

California
State University,
Hayward

HAYWIRE

Newsmagazine of the CSUH Alumni Association

Spring 1999

Alumni Make Capitol Gains

Alum of the Year Honored

Health Benefits for Alums

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Springtime has arrived and with it reminders of our own commencement and thoughts of the upcoming celebration for the Class of '99. Again this year the Cal State Hayward Alumni Association is giving all graduates a free, one-year membership to the Alumni Association. We hope they will enjoy the benefits and events of the coming year.

Our Annual Meeting on May 16 was a big event, and I hope you were able to attend. Again this year it was held outdoors, and guests enjoyed wonderful food, music, meeting old friends and making new ones.

Judy Belk was honored as our 1999 Alum of the Year at the Annual Meeting. (See story, pp. 6-7). Ms. Belk, vice president of Global Public Affairs at Levi Strauss, is actively involved in university functions and serves on the Educational Foundation Board. We appreciate her loyalty and the energy she continues to devote to Cal State Hayward.

Thanks go out to those who responded to our recent requests for nominees for California State University Teacher of the Year, Cal State Hayward's Alum of the Year, and the Alumni Association's Board of Directors' election.

California State University Hayward's Teacher of the Year is Ursula Sexton, who will go to Long Beach as Hayward's CSU nominee for the State Teacher of the Year award. (She will be featured in the summer issue of Haywire.)

Election results are in and the Alumni Association Board of Directors will include some new faces. I will continue as president for the 1999-2000 board, and the other officers will be Al Guzman, vice president; Quan Tran, secretary, and Sylvia Jesuit, treasurer, along with four directors — Nancy Ackley, Bill Firestone, Ching Fong, and Roger Glancy. Congratulations go out to our new board members.

This issue of Haywire includes a feature on alumni holding offices at the state capitol (pp. 4-5), a feature on our Annual Meeting (p.7), and a report on the insurance benefits included with Alumni Association membership (p.10).

Thanks go to the many alums who contribute to Pioneer Paths. We receive many emails and inquiries from classmates who read this feature and want to "keep the link" and contact their classmates.

By Nancy Tackett

In closing, I want to remind you it is through your interest and volunteering spirit that this Alumni Association remains strong and viable. As always, we want you to keep in touch with us either via email at nancyt@netvista.net or at our Cal State Hayward Alumni Association Office at (510) 885-3724.

Keep the link!

Cover Photo — Three Cal State Hayward alumni serve in the state Assembly with offices in the California State Capitol. Assemblymembers George House, Scott Wildman and Ellen Corbett, along with Attorney General Bill Lockyer — whose office is nearby — reflect on their collegiate days in this issue of Haywire. See page 4.

Cover photograph by John H. Trumbo.

Cal State Hayward Alumni Association Platinum VISA Card

Support Cal State Hayward by using the only credit card that supports the valuable programs of the university and the Alumni Association.

- Credit line from $5,000 to $100,000
- No annual fee
- 25-day interest-free grace period on purchases

Call 1-800-FIRST USA and give the operator the source code B858.

Haywire is published four times a year by the CSUH Alumni Association for its members. Submissions are welcomed and encouraged. Please address inquiries or information to the CSUH Alumni Association, CSU Hayward, 25800 Carlos Bee Blvd., Hayward, CA 94542 or call (510) 885-3724. View the CSUH Home page at www.csuhayward.edu

President	Nancy Tackett-Blake '95
Vice-President	Al Guzman '79
Secretary	Nancy Ackley '78
Treasurer	Sylvia Jesuit '69

Directors:	Heidi DeMartis '96
	Bill Firestone '73
	Amy Levesque '98
	Michael Perry '77
	Bob Sinnott '96
	Douglas Walsh '77
	Katherine Ward '71

Chapter Presidents/Representatives

Asian/Pacific Islander	Sam Tran
	Liliana Wang
African American	Glenda Hammonds
Business	Christine Andrews
Contra Costa	Brook Oliver
Education	Kim Mize-Agel
EOP	Monique Green
Hong Kong	Anthony Tsui
Moscow	Yur Moiseenko
Music	Marianne Whittaker
Public Administration	Maryann Castanha

Lambert Named Outstanding Professor

Linda Lambert

Educational Leadership Professor Linda Lambert was chosen the "1999 Outstanding Professor" at California State University, Hayward by the Academic Senate.

