

Profile photos by Eusevio Arias

California State University, Fresno brings together thousands of people with diverse backgrounds and interests, and integrates them into a dynamic university system that is dedicated to serving the individual.

The following interviews were recorded last year in various offices and classrooms on campus. They offer you an opportunity to “converse vicariously” with some of the individuals who make this university unique.