Dear Jane and Dan,

One of the greatest delights of the year's end is the many messages of good will and rapport that we all exchange. The warm comity of the season serves to rededicate all of us to the eternal quest for peace and friendship among our people and among nations.

Thank you for thinking of me. I am thinking of you. I share your joy in the season and your hopes for the New Year.

Ever,

Alan Cranston
