They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.

Dedication

Very often unseen or unknown by many Midshipman are the members of the Board of Governors who are the guiding influence behind the California Maritime Academy. The members of the Board are appointed by the Governor of the State of California. Those serving on this Board are non-salaried and freely devote their time, counsel, and sagacity to further the endeavors of the Academy. One such member who served on the Board from 1960-1968 is Mr. Wyman Riley. Mr. Riley is the third Valleyoan to serve on the Board. He served in the U. S. Navy during World War II, attaining the rank of Lieutenant. After the war as a newspaper correspondent, he covered the fleet maneuvers in the Pacific in 1947 and again in 1949. Mr. Riley is a native of the State of Washington and a graduate of St. Mary's College. After graduation, he joined the staff of the NAPA DAILY REGISTER and later was named editor. In 1941 he joined the Gibson Publications and rose to his present position of Managing Editor of both newspapers, the VALLEJO TIMES HERALD and the VALLEJO NEWS CHRONICLE. A dedicated person, he has served with distinction as Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and member of the Board of Governors. For his outstanding devotion to the California Maritime Academy, we feel deeply honored to be able to dedicate the 1968 HAWSEPIPE to Mr. Wyman Riley. May it be at least a small token of our gratitude to him for his contribution.

Presidential Message

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

TO THE 1968 GRADUATING CLASS
CALIFORNIA MARITIME ACADEMY

Few moments equal the joy, the satisfaction, and the fulfillment of graduation. It is a personal and permanent victory, an honor to last a lifetime. To each of you I extend my sincere congratulations.

The time is past when our national interests could be served by a few who elected to make their country's affairs their own. The complexity of our age and the particular burden history has thrust upon us -- to preserve freedom where it exists and to foster it where it does not -- demands every American hand and every American heart. The greatest responsibility falls to those who have the most to give.

I cannot tell you the extent of America's influence in shaping the new order of world affairs -- though I believe it will be great.

I cannot measure our national ability to abolish ignorance and sickness and injustice wherever these ancient enemies degrade humanity -- though I believe it is limitless.

I cannot predict that America's future will match and exceed the brilliance of her past -- though I believe it will.

The answers will not come in my lifetime, but in the future -- your future. I am confident that you who have proved your ability to achieve, to endure, and to win, will serve that future with distinction.

Captain

H. A. Seymour

USN (ret.)

The Dean

Captain Seymour graduated from the Naval Academy in 1939, and since then has sailed on Destroyers, Battleships, and Missile Cruisers. Last year he came to the California Maritime Academy and during this first year he has already gained the trust and respect of the Midshipman. His door is always open to any Student who has either academic or personal problems. Captain Seymour listens attentively and offers good, sound advice. Captain, we're proud to have known and been associated with you.

Rear Admiral F. T. Williamson USN (Ret.)

Superintendent, California Maritime Academy

Superintendent's Message

OFFICE OF
THE SUPERINTENDENT

To the graduates of the Class of 1968:

I want to first congratulate the members of the Class of 1968 for having successfully completed their course of instruction here at the California Maritime Academy, and to wish one and all the greatest success and happiness in all future endeavors.

Your training here at the Academy has been carefully designed to qualify you academically, professionally, and above all, with the discipline and dedication of a leader. All are vital officer ingredients of a seaworthy ship.

These qualities of character must be reflected in the highest form by you when you become a ship's officer. Man is a creature who is always engaged in making a decision. You are admirably equipped to do this with good judgment.

I wish you all smooth sailing ahead.

F. T. WILLIAMSON
Rear Admiral, USN (Ret.)
Superintendent

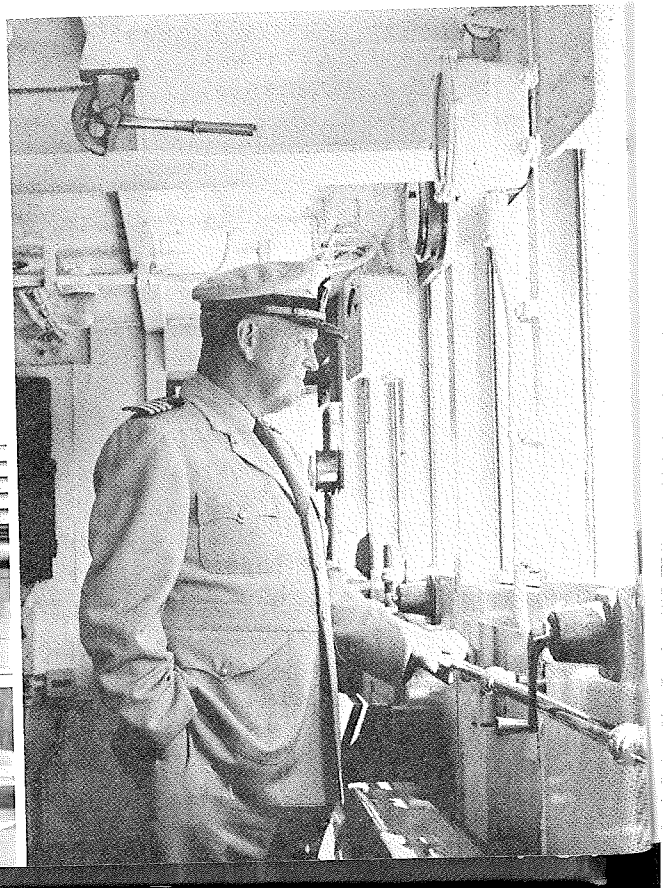
Captain Carl G. Bowman

U. S. Coast Guard (ret.)

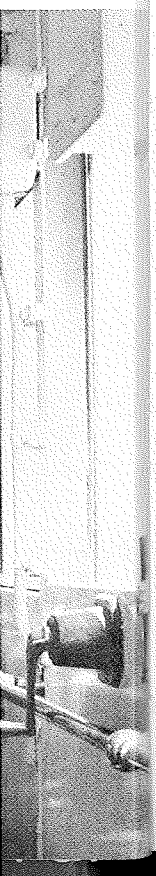
Commanding Officer

T. S. GOLDEN BEAR

It has been said that the third officer often thinks he knows more than the captain, but after 31 years in the Coast Guard and 8 years as skipper of the training ship, there is no question as to Captain Bowman's proficiency in the field of nautical science. He handles excellently both power driven and sailing vessels. In addition to being Captain of the ship, he instructs the first class deck midshipmen in Seamanship and Maritime Law.



Commander Bruhn, Chief Engineer of the Training Ship, deserves much of the credit for the high quality of engineering skills attributed to CMA graduates. He instructs the first class Engineers in Ship Construction Rules and Regulations, and License Seminar.



Commander Heron graduated from CMA in 1938, and returned in 1945. The intervening time was spent in both the Navy and the Merchant Service. Due to his relentless devotion, he has made the school what it is today. Commander Heron will always be fondly remembered for his familiarization with the faces and names of the Midshipmen.

Navy

Lt. Cmdr. Charles Temple

The mission of the Naval Science Department is to train academy midshipmen through Naval Science courses and Friday afternoon drills. The primary purpose is to enhance the effectiveness of Merchant-Navy cooperative relationships during times of national emergency. The secondary purpose of the department is to matriculate new Naval officers with a well developed background in Naval procedure and tradition.

Three-Month Club

One of CMA's more elite clubs, there are no dues to pay, but the midshipmen must sacrifice much of their free time as club members. Closely affiliated with AR and CR, many of the more infamous members of these organizations dedicate too much of their time to interests other than academic. The inevitable result being an unexpected and often undesired shortened residence at CMA.

