C.M.A. is not an average school. We are a unique conglomeration of persons from a myriad of backgrounds. How then do we manage to live together in such close proximite without driving each other mad?

To simplify a very complicated situation let me say that our ability to endure this sometimes depressing and often frustrating situation is accomplished by the fact that we can laugh at ourselves and at each other. C.M.A. humor is the key to our mental stability, or lack of it. We are able to take the most trying situations and take them seriously while at the same time making light of them.

Now don't get me wrong in general we take our careers very seriously and when it come to classes and tests we don't joke around too much. But who can keep from laughing when Mr. McDermott throws you on for missing Navigation when you are a first class engineer. Or when Mr. Sims gives you a pink sheet for an illegally parked car when you don't even have a drivers license.

So dear reader you can see that we have plenty to laugh about. While our education is highly technical and useful, some of the discipline is inconsisted and poorly excuted.

When we graduate from this place we are the sharpest Engineers and Mates presently graduating from any Maritime Academy. Our passing rate for the Coast Guard Exams is nearly 100% which is hard to improve upon. This statistics stands as a testimony to the effectiveness of our instructors and the excellent academic program here. With such a good academic teaching record it would seem logical that the Commandants record would be of the same excellent quality. This at times is not the case. There are constantly people on the verge of getting kicked out for such horrible offenses as, parking, haircuts, shoes not shinned, bed not made, need I go on? What has happened to a little bit of personal intigenty. Why are people constantly getting in trouble for such inconsequential problems.

A lot of it has to do with the method of inforcement. Why did one Commandant suffice for 30 years and then it was determined that we needed 5. Maybe part of the problem is over enforcement. If the students were forced to police each other there might be less of a problem, because peer pressure is the worst.

To sum all this up, CMA is far from perfect, but it has a whole lot of potential for being near perfect. Our education is great and getting better. Sure things do need definite refinement though, but a sense of humor has helped make things easier to take. With this in mind, I offer the following quote:

Changes in latitude
Changes in attitude nothing remains quite the same, but with all of our running and all of our cunning,
If we we wouldn't laugh we would all go insane . . .
Jimmy Buffet

For Maureen Browning:

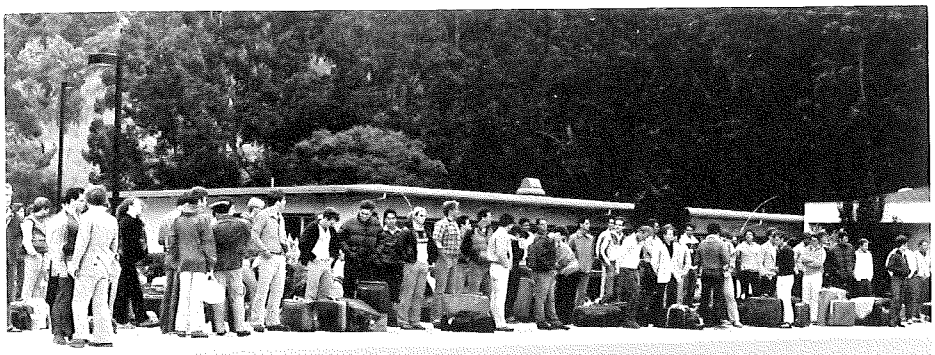

When someone from the C.M.A. Community dies we all die a bit.

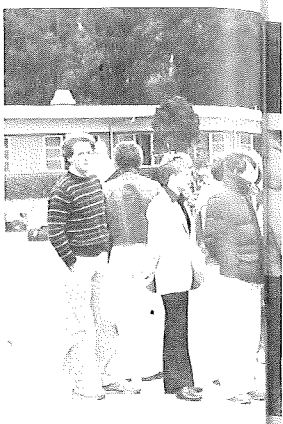

Mureen was a person of such devotion that everyone at the Academy feels the loss. At Thanksgiving she always took middies into her house for turkey dinner. Just when you thought the whole world had collapsed you could go into her office and she was always ready with a smile and a kind word. Many times she suppresed her inner feelings and gave an outword appearance of happiness just to make us feel better.

We will all miss her and send our thoughts and Prayers to her family.

