next 10 yrs
Growth of Oxnard in the coming decade, ~~and~~ whether it improves Oxnard or destroys it, is the major issue facing the city council.

Pollution
~~To~~ use planning as a device in achieving and maintaining a balanced city free of air, water and noise pollution requires intelligent, ^{we need} informed and courageous councilmen. Because we are located on a rare coastal plain with an ideal climate, we can attract the best clean industries. We should cautiously stick with planning standards relating to the ideal percentages of industrial, commercial and residential zoning for a balanced city and in the placing of industry away from residential areas. ¹ To make correct decisions a councilman must study each issue carefully, vote independently, uninfluenced by personal battles, friendships or special interests.

Airport
I am against the expansion of the Ventura County Airport into a jet airport. If the County should acquire Oxnard Air Force Base, I would oppose its use as a jet airport. A jet airport should be located so that the flight patterns are away from population centers because of the smog and noise nuisance as well as the danger of crashes.

Public Service
A growing city urgently needs to keep high quality police and fire departments. ^{Good relationships with community have been formed measures for crime prevention}
We need a close working relationship between the police and the community
The public services of quality water for all, sewer treatment and disposal updating and further flood control are needed.

drug abuse
In addition to the official government programs against drug abuse, private efforts, such as the successful A.A. programs, should be encouraged actively by the city in cooperation with the County.

Rec Parks
We should keep the community recreation and parks programs up with population growth, particularly the small neighborhood parks which have fallen so far behind the need.

Attention must constantly be given to the cultural enrichment of Oxnard. Besides benefiting the residents, it will aid in attracting the best industries and tourism.
