Elan . . .

Cal State Today

June 1, 1965

Dear Alumnus:

We have completed the second year on our new campus. You might not recognize the place—the raw, newly constructed look of the first year is gone. The Science and Fine Arts buildings that were part of the original construction have lost their lonesome look and are blending into the greenery of the new landscaping.

Over 1200 freshmen registered for the fall term. With the freshman class of 1963, now sophomores, Cal State has become a four-year college. This summer CSCH will conduct a complete quarter program, the first for the State College system; so we are now on a full year-round operation.

Our first football team took to the field last fall and made an honorable showing, even though they did have to play on a borrowed field. This fall should see them playing in our own new stadium. The Cal-State Affiliates has undertaken construction of a 10,000 seat stadium as one of its projects, and the seating should be ready by the fall of 1966.

Each new development brings the total college complex closer to completion. In September the Carlos Bee Residence Hall opened with 120 resident students. The parking situation is improved, although still inadequate for our growing student body. Another dormitory, twin to Bee Hall, is on the drawing board, and living quarters for married students and a shopping center are in the talking stage.

The much publicized circular-shaped music building will be ready for classes this fall. This should especially please the music department faculty who, for the past two years, have had to teach amid the pipes and paraphernalia of the science labs.

Space in the two initial buildings has become more precious, but the college spirit has been so high the crowding hasn't bothered us. Instead of complaining, the students and faculty have reacted to this inconvenience with the Pioneer spirit. We have made maximum use of our facilities remembering that new buildings are on the way.

So many informal educational activities went on it would take pages just to list them. The Speech-Drama Department presented outstanding plays at the Highland Theatre. The Cal State Chorus, Orchestra and Band again displayed their considerable talents in a performance of "The Messiah" in December, and many other musical events during the year. One of the highlights of the year was the big formal ball held to celebrate the first anniversary of the new campus, complete with queen and court. And, of course, there was the traditional Homecoming celebration in February.

The only thing we didn't have was trouble, riots, sit ins, or some of the other forms of dissension found on many campuses. Possibly this was because of the high caliber of Cal-State students.

This letter can't possibly do justice to the wonderful changes and growth of the college. You will have to see for yourself. Do come for a visit to your Alma Mater soon.

We'll be looking for you.

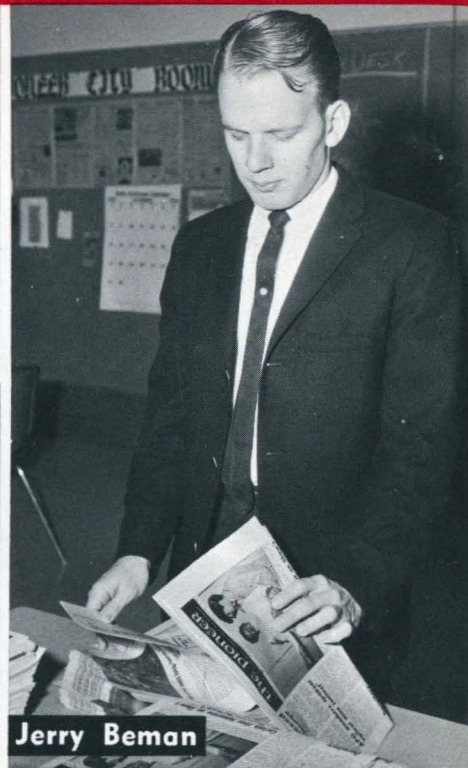

Sincerely yours,
The ELAN Staff

The intense desire for knowledge is reflected by tapping canes in college corridors. To the blind students of all colleges this yearbook is dedicated.

President and Mrs. Harclerod

President Harclerod and his secretary, Mrs. Lorraine Dodge

To the Class of 1965:

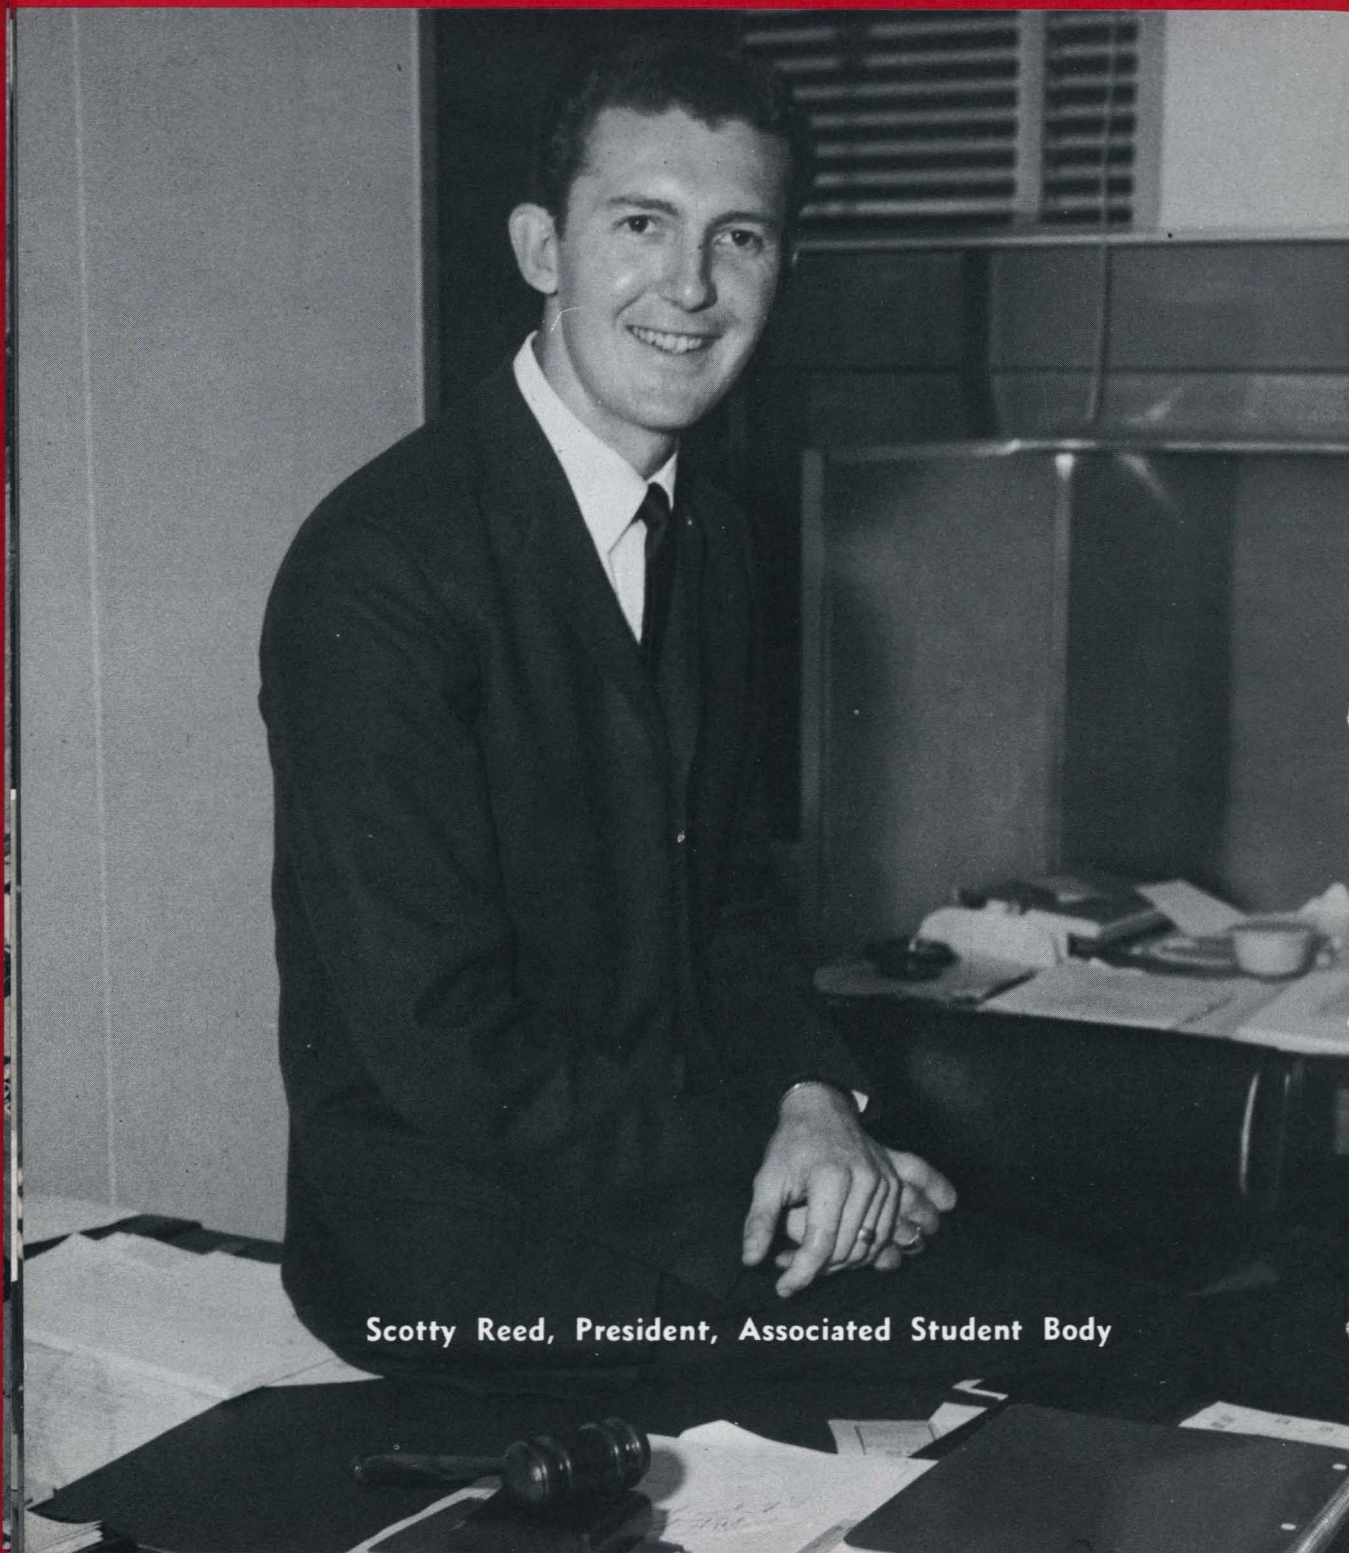

As the fifth Cal State Commencement approaches, we salute the members of the graduating class of 1965. We of the faculty trust that you, our students, have developed—and will later demonstrate—that illusive quality of "elan" which should be characteristic of our graduates. Some of you will terminate your formal education at this time and embark immediately upon your chosen career. Others will continue toward an advanced degree. Regardless of the course you follow, we hope you will look upon this Commencement merely as an important way point in a lifetime of study.

For most of your generation the principal areas of exploration will be found in previously uncharted knowledge. Whether your major area of study at Cal State has been in the natural sciences, the social sciences, the humanities, the creative arts, mathematics, education or business, vast frontiers of new knowledge await your discovery.

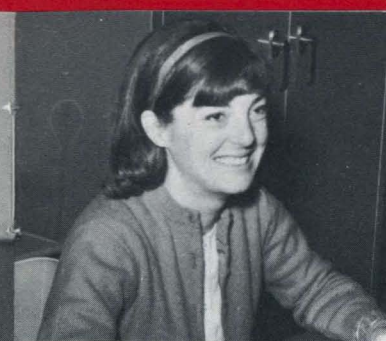

The presentation of the traditional baccalaureate degree does not mean we are certifying your completion of an education guaranteed to last a lifetime. On the contrary, we have tried to provide you with an opportunity to learn the intellectual skills and background necessary to adjust intellectually to a constantly changing world. It also has been our earnest endeavor to awaken within each one of you a lively interest in many diverse fields of study and an intense curiosity which never dies.

May your memories of Cal State be warm and happy ones—and may your appetite for knowledge be so consuming that you will make it a lifelong pursuit.

April Events

Cal State is moving into the "big time" in more ways than one. During March and April the college showed an $85,000 Mexican art exhibit. Paintings by some of Mexico's finest artists were included. Two of these are shown below and at the right. Pictured in the lower right hand corner is Meredith Willson (and his wife) who appeared here in April.

CAMPAIGN TIME brought students out to the new free speech area, The Agora, to hear the candidates.

Cal-State Winners

DIVISION OF BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

The Business and Economics Division is making a strong effort to provide future businessmen with a liberal education and is placing less emphasis on producing technicians and specialists.

The major aim of the Division is not to supply business with graduates trained to perform their first job, but to provide the student with a basic education that will serve him well during a long career.

The dynamics of adaptation and leadership, along with the acquisition of the newer tools and techniques used in business management, constitute a major element of the management major.

In the future the Division will rely more and more on computers and other scientific tools to assist business students in their roles as decision makers. There will be emphasis on the quantitative approach in marketing and management.

Major innovations will be made in the management and marketing curricula. Classes, for example, will be added in management science.

In an effort to become better acquainted with the commercial world, the Division's Association of Business and Economics Students hosted a number of meetings featuring speakers from Bay Area business firms.

CREATIVE ARTS

DIVISION OF CREATIVE ARTS

Creative art is the "subtle language of freedom"—giving direction to our society.

The language of art is universal. It embodies a desire to express feelings, ideas and hopes of all people that can not be conveyed through words.

Each part of the Creative Arts division has a different language. The Department of Art places emphasis on the individual's expression. The Music Department stresses group expression. Drama and speech is a combination of both with the balance in favor of the individual.

The entire division invites students to add to their general education, and invites the specializing student to participate in creative art activities. The fine arts are not for people with special talents only. All arts are basic to man. It is through the discovery of creating unique art forms that one can gain self-confidence.

Among the many out-of-class activities, the Hayward Art Festival held in May represented one of the highlights of the year. Students and staff of the Creative Arts Division joined with artists in the community to produce an extensive cultural program.

In planning for the future, the Division will provide more graduate work in the art and speech-drama departments. A master's in music is now offered, and, hopefully, M.A. degrees in the other two disciplines are expected by 1968. A speech-drama classroom building is planned for 1969 and will be a part of the college Performing Arts Center.

DIVISION OF EDUCATION

Basic to the Division of Education is the concept of a full partnership among college and public school personnel in developing competent teachers.

The Department of Education is pioneering an exciting avant-garde program in preparing teachers. Students are being trained in real classroom situations under constant supervision of the Cal-State teaching staff and the public classroom teacher. This arrangement offers the student many meaningful experiences prior to commencing the student teaching program. Theory and practice in this way are carefully integrated. This stimulating program is being conducted in elementary schools within the community. As one professor suggests, "Students cannot learn to teach while sitting in a college classroom."

At the graduate level, the Division of Education is concerned with the professional education of teachers and programs for specialists in selected areas of school service. The several programs prepare students for elementary school teaching, for secondary school teaching, for recreation leadership, and for assignments as specialists in health and physical education, pupil personnel services, and supervision.

A special feature offered in the Division of Education is the "in-service" program which provides many evening courses to credentialed teachers in the community who are concerned about self improvement, securing specialized credentials or advanced degrees.

PROFESSOR ARNOLD BIELLA
Head, Division of Humanities

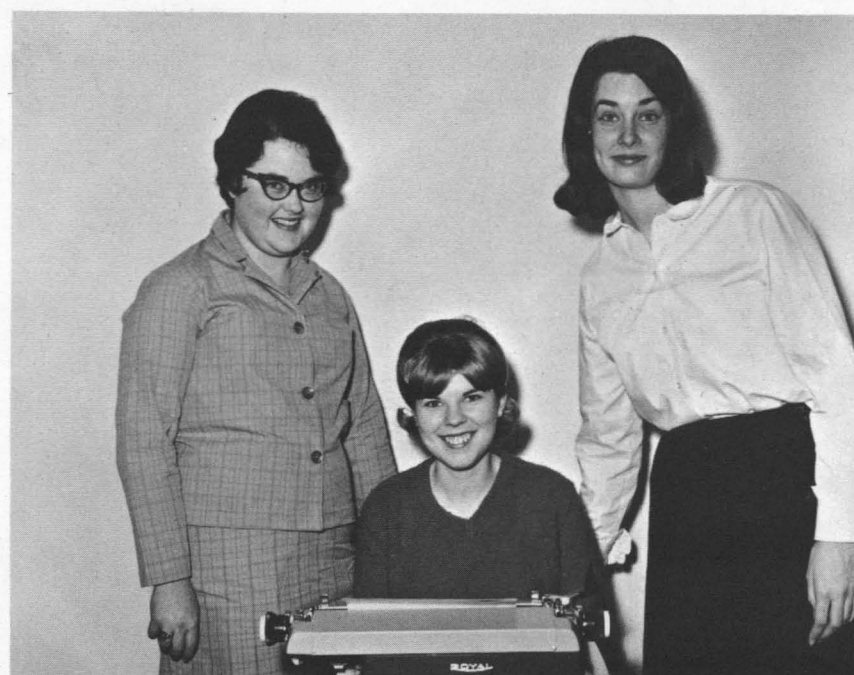

DIVISION OF HUMANITIES

Humanities is the branch of learning concerned with human thought and relationships, especially through language, literature and philosophy. Through this humanistic study of man's ideas the student, in search of his personal freedom, explores the levels and kinds of meaning which shape his world of knowledge.

The four departments — English, Foreign Languages, Philosophy and History — are characterized by their distinguished faculty members.

Four of the Humanities Division faculty are serving on overseas assignments. Professor Arnold Biella, Head of the Division, is a Fulbright lecturer at the American University in Cairo, Egypt. Professor Morton Rosenbaum is at the University of Madrid serving as the resident director of the California State Colleges Overseas Study Program in Spain. Professor Douglas Peterson is on a Fulbright at the University of Helsinki, lecturing on Shakespeare. Professor Theodore Roszak is on leave in London working as editor of the independent weekly, Peace News.

This was the first year for the Master of Arts Degree in English at Cal State. Next year a major in philosophy will be offered. Plans for the division include developing a program in Asian studies, as evidenced by the presence at Cal State this past year of visiting professor N. A. Nikam, former Vice-Chancellor of Mysore University, India. It was through the effort of Professor Nikam that the College was able to have our convocation speaker, His Highness, the Maharajah Jaya Wadihar of Mysore and Governor of the State of Madras, India.

DIVISION OF SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

In this day of expanding technology, many students are now attracted to the majors in the physical and biological sciences either as preparation for graduate study in technical and non-technical fields, or for teaching, or for employment in a variety of occupations in which a science background is needed.

The increasing importance of mathematics is reflected in the burgeoning demand for mathematicians and teachers of mathematics at all levels, and also in the revolutions occurring in mathematics in all fields of the business community. Cal-State's team of "mathematical missionaries" is anxious to spread the word through flexible, up-to-date programs, including the study of the "new mathematics," mathematical aspects of the social, biological and management sciences, in preparation for a position with industry or government. The program includes extensive training in the use of the college's IBM computer equipment in connection with computer programming, numerical analysis and other aspects of the computer services.

"While mathematics has always been recognized as one of the cornerstones of our educational system, we are entering an era in which an understanding of mathematics will be of even greater importance to all educated men."

DIVISION OF SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE

Students in the Social and Behavioral Science Division, by combining experiences from many subject fields, are encouraged to anticipate the world of the future—a world radically different from anything else in history.

The major task of this future is the further development and extension of democratic theory and practice. The basic concept of democracy rests upon the belief that if man is given a chance he can learn to use his freedoms responsibly. A special resource which supports this concept is the division student council which annually plans the celebrations of United Nations Day in October and Law and Freedom Day on May 1.

The social sciences provide the student with a climate of understanding in which he can learn to think critically and coherently over the full range of his enlarging experiences and to project these forward in time.

The social science subject fields—anthropology, geography, economics, history, journalism, political science, sociology, social psychology, and social science—provide a unique opportunity for students to discover themselves in a social world and to develop their own individualities, both as to their special interests and to their eventual professional careers.

The Coronation Ball was held February 12, and at the magic hour of midnight Eileen McDonald was crowned 1965 Homecoming queen by last year's queen, Jan Perry.

February 10 was Pioneer Day, highlighted by such activities as a frog jumping contest and a tug-of-war. It was a colorful celebration with students dressed in costumes and casual clothes and the festivities climaxing in a rally and hootenany at Foothill Gym.

Dances

Cal-State students began the year Swimming, performed the Fruge through three quarters, and Jerked into summer at such dances as the Sadie Hawkins, Hello Dance, Season's End, Autumn Leaves, Winter Wonderland and Beauty and the Beast.

"The War on Poverty" and "The New Society" were topics discussed by Anthony J. Celebrezze, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, at the first convocation of the year.

Assemblyman Carlos Bee spoke at ceremonies at Carlos Bee Hall, named for the legislator responsible for introducing the bill that led to establishment of Cal State, Hayward.

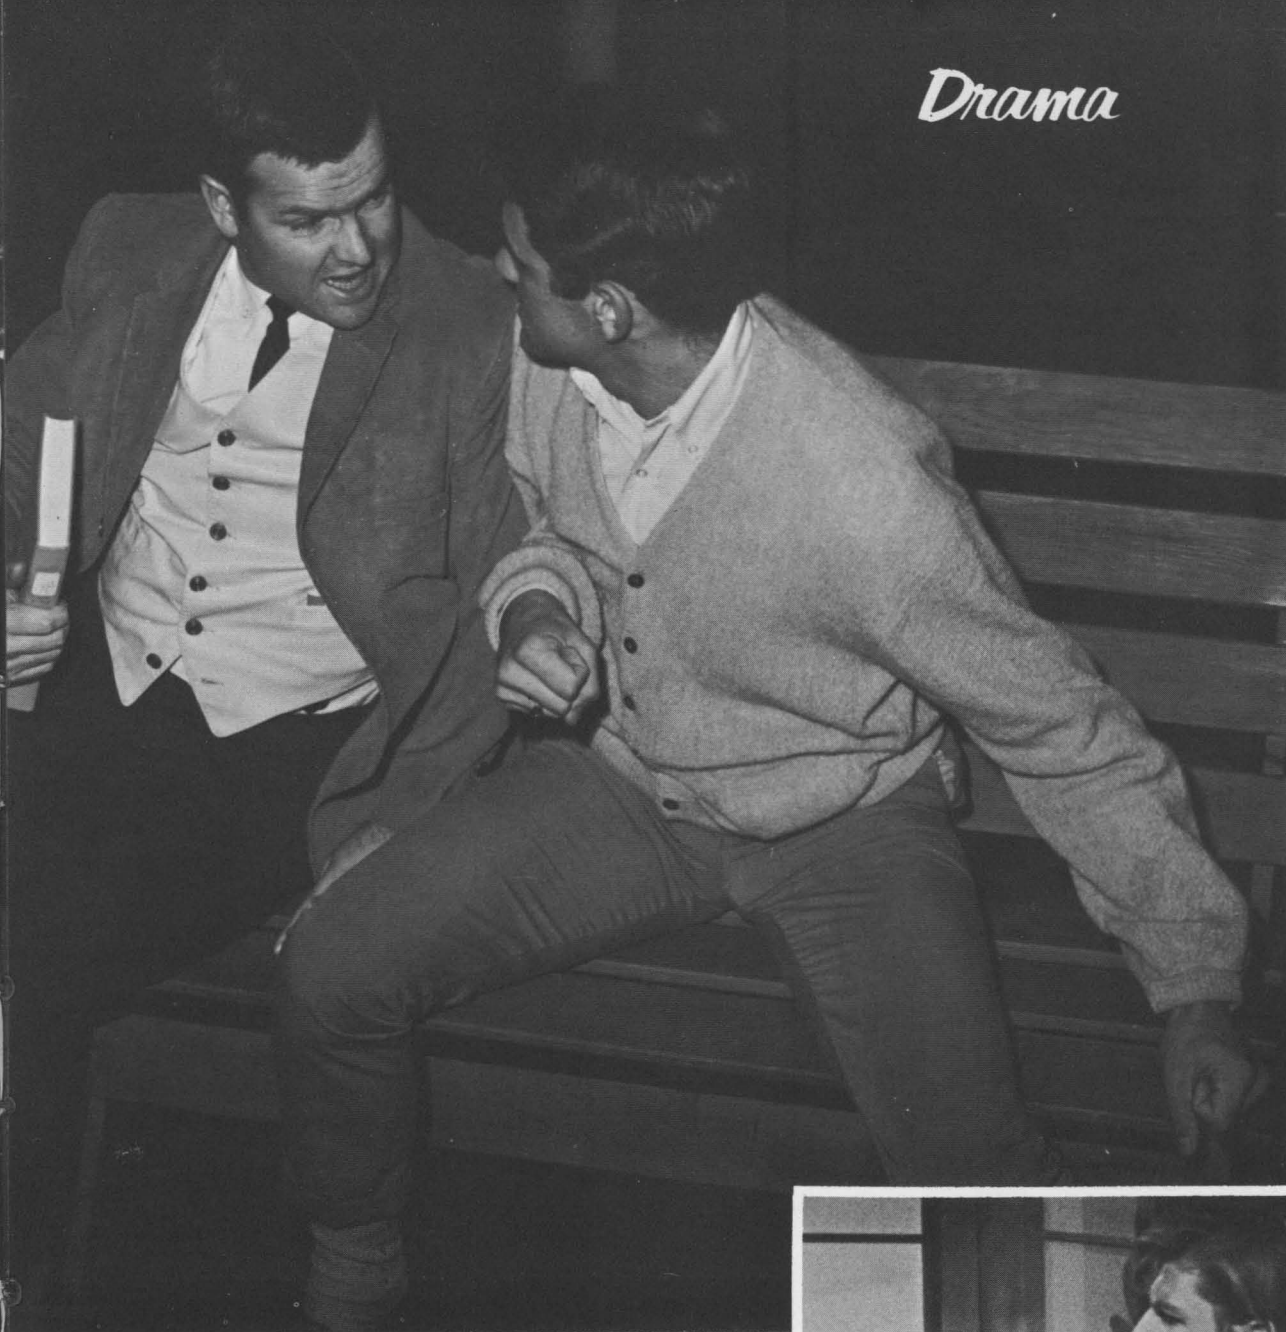

Speakers

His Highness, the Maharajah Jaya Wadihar and President Fred Harclerod stroll through the Fine Arts court en route from the winter quarter convocation where Wadihar, ruler of 50 million, presented a philosophical address on "Art and Morality".

Special Events

Drama

ZOO STORY presented in March shows Jerry McDonald and Pat Finley about to slug it out.

"I wish they'd stop playing tick-tack-toe . . ."

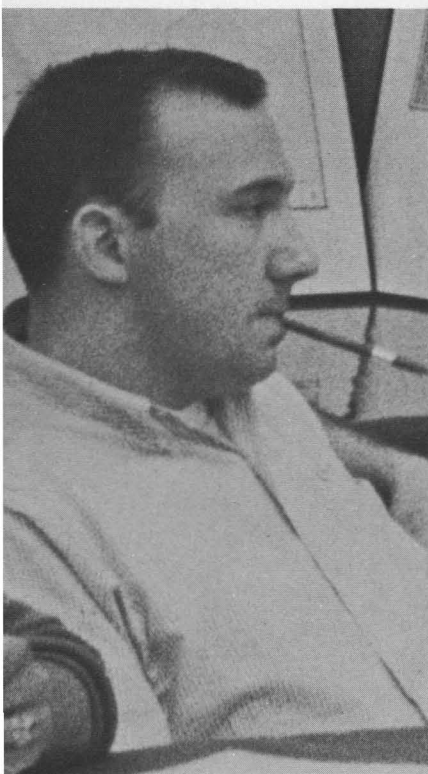

"They'll never get away with it."

Council

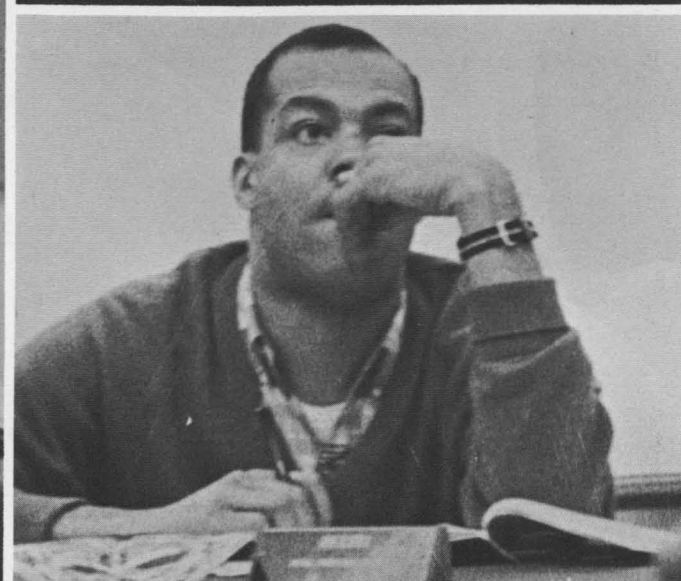

"I don't like Scotty's haircut, do you?"

