

California State University, Fresno is a stimulating center of intellectual and cultural activity, dedicated to academic excellence, integrity and freedom. It is committed to developing qualified professionals and leaders, and to serving the San Joaquin Valley.

CSU, Fresno offers challenging and innovative programs in the liberal arts and sciences, in the professions, in applied fields, and in special and interdisciplinary areas. Departmental programs provide unusual and interesting opportunities for a proficient and enriching university experience.

The excellence of the CSU, Fresno faculty has been documented in a variety of ways, including recognition from national and international associations. Eighty-seven percent of the tenured faculty hold doctoral degrees in their areas of study. However, the most important characteristic of the CSU, Fresno faculty is their ability to care about students and their willingness to give of their time on an individual basis.

The Campus

Under a dense canopy of more than 4,000 trees, the CSU, Fresno campus sits at the northeast edge of Fresno, amid San Joaquin Valley vineyards and orchards, and against a backdrop of the beautiful Sierra Nevada. The campus was officially designated as an arboretum in 1978 and its parklike setting creates a beautiful environment for making new friends and pursuing a quality education.

The 327-acre main campus features more than 46 traditional and modern buildings. An additional 34 structures are on the 1,083-acre University Farm, which is considered one of the most modern and best equipped agricultural facilities in the West.

Outstanding research facilities, including computer, engineering, electronics, and industrial technology laboratories, are complemented by cultural and recreational facilities — two student unions, indoor and outdoor theaters for drama and music, swimming facilities, many individual and team sport facilities, a baseball stadium at Beiden Field that seats 4,575 spectators, and a 30,000-seat football/soccer stadium.

The CSU, Fresno campus is fully accessible and students with mobility impairments will find the naturally flat terrain easy to navigate.