Lambert, who has spent more than 30 years in the field of education, receives the $1,000 George and Miriam Phillips Outstanding Professor Award and will be the featured speaker at Faculty Convocation in the fall.

Prior to joining the CSUH faculty in 1987, Lambert was a teacher, curriculum coordinator, middle school principal, and school district administrator. She helped establish the California School Leadership Academy and the state's first Principals' Center.

At CSUH she chaired the Department of Educational Leadership twice and served on the Futures Committee, the Research Committee, and the advisory board that helped develop the Contra Costa Campus.

Lambert spent two years in Egypt (1989-90) helping develop the National Curriculum Center that has created the country's current educational system. Over the past eight years, she has continued to work with the center on various projects, including one to develop schools for girls in small villages who never previously attended school.

In addition to her many presentations, papers, and workshops, Lambert has authored or co-authored several books, including Building Leadership Capacity in Schools (1998); Who Will Save Our Schools? (1997); and The Constructivist Leader (1995).

CSU Initiates Program For Teachers Without Credentials

California has 30,000 not-yet-credentialed teachers in its classrooms, the result of enrollment increases, class-size reduction, and teacher retirements.

To help remedy this, the California State University system developed CalStateTEACH, a program to enable uncertified elementary school teachers to earn multiple subject credentials while continuing to work in their classrooms.

The inaugural 18-month training cycle will begin in the Fall 1999 quarter. Teacher-interns will receive instruction from books, videos, audio tapes, the Internet, and five Saturday seminars. In addition, they will get support from a network of university faculty, mentors, and principals at their own schools.

California State University, Hayward, has been named the lead campus for the Northern California CalStateTEACH Regional Center, and CSUH administrator Jodi Servatius is academic director for the new center.

The Bay Area Trade and Friendship Mission to Africa in April included three delegates from California State University, Hayward. Attending a meeting in Ghana were, from left, CSUH Dean Arthurlene Townner (School of Education and Allied Studies), Congresswoman Barbara Lee, CSUH President Norma S. Rees, Ghana's first lady H.E. Nana Konadu Agyeman Rawlings, and Oakland City Councilmember Jane Brunner. President Rees said the visit gave her the opportunity to discuss educational issues with university leaders in Ghana and South Africa.

Alumni Make Capitol Gains

By John H. Trumbo

When elected officials converged on Sacramento in January, four former California State University, Hayward, students were among those holding office. During interviews from their capitol quarters, these alumni reflected on their college days and life since leaving the university.

Assemblymember Scott Wildman

Assemblymember Scott Wildman

Scott Wildman, a teacher-turned-legislator, is proud to call Cal State Hayward his alma mater.

"I think Cal State Hayward has the best teaching credentialing program anywhere. It certainly is the best in the state," said Wildman, who earned his credential in 1982.

The legislator, elected to the Assembly in 1996, represents the culturally diverse 43rd District (East Los Angeles). It was his experience as a classroom teacher, laboring for public school issues, that triggered his decision to enter politics.

During the early 1980s, Wildman worked with the Bay Area Bilingual Education League and while enrolled at Hayward was engaged in an innovative, urban-classroom, teacher-training program.

"The Hayward experience of working with people working in the community gave me a real practical education," Wildman said. "I learned you have to involve the whole family if the child is going to be successful (in school)."

As a teacher in Richmond in 1992, Wildman found himself in the middle of an educational financial crisis.

"That was the year Richmond went bankrupt. I took an 11 percent pay cut and had 33 kids in my class. Our school had 800 students, and it was built for 400," Wildman said.

This experience gave Wildman the inspiration to go into politics as an advocate for education. He sought an Assembly seat in the East L.A. area that includes Glendale and Burbank, focusing his campaign on rebuilding schools and overhauling the education system. Outspent 12-to-one in the 1996 campaign, Wildman won the election by 192 votes. Two years later he was returned to office by a majority of more than 30,000 votes.