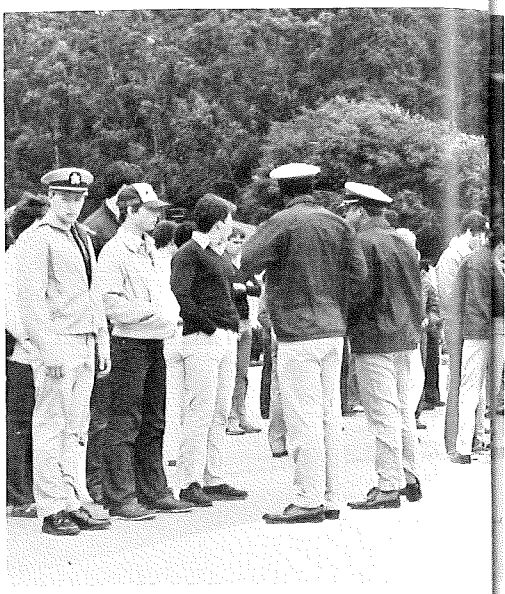

Godspeed Maureen . . .

1. Who are these masked men? 2. The new front three and a half. 3. I like it when you touch me like that. 4. Wizard! 5. The newest thing in uniforms.

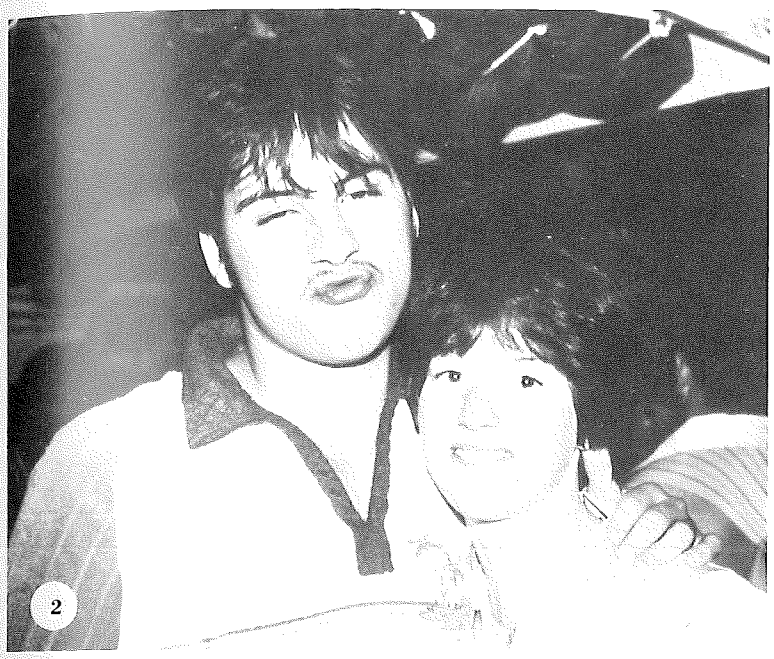

BOAT DANCE

The boat dance replaced the traditional Fall Follies of CMA. This dance was one of CMA's most successful and gayla events of the year. This was the only event which was sold out, but still lost money.

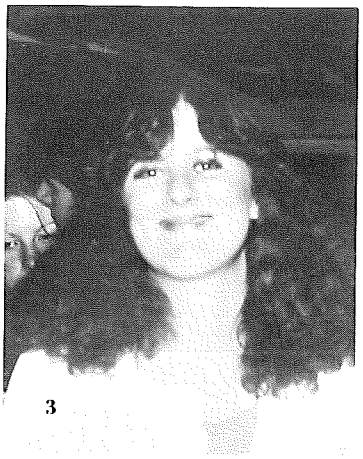

The dance took place on board a Blue and Gold fleet boat. The boat left of time returned a few short minutes later to pick up some late comers. The weather was cool and clear. A good time was had by all!!

1. Perry looking over his date. 2. Rob and Cindy after dancing a while. 3. Night life for Debbie. 4. Urban cowboy in action.5. Gather around the bar boys.

