Christy Ganas wins title

Christy Ganas was crowned 1963 Homecoming Queen Saturday night at the Coronation Ball before 300 persons.

The 19-year-old drama major and her court of Pam Gable, Lynn Mockabee, Margaret Avery, and Gigi Maher, will reign over the homecoming game and activities taking place this week.

The five panelists were picked by a students vote last week, but the final decision was made Saturday afternoon in the Florentine Room of the Mark Hopkins.

None of the five finalists were told who was the winner. Only a few persons knew the winner until it was announced at the dance.

As each princess was announced at the dance, the new queen's eyes grew wider with hope. When the final princess was announced, Christy's face went blank, then wide with surprise.

Her face was tear streaked when crowned by 1962 Homecoming Queen Suzy Tham. Tears were still running down her cheeks when she thanked the crowd, and after, and Bob and Ruby Buffin serenaded her with the Homecoming Queen song.

"I'm at a loss for words," she told the cheering crowd. "I don't know if Ruby remembers the first time I heard that song. First time I heard her playing it, I was sitting in my pajamas at campus kick-off at 3 in the morning. I certainly didn't think a year later she would be playing it for me. Thank you so very much."

Christy danced her first dance as homecoming queen with Dennis Luther homecoming chairman. Her escort Gary Moss quickly cut in on Luther.

"I was sure she was going to win," he said watching her dance with well-wishers.

"I came prepared to be a gracious loser," Christy said with a wide smile. "I was much more nervous this time," she said, recalling her third place finish in the 1963 Miss California pageant.

"Then," she continued, "everything was spread over three nights. You didn't really have time to think about being nervous. This time I knew the decision was made and final when I walked out of there (the Mark Hopkins) this afternoon. There wasn't anything I could do about it."

Christy used the few hours left of the afternoon to visit

Pickets, Dobbs finally agree

By PIERRE FUSELIER

Negroes will be working "up front" from now on at Mel's, Hal's and Red Roof restaurants according to an agreement made public Friday night.

Art Sheridan, head of San Francisco Direct Action Group (DAG), read the agreement before 200 people at Mel's Drive-in Restaurant, in Berkeley.

The agreement was made between the management of the restaurant chain and student organizations who have picketed the chain for three weeks because of its failure to hire Negro waitresses, cashiers, bartenders, counter girls and car-hops.

Owners Acting Mayor Harold Dobbs and Mel Weiss, agreed that:

- Within seven days, they will employ at least one Negro at each of their establishments in San Francisco, Berkeley and Oakland, as trainees in any of the job categories mentioned above.

- Trainees will undergo a two week training period, as owners might elect, on a half-time basis at the regular hourly rate for the job.

- Upon completion of their training, or as soon as feasible, trainees shall be employed full time. In no event will the training period extend beyond 30 days. Owners can hire trainees full time before their training is over.

- Students shall assist owners in obtaining the employees.

- If employees prove to be unacceptable to the owners, students will have an opportunity to replace them with another Negro job applicant.

- It is contemplated that a fuller agreement will be entered into by the parties embodying the terms of the demands submitted by students which were acceptable to the owners except for the provision for immediate hiring.

- Students will not demonstrate against owners pending the complete resolution of the existing dispute.

Pickers, about one-third of the gathering, began singing "We have overcome," after an enthusiastic outburst of applause.

Two Negro women were on duty that night. They were Theresa Ward (first night as a car-hop), and Octavia McCClinton (first night as a waitress).

"We're happy," Morris Laderman, assistant general manager of the chain said, in regard to the outcome of the agreement.

Bill Bradley, local head of CORE, who admitted CORE had backed DAG the day before the agreement, said "a 'Christmas boycott' was in the planning stage.

He didn't say who the boycott would affect,

Trustees limit fall enrollment

SF State's lower division and freshman student enrollment for next fall has been limited to a total of 2100 students.

In a rapid, one-day meeting at the Downtown Center Friday, the California State College Board of Trustees set the restriction to adhere to California educational master plan requirements of 40 per cent lower division students and 60 per cent upper division students for state colleges.

The only other state college affected by the lower division restriction is San Jose State College.

The board said the 2100 figure would go into effect with the stipulation that it be under present existing college facilities.

President Paul A. Dodd had no complaints about the restriction because SF State has already met the requirement this fall.

He did voice an objection to Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke's possible administrative policy of restricting college attendance to students only from the Bay Area.