Education remains Wildman's number-one issue. He counts as one of his achievements the Wildman-Kelle-Solice Teacher Training Act of 1997, which re-established and expanded a para-professional program similar to the one he participated in at Hayward 20 years earlier.

Assemblymember Ellen Corbett

"I had incredible support from the faculty at Hayward. They were on the cutting edge and were very aggressive in working with school districts to keep and expand the bilingual program," Wildman noted.

Wildman is married and has five children and seven grandchildren.

Assemblymember Ellen Corbett

Education is a big component in the career of newly elected Assemblywoman Ellen Corbett, whose 18th District includes Castro Valley, Hayward, San Leandro, San Lorenzo, and sections of Pleasanton and Sunol.

She attended Cal State Hayward from 1973 to 1976, eventually getting a bachelor of science degree in political science at the University of California, Davis, and a law degree from Sacramento's McGeorge School of Law.

Corbett's interest in politics emerged when she was studying marine biology at CSUH.

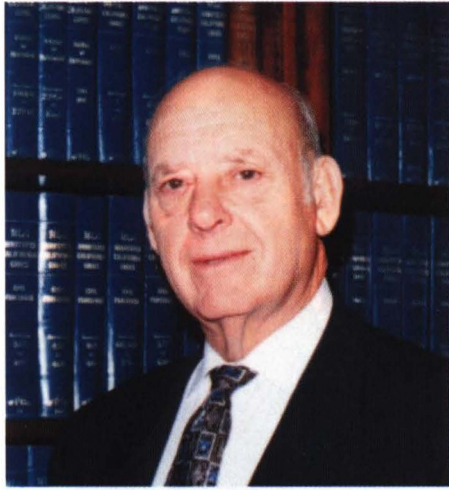

Through her contacts in the campus political science club, she met individuals involved in local politics.

Her early exposure to political life came from her father, a community activist.

"I thought people in politics sat around on weekends and licked stamps and distributed flyers throughout neighborhoods," says Corbett.

What she discovered was a world she found more intriguing than marine biology.

While at CSUH, she participated in a political science internship program, supervised by James Fay, currently interim dean of the School of Arts, Letters and Social Sciences. Corbett said she learned about public advocacy while serving as an intern for then-assemblymembers Bill Lockyer and Johan Klehs.

Assemblymember George House

Corbett maintains a law practice in San Leandro, where she was mayor and a City Council member. Her public service also has included memberships on the San Leandro and San Lorenzo school liaison committees and on many regional panels in Alameda County and the East Bay. She also served on the staff of former Assemblyman Elihu Harris.

Currently she is a member of the Cal State Hayward Advisory Board.

"There was a climate at CSUH that allowed people to work and go to school as well as have a practical academic experience," Corbett said.

Assemblymember George House

George House is an Oklahoma native, the eldest of 14 children in a family that was transplanted to California's Central Valley when he was a teen-ager.

While he describes himself as a "small-scale farmer," in his nearly 70 years House has managed to squeeze in a 30-year law-enforcement career, a stint as a creamery worker, and a civil post as a juvenile traffic hearing officer.

In 1994 he was elected to represent the 25th Assembly District and is serving his third term in office.

After attending Modesto Junior College, House earned a bachelor's degree in psychology from Fresno State College. He enrolled at Cal State Hayward in 1967 and 1968, midway through his career with the California Highway Patrol, when he developed an interest in obtaining a teaching credential.

"I loved it and learned a lot," said House, who was impressed by the quality of instruction at Hayward. He recalled especially those instructors who encouraged free and open discussions.

Attorney General Bill Lockyer

"It was a good experience," House recalled.

House put his teacher training into practice, teaching law enforcement courses at Delta College in Stockton while serving as commander of the California Highway Patrol division there.

House did not remain a teacher, but his interest in education and love of learning led him to become a member of the Hughson High School Board and to a term as president of the Stanislaus County School Boards Association. He is also a strong supporter of Christian schooling.

