

and understanding of people like you that
eased the way for us.

In the main, I believe that education was a blessing in disguise in that it enabled us to spread across the U. S., in search of further
schooling and careers.
All of us have reached
reasonable success
through diligence and proper application of
our inherent talents,
so much so that in
some instances, we