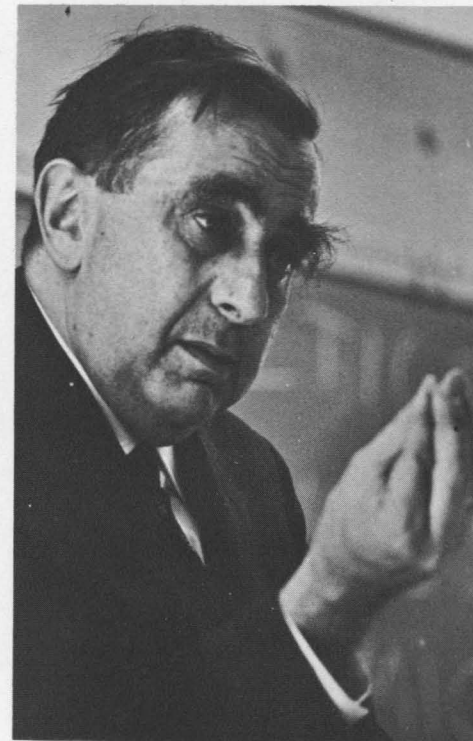

"What Cal-State needs is a good 50c cigar."

"Will that spider catch the fly?"

"Let's see, did she say whole wheat bread and cinnamon rolls or cinnamon and Wheaties?"

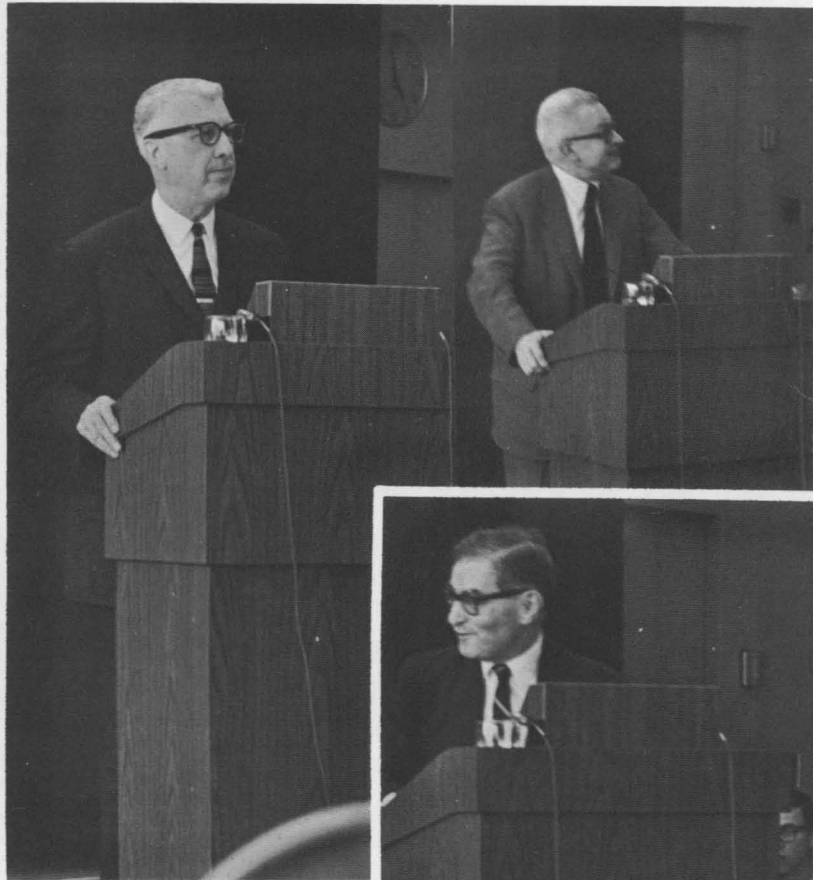

DR. EDWARD TELLER addressed a standing-room-only Cal-State audience in SS219 in mid April. He advised students to prepare well for their careers. In the lecture, sponsored by the Science and Mathematics Divisional Council, the scientist warned that our system of education "was good but not good enough."

Mexico City

"The Individual in the World of 1985" was the subject for the first annual Social and Behavioral Science Division Symposium. The event was combined with the 1965 Law and Freedom Day program.

The Division Council student leaders, under the chairmanship of Hal Fishler, arranged one of the most outstanding scholarly programs in the history of the college. The speakers were Dr. Robert Theobald, British socio-economist; Dr. Sol Tax, professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago; Dr. David Potter, professor of history at Stanford University; Dr. Sripati Chandrasekhar, one of India's leading demographers and an international authority on population problems; and Professor John Thompson of the Cal State Philosophy Department. Speaker for the annual Law and Freedom Day program was Assemblyman Nicholas Petris.

COACH ROD ENOS

Taking to the field for the first time in the college's history, Cal-State's pioneering football team finished their inaugural season with a 3-5 mark after winning three of the first four.

Opening the season with two straight wins over the San Francisco State J.V.'s and Moffett Field, the Pioneers tasted defeat at Sacramento when the Hornet J.V.'s went 44 yards on the final play of the game and added a two point conversion to win 15-14.