"I think the experiences of living have really helped me in my profession," House said. "I was raised in poverty—serious poverty—but I was taught we all have to work and there is a right and a wrong. I know I can make a difference."

The assemblyman is married and has five grown children. Term limits will take him out of the legislature when his current term expires.

Attorney General Bill Lockyer

Attorney General Bill Lockyer can be seen, on occasion, jogging around the track at Cal State Hayward. After all, this is his hometown.

The university is in the district he represented first as an assemblymember, then as a state senator. It is also where Lockyer obtained his teaching credential in 1966 and where he was honored as CSUH Alum of the Year in 1997.

In addition to his Cal State Hayward roots, Lockyer has been a longtime advocate of education legislation, acknowledged in 1998 when he received the "Friend of Higher Education Award" from the California State University system.

Lockyer said Cal State Hayward gave him an opportunity to pursue theories of education that have become part of his personal learning philosophy.

"I learned a lot about human behavior and motivations," he said.

Although Lockyer completed his student teaching in Castro Valley, he chose to work for the late Assemblymember Robert Crown after obtaining his secondary teaching credential. He also was elected to a local school board.

"I still think of myself as a student and learn new things every day," Lockyer said.

The attorney general says candidly that he chose Cal State Hayward for his higher education experience because it was his hometown university. He added he highly recommends the school for people who want a teaching career.

Lockyer was particularly gratified to be chosen Cal State Hayward's 1997 Alum of the Year.

"I was honored to receive the award and be able to have helped shaped education in California. It is nice when your friends at home acknowledge you," he said.

As a legislator, Lockyer fought for and won increased funding for public schools in order to reduce class-size and raise teacher salaries. He also helped defeat efforts to increase student fees at UC and CSU campuses.

Elected attorney general last November, Lockyer said he loves his job in politics.

Belk Honored As 1999 Alum of the Year

Judy Belk, vice president of Global Public Affairs for Levi Strauss & Co., is the 1999 Cal State Hayward Alum of the Year.

Alumni Association President Nancy Tackett said, "Judy Belk is an extraordinary woman. She is committed to community service and dedicated to her alma mater."

Since earning her master's degree in public administration from Cal State Hayward in 1978, Belk has continued to support the university. She is a member of the Alumni Association, the Educational Foundation Board and Cal State Hayward Ambassadors. She works on behalf of the university's scholarship and fund-raising programs, and last year she and her husband, Dr. Roger Peeks, hosted an event for elected officials and community leaders in their Oakland home.

"I am very honored by the recognition the Alumni Association has bestowed upon me," Belk said, adding it was especially meaningful coming "from an institution that I care so deeply about."

Belk was vice president of Community Affairs for Levi Strauss & Co. until last year, when she was named vice president of Global Public Affairs with responsibility for the company's worldwide communications, community relations, and government affairs activities. In her current post, she also continues to oversee the company's corporate citizenship and philanthropic initiatives worldwide, including the Levi Strauss Foundation with assets over $115 million.

University President Norma S. Rees said, "Judy Belk is an outstanding representative of this university and an excellent choice for Alum of the Year. We are grateful for her continued support of Cal State Hayward her understanding of higher education issues, and her commitment to public service and higher education."

Alum of the Year Judy Belk

President Norma S. Rees and Judy Belk visited at the Alumni Association Annual Meeting.

Belk has served as public affairs manager for Mervyn's Department Stores; director of public affairs for the Association of Bay Area Governments; and community relations officer for the City of Sunnyvale. Currently she is on the national board of directors for Independent Sector, a coalition promoting volunteerism and giving. She also serves on the Community and Public Issues Council of the Conference Board and is a volunteer with the Conciliation Forum of Oakland — a local community mediation service.

In addition to being recognized at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, Belk also will be the keynote speaker at the California State University, Hayward commencement on June 12.

Former board member Robert Merikle, on break from graduate studies in Pennsylvania, socialized with, center, Elizabeth Graw, CSUH director of alumni relations, and Stephanie Regevig, advancement coordinator.

