In Memory Of Daniel Richard Coleman

In our lives, we will have friends, family, and loved ones. Very seldom does one come along who is all three of these, and more. In today's society where hatred, violence, and immorality run rampant, it is seldom a person comes along who exemplifies goodness, kindness, and caring.

Dan was one of these rare individuals. His smile and personality were like the sunshine after a rainy day. He loved everyone, and had a gentle heart. The light in his eyes and the hop in his walk was epitome of being alive. Can anyone that saw Dan run forget the way his hair bounced in the wind?

He was born to run. A natural athlete, his idea of a perfect day was playing sports all day and then watching them all night on TV. The basketball court and soccer field were ablaze with his energy.

Those who knew him will remember him for what he was: the MVP. I may never see Dan again on this plane of existence, but I'll always remember . . .

Dan would be watching TV, so closely, adjusting the glasses he hated to wear . . .

Dan would spin cushions, books, pillows, whatever, on his finger . . .

Dan would show up, in his favorite blue shorts and white T-shirt . . .

Dan would accelerate on the soccer field, looking like poetry in motion . . .

But most of all, I'll remember the way Dan enjoyed life. He was my best friend. I loved him. He called my parents mom and dad. He was always nice, always gracious, always trusting. I will remember him always.

On August 18, 1991, I lost a brother. But his memory lives on with me. In the words of his favorite song "It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday."

Goodbye, Uh-Dan. I love you.

Editor's Statement

Harriet warned me at the beginning of the year. Carl Obermeier warned me. Baz ElSayed, my roommate at the time, also warned me. Two major and one minor Weather Gods warned me. But I ignored them all and took on the job of editing the yearbook from hell.

To begin with, it was fun. Getting my own office without actually producing anything until the PREVIOUS book was done. Then Obermeier finished the 1991 Hawsepipe and the buck was duly passed. I managed to evade Harriet for the better part of the year and still kept my office space. In May of 1992 — the original delivery date — I decided it was high time to actually be productive for a change. I slowly (I DO mean slowly) put out about a dozen pages, but not really with any zeal.

In August 1992, sometime during Indoc Week, somebody decided they needed my office to be their office and I and my eight hundred plus back issues were thrown out onto the loading dock. Later that day, I got placed in the old Conference Housing Office in the Commons.

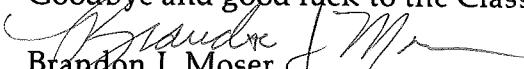

Two weeks later, they gave me a key.

Eventually, I got a few volunteers — Mark Neale and Matt Guanci by name — and the senior section was completed at long last. By then, we were on the downhill run. I talked Harriet into doing the faculty section, leaving only nineteen pages to go. And this is the last of them, completed on December third, 1992. Thanks go to Harriet for helping me sit down and do the last 19 in a single marathon session.

I would also like to use this space to formally and sincerely apologize to the Class of 1992 for not getting this done sooner. Next time, don't leave stuff like this to a freshman.

To those of you still enrolled as students of any class: get involved. Join yearbook staff, help produce the book, and guarantee that there will be one. Otherwise, you have no one to blame, except the obvious.

Goodbye and good luck to the Class of 1992. Congratulations.
