

I'll be wanting to hear what you couldn't remember tonight -
when next we make contact. And selfishly, I hope you don't go with the Glee Club, Wednesday and Dearest Darling!

In der Mitte des Nachts
Friday - going on Sat.
April 2 + 1965

that we can have don't want dinner. Since you don't want to do the memorizing!

I had a wonderful time tonight. The panel was lots of fun - you'd have enjoyed every minute of it!

The membership was Mr. Rush (to complete his doctoral work at Oregon State come summer), (He's on the Sociology faculty now - was one of the faculty for the workshop on population with me last summer), Sandra Goosée (pronounced goozay) (student), John Sullivan (student), _____ Epstein (student) and I. Dr. Cadwallader came up on the platform and joined us also. He seems to be a sort of Father Confessor and Hail Companion to the Sociology majors. The topic turned out to be more complex than had been announced to me:
namely: Birth Control, Abortion and the Population Explosion. I led off by giving a brief exposition of the biological basis of the population problem and the others followed with various segments of the topic, Cadwallader finishing with a reassuring (and characteristically brilliant & humorous) handling of the bearing of all that was said on Catholicism and the Catholic Church. He has a friendly & sympathetic attitude toward the Catholic Church & presented data to show that the Church officially is changing its attitude on all aspects of the population problem and many other problems.

The students were exceedingly open, frank, and honest — refreshingly so. There was much good feeling, good humor & plain speaking. The radio audience — got a fine example of a group of young minds engaged in earnest thinking, discussion, and expression. The entire performance was taped, so perhaps we can get the tape & you can hear as much as you wish of it. We didn't stop, though, until after ten o'clock even though the broadcasting stopped at ten.

Following the forum, Larry Gooding (Tau Delta Phi & prime mover in the Open-ended Forum) and his wife Dorothy invited me to their home for a party — one of a series which they have held after each forum, it seems. They have an apartment in a small house - or maybe they have the whole little house - Anyway they have half again as much room as I have here - maybe as much as you have but differently arranged. Students - boys & girls, married & unmarried drifted in over a two and a half hour period. Dr. Cadwallader came & there was a constant chatter of conversation. I'll tell you more about it later.

Now for you and me. You were absolutely delightful when we had dinner, Wednesday. You are so pretty - lovely - beautiful when your eyes flash with righteous indignation as they did when you were telling me about your "Tutoring" on Tuesday evening. I'll have to hear all the interesting developments on your subsequent sessions. With your appealing face, your understanding (you have it - instinctively plus what you have from your own difficult childhood) and with your imagination, I know that you'd be doing a lot of good and doubtless some real soul saving. I hope that you can stay with the volunteer program and if I were a little kid needing help, I too would have asked "Are you going to come back again?"

I was pleased also to have you say that you now are very happy and to reveal that this is because you feel that you really are finding yourself and becoming more secure in your feelings toward other people. In your new decision to withhold trust & confidence in others till they prove themselves (Did you recognize that this is essentially what I recommended to you?), don't make a complete shift from over trust to too much cynicism. You are too beautiful, in your manner now to justify any complete changeover. Just hold back a little, keep more in reserve, and grant trust & confidence in proportion as others show by their actions that they merit it - but then, for the few (and they will be few) who merit extensive trust - be ultimately generous in giving it. When you said you weren't going to trust anyone any more, I take it you are automatically exempting your Mom, Doris, from this judgment and, I hope also, me - I think that we justify your complete trust, even though - as you have told me - and rightly so your love and affection for us will differ. Well then could be more said, but this is enough for now. Phone to see if I'm in when you return tomorrow, or Sunday, and Monday. I'll have the white roses for you. Love as always - Carl.
