

Study' series views essay objective tests

The fourth "How to Study" session begins today at 12:30 in ED 117 and deals with "Facing up to Exams and Finals."

Dr. Morton Keston, associate professor of psychology, and Dr. Otto Butz, associate professor of social science, will examine the difference in preparing for essay and objective-type exams, as well as give advice on the best way to handle each.

The one-hour session is divided into twenty minute talks by each of the two men and twenty minute question and answer period for student queries.

Keston, who holds MA degrees in music and science as well as a doctorate in psychology, will explain how professors construct objective-type exams and how the student can best prepare for them.

Butz, who taught at Princeton and Swarthmore before coming to SF State, has had four books published. He will dissect the essay-type exam and explain the best methods of preparation for it.

More than 700 students have attended the "Y"-sponsored sessions this semester.

Band concert today

The SF State Dance Band will give a concert today at 12:30 in the Gallery Lounge. Bill Perkins is student director of the band and John Landy is sax soloist.

SNCC chairman to talk on plight of Negro voter

By DICK KRECK

A member of the "new generation of Negro" is rising and a representative example of it will be speaking in A&I 109 today at 12 noon.

Charles McDew, chairman of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee and a graduate of South Carolina College, will be speaking, primarily, to raise funds for his group's work of registering Negroes to vote in the South.

SNCC (pronounced "snick") was originally formed in Atlanta, Ga., as a group to gather and disseminate sit-in information to students in the South.

But as the organization grew, so did its purposes and McDew grew along with it.

The 24-year-old Ohio native became interested in SNCC as a college student and then moved up to become the South Carolina representative to the SNCC council.

Born out of the philosophies of Martin Luther King in March 1960, SNCC and its members follow the basic tenet of non-violence.

The main aim—register Negro voters in the South.

It has been a tremendous task. In Terrell County, Alabama (sometimes referred to as "Terrible Terrell"), there are 8,209 Negro residents and only 4,533 whites. Of this number, 2,894 whites are registered to vote while only 51 Negroes are signed up for the same privilege.

There is resistance from local police officers:

"There's not a nigger in Terrell County who wants to make application to vote who has to have someone from Massachusetts or Ohio or New York to come down here and carry them up there to vote."

The speaker is Chief Deputy Z. T. Mathews of Terrell County.

"We want our colored people to go on living like they have for the last hundred years."

McDew and his group of some 75,000 students are determined to see this doesn't happen.

In addition to speaking at SF State, McDew will make appearances at Bay Area colleges and universities. He will also talk to civic and religious leaders in San Francisco in the hopes of extracting financial aid for his cause.

The speech, sponsored by the AS Human Relations Commission, is scheduled to last two hours with a question period to follow.

Ole Miss raps editor for stand

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—The student governing body of the University of Mississippi Tuesday night reprimanded Sidna Brower, editor of the school's newspaper, for failing to uphold the students' rights in "a time of grave crisis" created by the presence of a Negro and federal forces on the campus.

And the Campus Senate, in a 62-27 roll call vote, "strongly requested" that the pretty 21-year-old brunette from Memphis, Tenn., "take steps to correct such failure to represent her fellow students on such issues of vital importance to the student body."

The Campus Senate, composed of representatives from dormitories, fraternities and sororities, scolded Miss Brower for failing "to represent and uphold the rights of her fellow students" in the controversy touched off by the admission of Negro James H. Meredith to "Ole Miss."

Geology class offered

"Five Days in Death Valley," an extension course (Geology 132) will be offered during the Christmas vacation from December 16-20 for one unit.

Dr. York Mandra and Kenneth Miller of the geology department will be the instructors. Students interested in the five day camping trip should contact Dr. Mandra in S-112B.

Folberg's bill tabled - again

By Mahmoud Abouzeid, Jr.
Managing Editor

THE SF STATE Foundation Board of Governors discussed the proposal for a student majority on the Board for nearly two hours and then tabled it at their Tuesday meeting.

INTRODUCED at the Board's last meeting on Thursday, Oct. 18 by AS President Jay Folberg, and tabled then, the proposal met a similar fate Tuesday after remarks made by President Paul A. Dodd, Executive Dean Harold E. Brakebill and Leo McClatchy, professor of accounting and law.

THE COLLEGE president voiced two primary reservations to Folberg's proposal which calls for two additional student representatives on the present nine-man board, giving

Business Club guest discusses creative selling

The Business Club will hold an open meeting on Thursday, December 6 at 1 p.m. in AD 102.

Robert Pincus, sales manager of Smith-Corona-Marchant in San Francisco, will speak on "the lure and romance of creative selling."

The meeting will be open to everyone. Refreshments will be served.

ing the student block six out of 11 seats.

- The President informed the board that Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke's office has initiated a state-wide study of the organization of foundations on California State College campuses. In view of that fact, the President continued, perhaps it would be wise to wait until the study is completed before taking any action.

- THE PRESIDENT'S second point concerned the autonomy of the Board. As the Foundation is set up, it was clarified, it is an "independent legal entity." As such, the President of the college has no control over it. This, President Dodd said, is in conflict with his charged duties by the Board of Trustees of the State Colleges to oversee all matters conducted on the campus. Legally, he has no control over the decisions made by the Board. Should a decision be made by the Board with which the President does not agree, he has no power to do anything about it, Dodd said.

THOUGH no such decision has been made, the chance of it being made does exist. And the chances of such a position arising would be greater with a student majority, he added in answer to a question.

McCLATCHY informed the group of the "legal technicalities" of such a move.

- If such action is taken by the Board, he suggested it be done through the Foundation by-laws rather than an article. He informed the Board members that any change in the articles would have to be reported to the Secretary of State and the County Clerk.

- ANY SUCH CHANGE in the number of Board members would have to come from the Foundation membership and not the Board of Governors. Though both are the same group, the action should legally be taken as a vote of the membership (recess the meeting, take the vote, reconvene).

- Any change in number of Board membership must be reported to the Internal Revenue Service for possible tax purposes.

CHAIRMAN Brakebill read to the Board several sections from the Education Code, the Administrative Code and the lease signed between the SF State Foundation and the college.

Brakebill ended his legal readings with the statement that as far as the "legal question" is involved, the Board can act without any rebuke from the Chancellor's office.

HE ADDED, however, that the Board should consider four points.

- The responsibility of the President of the College to the Chancellor and the Trustees.

- THE responsibility of the college itself to the Trustees and the Chancellor.

- That the increase would upset the present balance on the Board.

- THERE IS a question as to whether the present balance should be changed keeping in mind the problem of student attendance at Board meetings prior to this academic year.

Folberg reiterated his arguments for his proposal. He told the Board that since the students are the Foundation's primary patrons, they should have majority say on the Board. Secondly, he reasoned, the residence halls are not represented. Although they represent only 800 students, their patronage supplies the Foundation food services with more than half of their gross receipts.

IN ANSWER to President Dodd's suggestion for postponement of any action, Folberg stated that there is no connection between the study and his proposal. He added that should action be taken by the Board, it could assist the Chancellor in his study.

As to Brakebill's summation of the legal points, the AS President said that nowhere in the legal readings was the implication made of the illegality of such action.

DR. CURTIS ALLER, chairman of the department of economics, endorsed Folberg's proposal.

"Whose voice on policy is sues ought to be most powerful?" he asked. "I think the students should be in the most dominant position. I would very strongly propose that action be taken today," he added.

AS TREASURER Tom Ramsay, who had voiced reservations to Folberg's proposal at the last meeting, announced his support for the move. "I have to agree with Jay," he said. "The best interests of the student do lay with a student majority on the Board."

The lengthy discussion of the proposal ended with it being tabled.