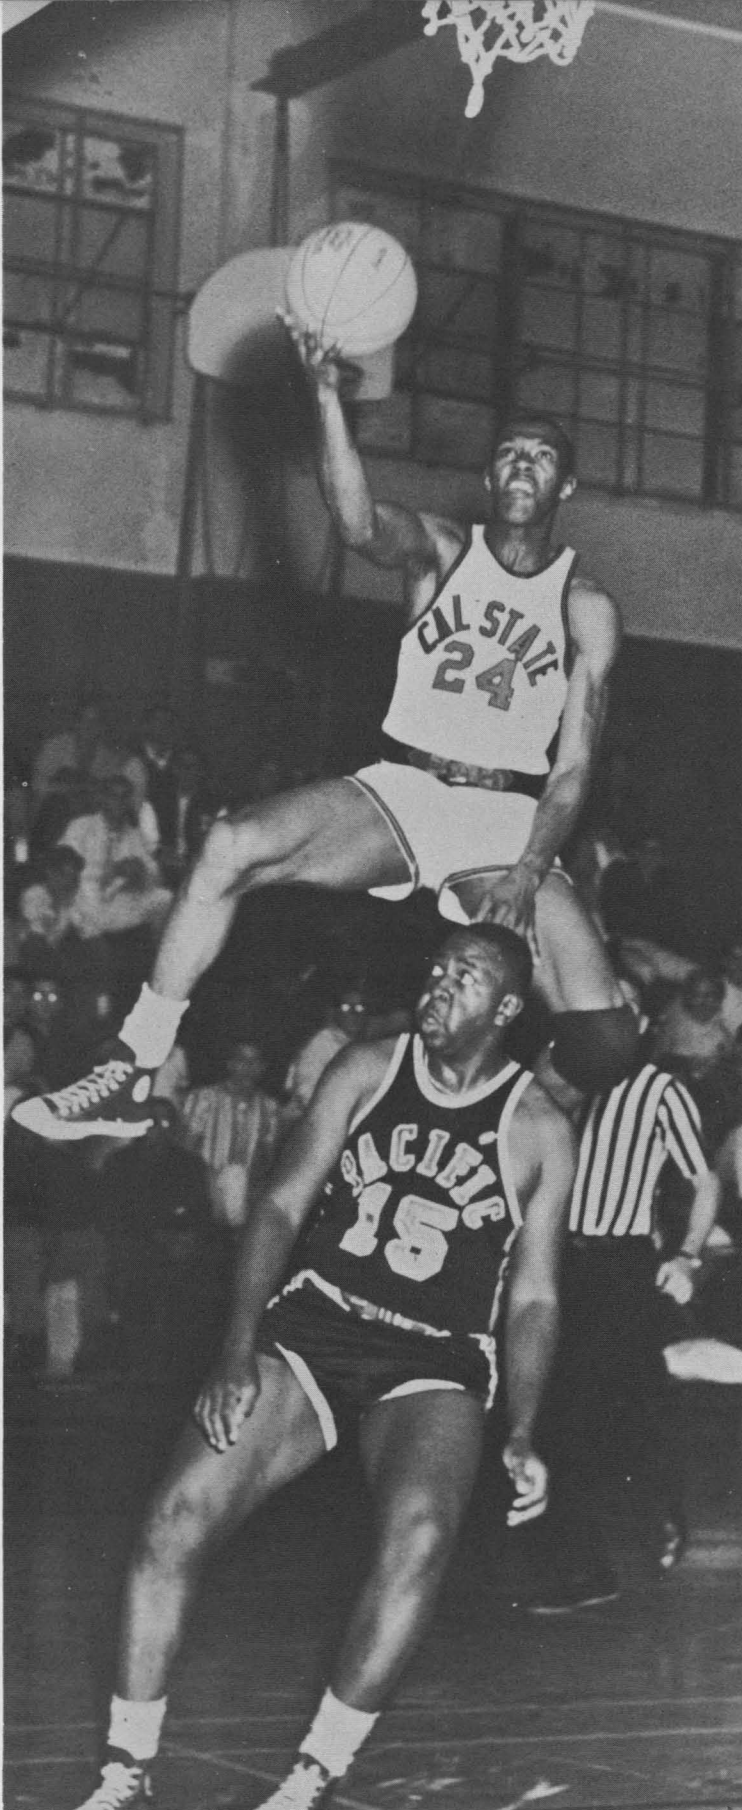

Losing didn't deflate the Pioneers. They bounced back to play their best game of the year, a 20-0 whitewashing of Humboldt State's J.V.'s at Arcata.

With seven men who had started for the varsity earlier in the season, Stanford's junior varsity tumbled the Pioneers 35-20 in the final J.V. level tilt for Cal State.

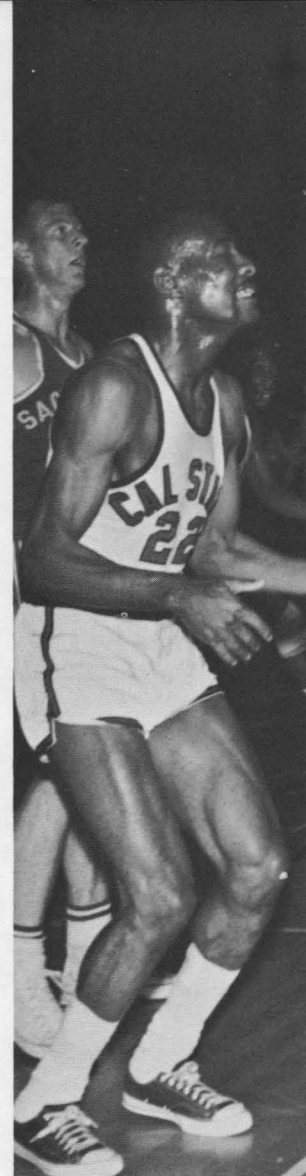

Taking the jump from junior varsity competition to varsity competition the Pioneers lost to the University of San Francisco on a blocked punt in the final quarter, and then lost to California Lutheran College and La Verne College to close out the season.

Taking on the toughest schedule of any Cal-State basketball team, the 1964-65 Pioneers finished the season at 6-16 against such foes as National Invitational Tournament qualifiers Texas Western and the University of New Mexico, as well as the University of Arizona and the California Collegiate Athletic Association Champion Fresno State.

All pre-season games serve to prepare a team for the league games, and Cal-State opened its conference season with a big 70-47 win over Humboldt State.

Still in the conference running after losing two others, the Pioneers were dropped to a spoliator role by U.C. Davis when fouls cost them to play most of the game with three starters on the bench.

Finishing with three wins in a row, the high point of the season came when the Pioneers knocked Nevada out of a three-way conference tie for first with a 92-90 victory in the final weekend of action to move into fourth place.