Nancy Tackett, Alumni Association board president, reviewed the organization's projects and contributions.

Guests heard about the Alumni Association's progress over the past 12 months.

Enjoying refreshments and the sunny weather were members of the Asian/Pacific Islander Alumni Chapter from left, Quan Tran, Anh Tran, Sunjay Nair, Liliann Wang and Sam Tran.

Alumni Association Annual Meeting

Photos by Ben Ailes

Board members for the Alumni Association include new members, from left, Ching Fong, Quan Tran and Amy Levesque, and continuing members Doug Walsh, Bill Firestone and Nancy Ackley, and outgoing member Diana Schaufler.

Vince Alvarez, B.S., Chemistry ('69) is senior director of Research and Development of the Clorox Co. Alvarez, who earned his master's and doctoral degrees from U.C., Santa Barbara, holds six patent awards for cleaning products and processes. He volunteers as a technical consultant for the Livermore Police Department and has served on the advisory board of the Chemical Engineering and Material Science Department at University of California, Davis.

David Austin, Applied Certificate, Statistics ('98) has accepted the position of project-market research analyst with Canadian Facts, a market research firm, in Toronto.

Lenore Brest, B.A., Art ('80) retired as a graphic artist for Alameda County Health Care Services two years ago and now is pursuing a career in art.

Brest, a San Leandro resident, has a home studio where she creates pottery and watercolors. She displays and sells her work at Hayward's Phantom Gallery.

Craig Carrozzi, B.S., Recreation ('78) has had his book City 'Scapes published. This nostalgic baseball story has drawn praise from Chris Berman, a nationally acclaimed sportscaster, and Orlando Cepeda, former Giants' great. Following graduation, Carrozzi joined the Peace Corps and worked in a juvenile prison in Columbia, running a recreation program and supervising a construction project for a youth center. After his Peace Corps assignment he moved to Brazil, began writing, then returned to San Francisco. His two other published books are Wedding of the Waters ('88) and The Road to El Dorado ('97).

Tami Crabtree, M.S., Statistics ('98) is a statistical consultant at Stanford University, where currently she is analyzing a shunt used to treat abdominal aortic aneurysms.

Linda Fish, B.A., Studio Arts ('77), with 21 years experience in personnel in Northern California, was appointed area manager of the Fremont and Cupertino offices of Robert Half. Fish said her 16-year-old daughter, Meredith, will travel to Israel this summer with a youth group.

Mike Gallagher, B.A., Business

Administration ('93) is the new director of marketing of Alliance Mortgage, handling strategic planning and tactical execution of national and regional marketing efforts for the Internet-based mortgage brokerage and direct money lender. Gallagher previously served as marketing director of Coker & Cook Real Estate in Sacramento and as regional marketing manager of the Ryness Company in Danville.

Charles Hawkins, M.S., Statistics ('72) works for the Coca Cola Company in Arizona. Currently he is taking a leave of absence. When he returns, he plans to focus on E-trades.

Norm Lapera, Biology, is the new assistant general manager of Public Safety for the East Bay Regional Park District. Lapera attended Cal State Hayward from 1970 to 1974, studying a biology and pre-dental curriculum, but left prior to graduation when he got a full-time job at the park district. Lapera was captain of the Pioneer water polo team in 1972 and 1973.

His first park district job was as a lifeguard, and he has served as a reserve officer, officer, sergeant, lieutenant, and captain in the Department of Public Safety. He completed his undergraduate degree at Cal Poly Pomona, where he also earned a master's degree in management. Lapera is vice president of the Park Law Enforcement Association and will be its president in 2000.

Eric Lauritzen, M.P.A., Public Administration ('87) is Monterey County's

Agricultural Commissioner, overseeing the division of produce inspection and weights and measures. Lauritzen began his career as an agricultural biologist with Alameda County, then served as deputy agricultural commissioner in San Mateo County and agricultural commissioner in Sonoma County.