THE PROPELLER CLUB OF THE UNITED STATES

PORT OF CALIFORNIA MARITIME ACADEMY

VALLEJO, CALIFORNIA

To Promote, Further and Support an American Merchant Marine.

To Aid the Development of River, Great Lakes and Harbor Improvements.

PROPELLER CLUB - The Propeller club is the largest club on campus, having a membership of over one-hundred midshipmen. The main activity provided for the members is weekend shiftings aboard Matson ships. Christmas voyages with Standard Oil are also available for interested members.

The club invites guest speakers who are involved in the maritime industry, and shows movies which provide for interesting and informative meetings.

The main purpose of the Propeller Club is to acquaint the members with aspects of the maritime industry which are not directly taught at the academy.

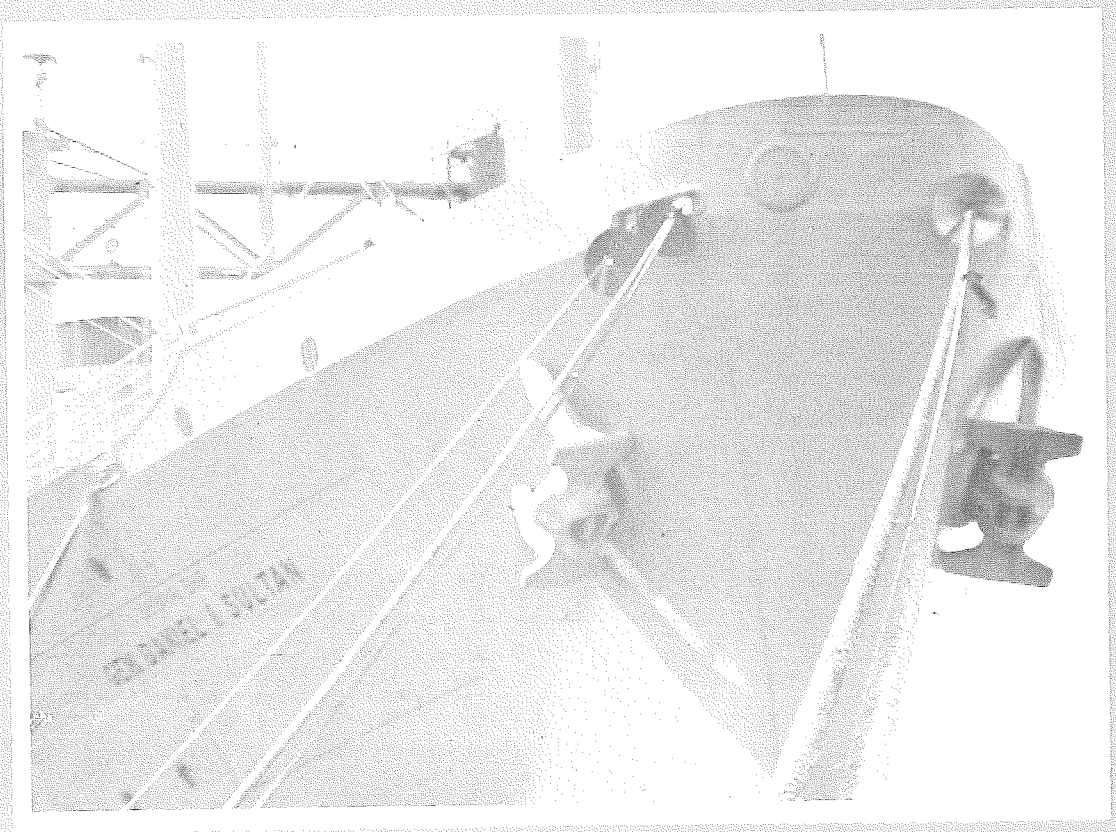
ACTIVITIES

"As life is action and passion, it is required of a man that he should share the action and passion of his time at peril of being judged not to have lived."

Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr.

The Academy's clubs are the formal part of the midshipmen's constant search for education and entertainment outside of the school's planned curriculum. Informally, each midshipman can find both amusement and information by engaging in one of the many activities planned for and by the midshipmen themselves. There are as varied and as numerous pursuits as there are midshipmen. The Bay Area, Vallejo, and the Academy grounds provide the settings for most of the activities of the midshipmen. But, really, the midshipmen of the California Maritime Academy bring their activities with them wherever they may find themselves.



Although Extra Duty and restriction are the most common results of infractions of the rules, some midshipmen react more violently to the emotional stresses of the infamous report sheet.

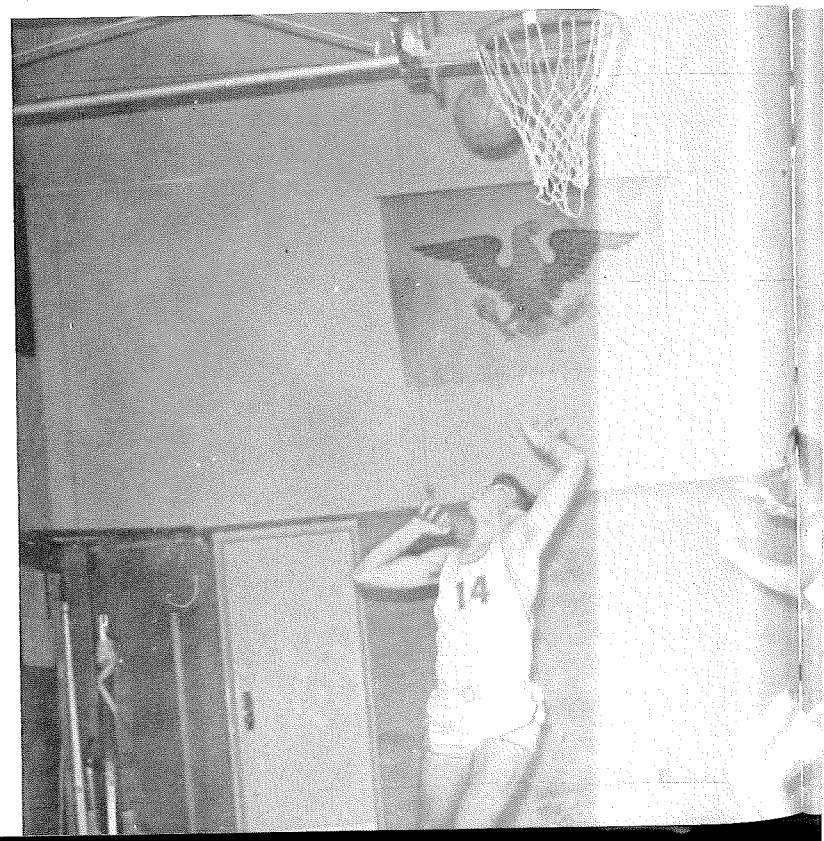
This years Varsity basketball team had a good year, winning 8 and losing 5, thanks to the help of team captain O'Hara and the two high scorers Kubli and O'Hara. The timely shooting of Bolton, the defense of Sunderland, and the rebounding of Bodnar played an important part of the teams success. Mr. Hanson, the team's recognized coach, had nothing but praise for their spirit, and their will and ability to play basketball.



Kubli shows a little hustle with a drive and a lay-up.

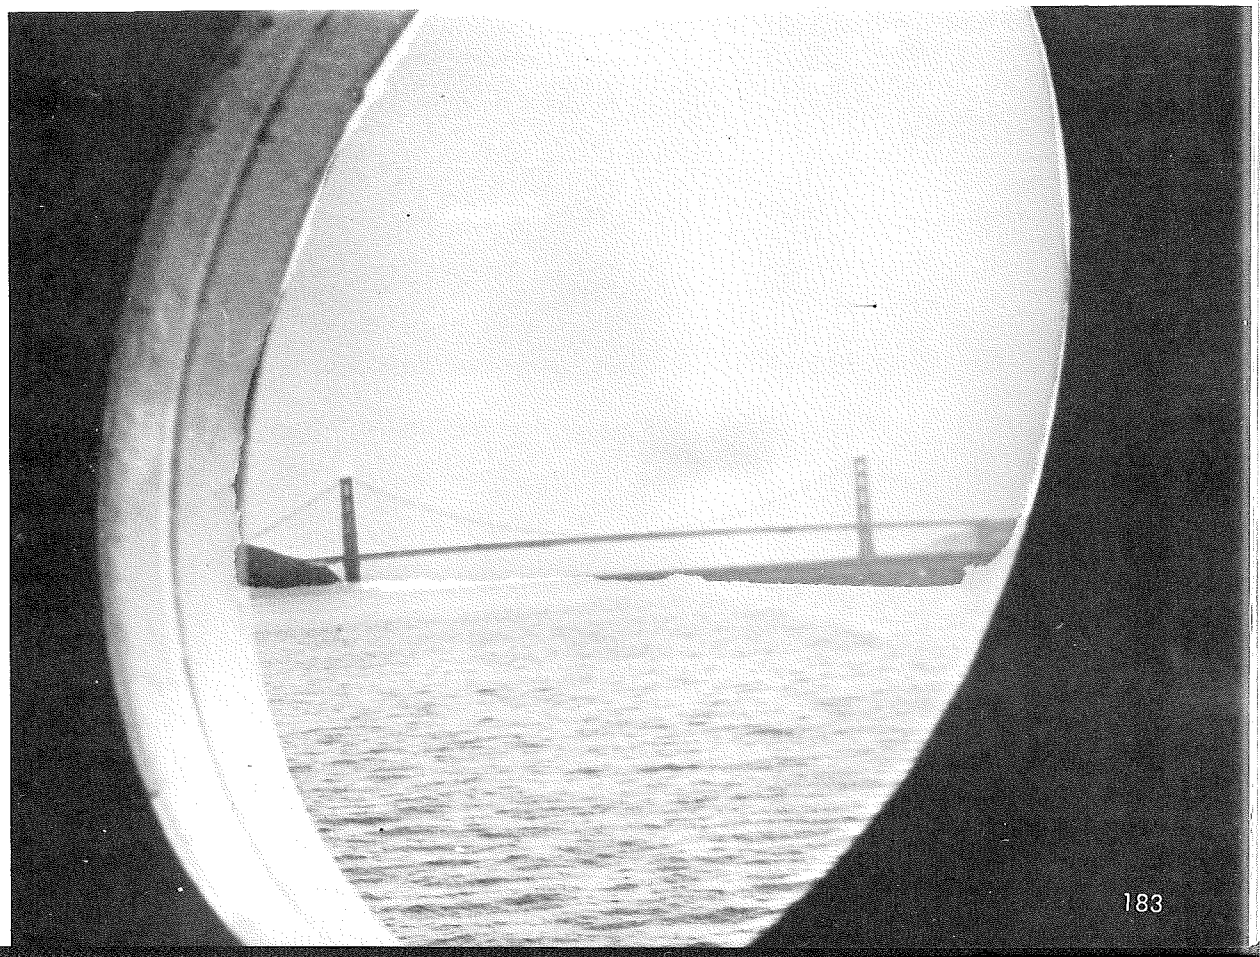
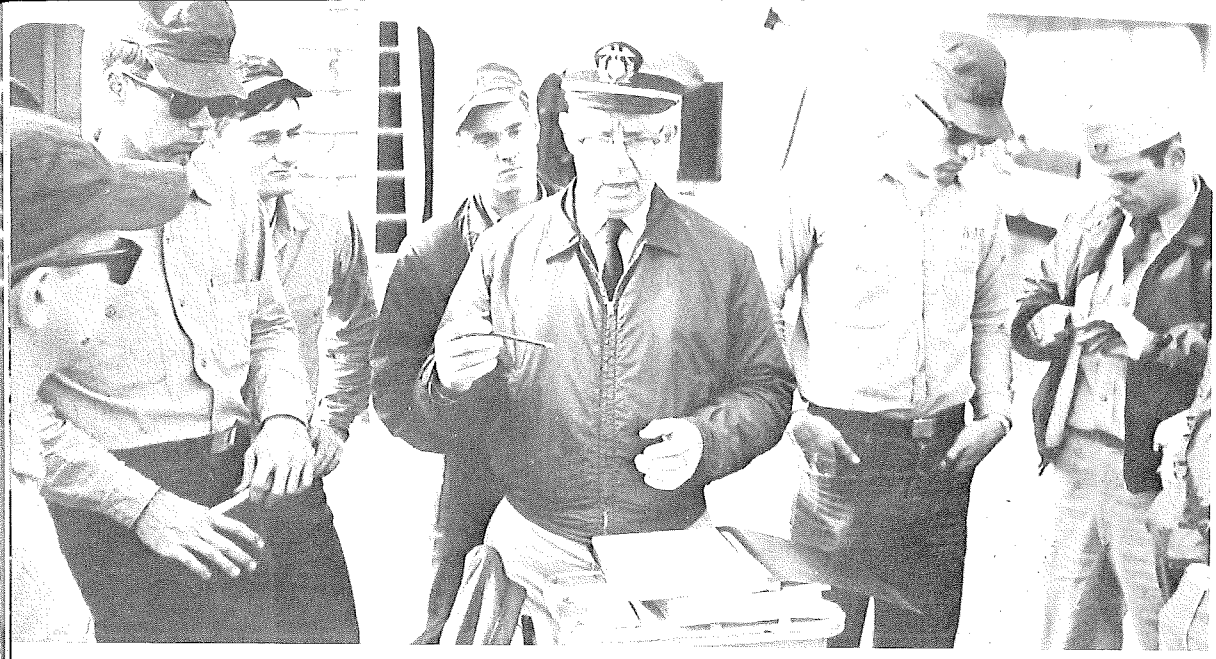
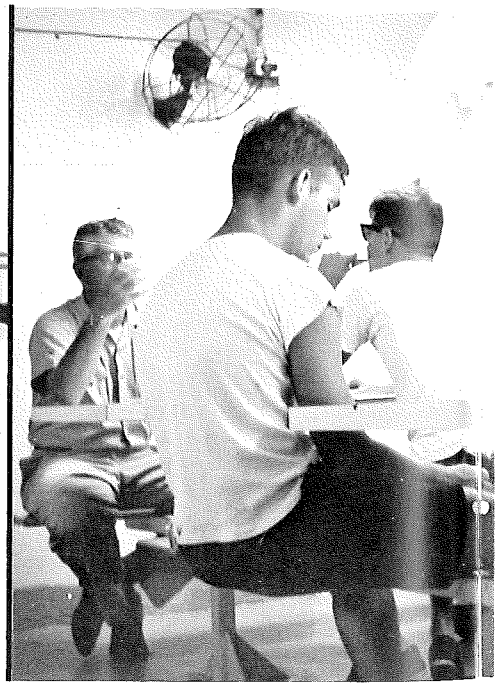
The weather was rotten...as usual.

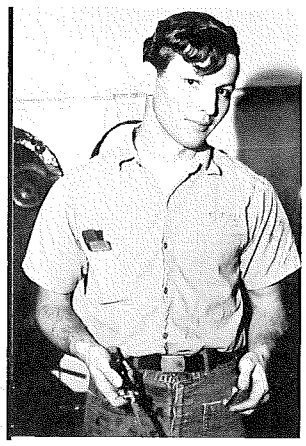
Our last look at the Gate before we head south



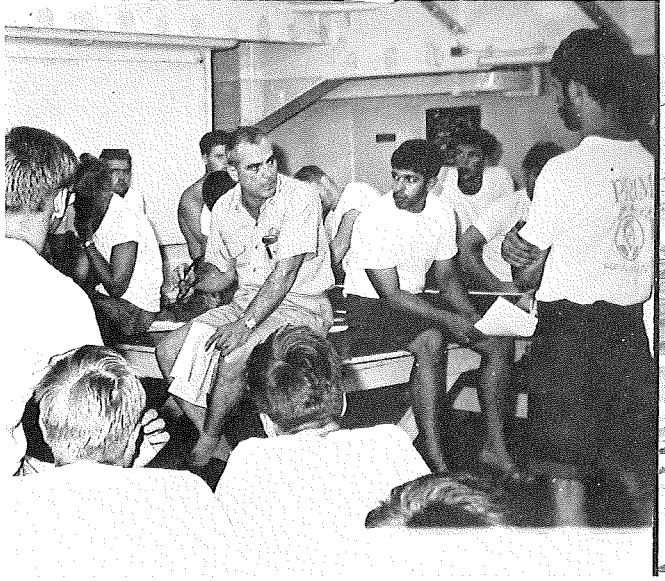


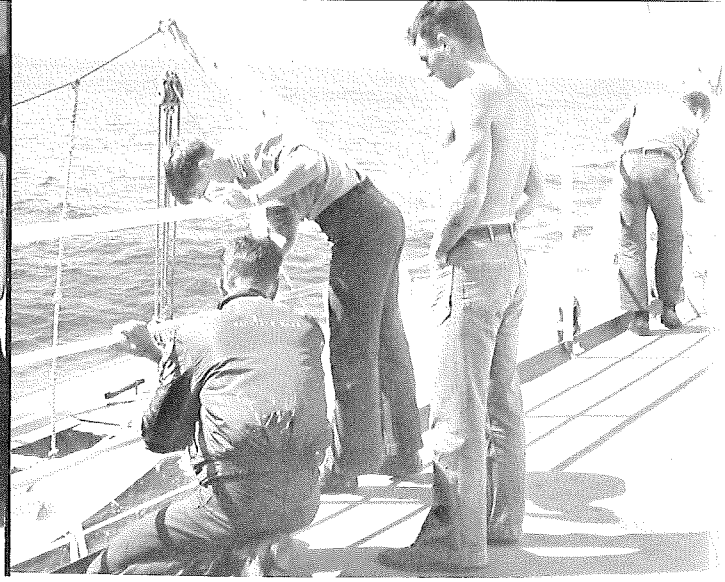


Some listen...

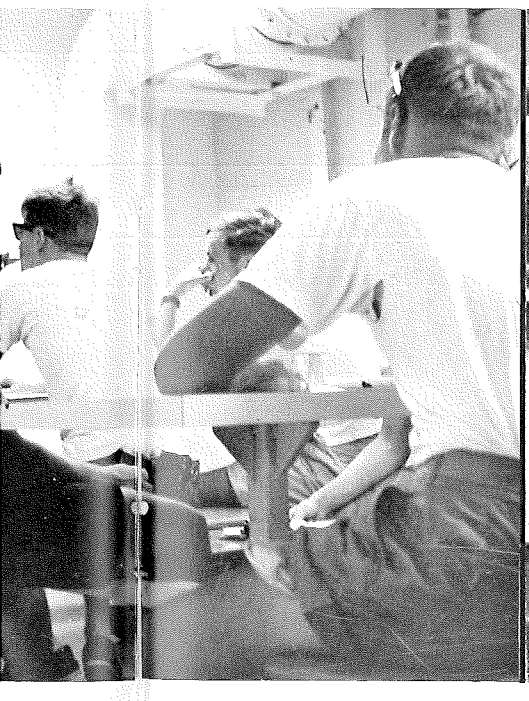


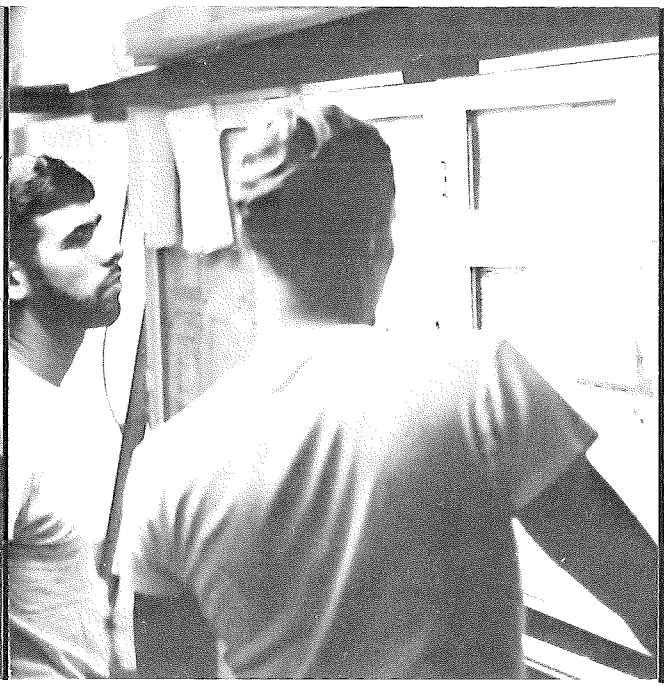
some don't..

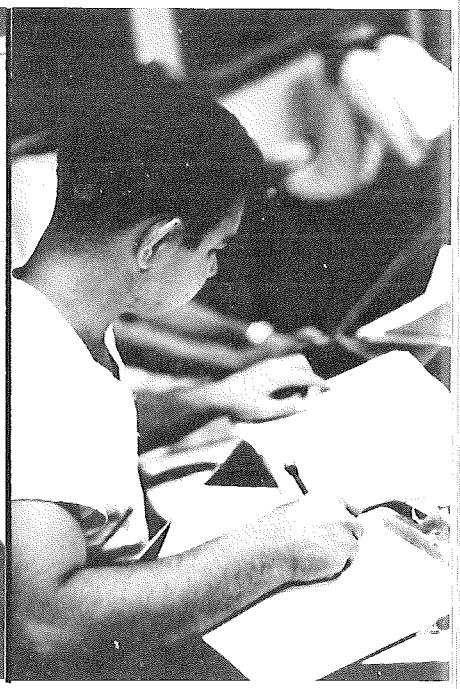


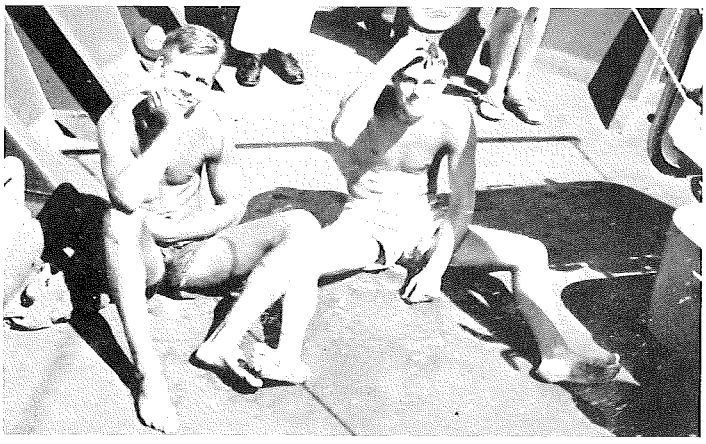


During the training cruise, instruction, in its many different forms, takes up a great part of every midshipman's time.