"The Trustees will hear from me when the time comes," he said. "When you draw a cord around the San Francisco area and place limits on SF State, the college will tend towards mediocrity."

Dodd also added that such a limitation would detract from

Letters to the editor

The 'ass' answers back

Editor:
In answer to the question presented by a certain Miss Carolyn S. Wells in the November 6 issue of the Gator, I'd like to know who the hell she thinks she is writing a thoroughly unwarranted letter about the proper conduct in the Gallery Lounge.

Miss Wells stated, "The issue at hand was if the Gallery Lounge was a 'study hall' or a place for boisterous recreation." According to Miss Wells, a person she referred to as the "Ass" disturbed students attempting to study by conversing with a companion in a tone of voice which was shockingly above a whisper.

Miss Wells contended that the majority of students in the lounge wished to study, therefore an atmosphere favorable to studying should have existed.

I would like to inform Miss Wells, who admits she is but a "mere" freshman, that the lounge is not a study hall and was never intended to be a study hall. Miss Wells and students of a similar mind should go to the library (which is far from overcrowded) to study and leave the gallery lounge to those who wish to use it properly.

A 'space' apology

Editor:
Owing to previous arrangements of which we were unaware, the cast of "Space Is So Startling" were not able to appear on the Speaker's platform as announced in your columns (Thursday, November 7). We were sorry the cast was unable to fulfill this engagement, as they would have liked very much to pay a fuller visit to State College.

A nice old man

Editor:
Rah, Rah, Rah! Shelley is our new mayor! We see the nice old man tottering into his office in San Francisco's City Hall and sitting at the desk formerly occupied by our other worthy Mr. Christopher who did so very much for our fair city.

We think fondly of the fine and able work that dear Mr. Shelley will do. We think of how pleased everyone will be when honest, hard-working Mr. Shelley shakes his head at our antics down on Broadway at "a.m. and says "No, no. Drinking is bad. Having parties is bad. We must do something to stop this debauchery of our innocent San Francisco citizens. We must close up this wide open town and help our people to be like Seattle and go to bed at 7 p.m."

Yes, we in San Francisco are so very lucky to have elected such a man to the fine, upstanding office of Mayor.

Revolutionary Marx

Editor:
On behalf of Mr. Herbert Steiner and the Socialist Labor Party I wish to extend my gratitude for the fine coverage given his November 4 lecture at State. However, the designation given him as a candidate of the "Socialist Party" was by any standards, a blunder. The revolutionary Marxist Socialist Labor Party has, at no time, been connected with the bourgeois reformist "Socialist" Party (except in the abortive seizure of The Weekly People by an anti-Marxist faction of the S.L.B.—later to join the S.P.—in 1899).

The Socialist Labor Party has relentlessly repudiated the S.P.'s tactic of "begging for crumbs," from the capitalist class and their labor lieutenants. As DeLeon tersely said, "Request a little, when you have a right to the whole, and your request, whatever declamatory rhetoric or abstract verbiage it be accompanied with, works a subscription to the principle that wrongs you."

We did too beat 'm

Editor:
I happened to receive a copy of the "Golden Gater" the other day from a friend. Vol. 86, No. 28, Friday, October 18, 1963. Your article on page 4 about the Gator wetballers came as quite a surprise to me. You see, I played water polo for State for four years—from 1956 through 1959. I'm sure if you will check the records for those years you will find that not only did we beat the University of California a few times, but we also beat San Jose State College. At that time we played in what was known as the "B" league. We played the University of California Frosh, but we did play the San Jose varsity.

Walt Hanson's leading scorer for 1962, George Drysdale, has an older brother whom I had the pleasure of playing on a winning team with for one year.

Jelly, cream, pill, foam or rhythm?

"The method doesn't fail the person, the person fails to use the method."

So said Mrs. Frances Sturgeon, R.N., supervisor at the San Francisco Planned Parenthood Association Clinic, speaking Thursday on child birth planning methods.

Mrs. Sturgeon stepped in for Dr. Y. I. Heller who was scheduled to speak at the second in the Wesley Student Foundation discussion series on the population explosion but who was held up delivering a baby.

Mrs. Sturgeon spoke on methods taught to parents at the association which has eight clinics a week.

The use of creams, jellies and foams which stop the male sperm from reaching the female eggs and which may be used without a doctor's prescription, were demonstrated on a plastic model.