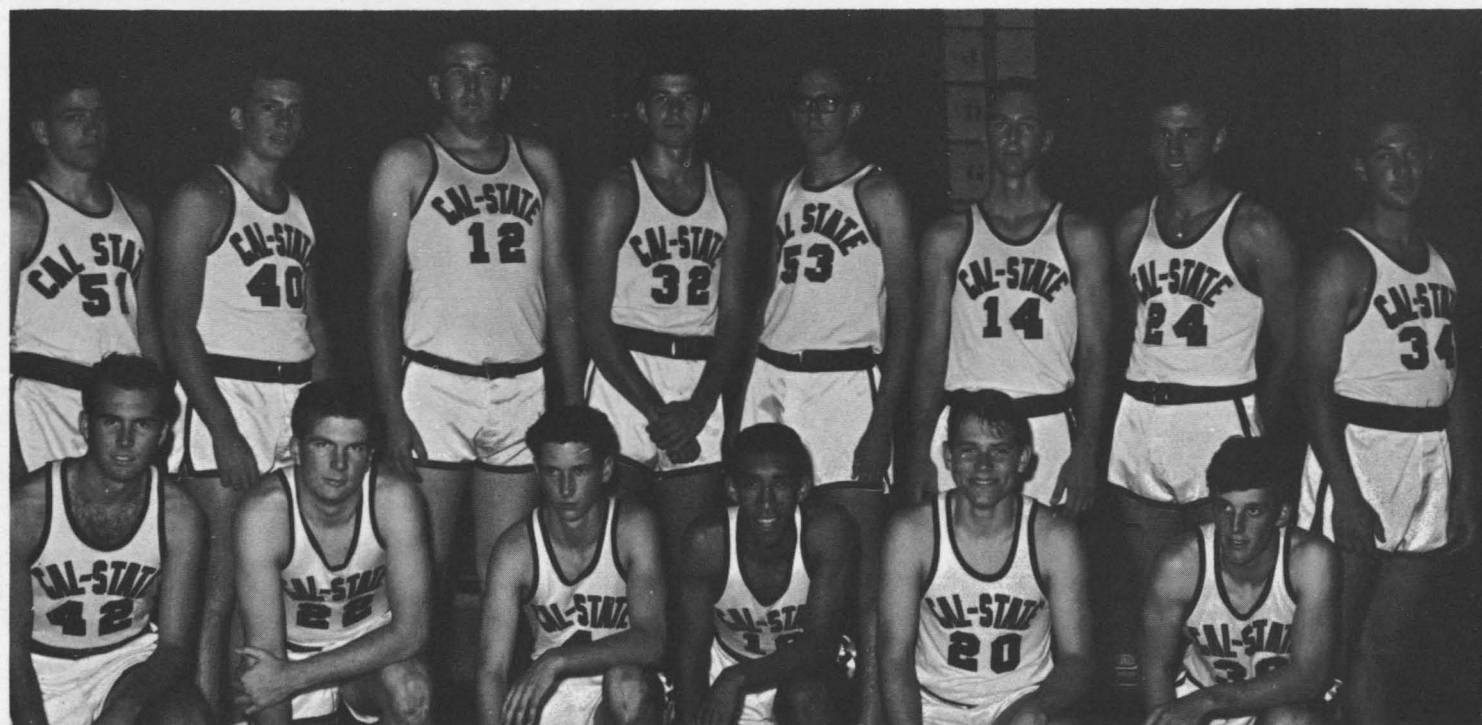

Junior Howard Foster broke the Cal-State single season scoring record netting 348 points in 22 games, and finished second in the conference scoring with a 20.7-point per game league average.

Battering their heads against a stone wall, but never once turning away, Cal State's young cross country squad failed to win a conference dual meet.

According to Coaches Lew Comer and Dick Rivenes, the entire team showed promise and took sixth spot at the Far Western Conference Championships.

Receiving recognition for outstanding efforts were Lou Osternig (Most Valuable Runner) and Doug Shipp (Most Inspirational).

Baseballers Tie for Second in F.W.C.

Despite the loss of six key performers because of scholastic difficulties, Coach Al Mathews' baseballers had their moments of joy during the 1965 season.

Cal-State lost a pair of heart-breakers to Sacramento, winding up the season in second spot in FCC standings.

One of many sparkling outings was a double header sweep of UC at Davis. Cal State's bats exploded for 11-1, 6-4 bombings.

NOTE: Jim Lodin shattered the Pacific NCAA Regionals six-mile record at the NCAA Regionals on May 15.

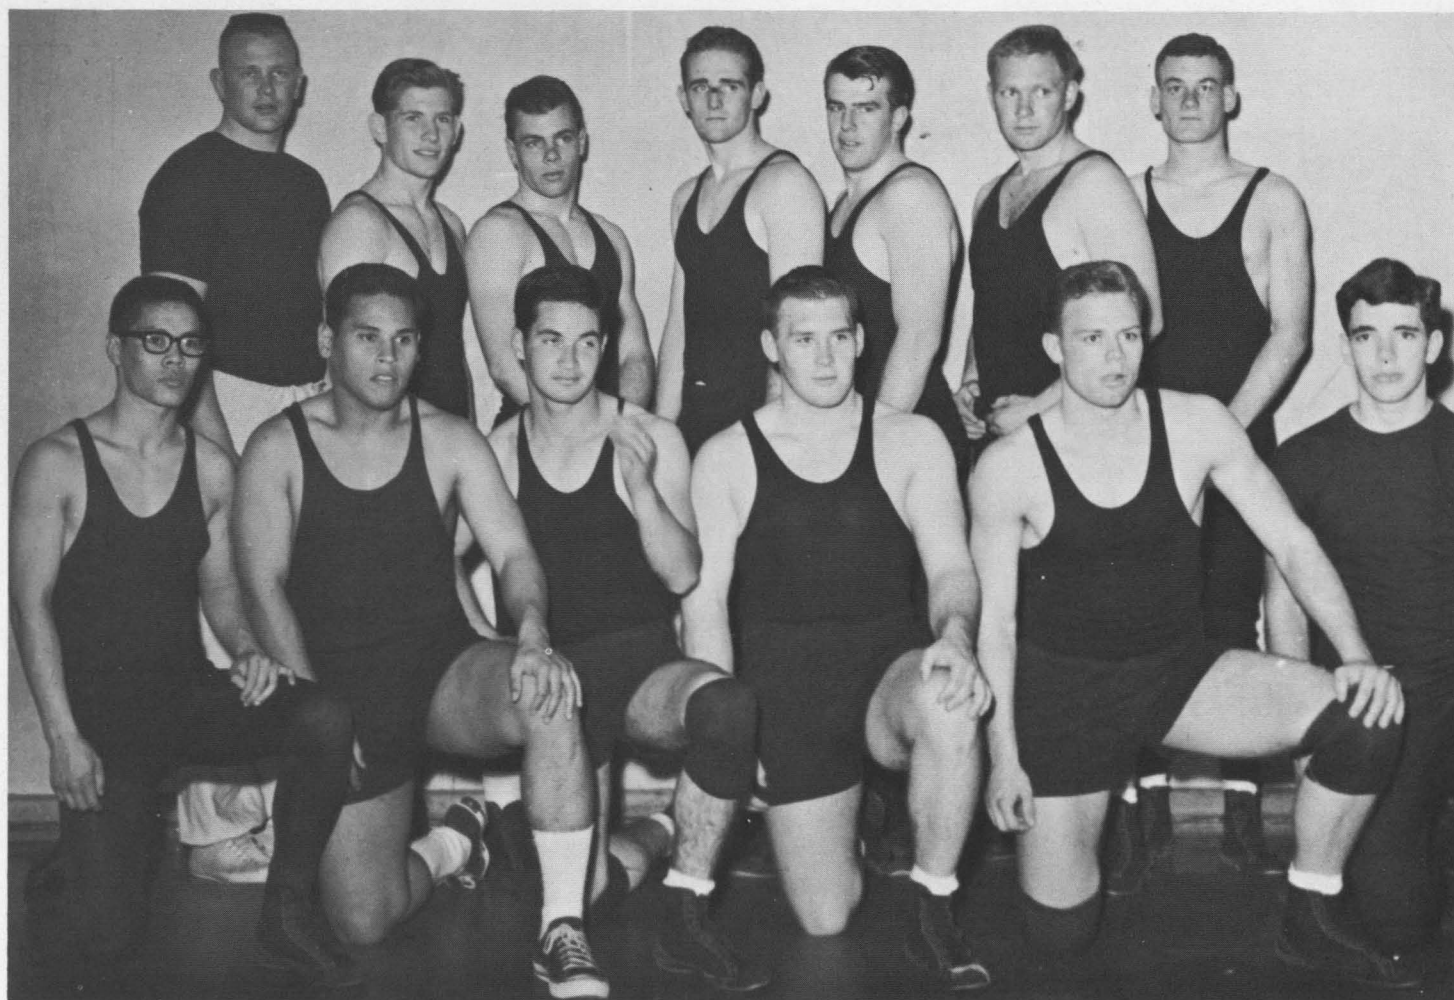

Cal State's wrestling squad had its ups and downs during the 1964-65 campaign, but Coach Dick Rivenes was pleased with the overall team performance.