Noreen Lindstrom, B.A., Social Science ('70), Teaching Credential ('71) received the 1999 Mother Seton Award from the Catholic Diocese of Oakland, a two-count diocese with an estimated 500,000 Catholics. Lindstrom is a kindergarten teacher and vice principal at Hayward's St. Clement's Catholic School. She helps organize the school's weekly religious services, fills food baskets, distributes communion, and helps plan religious rites.

Cheryl McCarthy, B.A., Business ('86) is vice president and business development manager of the retail banking division of the Mechanics Bank in Berkeley. A member of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, she has worked in banking for 12 years, eight of them in the Berkeley.

Robert Ratto, M.S., Educational Administration ('98) is principal of Colonial Acres Elementary in San Lorenzo. He has more than 10 years experience as a teacher and administrator in private Catholic schools. Previously he was principal of St. Martin de Porres and Sacred Heart schools in Oakland.

Timothy Ryan, M.P.A., Public Administration ('76) is chief of the Santa Clara County Department of Correction. He began his law enforcement career in 1970 as an Alameda County deputy sheriff. In 1989 he was promoted to jail commander for Alameda County, a position he held until his promotion to chief in February 1998. Ryan, who resides in Livermore with his wife and two children, has served as a trustee on the Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District Board of Education since 1983.

Bob Slous, B.A., Music ('70) teaches band at Albany Middle School in the Bay Area. A recent El Cerrito Journal article described him as an important part of Albany's music program. When Slous began teaching music in Albany in 1971, the band had 12 students, and he has built it into a band of 70 students, with an additional 25 students in jazz band.

Timothy Tikalsky, B.S., Taxation ('80), M.S., Taxation ('90) was honored by the U.S. Small Business Administration as 1998 Accountant Advocate of the Year for the San Francisco District.

He also was made a stockholder of Rooney, Ida, Nolt and Ahern Accountancy Corporation, one of the Bay Area's largest professional service firms. Tikalsky has been a practicing accountant in the Bay Area for more than 17 years and has served on the boards of the West Oakland Commerce Association, Emeryville Industries Association, and the Oakland YMCA.

Dennene Tompkins, B.A., Theater ('94) recently performed in the San Leandro Community Theatre's One-Act Festival, where fellow actor proposed to her on stage. She accepted and the wedding will be in May 2000. Tompkins is office manager and marketing liaison for Boehm Associates in Alameda. Last summer she performed the lead role of Kate in Taming of the Shrew at the San Leandro Shakespeare Festival.

Christopher Madsen

Florence VanGeem, M.S., ('76) is now working for Axios Data Analysis Systems, a start-up company specializing in analytic products and services in the health care industry. She previously worked for Kaiser.

Lynne Young, B.S., Business ('92) has entered the master's program at San Francisco State University, working toward a degree in Jewish studies and education, with a credential in special education.

Since graduation she has worked as a facilitator in the auto industry and bookkeeper for Kol Shofar Synagogue. She also has worked with the disabled community and in disaster preparedness. She resides in Corte Madera with her husband Tom and son Justin.

OLD GLORY'S MOON

*Alchemist's QuickSilver, Leaden
Orb, Companion In Our Sky...
Mirror of Diana, Strewn With Joy...
Many King's Ransoms Some Earthlings Did Pay...
They Journeyed To You For A Short Stay...
They Planted Their Calling-Card
In Homage Of You...
It's A Beauty Indeed.
In Red, White, and Blue!*

This poem, by alumnus Walter C. Chandra, B.A. Philosophy ('70), is one in a collection of 50 surrealistic moon poems he composed in 1997, the centennial anniversary of Bram Stoker's Dracula.

"Old Glory's Moon" was published in Astrogram, the NASA's Ames Research newsletter, in March 1998, in connection with NASA's Lunar Prospector's discovery of ice on earth's moon.

Chandra dedicated "Old Glory's Moon" to the memory of Princess Diana, and it has been accepted for inclusion in her archives. (The poem includes the lines: "Mirror of Diana, Strewn with Joy!")

Chandra, a member of the Bram Stoker Society of Dublin, Ireland, was one of 90 scholars from 20 countries to participate in the 1997 Centennial Celebration of Bram Stoker's Dracula.