The clinic also teaches the use of pills which stop ovulation, and also the rhythm system for people who prefer such a method.

According to Mrs. Sturgeon the pill has been found to be the surest method today and "here to stay." However, the pills require a prescription. Approximately 2,000 women who have visited the clinic are using the pills.

When questioned whether the pills have been found for use by men, she replied, "yes, however they are not in use since they have been found to be overly-effective when the user has excess to liquor, as they will cause him to blackout."

The association is open to anyone desiring help or information in planned parenthood. The clinic fees of from $2 to $15 a year are governed by ability to pay.

And skirts are sweet

Lemmon's tree bears yum yum fruit

By CAROL SHIPE

Columbia Pictures' just released "Under the Yum Yum Tree" takes a comical, if somewhat unconventional situation, plays the laughs to the ridiculous and comes up with a somewhat prurient but enjoyable film.

The movie stars Jack Lemmon as Hogan, the lecherous playboy landlord of an apartment house filled with "yum yum" girls, and Carol Lynley and Dean Jones as tenants trying a "plutonic experiment" to see if their "personalities are compatible" before marriage.

Lemmon usually manages to walk the tight-rope between slap-stick comedy and obnoxious borishness as he pursues the nearest skirt.

Miss Lynley and Jones almost make their roles believable—no easy task considering their "situation", but the audience was so busy laughing that "realism" (or lack of it) did not seem to detract.

Edie Adams found herself playing a character with two incompatible facets — that of Miss Lynley's protective aunt and of Lemmon's latest ex-yum yum girl. She wasn't quite able to carry it off.

In a film loaded with laughs, one hardly expected to see any type of comic relief, but the characters provided by Imogene Coca and Paul Lynde as the clean-up lady and handyman husband and wife team can hardly be termed anything else. They were comic and it was a relief.

The settings, particularly in more than add to the production. Just a glimpse of Lemmon's living quarters was Hogan's red-toned lair, did enough to put the audience "stitches."

If the purpose of "Under the Yum Yum Tree" is to entertain—it succeeds; if its purpose is to make money—it probably succeed.

As to exactly what "yum yum" is, the movie never really gets around to explaining except as a poetic illustration from e. e. cummings. But it probably just as well. The impression left is that chances are it would be unprintable anyway.

Mellera impeachment today?

By GEORGE BOARDMAN
The battle of legislative jangling is scheduled to resume today when the fourth session of the AS Legislature convenes at 12:30.
Rep. Mike Semler has stated that he will continue his fight to oust Assistant Speaker Earl Mellera. Semler contends that Mellera has choked freedom of expression at legislative meetings. How successful he will be remains to be seen. Semler claims the support of 11 of the 22 legislators in his venture, but a random survey indicates that he can depend on no more than five or six votes.

Semler has drawn most of his support from Liberal Student League (LSL) legislators, four of who voted with him at the last meeting. But three LSL legislators—Reps. Mrs. Nelmarie Nicholson, Chuck McAuliffe, Pete Margotta — have since resigned from the party, reducing its strength to five.

Although Semler isn't an LSL member, the party's reputation has been damaged by the attempted ouster. LSL legislators may be reluctant to follow Semler in the future.

In addition, Rep. John McSevney, who has influence with the seven legislators who abstained on the first removal vote, has been alienated by Semler's charge that "He wants everything his own way."
When the battle field is cleared, the legislature will consider the following matters:

A resolution "that the Associated Students no longer participate in the publication of 'Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.'"

"Who's Who . . ." is a volume that lists the student body officers of the participating schools. It is thought by some legislators that State shouldn't be listed with the numerous small schools included in the book.

Students finance big win in Roethke film

By GEOFFREY LINK
Students can consider the $500 they put up for the film "In a Dark Time," a documentary on the late poet Theodore Roethke, well spent. This was the first student-financed project of its kind in the country. The Poetry Center produced the film, but the Associated Students get the profits.

It is also the first film of the Pulitzer Prize winning Roethke, who died last August as the film was being edited.

It was not the standard narrated film of the life of a poet. Roethke did all the talking, and David Myers' wonderful photography took care of the rest.

The half hour movie is a series of rapid scenes integrating Roethke's poems and attitudes toward his art, which begin and end as abruptly as his poetry, achieving the same taccato effect.

Various sides of the poet were presented in interesting, contrasting scenes of Roethke reading his poems. The scenes shifted sharply from his humorous Irish pub song (unpublished) to the philosophical "In a Dark Time."