I have concluded that the entire CMA experience is totally meaningless. All the trite decrees that have been foisted on me have come to no avail and are therefore without substance, FOR I HAVE SURMOUNTED THEM ALL.

The education is priceless, and the establishment worthless. The administration's past efforts are inconsequential, therefore, nonexistent, and have no bearing whatsoever on my personal life.

I wish that I had discovered these facts earlier, since fighting the "system" has turned me into a cynical bitter man. I hope that you don't let CMA affect you in a negative manner, and I wish you all the best of luck.

The jokes's on those of us who think we can get through unscathed, because we've put our precious consciousness in a box for safekeeping until we've passed through the initiation rites; you go back to dig it up again, that hope chest, and find that you've forgotten where you buried it, there's no treasure map and you're all at sea. Half forgotten promises. We were arrogant, thinking that there did exist an in and an out, a demarcation like one-way glass that kept us private in our room with a view. They see us just as we see them, at oblique angles and at odd moments, and they piece together a portrait of each one of us as reliable as our smeared finger-paints have rendered them; we dislike on principle and so by God do they.

I'd like to thank my friends and allies at CMA whose names are engraved in the surrounding pages and in my heart as well.

Thanks to Grandma, Grandpa, Aunt Mary, Uncle Al, Uncle Bob, and Betty. It is great help when you know that there are people in your life who really care.

My deepest appreciation to Granny, who perhaps cares the most, and to my sister Laura, who has coached me through some difficult situations.

Most of all, I thank Mom and Dad for convincing me early on that education is worthwile and never pushing hard enough for me to lose interest. I could never repay them. The best two friends I have in this world are Mom and Dad.

These are not my words; they are the words of the Master who taught me. Without Him I could have done nothing, but through his help I have set my feet upon the path. You also desire to enter the same path, so the words which He spoke to me will help you also, if you will obey them. It is not enough to say they are true and beautiful; a man who wishes to succeed must do exactly what is said. To look at food and say that it is good will not satisfy a starving man; he must put forth his hand and eat. So to hear the Master's words is not enough; you must do what He says, attending to every work, taking every hint. If a hint is not taken, if a word is missed, it is lost forever; for He does not speak twice. — ALCYONE