Asian/Pacific Islander Chapter

By Sam Tran

The Asian Alumni Chapter has reorganized since the beginning of the 1998-99 academic year. Its goals have been to build a network with the alumni members through social events, to provide mentoring for current CSUH students, and to support cultural events sponsored by Asian organizations on campus. Chapter officers are Sam Tran and Liliana Wang, co-chairs; Josephine Huynh, treasurer; and Sunjay Nair, event coordinator.

Spring activities included a culture dinner, and recreation adventure. We also will assist campus Asian groups in putting on the 5th Annual Asian American Graduation Celebration June 11 in University Union 311. For additional information about chapter activities, mentoring opportunities, or participation as a chapter officer, contact Sam Tran at stran@bay.csuhayward.edu.

Education & Allied Studies Chapter

By Barbara Ratto

The alumni chapter is helping fund a picnic for seniors in the Department of Kinesiology and Physical Education on May 22. Again this quarter the chapter is sponsoring "SEAS's Cares," providing snacks for students in the School of Education and Allied Studies on June 1 and 2 during the last week of classes before spring quarter finals.

On June 2 the Department of Teacher Education hosts a ceremony for those who earned a credential in that department, and the alumni chapter is co-sponsoring this event. Volunteers are needed to help with the commencement reception for the School of Education and Allied Studies on Saturday, June 12, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. If you can assist, contact Barbara Ratto at (510) 885-3061.

To Your Health!

To serve recent graduates of California State University, Hayward the Alumni Association is pleased to provide insurance and other benefits programs.

Blue Shield of California has designed several health plans available to Cal State Hayward Alumni Association members and their families. These plans vary in coverage, deductibles and cost. Monthly fees also vary based on geographic location.

For more detailed information about the Blue Shield of California Alumni Association Health Plans, call 1-800-726-2422.

Blue Shield of California Access+ HMO Plan

- $10 Physician office visits copayments
- The option to go directly to a specialist (in your own IPA/Medical Group)
- Preventive health services at no charge
- No claim forms and no lifetime dollar maximums
- Prescription drug benefit

Blue Shield of California Copay Plans

- Fixed copays for most plan services in-network—even inpatient hospital services

- Prescription drug coverage—just a $10 copay per generic prescription
- Urgent services anywhere in the U.S. and emergency coverage anywhere in the world
- Maternity, prenatal and well-baby benefits with no waiting period

Blue Shield of California Deductible Plans

- Fixed copays for many services immediately—before deductible is met
- Choice of a $1,000 or $2,000 calendar year deductible
- Similar benefits to the copay plans at lower rates

Short-Term Health Insurance Plan offered through CPIC Life Insurance Co.

- Coverage for 30 to 180 days
- Worldwide protection
- Choice of deductible

Dental Plans offered through California Dental Health Plan

Two plans offer

- Guaranteed enrollment
- No deductibles, no claim forms
- Low rates
- An Indemnity Plan for any dentist

Sue Martini, a player in the Second Annual Cal State Hayward Golf Tournament, shows off the NFL football autographed by Steve Young she won in the tournament raffle. The 1999 golf tournament will be Monday, Oct. 4, once again at The Course at Wente Vineyard. For information call (510) 885-3878.

Also available in Black Marble or Briar

pioneer Bookstore

Visit Our Web Site At
[www.bookstore.csu Hayward.edu](http://www.bookstore.csu Hayward.edu)

[illegible]

SAVE THE DATES

Choral Concert, Chamber Singers Concert
June 6, 4 p.m., Music/Business Building 1055

---

1999 Commencement
June 12, 9 a.m., University Stadium

---

Highland Summer Theatre, July 30—Aug. 29

Little Mermaid

Midsummer Night's Dream

Three Penny Opera

For information: (510) 885-4299

Cal State Hayward
University Advancement
Alumni Association's

HAYWIRE

25800 Carlos Bee Blvd.
Hayward, CA 94542

Presorted
First Class
US Postage
PAID
Hayward, CA
Permit No. 387

Return Service Requested