

SPECIAL AND INTERDISCIPLINARY PROGRAMS

The university has certain programs and course groupings whose organization or administration does not fall within a single department. These programs and courses are described or referred to in this section. Successful completion of courses in these programs, with minor exceptions, will lead to credit which may be applicable to certain departmental or university requirements. Interested students should consult the appropriate advisers.

ARMENIAN STUDIES COURSES

California State University, Fresno offers courses in various disciplines that are concerned with Armenian Studies. Although the university does not offer a bachelor's degree program in Armenian Studies, by careful selection of electives and of requirements in various majors, a student can secure a useful background for the understanding of the Armenian language, Armenian history and culture, and Armenian contributions to American culture. This background can prepare a student for graduate work in Armenian Studies in such institutions as the Near Eastern Center at UCLA and the Center for Middle Eastern Studies at Harvard University.

The following list includes the current courses most directly concerned. For further information consult the Coordinator of Armenian Studies, Dr. Louise Nalbandian, Department of History.