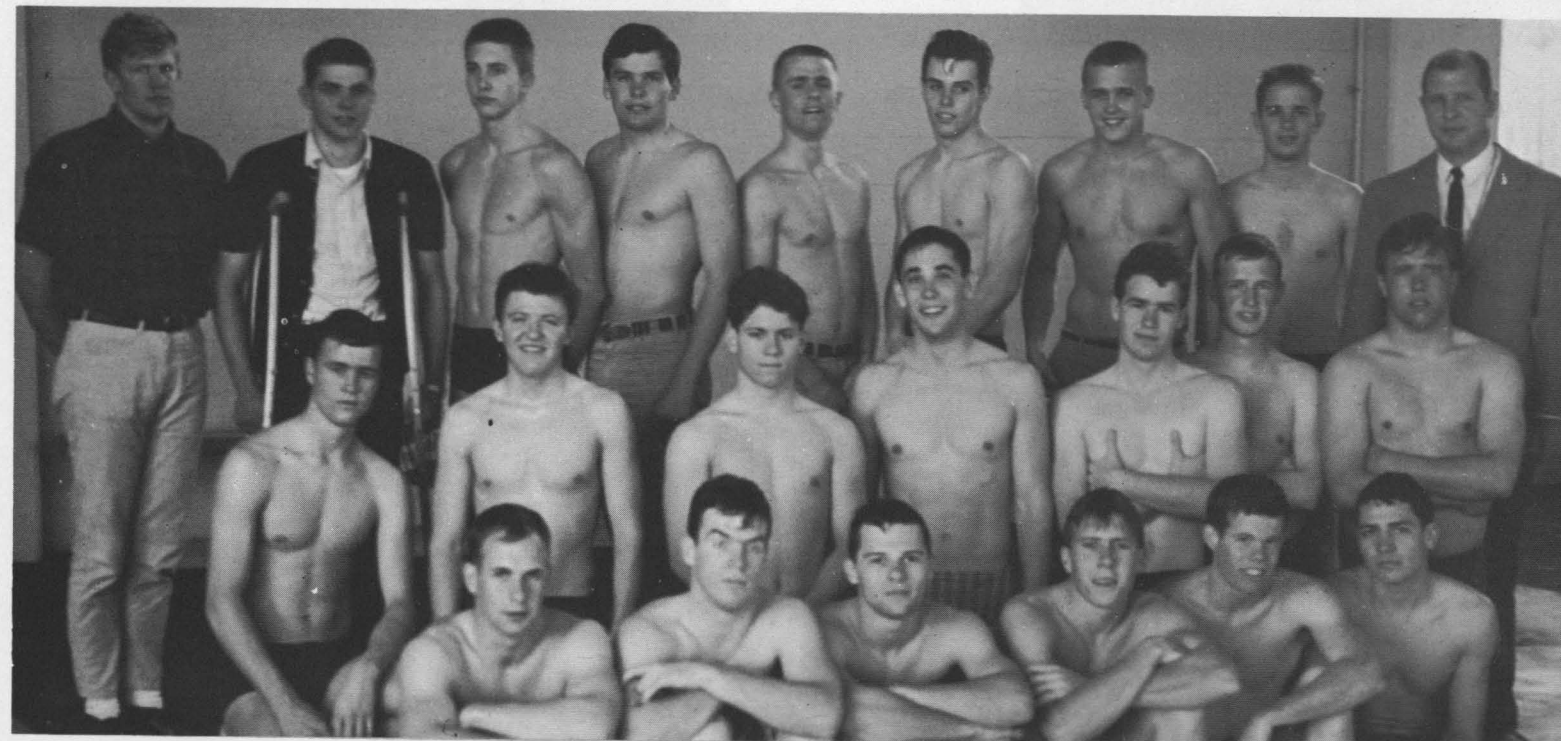

"We were hit early by scholastic ineligibilities and injuries but we hung in there," remarked Rivenes.

The Pioneers captured fifth place at the Far Western Conference Meet as Commadore Mann (137); John Reddock (191); Howard Steele (147); Bill Baumberger (167); Dan Whittemore (177), and Henry Sorenson (190) all placed.

COACH GOBIN

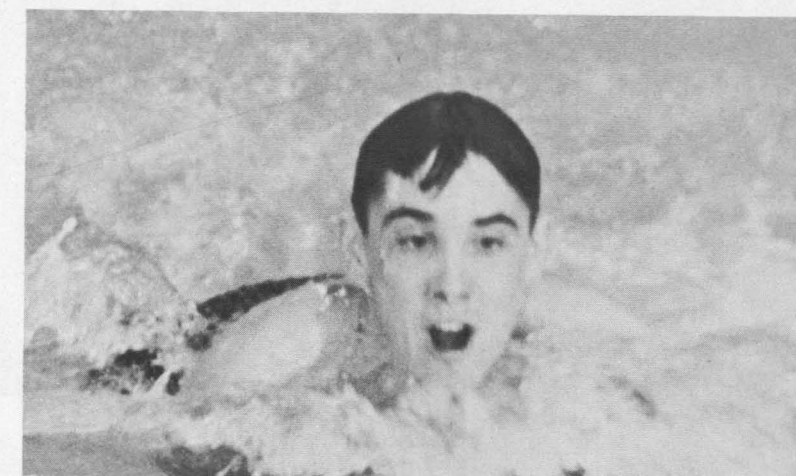

Swimming

At the start of the 1964-65 swimming season, Pioneer Coach Bob Gobin enthusiastically declared, "We will field a young squad, but will improve. We will pull some surprises." And, he proved to be correct!

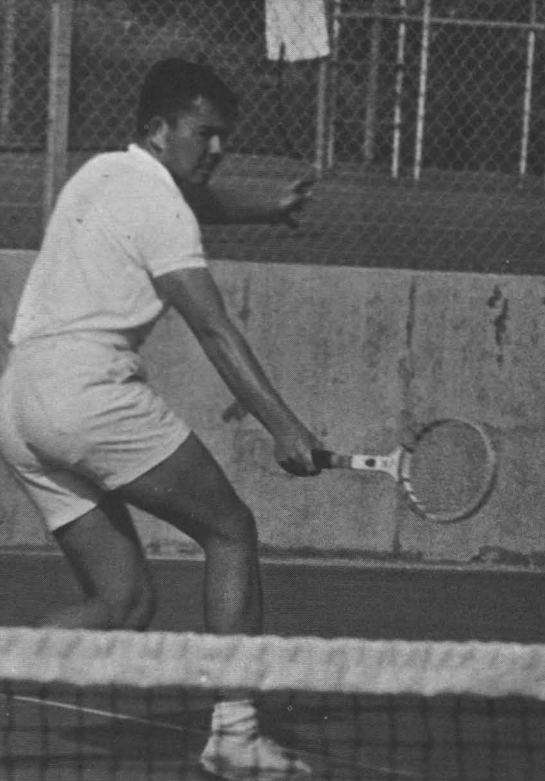

Besides cracking several school records, the hilltoppers finished the dual meet season with a 2-3 record.

One bright spot of the season occurred in a losing effort against Chico State. Chico, two year conference champion and perennially a powerhouse, barely outlasted the Pioneers in what Coach Gobin at the time called "Our finest performance to date."

Mermen establishing new school marks were Dean Sutcliffe, