Mr. William Randolph Hearst,
137 Riverside Drive,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Hearst:

The last of the Gothic roof trusses will be placed this week. It will take two weeks to get the concrete roof slab and clerestory (windowed) walls poured.

The ceilings are replaced in the double room made of the twins' rooms and one new "deck" room also is ready. The new Gothic dressing rooms and baths will be in shape by the end of the month. The Celestial Suite rooms will be usable also, but the hangings ordered shortly after you left met with a mishap in the weaving and new material will not be here until sometime in October.

The new stairs to the Towers are relatively quite spacious.

Although first impressions will be that nothing has been done in your vacationing, really many problems are no longer such. You may not like the furnishing, but I will gladly shift it. We have used a good many of the lovely new things, probably too good to stay permanently where now placed.

As always,

Yours very truly,

JM-M
