We made friends and then you were gone in a flash
Left with no chance to apologize
Sorry about the soiled mattress
It was all in good fun
Made it up at Disney with Patron and friends
Frenzal really does have great lyrics
So I'm coming to Cali
When the butterflies are in season
I got a bug up my ass for no good reason
Figured the pass was worth
At least two more shows
Even if I have to do it alone
Always wanted to be where I felt at home
As soon as I wear out my welcome
Please tell me to hit the road
And that is probably where I belong
It is after all what brought me here
Oxymoron and redundancy all wrapped into one
There is no way I could possibly express
The gratitude that I feel towards you
You gave me a home when I had no one

At last! Issue seven. It's 10 A.M. and a six-pack down, appropriate beginning/ending dependent on your viewpoint. The past month or so has been something of an eye-opener. It really is difficult to tell whom your real friends are, they can be found in the least likely of places.

As always, accepting contributions in email format. Any graphic designers bored? Let's talk about it. Til later.

Fadeaway

By Jersey

I remember no worry days
We had our friends
Those were the best times
I won't forget
I see you then
I see you now
I always see you around
We're all bonded forever

We are one
And one for all
If you go down
I will take the fall
If you go down
I will take the fall
We are one
And one for all

Well I've known you for so long
I hope you know where I stand
If shit goes down
You better believe you've got my hand
We've got new friends now
And I'll treat them like my own
Now matter how long we are gone for Burlington is always our home

Not going to fadeaway. Not going to fadeaway.

Man says he killed greyhounds for $10 each

May 22, 2002 Posted: 11:24 AM EDT

LILLIAN, Alabama (AP) -- Investigators found the remains of as many as 2,000 animals, including hundreds of racing dogs, on the property of a man who said he has been shooting and burying greyhounds at a charge of $10 per animal for more than 40 years.

State officials obtained a search warrant Tuesday to search the 18 acres owned by Robert Rhodes after receiving a tip from Florida investigators. Satellite images showed animal bones strewn about the property and investigators used the photographs to convince a judge to issue the warrant.

"It's almost a Dachau for dogs," said Baldwin County District Attorney David Whetstone, referring to the Nazi concentration camp where thousands of Jews were exterminated between 1933 and 1945.

Florida officials were investigating allegations that greyhounds from Pensacola Greyhound Park, a dog-racing track, have been improperly destroyed.

Rhodes, 68, told The Mobile Register that he has killed and buried as many as 2,000 animals humanely -- with a gunshot -- but did not say what tracks brought him the dogs.

"Wouldn't you assume a person doing this for 40 years would know how to put them down?" he said. "I would not condone any torture."

Whetstone said he is considering criminal charges against Rhodes under the state's "Gucci Law" if any of the animals underwent severe pain or were tortured. The 2-year-old law was named for a Mobile dog that survived torture. The offense is a felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

Other possible charges include animal cruelty, a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum of a year in jail.

Whetstone said a veterinarian autopsied four of the dogs and determined only one had been shot cleanly through the brain. The others received bullet wounds through the neck and elsewhere, indicating they would have suffered before dying, he said.

"The evidence that was brought to light by the district attorney destroys the ongoing propaganda from the racing industry that greyhounds are treated humanely and are not killed," she said

Untitled II:

Started hacking up photos with Stevie over the other night.

Earlier I tried doing details of "The Subterranean Boardinghouse":

To Whom this Concerns:

Once I've been sold-out
I know what it's all about
Illusions of grandeur
When it doesn't seem to really matter

Always something to prove
Though never coming through
No big deal now
I'll catch up with you later
After you have seen
The ruins of your making
Caught again for another minor infraction

Only sets the pace for the majors
Suppose you arse as good as you portray

It really is quite sad
No one will ever hear
You should enjoy this moment loud
Except that would only ruin the silence

For the sellout.

Comments:

I was walking past C.I.H last Sat. 10/20/01 and I stopped and pulled the two doors open as much as I could force them. I peeked in and the lights were on- bright as day. The stage was gone and two empty chairs stood in the middle of the floor. It was so depressing. That was the last "REAL ROCK N' ROLL" club in NYC. Green door Parties were the fucking best. Then came "GLAM 2000". It's Saturday night, I'm heading to 3 of Cups, Niagara then Flamingo East. ROCK N' ROLL FOREVER!!!!

Dear Mom?

Always sabotage myself no matter how well intended. I have no gift for complacency or competency. Obviously. Sincerely, how many jobs does this make? Enough already. Maybe it is time for a career. Apparently I have not paid my dues. Can I get any credit?

Have I spent more time than I am worth? What an awkward position to find myself. I really thought I was finally ahead of the game.

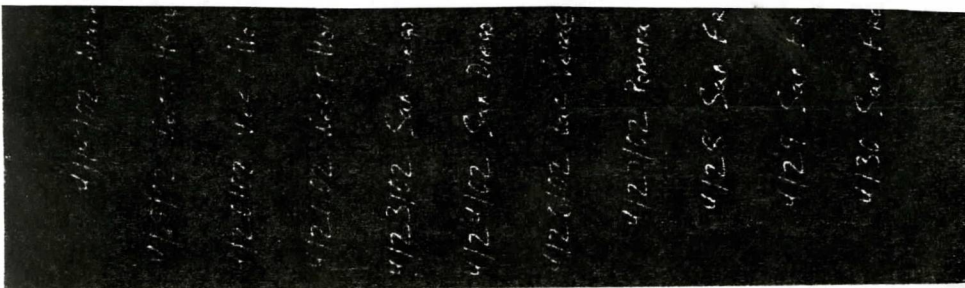

All I really am is just another fucking pawn. I know that I fucked up and I was in the wrong but does the price have to be so bold?

What would it take to win you back? I asked for another chance, you said no with hesitance. Must mean I have a chance in hell. Or am I shit out of luck like with everything else?

Never down for long, so fear is low for a situation that requires so much attention. Good thing cause I needed a challenge. Next floor please.

If that was actually a sentence then I am in heaven. Anything goes and it all has. So til next time?