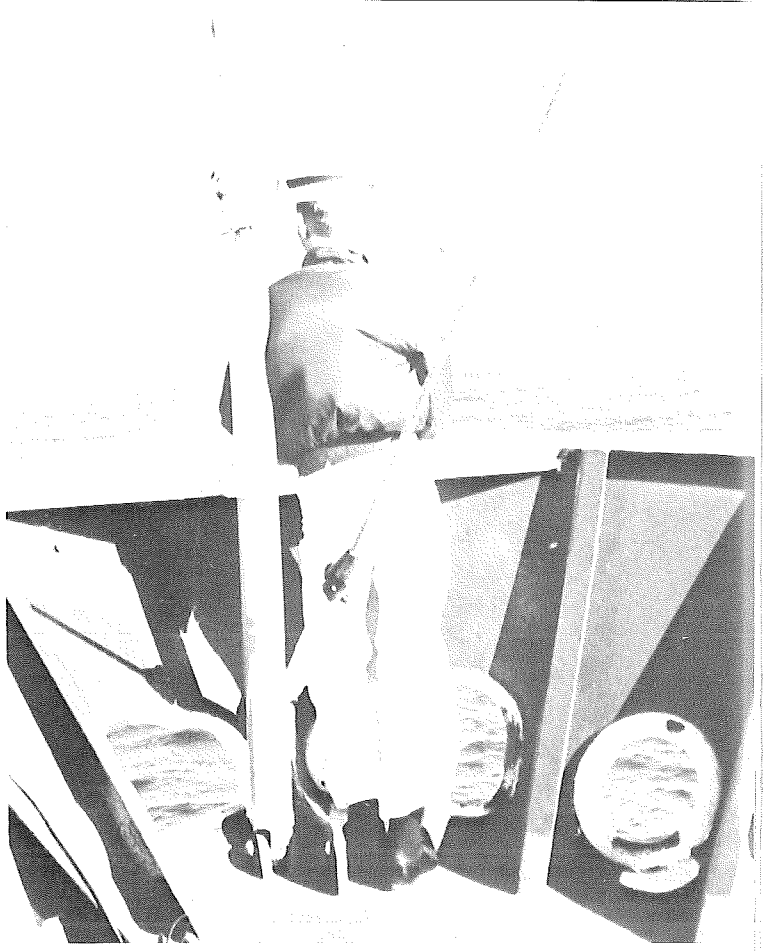




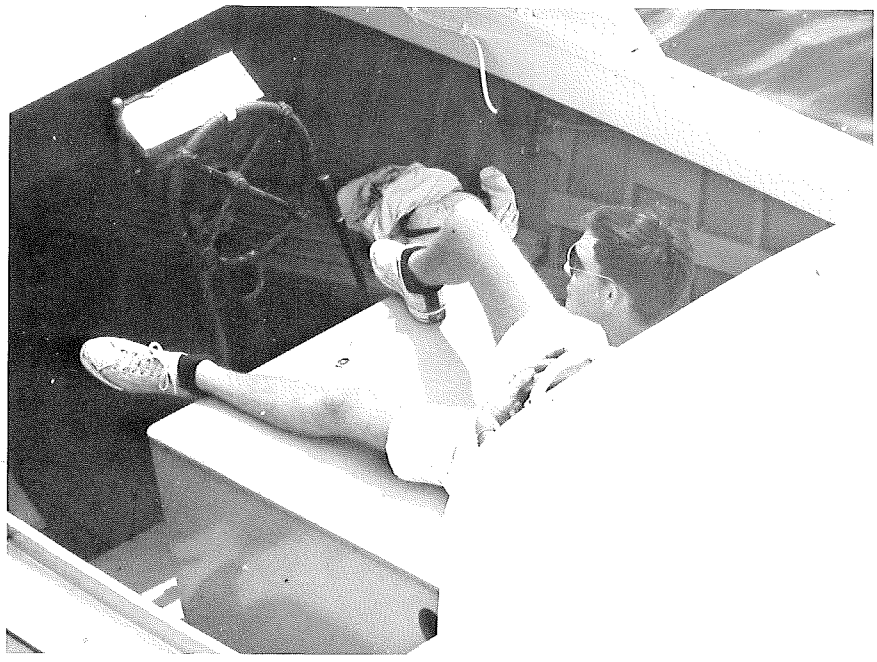


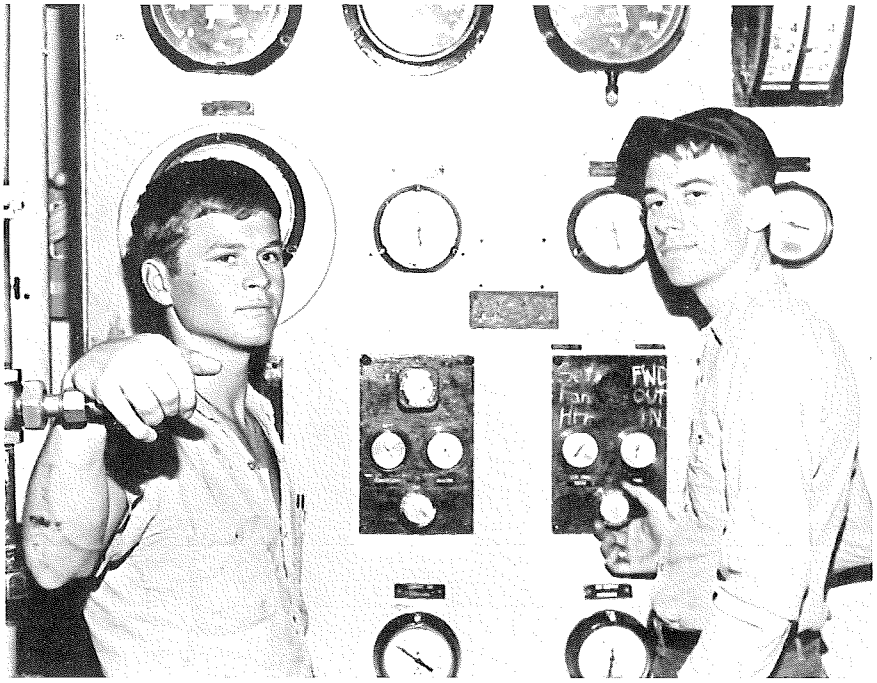
...but all eventually understand.

Deck midshipmen must spend a good deal of their time on watch busily navigating, radar plotting, and writing out various logs.



But most of a deckie's watch is spent 'looking-out.'





Sometimes engineering work is tiring, . . .

sometimes repetitious. . . .

THE ONCE AND FUTURE KING

The king gazes wistfully into the distance. He is steeling himself for the demanding task which lies ahead. He must weigh and consider the evidence in favor and against the impudent voyagers who dare enter his domain.

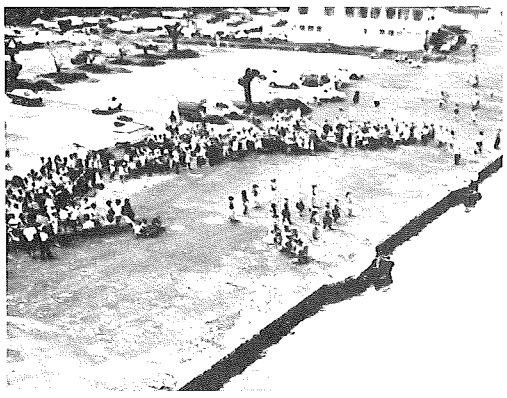
Murphy eyes the Queen lustfully.

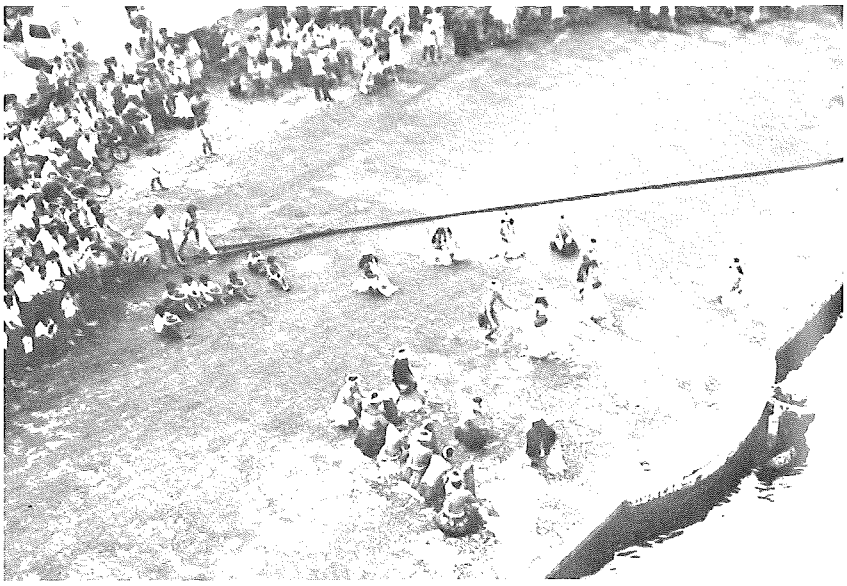
What this country needs is a good 5¢ cigar.

The natives were friendly and even came out to greet us before we docked.

Tahiti



Papeete's welcome was overwhelming.



Most of the midshipmen,
upon being granted liberty, headed across the street to a famous Papeete landmark...

others found their way to more picturesque points on the island of Tahiti.

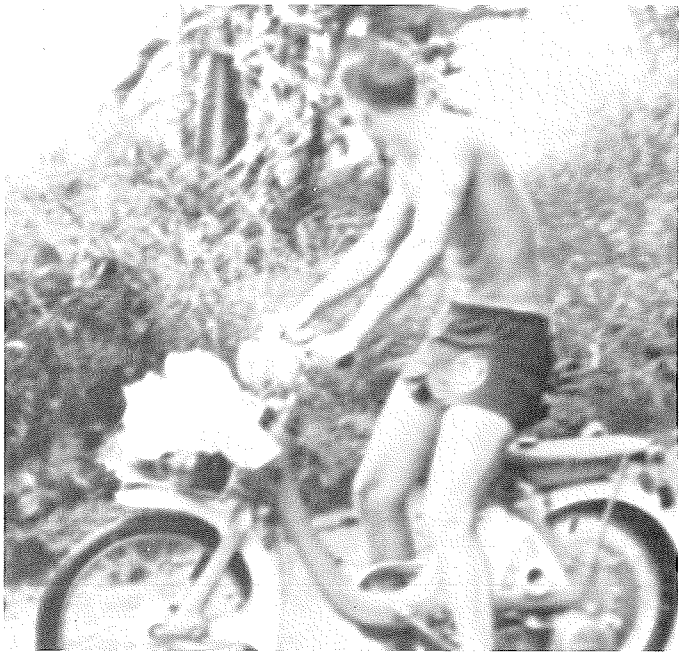
The midshipmen found that the Tahitians' favorite mode of transportation afforded a good way of viewing the islands life-forms...



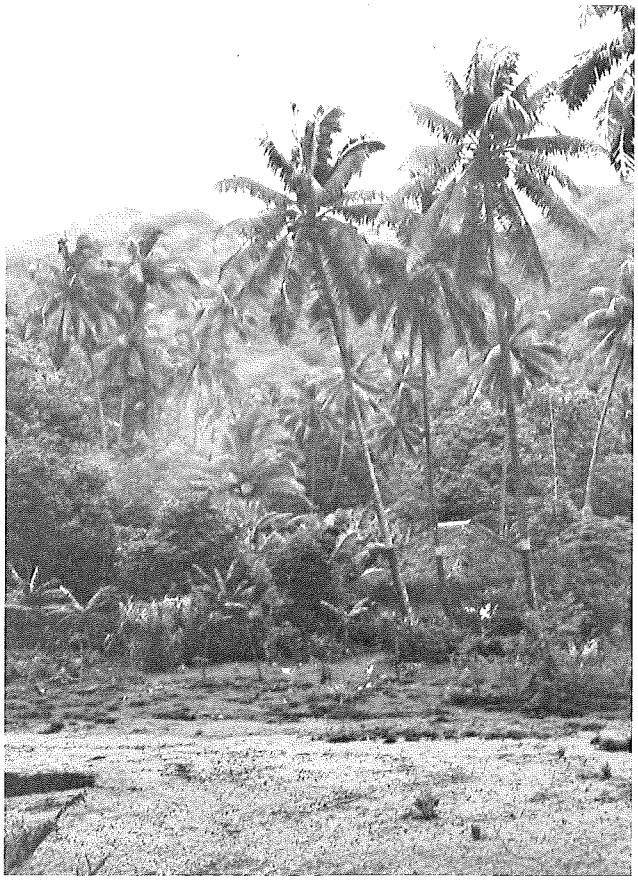
and inanimate forms as well.

The domiciles of the Tahitians were as much a surprise as their "sea-going vessels."

TAHITI

A land of warm-watered, beautiful beaches....

grottoes that "rain" inside....



and verdant jungle-like palm-tree farms

We made lots of little friends in Tahiti....

All of whom enjoyed us while we were there....

And some bigger friends who came to watch us bid a sorrowful good-bye to Papeete.

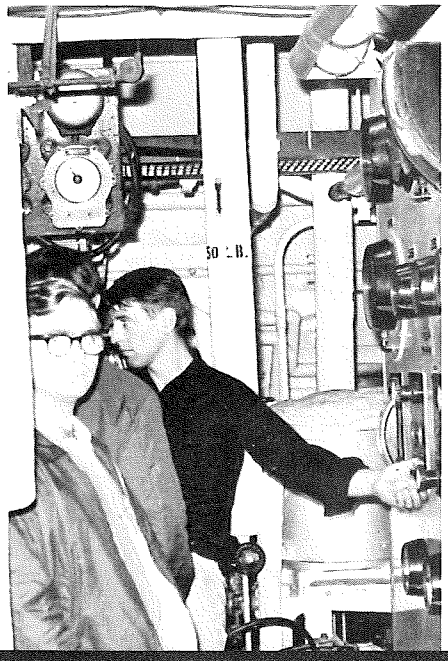
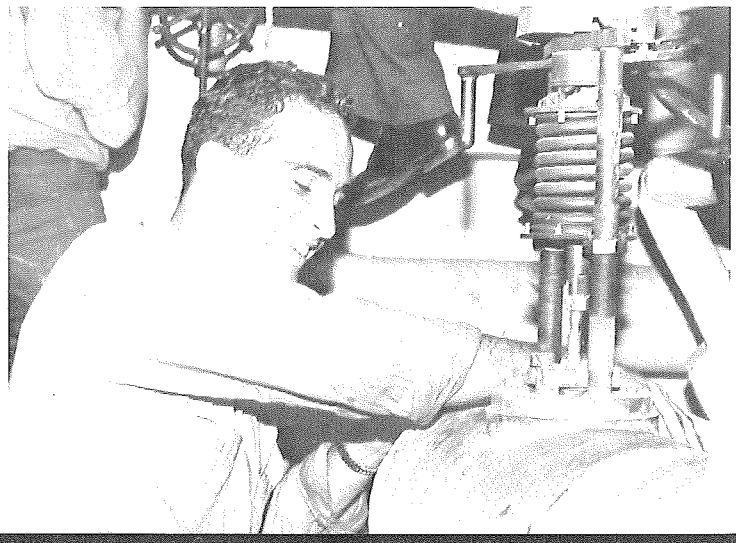
I can sit and look at it for hours.





