

EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

Note: Students enrolling in summer session or extension are not required to be officially admitted to the college. Graduate students should see also section on School of Graduate Studies.

EXTENSION CLASSES

The college offers off-campus extension classes in regularly listed college courses when student demand is sufficiently large to finance the instruction. These courses are arranged each year in the area served by the college. For information regarding courses, course fees, and instructional costs, write to the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions.

The college allows enrollment in 6 units of extension courses per semester as a maximum for teachers employed full time. See Program Restrictions for statement regarding extension classes. Not more than a total of 24 units by extension and correspondence can be applied toward a bachelor's degree. Not more than 12 units of extension and correspondence courses may be transferred from another college or university. Extension work is not entered on the Fresno State College permanent record, except at the request of a matriculated student.

Not more than 6 units of the 30 units required for the master's degree may be earned in extension courses, student teaching, transfer credit or any combination of these. Candidates for the master's degree should check with the Office of the Dean, School of Graduate Studies, or departmental graduate adviser to learn whether specific extension courses may be applied on their graduate programs.

SUMMER SESSIONS

Fresno State College conducts summer sessions on its campus in Fresno, on the Bakersfield College campus, and classes on the College of the Sequoias campus in Visalia. Special workshop sessions are held in other valley centers. The Fresno and Bakersfield six-week sessions follow the spring semester; the Fresno second session follows the Fresno and Bakersfield sessions and include classes held at Visalia, Bakersfield, and elsewhere in the valley, offering the possibility of completing a maximum of 11 weeks in a single summer. Not more than one semester unit may be earned for each week of attendance, except that upon approval of appropriate college authorities additional semester units may be earned at the rate of one-half unit for each three units for which a student is registered in a three-week period. The offerings at these sessions include a variety of courses leading to the bachelor's and master's degrees. The program includes courses to meet the requirements for elementary, secondary, administration, supervision, and special credentials and in-service professional needs in various fields. Courses of a general cultural nature in various academic departments are also offered. A bulletin describing the offerings of all sessions is ready for distribution in March. Students who are interested in attending should write to the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions, Fresno State College, Fresno, California 93726.

BAKERSFIELD CENTER

The Bakersfield Center operated by Fresno State College was established by legislative action in September 1956. The program at the center is an integral part of Fresno State College and is under the general direction of the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions. It includes the recommended college program of courses leading to a bachelor's degree and elementary credential. The program is restricted to upper division courses applicable to this degree and credential. The Center offers majors in social science and in English, and minors in art and in English to candidates for the standard teaching credential with specialization in elementary teaching.