also need to know more of how the administrative end operates," she said.

Rev. Al Dale, campus minister for the Wesley Student Fellowship, and Robert Smith, professor of education administration, who last year resigned as Dean of the School of Education over a Trustees policy dispute, will also attend the conference.

Faculty, students discuss State College crisis today

Seven faculty and student speakers will expound on the problems facing California State Colleges in general, SF State in particular, at a public meeting today at 12:30 on the Speakers Platform.

The rally, sponsored by Students in Defense of Education (SDE), aims to present the general public with "a massive and responsible concern about the educational crisis facing the State Colleges," according to SDE.

Speakers scheduled for today's meeting include Stanley Paulson, vice president for academic affairs; Leo McClatchy, chairman of the SF State Academic Senate; Dale McKeen, president of the SF State chapter of the Association of California State College Professors; Otto Butz, chairman of Faculties in Defense of Education; Henry McGucken, president of the SF State local of the American Federation of Teachers; AS President Joe Persico; and AS Vice-President-Elect Jim Nixon.

Faculty members have been asked by SDE to cancel classes in order that they might attend the rally.

Civil rights recruiters here

Benjamin Van Clark and Ruth Harris, representatives of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, will be on campus today to recruit civil rights workers.

As part of their appearance, they will discuss their work in Ed 207 at noon.

DeLuca tells how leftist Italy is Communist key to Europe

The Communist Party sees Italy as a key to Western Europe and may get that key in the next election, said John DeLuca, lecturer in international relations.

In an informal discussion on "Politics and the World Community," DeLuca told a small group of students how the Communist Party is organized in Italy and some reasons for its success. (Italy has the largest Communist party membership in Western Europe.)

Describing the trend in Italian politics as an "opening to the left," DeLuca explained that the two socialist parties in Italy with the Communists could win in 1968 if a coalition were formed.

The Communist approach in Italy has to appear democratic to appeal to the people, he said.

DeLuca cited several reasons why the Italians would choose the Communist Party. The Party is the best organized and, in many ways, has presented itself as the most attractive. Economically, it has broken up monopolies and promises improvements. Politically, it purports to place the government in the hands of the workers, giving them identification with the Party. Even religiously, the party has attraction, for it has promised freedom of worship.

Another advantage the Communists have in Italy is an improved relation with the Catholic Church. Two decades ago, DeLuca explained, voting for a Communist was considered a cardinal sin and punished by excommunication. Although it became practice several years ago not to excommunicate these persons, it was not until 1963 that Pope John XXIII announced that there might be some good in a Communist candidate.

Western Europe would have no choice but to accept a Communist Italy, the speaker said. It is the nation, not the party in power, which has membership in diplomatic and defense organizations, so Italy would still belong to NATO, the Strategic Air Command and other agencies.

DeLuca, who has traveled to Russia several times, said the main role of the US might be through giving the Communist claims of achievement and promises such wide publicity that they will be forced to live up to them.

'Pussy' with a cat's meow

"Pussy" paraded down the walk in front of the HLL building Wednesday, drawing quite a crowd of admiring students.

"Pussy" is a tree ocelot from Panama, owned by a man named Burton, owner of Portraits Unlimited on North Beach.

Now six months old and five pounds of pur power, "Pussy" will be fully grown at age 2, and weight in at about 15 or 20 pounds.

Burton, on campus to meet a friend and exercise his cat, told curious students about Life with an Ocelot.

"The ocelot is a nocturnal animal, and stays under cover in bushes and trees most of the time," he said.

Ocelots do have good day vision also, according to Burton, who is attempting to acclimate "Pussy" to the wide open spaces of meadow and back yard.

Burton said he will decide later if "Pussy" must be defanged and declawed, but declared, "I plan to keep her for life, until one of us is dead."

Urban work for students

A representative of the Bay Area Urban League will be on campus Monday recruiting students to teach communication skills to high school students from minority groups.

According to Urban League officials, teachers are needed for reading, writing, speech, math and science for a project co-sponsored by the Urban League and IBM.

Experienced teachers are being sought, but students planning to teach or who are interested in working with students from minority groups can also be used in the program.

The program representative will be in Ad. 162 from 1 to 3 p.m. to answer questions.

Prof to compose O'Neill biography

Benjamin Draper, assistant professor of Radio-Television-Film, recently received a University of California study grant to compose a biography of playwright Eugene O'Neill's father, James O'Neill.

Draper applied for the grant earlier this semester in order to do research at Huntington Library in San Marino, California. He will leave for San Marino in June for one month.

"James O'Neill was a great actor and his life span represents 50 years of American theater," Draper said.

No other has ever written a biography of James O'Neill,

Draper said. "Most authors have written about James O'Neill through the eyes of his son, Eugene," he added.

"But his accomplishments as an actor have ranged from leading roles in The Count of Monte Cristo to starring in Shakespearean classics," he said.

Aside from the Huntington Library Draper will also gather information from the Bancroft Library at Berkeley and the California Historical Society in San Francisco. He hopes to have his biography published in book form at the end of the summer.

Budget crisis: clashing views

Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke said after Tuesday night's budget crisis meeting that he hoped such events "will build informed citizens" groups around the advisory boards of each state college.

"Our prospects for success are brightening," Dumke said.

He added that his office "maintains a full-time representative in Sacramento, and other legislative contacts."

A strong dissenting view was voiced after the meeting by Otto Butz, founder of the one-month old Faculties for the Defense of Education:

"These meetings are O.K., but they are not getting to the general public."

"Instead of buying people drinks in Sacramento, we should make a sustained effort to educate people on our problems."

Butz and Leo McClatchy, chairman of the Academic Senate, spent Tuesday afternoon addressing the Commonwealth Club on state college troubles.

"They (Chancellor and staff) say the salary situation started to deteriorate in 1956," Butz said. "I would like to ask, 'Where have you guys been since then?'"

"Meetings like this contribute, but they have to be followed up."

Hayakawa will be host for Aug. semantics meet

The ninth International Conference on General Semantics will meet at SF State August 9-13 to explore the problems of human communication.

World-wide participation will include leaders in semantics, language and philosophy from Asia, Europe, Australia, South and North America.

S. I. Hayakawa, chairman of the English department here, will be program chairman.

Theme for the conference is "Human Communication: Awareness, Sanity and Survival."

Poetry deadline

The deadline for the submission of entries in the Academy of American Poets poetry contest has been extended to April 27. The Poetry Center, HLL 340, will accept entries until 4 p.m.

Concert today: Brahms' work

A chamber music concert featuring Mozart's Quartet in G Minor and Brahms Quintet in F minor, Opus 34 will be presented today at 1 p.m. in the Main Auditorium.

The Mozart piece will feature Karen Cummings, Lee Lufkin, John Ledford, and Terrill Jory.

The Brahms piece will be played by Margaret Barshell, Julia Moseley, William Rusconi, Dennis Lufkin, and Sylvia Hutchinson.

BOP passes new by-laws board to add faculty member

The Board of Publications (BOP) Wednesday passed new by-laws that had been under discussion for three years, and approved 1965-66 budgets for all campus publications.

The new by-laws, adopted with little dissension or discussion, include changes in the membership of the BOP and requirements for Stateside editor.

Instead of two voting faculty members on the Board, the new by-laws call for three: One from Journalism, one from English (Language Arts) and one appointed at large from any other department.

All faculty appointments to the BOP are made by the Academic Senate.

The new by-laws also require the Stateside editor to have been on campus for two semesters, rather than the one semester previously called for.

Turning its attention to budgets, the BOP granted Kampus Kickoff $1250 for the publication of Alligator, official handbook for new students.

When the Board heard that hundreds of Alligators had gone undistributed, it directed Kampus Kickoff officials to rectify the situation.

Plans for two issues of Garter, SF State humor magazine, were approved, and a $1500 subsidy was passed.

Transfer, campus literary magazine, was granted a $1000 subsidy.

The BOP granted Stateside $2977.50 for two issues next year.

A budget for the Golden Gater, calling for a $31,963 net subsidy had been approved at a previous meeting.

Commons strike threat if demands are refused

A threatened strike by Commons' employees has been averted, at least temporarily, according to Rex Kennedy, regional director of the Union of State Employees.

The union declared yesterday it would strike if it was not recognized as the sole bargaining agent for Commons employees and given a contract by the SF State Foundation.

After a series of legal conferences, the Foundation told the union that such a contract would be illegal, and the union's own lawyers agreed with that decision, Kennedy said.

The union, which represents a majority of Commons' employees, is scheduled to meet with the Foundation Board of Governors on May 10 to present a list of employee requests.

Chief among these requests are securing unemployment insurance, State Disability Insurance, and improving working conditions, Kennedy said.

Kennedy said that President Dodd has assured the union of full co-operation during the negotiations.

Following the meeting with the Foundation Board, the union members will meet on May 13.

Poet reads in Lounge

James Wright, author and Guggenheim Fellow, will read and comment on his own poetry today at 1 p.m. in the Gallery Lounge. He is sponsored by the Poetry Center.

Wright was born in 1927 and studied at Kenyon College and the University of Washington. He teaches at MacAlester College in St. Paul, Minnesota.

