

EXTENDED SERVICES

LATE AFTERNOON AND EVENING CLASSES

Classes covering a wide range of academic and professional subjects are conducted on the campus during the late afternoon and evening hours (after 4 p.m.) for regular students and for those unable to attend daytime sessions. Credit earned in these classes is accepted for residence requirements. Three-unit courses offered in the late afternoon and evening will be reduced in unit value when classes meet only once a week. For information on schedule of courses offered, see page 58; program restrictions, page 59; admission procedure, page 54.

EXTENSION CLASSES

The college offers off-campus extension classes in regularly listed college courses when student demand is sufficiently large to finance the instruction. These courses are arranged each year in the area served by the college. For information regarding courses, course fees, and instructional costs, write to the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions.

The college allows enrollment in 6 units of extension courses per semester as a maximum for teachers employed full time. See Program Restrictions on page 59, for statement regarding extension classes. Not more than a total of 24 units by extension and correspondence can be applied toward a bachelor's degree. Not more than 12 units of extension and correspondence courses may be transferred from another college or university.

Not more than 6 units of the 30 units required for the master's degree may be earned in extension courses, student teaching, transfer credit or any combination of these. When 200 series courses are taught by extension and carry the designation "E" after the number, they are counted as upper division courses (100 series) in master's degree programs. Candidates for the master's degree should check with the Graduate Office or departmental graduate adviser to learn whether specific courses may be applied on their graduate programs.

SUMMER SESSIONS

Fresno State College conducts summer sessions on its campus in Fresno, on the Bakersfield College campus, and on the College of the Sequoias campus in Visalia. Special workshop sessions are held in other valley centers. The Fresno and Bakersfield six-week sessions follow the spring semester; the Visalia and Fresno post sessions follow the Fresno and Bakersfield sessions, offering the possibility of completing a maximum of 11 weeks in a single summer. The maximum allowable credit is one semester unit of credit for each five days of attendance, except that one additional semester unit may be allowed for each 30 days of attendance in activity courses in physical education, band, orchestra, chorus, and dramatics. The offerings at these sessions include a variety of courses suited to the needs of teachers and leading to the bachelor's and master's degrees and to elementary, secondary, administration, supervision, and special credentials. The offerings also include courses of a general cultural nature in various academic departments. A bulletin describing the offerings of all sessions is ready for distribution in March. Students who are interested in attending should write to the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions, Fresno State College, Fresno 26, California.