It will be brought up for consideration again at the Board's next meeting on Friday, December 14.

Humor magazine editor plagued by 'severe cold'

Dave Felton, editor of Garter, the campus humor magazine, was forced to cancel all classes for the rest of the week because of a severe cold.

Sources close to Garter operations suggested that Felton may have contracted the cold after spending several rainy nights watching the residences of top administration officials.

Felton himself was unavailable for comment.

Legal bar boon

WE GREET WITH cheers the recent decision which makes it legal for a dispenser of alcoholic beverages to set up shop next to a college campus and forthwith begin dispensation. (See story below.)

It is our fond hope, in fact, one of our wilder dreams, that some pleasant entrepreneur will immediately locate upon the corner of 19th and Holloway. What a boon to the college this would be!

WHAT AN INCENTIVE to come to school! No more of this dragging out of the sack with only the prospect of the Gater and a rabble-rousing speech to break up the day.

Bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, we'd squeeze into the M car, knowing we had time for a quick one before class. And between class. And after class. And, occasionally, when the Muse so moved, cutting class.

THE SHOEMAKER WOULD undoubtedly be disgruntled though. No more long hikes to the Lake Merced Lodge or the Zanzibar, and consequently less frequent trips to his establishment. But the money saved would be well spent.

The Associated Students might also begin thinking about building the college union off-campus. Then it could have a bar in it. Space on campus is at a premium. What little there is might be reserved to be used for classrooms and the union located nearby to take advantage of the new situation.

THE QUESTION OF a bar never arose in the early survey and programming of the union, because it was clearly ridiculous to have a union a mile or more away. But now the situation is changed. It could be right across the street.

There would seem to be little question of its financial success; the average age here is 23. And we doubt that too many are abstainers. At least, on a campus renowned for lost causes, we haven't heard of anyone forming a temperance union.

BUT COME WHAT may, we do hope someone takes advantage of this blow to the blue-noses. It represents a golden opportunity, to the students in their quest for ever greater identification with SF State, and to whoever would rake in the coin.

Collegiates need not drive to get gassed

Liquor, beer and wine can now be served virtually on the doorstep of colleges and universities in California, according to a new ruling by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

The ruling makes unconstitutional the law prohibiting liquor, beer and wine licenses being issued within a mile of any college or university campus.

The decision was made in favor of a Los Angeles restaurant owner located 200 feet away from the UCLA campus.

According to Daily Californian, where the story first appeared, no restaurants have decided on any definite action as yet.

One fraternity man was quoted as "really hot for the idea." A dormitory resident commented that the rule "won't change anything, it will just save students gas."

The ruling, made in 1959 by the Department of the ABC, was deemed unconstitutional by the Board as "an unlawful usurpation of the legislative function."

Letters to the Editor

Flood, again?

Editor:

I read with interest the article appearing in our morning paper, Friday, October 19, concerning the four students who quit a geology course because, as they said, their professor's views undermined their religious beliefs.

I noticed Dr. York Mandra said the earth could not have been completely covered with water at any one time.

May I refer you to Genesis 7:17-23. You will find that the whole earth including all the hills, and even the mountains were covered with water.

God did not need, nor did he use scientists to create this world. Neither did he send the rain piece-meal.

Verses 12 and 17 of Genesis 7 tell us it rained forty days and forty nights. And verse 24 of the same chapter says "the waters prevailed upon the earth a hundred and fifty days."

The four students and any others are to be highly commended for courage to stand up for their beliefs in God and his word.

Thank God for young people like you and may many more stand up and be counted for God.

(Mrs.) Norman Palmer

Race relations

It is with mixed emotions that I write this letter. I find myself caught in a dilemma—to respond to the editorial of Nov. 29 "Ridiculous Race Relations" or write expressing my views about the conference on Racial and Religious Prejudice which was sponsored by the National Conference of Christian and Jews, which also took place on Nov. 29. Time and space won't allow me to do both.