Some of Myers' flashes of nature were superb as attempts at visual portrayals of Roethke's poetry. They were just simple, common scenes, but the contrasts of black and white were extraordinary.

Particularly outstanding was a close-up of a leaf floating slowly down a shallow, crystal clear stream, with the leaf's shadow reflecting off the bottom.

Another unique shot was of sunlight filtering through trees at Muir Woods, contrasting with the darkness of shadows.

The major flaw of the film, which took four months to make, was that it was not as clear and vivid as it should be. This will be corrected as soon as the final printing is finished in a couple of weeks.

I WAS A TEEN-AGE SLIDE RULE

In a recent learned journal (Playboy) the distinguished board chairman (Ralph "Hot Lips" Sigafoos) of one of our most important American industrial corporations (the Arf Mechanical Dog Co.) wrote a trenchant article in which he pinpointed our single most serious national problem: the lack of culture among science graduates.

Let me hasten to state that Mr. Sigafoos' article was in no sense derogatory. He said emphatically that the science graduate, what with his gruelling curriculum in physics, math, and chemistry, can hardly be expected to find time to study the arts too. What distresses Mr. Sigafoos—and, indeed, all of us—is the lopsided result of today's science courses: graduates who can build a skyscraper but can't compose a concerto; who know Newton's Third Law but not Beethoven's Fourth Symphony; who are familiar with Fraunhofer's lines but not with Shelley's.

The lopsided result of Today's Science

Mr. Sigafoos can find no solution to this lamentable imbalance. I, however, believe there is one—and a very simple one. It is this: if students of science don't have time to come to the arts, then the arts must come to students of science.

For example, it would be a very easy thing to teach poetry and music right along with physics. Students, instead of being called upon merely to recite, would instead be required to rhyme their answers and set them to familiar tunes—like, for instance, the stirring Colonel Bogey March. Thus recitations would not only be chock-a-block with important facts but would, at the same time, expose the students to the aesthetic delights of great poetry and music. Here, try it yourself. You all know The Colonel Bogey March. Come, sing along with me:

Physics
Is what we learn in class.
Einstein
Said energy is mass.
Newton
Is high-falutin'
And Pascal's a rascal. So's Boyle.

Do you see how much more broadening, how much more uplifting it is to learn physics this way? Of course you do. What? You want another chorus? By all means:

Leyden
He made the Leyden jar.
Trolley
He made the Trolley car.
Curie
Rode in a surrey
And Diesel's a weasel. So's Boyle.

Once the student has mastered The Colonel Bogey March, he can go on to more complicated melodies like Death and Transfiguration, Sixteen Tons, and Boo-Hoo.

And when the student, loaded not only with science but with culture, leaves his classroom and lights his Marlboro Cigarette, how much more he will enjoy that filter, that flavor, that pack or box! Because there will no longer be a little voice within him repeating that he is culturally a dot. He will know—know joyously—that he is a complete man, a fulfilled man, and he will bask and revel in the pleasure of his Marlboro as a colt rolls in new grass—exultant and triumphant—a truly educated human person—a credit to his college, to himself, and to his tobacconist!

Gators win, tie for first place

By JERRY LITRELL

Chico . . . Despite an almost superhuman effort by Wildcat quarterback George Calkins, SF State's Golden Gators pulled one out of the fire Saturday night by defeating Chico State 25-18 on the loser's home field.

This win combined with the Humboldt State - Sacramento State scoreless tie and the upset win by the Cal Aggies over the University of Nevada throws the Far Western Conference title race into a four-way tie.

The Gators played good old-fashioned football against the Wildcats as they stayed mainly on the ground with the combination of Tom Manney, Jerry Brown, Jim Crum and Don Richardson doing most of the damage.

SF State scored first when they took over on their own 32 yard line and started a march downfield ending on the Wildcat 16.

Don Rodrigo, limping noticeably from his sprained ankle, booted a 26 yard field goal to put the Gators ahead 3-0.

That lead was short-lived, as Chico's Ray Meyers, who was to collect 141 yards rushing, bolted around his own left end, cut back to the middle and after eluding Dennis Drucker, the last man who had a shot at him, raced 85 yards for a Wildcat touchdown.

In the middle of the second period the Gators started their ground attack again after Mike Burke ran back Calkin's punt to his own 23 yard line.

Manney shot up the middle for 11 yards and Brown busted over left tackle for another 13.

On a beautifully executed draw play Crum collected 39 yards to put the Gators deep in Wildcat territory.

Again Brown went up the middle for 5 yards then Manney blasted right up the middle for the last 6 yards and a Gator touchdown.

Aquamen win FWC tourney

A pair of wins Saturday gave the Gator water polo team the FWC Tournament championship. The Gators had also tied for the league title with the Cal Aggies, one of their victims Saturday. Complete details will appear in tomorrow's Gater.

In the middle of the third quarter the Gators had the ball on the Wildcat 38 yard line when Manney collected another 11 yards on an end sweep.

Then Crum, who played his best game of the season, went right up the middle for 9 yards and Mike Carson rolled out for 14 yards before Crum slammed over for the second Gator touchdown.

Late in the second quarter Doug Johnson took George Moorhouse's punt at his own 18 yardline and returned it all the way to the Gator 40.

The Wildcats then marched down to the Gator 5 yard line. Calkins dropped back for a pass and seeing all his receivers covered bootlegged it in for a Wildcat score.

Then came the really disputed play of the game. The Wildcats decided to try for the two-point play.

Calkins dropped back and passed in the end zone to Bob Gomez. He caught the ball then immediately dropped it. Within the next five seconds one referee changed his mind four times.

The first signal given was that the pass had been complete. Then when the referee saw the ball drop he called it incomplete. Then he ruled he caught it again, even though the ball bounced off the grass first.

Finally he ruled that Gomez had had possession of the ball long enough in the first place to allow the two points.

Then with only three minutes left the Gators were on their own 37 yard line when Brown went over right tackle for 16 yards, Richardson went over left tackle for another 11, Crum powered ahead for 4.

Manney plunged up the middle for 11 and then Crum went over left guard for 7 more. After more short yardage plays Manney went 7 yards for the winning score.

Carson then completed his only pass of the night, a two-point conversion to Owen Westbrook for a 25-18 Gator lead.

Carson attempted only nine passes and completed one. It was fortunate for the Gators that they could move as easily as they did against the lighter

Chico line.

Final totals show that Manney carried 26 times for 122 yards while Crum carried 10 times for 109 yards.

In the dressing room after the game when the news was brought to coach Vic Rowan that the Humboldt-Sacramento game was a tie he said, "It happens that way every year."

The leading teams always get knocked down about this time. This is the best thing that could have happened to us.

Praise must go to the Gator defense as they held Calkins to the mere 184 yards. He has gained well over 1,300 yards this season already while playing himself in the top ten of the small college offensive ground gainers.

Tied for first place in the FWC with identical 2-1 records are SF State, Humboldt State, Sacramento State and the Cal Aggies.

the stimulating environment of the college.

"I think it an honor that SF State should be in demand by students all over the nation. If a limit is placed then there will be no unique colleges."

All colleges will meet the same requirements, Dodd said. All colleges would then meet the same standard, he added.

In a proposal to the board, Dumke recommended that the diversion of students from SF State and San Jose State be based on:

- Use of early deadline dates for applications.
- Where the applicant is from.
- Academic standing.
- Use of two cut-off dates for applications—one for local students and a later date for other students.

In other action affecting SF State, the board established a master of arts degree in Sociology.

Bruce Allen of the San Jose Junior College District of Santa Clara County, voiced sharp objections to the lower division limitation imposed by the board.

"It is unfair to the Santa Clara County taxpayers to shoulder a burden of the state and not have a junior college subsidy," he said.

"The restriction is discriminatory, and contrary to the state master plan because the state is not paying its share of the load." The junior colleges can't handle extra load of students not able to go to San Jose State next fall.

"Some classes are now being held in two rundown rented elementary schools, and one of these has broken windows. No new plant will be available for three years.

She also helped her mother finish making her dress for the dance. "We put the hem in at six o'clock." The dress was a red velvet and brocade sheath. Christy arrived at the dance wearing a white fur.

Christy's interests center around dramatics. She landed a small part in the current drama production of "J.B.," but was forced to give it up when she sustained a back injury.

"It was my first part here, too," she sighed. She is planning to enter the hospital next Monday — as soon as Homecoming Week is over.

"I've had some small parts in some radio shows. Real small parts, mostly," she adds.

The queen was judged in four areas by the four judges at the Saturday luncheon. A Sheridan announced a "victory party," and everyone left.