"I told you, I'm NOT going to go down with the ship!!"

"Now what the hell are you doing under there?!"

"Listen, whose boat do you think this is anyway?!"

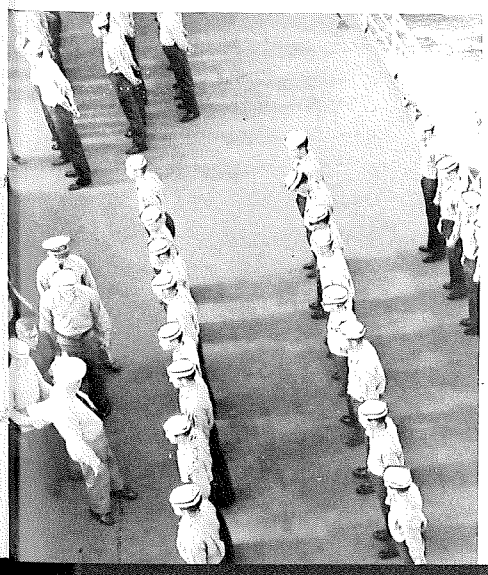
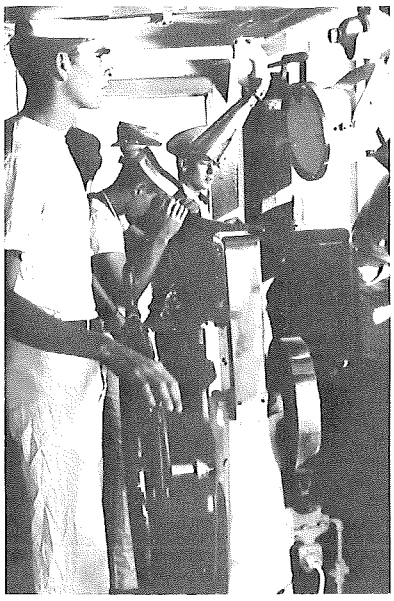
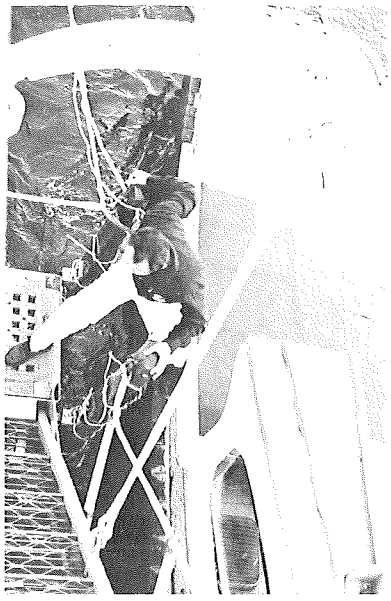
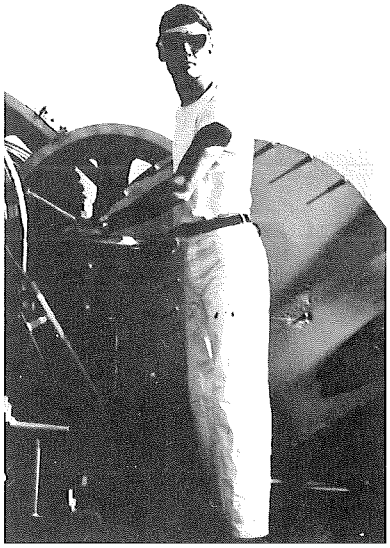
Captain's Inspection



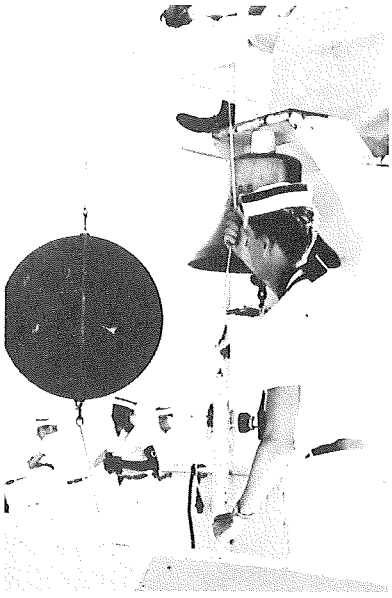




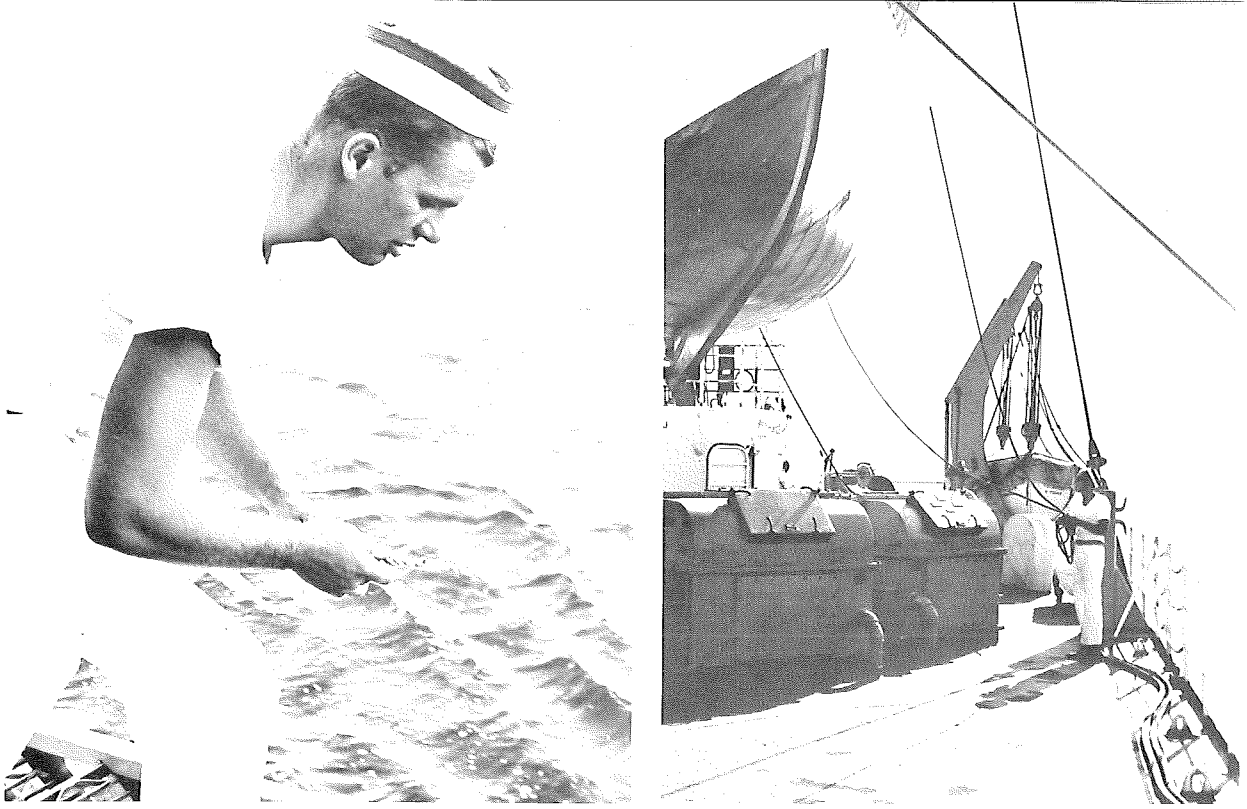
We navigated into Acapulco Bay and picked up our pilot.