The only thing that I will say about the editorial, is that it expressed, generally, a strong propensity for ignorance of the Negro American, German American and WW II.

Moreover, it missed the whole point of Mr. Warden's talk, which was to bring about an environment in the black communities ("ghettos" if you will) conducive to the eradication of the physical and psychological "self-hatred" of the Negro, and to restore in its place a sense of "pride and dignity."

Once this is accomplished the Negro then, if he wishes, can seek to integrate but integrate as equals.

The Creative Arts Division is to be commended for its participation and contribution in a program which concerned itself with racial and religious prejudice.

The Creative Arts (stage, screen, TV) has an enormous role to play in the eradication of the images and myths which has fostered and perpetuated for so long.

Anyone seen a gab machine?

One lone student, desperately clutching a dime in his hand, searches frantically around the SF State campus for a telephone booth.

Impossible? Although there are some 30 public telephone booths on the campus, excluding the seven in Merced Hall and the seven in Mary Ward Hall, students find it difficult to locate them within the buildings. Architectural design has made it possible to make these "communication boxes" look as inconspicuous as possible.

The locations of phone booths is as follows:

- Administration Building: one telephone booth outside the side entrance, and three public phones inside next to the switchboard operators.

- HLL Building: one on the first floor entering from the inside court; and one on the second floor across from the division office.

- BSS Building: one on the first floor across from room 104; one on the second floor next to the division office.

- Library: two booths immediately inside the entrance; two more across from the elevators; one in the middle of the hall on the second floor.

- Commons: four telephone booths near the restrooms; and one on the outside between the Huts and the Commons. The Coffee Shop has no public phones.

- Art Building: one on the first floor, directly in the middle; and one on the second floor across from room 213.

- Creative Arts Building: one telephone booth in the lobby of the main auditorium; one in the lobby of the Little Theatre; and one next to the drama department office.

- Education Building: two telephone booths on the first floor only, located directly in the middle of the hall.

- Gym: one telephone booth at the women's entrance, and one booth at the men's entrance.

- Science Building: one telephone booth located on the first floor across from the division office.

The Bookstore and the Health Center seem to be the only places where a public telephone cannot be found.

Gater briefs...

- STATE will hold an election of officers and discuss municipal elections today at 12:15 p.m. in BSS 109.

- The SF State Chamber Music Group will perform today at 5 p.m. in the Gallery Lounge.

Classical and contemporary chamber music will be played.

- The Alpine Club will hold a meeting today at 1 p.m. in HLL 101 to make plans for their New Year's Ski Trip.

- The Lutheran Student Association will present a Bible Study and Discussion today at 12:15 p.m. in ED 34.

Upper division males offered Morse grants

Material and service fees for three students will be paid by the new Stanley Morse Scholarship, Dr. Urban Whitaker, Jr., coordinator of scholarships announced last week.

Created by the men's honor fraternity Sigma Alpha Eta, the scholarship is named in honor of the SF State professor of chemistry who retired last June.

The award is available to upper division men students with a 2.5 or higher grade point average, interested in extra-curricular activities, and in need of financial assistance.

Three finalists will be chosen by the college Scholarship Committee.

Applications may be obtained daily from 1-5 p.m. at the scholarship office, AD 166.

Deadline for applications is December 12.

Indian relief

Students dance, sing

Several SF State overseas students will participate in a benefit performance for the Indian Border Relief Fund Saturday night, December 8, at the St. Boniface Church Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Punjab Folk Dance Troupe, the show will include dance numbers from Israel, Columbia, Philippines, Nigeria, Hawaii, and India.

Indian classical dancer Livia Frank, an SF State student, will be among the performers. America will be represented by folk singers from SF State.

The featured guest at the affair will be Mr. P. N. Menon, consul general of India.

The proceeds from the show will be used to provide relief for the displaced civilians around the combat zone of the Sino-Indian border conflict.

