

California State University Channel Islands

FACULTY POSITIONS AVAILABLE

California State University Channel Islands (CSUCI) is pleased to invite applications for full-time, tenure-track faculty positions in a variety of disciplines. Faculty at all stages of experience and academic rank are encouraged to apply. Successful candidates will engage in the excitement of developing the first new university in 21st century America. The university, which opened August 16, 2002, is the twenty-third campus of the California State University system, the largest system of higher education in the United States. The 670 acre "green" campus is nestled in the hills of Camarillo, four miles from the Pacific Ocean between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles, in an area rich in agriculture, natural beauty, history and diverse cultural heritage.

CSU Channel Islands is committed to interdisciplinary, integrative, innovative approaches to teaching and learning, research, scholarship and service. The university is a vibrant part of the extended community and is committed to developing programs that address the academic, economic and social needs of Ventura County, the surrounding region and the State of California. An international perspective and second language acquisition are also important elements in the university's mission.
