Dr. George J. Holgate with friends, Richard Richards, Democratic nominee for U. S. Senate and Senator Clair Engle.

A world of challenge surrounds us. We must not let delay of action and deficiency of duty deny us entrance across the threshold of a bright future. We must not allow hysteria to engulf our sanity nor stifle our strength in our battle against Communism. We may differ in our means but let us never differ in our goal of freedom for mankind.

A hungry child, a jobless father, an impoverished grandparent all are symptoms of weaknesses which we must work together to correct . . . Freedom to starve and to be ill of health is no freedom.

I am not free while even one of my fellow men toils in the invisible bondage of intolerance.