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1981

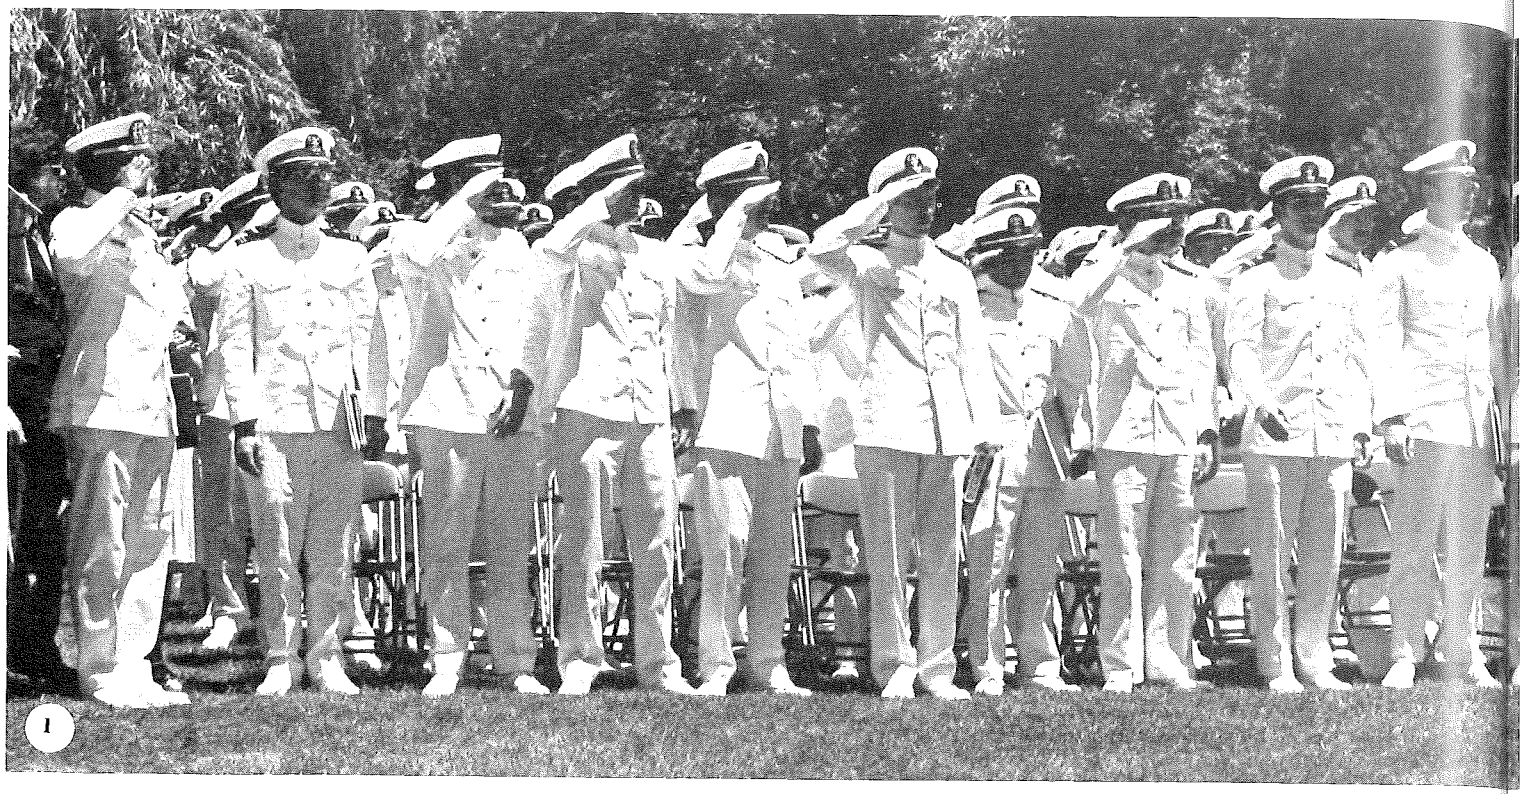

The complexities and sophistication of the modern U.S. Maritime Industry demand well-educated, trained and highly competent merchant marine officers. To meet the requirements of this modern industry, we at the Academy have made significant and major modifications aimed at modernizing our academic and training programs, and we have acquired new facilities and laboratories to support these programs.

As the fourth class to complete the modernized four-year accredited program, you have had the benefit of the finest maritime education and training in the country. Even more valuable than the professional skills and knowledge you have acquired, your training has stressed leadership, self-reliance and acceptance of responsibility. These assets will serve you well throughout your careers. You now face the challenges ahead of you as officers in the most technologically advanced merchant marine in the world.

You have talents already tested. You will have ample opportunities to use them. As you progress, the opportunities and challenges will multiply. Some of you will be true high flyers who will advance very rapidly through the industry. I believe that the majority of you will be adaptive, innovative high performers who will accept the risks of responsibity and will rise to the top. Among you are the leaders for the maritime industry at the advent of the 21st Century.

I am confident that each of you will measure up to your tasks. I challenge you to continue growing and developing and to became the leaders in tomorrow's maritime industry.

J. P. Rizza
Rear Admiral, USMS

CLOTHING STORE AND CANTEEN

99 years of progress on land and sea.

Painting by Carl G. Evers 1980

Today, after nearly a century of sea-going service between the Mainland and Hawaii, Matson continues on course with exciting innovations in shipping.

Last year our newest containership, the Kauai, completed her maiden voyage to the Aloha State. The Kauai, 720 feet long, 38,000 tons, 1,200 container capacity, is a $77 million investment in Matson's on-going commitment to the best shipping in the Pacific.

A year is a tough thing to compile. With the added difficulties of lack of interest general apathy and declining angentsin inflationary times it becomes nearly impossible. We have tried to come up with the best yearbook given with what we had to work with.

Please read this book in the way it was intended. If you are offended or shocked try to laugh instead of screaming. This yearbook was written in a bright and joking manner and parts of it are far from serious.

We want to thank everyone who helped for their dedication and effort. We enjoyed working on this book and I hope you will also enjoy reading it.