The stern anchor and the port bower were readied for anchoring.



The order was given to drop the hook and the appropriate signals were hoisted.

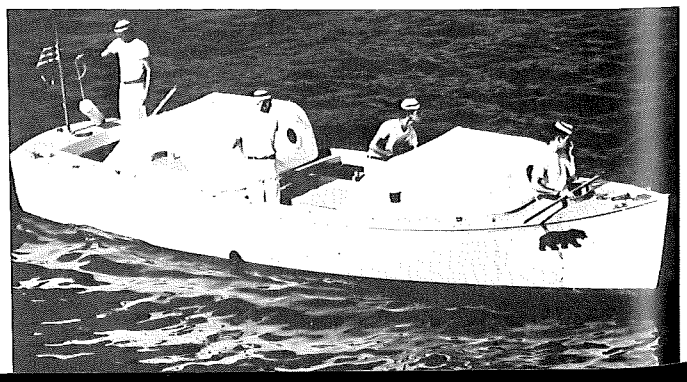


The accommodation ladder was rigged and the launch put over the side.

Acapulco Bay

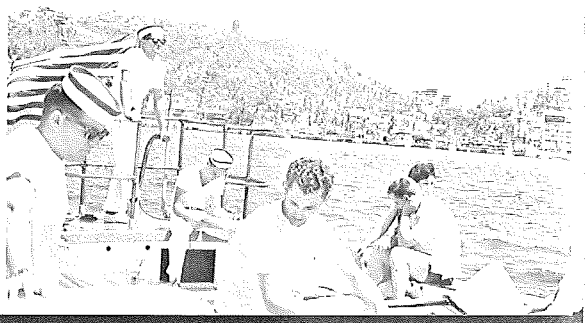
The other side of Acapulco.

Everyone was anxious to head for shore after two weeks of monotonous sea.



The great race.

Most of the afternoon launches came back empty-handed.



The launch did break down, but the gig graciously came to the rescue.

The Children of Acapulco

No matter where the Golden Bear goes, it is the children of the world who attract the midshipmen. Their innocence, beauty, and happiness make us feel welcome everywhere.

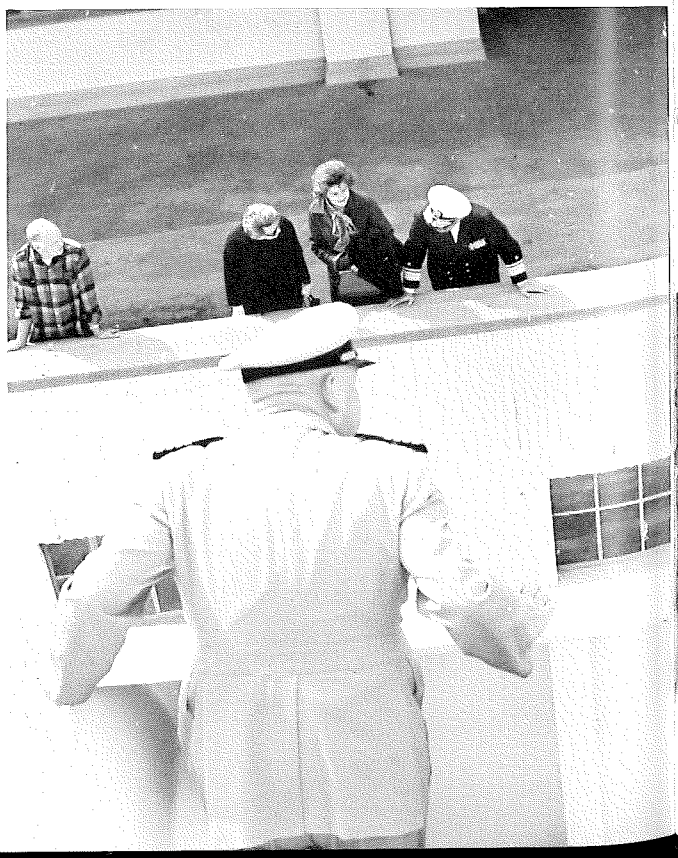
"There is no wealth where there are no children." -Shakespeare

A large crowd awaits our San Diego arrival.

"But Admiral, isn't the stern of the ship that way?"

"If it untangles itself we've got him."

San Diego

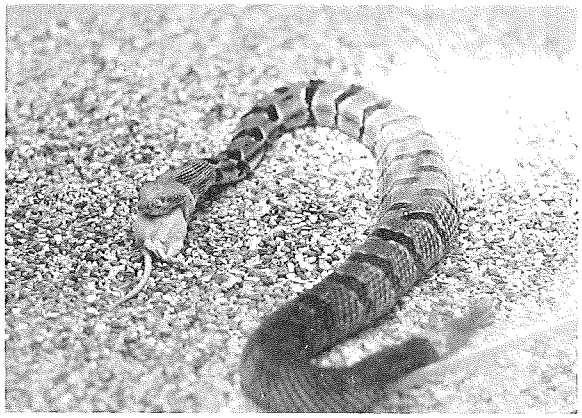


The largest and most frequented and perhaps the only attraction in beautiful San Diego was the world famous zoo. The midshipmen spent many happy hours here comparing the life of a caged animal with the life of a middie.

Anybody seen Espey?

You mean he's still there??

Bleah, they all taste that way because of the stuff they eat.



Thanks Harry!

Look ahead with LYKES.

The future belongs to both of us.

The career for which you are preparing has no higher standards or goals than those set by the LYKES organization. For generations, the LYKES officer has shared our tradition of service in the United States Merchant Marine, the challenge of ever-new methods, and the deep personal satisfaction which individual enterprise brings.

We have the largest, most modern privately owned American flag fleet, with the most new ships of 20 knots and over, including those of the highly automated Gulf Clipper Class. And even newer Lykes ships of the future—giant all purpose inter-modal carriers providing a whole new method of ocean transportation—are scheduled for service in 1970. You can be proud to join the Lykes team, a leader in ocean transportation since 1900.

Today, at 27, the "old man's" got his own ship.

He got his sea legs with Central Gulf.

Captain Knutsen's story typifies the young-thinking spirit and anchors-aweigh attitude that's made us No. 1 to the Middle East. (We also carry a lot of weight in many interesting ports of call throughout the Mediterranean and Southeast Asia, and on both the U. S. Atlantic and Gulf coasts as well.)

You won't find any fair-weather sailors at Central Gulf. We're looking for the kind of men who can take the shipping world by storm. The opportunities for such a man at Central Gulf are as boundless as the sea itself.

An honor to the Academy

The quality of California Maritime Academy graduates is well known around the Chevron Shipping Company fleet. Quite a few, we're proud to say, have seen the advantages of making a career with us, and have shipped with us since the first class was graduated.

One 1965 graduate who signed on with us was Third Mate John Porter (above). We think he'd tell you it's a fine thing to be a tankerman. These men have a special pride of their own.

John and all the other CMA men in Chevron Shipping are an honor to the Academy. It's in the way they handle their ships, their jobs, and, most importantly, themselves.

One day soon your own career will begin. If it happens to be with Chevron Shipping, we'll do our best to make it rewarding.

We, too, value the Academy and the caliber of men it turns out.