The Green Wall, Saint Judas, His books of poetry include: and most recently, The Branch Will Not Break published in 1963.

The neutral corner

Bits 'n pieces

By JERRY LITRELL
Gator Sports Editor

The Golden Gator sports department has just completed the most successful softball season in its entire history.

The Gator All-Stars finished the season without a single loss, an achievement heretofore unheard of in Gator softball history.

Early in the year we issued an open challenge here in the Neutral Corner to all teams desiring to do battle on the diamond arena. We must say the response was, to say the least, surprising.

Not only didn't we lose, but the Gator pitching staff didn't allow a single run to cross the plate all season. This was quite an improvement over last year when each team the Gator played scored at least 15 runs.

"But our biggest thrill of the whole year," said team captain Ira Bascomb, "was not losing to those inept Social Science Profs again."

Last year the Profs blasted the Gator staff by scores of 15-3 and 16-5 "but this year those Profs just didn't have it in them," Ira continued.

And we, as team manager and front line pitcher, would like to publicly thank all the members of the team that worked long, hard hours on the practice field perfecting a squad that can boast from here on out that they finished the season undefeated, untied and, best of all, unscored upon.

Next year's team will have a long way to go to surpass a record like that.

WE WOULD like to shift for a moment to a more serious subject — political corruption in the athletic department.

We hesitate to bring this touchy subject up right at this time but we believe that students have a right to know about the graft in the Block S Society.

The Block S Society, for those that don't already know, is a semi-secret organization of jocks dedicated to the preservation of the species here at SF State.

The Society recently elected its officers for this semester and when the results are announced, an aroma not unlike stale fish arose.

MIKE SCHLEEFF
Political Puppet

"There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that they picked me because I was the only one who could read or write," Schleeff concluded. "Hey, we don't want that to get around, either. OK?"

Psych speech tomorrow

A professor of psychology at the University of Michigan will speak here Tuesday, outlining his recent research dealing with children and schizophrenia.

Sarnoff A. Mednick will appear at 1:30 p.m. in Ed 117. His speech is being sponsored by the SF State Psychology Department, and the Psych Forum.

His study compares about 100 children of schizophrenic mothers with 100 children of normal mothers. Mednick's study is the first of its kind.

It seems that a gentleman named Mike Schleeff (pictured at left) was appointed secretary to the organization. Schleeff is an amiable sort of person but he really isn't a jock. He has yet to win his first letter for competing for SF State on an inter-collegiate varsity basis in any sport.

"It was a political appointment," Schleeff confided in an exclusive interview with the Gator. "We don't want the word to get around about it if we can help it, though."

Continuing our policy of the watchdog of the campus, we could not justifiably let this fact go unknown to the students.

Schleeff has won a letter for being maanager to various and sundry Gator athletic teams. But is this justification enough to place a man with such a questionable background in a position of such responsibility and authority.

Waves drown SFS

By ROBERT NEUBERT

SF State's baseball team made sweet music in the field for eight innings Friday, but the tone-deaf Pepperdine Waves conquered the Gators, 3-0.

Playing under clear blue skies and without the usual chilling breeze, SF State was behind only 1-0 going into the ninth inning, and the team had been outstanding in the field.

But then the sour notes were struck.

Joe Quesada led off the frame with a ringing double down the left field line, and Denny Sewart and Fred LaBelle got aboard as the result of grievous errors by short-stop Hiroshi Sakamoto and first sacker Marty Coil. The bases were loaded with no outs.

Doug Person stepped up and placed a Chuck Oliveras pitch between Sakamoto and third baseman Dick Schultze. Both fielders dove for the ball, which skidded into left as two runs scored.

The gutty Oliveras held the Waves from further scoring that inning, but the Gators were through. They went down in order in the bottom of the ninth.

Oliveras, pitching only his second varsity game of the season, was outstanding in defeat. The diminutive right-hander fanned eight and walked three while allowing only one earned run.

That tally came in the third, when rangy Dale Campbell drove a towering fly 380 feet to left for a home run.

SF State had few chances to score as Pepperdine pitchers Jerry Hylton and Al Mendenhall allowed only three scattered hits and four bases on balls.

Hylton, who bears a striking resemblance to Los Angeles

Dodger Don Drysdale when on the mound, hurled five and two-thirds innings before his arm went lame. Mendenhall allowed the Gators only a walk and a hit batter.

The only Gator to even come close to third was Tom Martinez, who was out by 10 feet trying to take two bases on a bunt by Gerald Gray in the eighth.

Centerfielder Don Meroff tees off on a Pepperdine pitch in Friday's game with the Waves.