A two dollar donation to the fund will provide admittance to the 8 p.m. performance to be held in the church auditorium at 133 Golden Gate Avenue. Indian food will be sold after the show.

Viau gives first trumpet recital

Laurence R. Viau, senior music major at SF State, will give a trumpet recital on Monday, December 10, in the Little Theatre.

This will be the first trumpet recital in recent years and Viau is playing from the works of Mack Crooks, S. L. Syverud and Stuart Dempster.

The recital will begin at 8:30 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Legislature seeks clerk

The AS Legislature is looking for a clerk for next semester, and what's more, there's pay involved.

Speaker Bob Hill said the duties would be "typing and taking notes, not necessarily in shorthand."

Pay will be $1.35 per hour and require about 20 hours per week. Applicants should see him in Hut T-2 or call extension 251, he said.

Microbiology lab constructed in science building

Workmen on the second floor of the science building rip out the old walls in the remodeling process, and pass the debris . . .

By GEOFFREY LINK

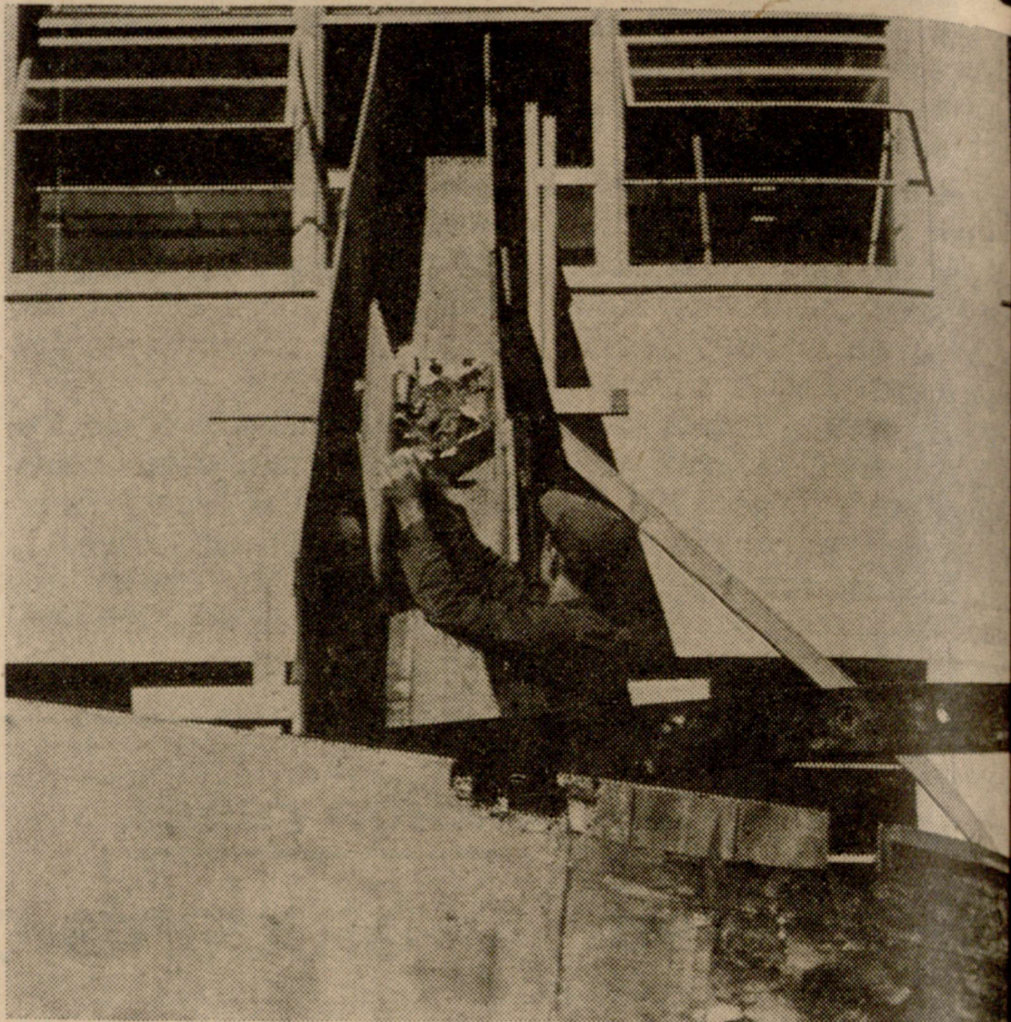

Every few minutes students in the science building are awakened from their peaceful reveries by the sounds of debris sliding down a chute into a waiting truck.

The chute is an ungainly wooden structure protruding from a second-story window in room 213. The debris is the result of construction to bring the microbiology laboratory up to date.

Rooms 212, 213, and 215 are being remodeled to "utilize the facilities to most effectively teach and study biology, emphasizing molecular biology," Dr. Donald W. Fletcher, assistant professor of biology said.

The remodeling was broken down into three major phases:

- The remodeling of media (food for cultures), glassware, and sterilization areas.
- Providing space for grad-

. . . out a window, down a chute to a truck waiting below to haul it away. Cost of the remodeling will be about $86,000.

uate student research.

- Teaching labs will be more efficiently utilized to allow more students use of the facilities.

The cost of remodeling and construction is approximately $86,000, announced Orrin D. Land, business manager.

The three rooms will be divided into five areas:

Room 212 will house the rabbits, guinea pigs, rats, and mice used for research of disease-producing micro organisms, and the study of immunology. This is the study of the immune state and the study of antibody formation.

213 C and D will contain the facilities for glassware cleaning and sterilization as well as the preparation of food for the microbiological cultures.

Room 213 proper will be the general microbiology teaching laboratory.

213A and 215A will be for graduate student research.

Room 215 proper will be the advanced microbiology laboratory.

215C is scheduled for the virology laboratory where pathogens (disease-producing micro organisms) are studied. There will be a controlled environmental room which will be able to operate from 0 to 65 degrees Centigrade. This is from 32 to 149 degrees of the Fahrenheit scale.

The remodeling will also include a refrigerator, an automatic dishwasher, and additional sterilizing facilities.

The construction is scheduled to be completed by February 15, the first week of the spring semester.

Dr. Fletcher cited the remodeling as an approach to a more modern biology. Previously, the smallest unit of life man was concerned with was the cell, which Fletcher compared to studying the atom.

Gift exchange planned

An exchange of gifts between SF State students will be the feature of the Christmas Reception in the Gallery Lounge Wednesday, December 12. The gift should be placed under the Lounge's Christmas tree on Monday and Tuesday, December 10 and 11, and picked up between 2 and 4 p.m. the day of the reception. The name of the recipient on the gift is all that's necessary. The senders are requested to remain anonymous. Christmas carols, hot-spiced apple cider, coffee, and fruitcake are other features. The affair is an innovation of Christmas week activities at SF State. It is designed "to put a little humanity back into the day," says Audrey Gauss, Gallery Lounge director.

ANNOUNCING THE 1963-1964 AFFLERBACH FELLOWSHIPS*

BACKGROUND OF THE COMPETITION: No matter how much time our People in Naming spend thinking up just the right color names for our shirts (Maize, Stone Green, Peat Blue, etc.), the Eagle Secret Shoppers inevitably report that you choose your Eagle shirts with such statements as "Gimme six of them greenish ones" or "Could I bother you for two or three dozen of those stri-ped ones." Our problem is in selecting names which will capture the imagination of the shirt-buying public. ❖ NATURE OF THE COMPETITION: The 10 Afflerbachs for 1963-64 will go to those persons suggesting the best names for our colors. Imagination-capturing names, like Well Red, Long Green, Charlie Brown, or Navel Orange. You may wish to inspect our shirts—for inspiration, if not purchase. Eagle shirts don't always have an Eagle label—some fine stores sew in their own—but if you write us, we'll suggest your nearest Eagle Shirt Color Inspection Station. ❖ STIPEND: The grand prize winner will have his (or her) choice of a Traveling Afflerbach (a grand all-expense-paid weekend at the Bush House in Quakertown—an exciting chance to become acquainted with the natives—many of whom are us, including Miss Revera Afflerbach, herself) or a Stationary Afflerbach (a dozen Eagle Button-down shirts). The 9 other Afflerbachs will consist of a grant of four Eagle Button-down shirts. Each, that is. ❖ RULES: The competition is open to all students and faculty members at schools, as well as to those who have filled in the coupon below.

*This, actually, is Eagle's second competition in as many years. Those of you who partook of the first, that is, what to do with the pocket on a Shirtkerchief, will doubtless be excited to learn that the book containing many of your letters to Miss Afflerbach has now been published by the Macmillan Co. and is now available at your bookseller. We have called it Dear Miss Afflerbach, or The Postman Hardly Ever Rings 11,342 Times, and the price is $4.95.

Jim Fairchild, above, Cal alumnus and two time NCAA side horse champion, has added his name to the list of national champions who will be competing in SF State's Invitational Gymnastics Meet, tomorrow at 7 p.m.

The University of California, with an abundance of top gymnasts, will enter at least two teams in the race for the team trophy. Cal has won the award in two previous Invitionals.

SF State's team will perform at noon today and tomorrow in front of the Speaker's Platform, to promote the event. Today's rally will be highlighted by the apearance of Art Shurlock, an alternate member of the US Olympic team.

Advance tickets will be on sale at both exhibitions, $1 regular and 50 cents for student admission.

At San Jose tonight

Carson shines as Gators bumble way to 86-58 loss

By DICK KRECK

After presenting a classic demonstration of high school basketball Tuesday night, SF State will try to right itself tonight when it meets unbeaten San Jose State at 8:15 p.m. in the Spartan Gym.

The Gators dropped their second game of the season Tuesday when they bumbled their way to a disheartening 86-58 loss to Santa Clara at the San Jose Civic.

SF State led only once — 3-1 with about two minutes gone in the game. It was the last close look they had at the lanky Broncos.

With big Joe Weiss getting loose and scoring with shocking regularity, Santa Clara pulled out to a 20-9 lead half-way through the first half.

By this time, it was apparent that the Gators either weren't interested in playing much basketball or that they were hopelessly outclassed.

The latter was far from true as the Broncos do not have one of their better teams.

But SF State just couldn't seem to get together. Missed passes, various infractions and poor shots put the game out of reach before the Gators could get started.

Reliable Mike Carson

played above the melange as he scored 14 points and performed well on defense although, as usual, he was several inches shorter than the man he was guarding.

If the Gators hope to have any better luck against San Jose tonight, they will have to do two things:

- Rid themselves of foolish passing and ball control errors.
- Improve their shooting tremendously—at least above the liliputian 28 per cent they shot against Santa Clara.

The SF State Frosh, which collapsed in the final minute after leading the Santa Clara Frosh by eight points and lost 84-65, will meet the San Jose Frosh in a preliminary game at 6:15 tonight.

Girls get in the swim today

An individual and team swimming competition, sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association, will be held today, from 12:30 until 2 p.m. All women students are invited to take part.

and in more than 100 countries around the world

In all 50 states, the big switch is to Marlboro

Remember 1955, when Marlboro came to town? Suddenly, the U.S. had a flavor cigarette with a filter on the end. Sales grew in every town, in every state. Today the whole place is Marlboro country—land of the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. Behind this popularity is the famous Richmond recipe of ripe tobaccos (the finest grown), and the pure white Selectrate Filter. Pack or box, you get a lot to like.
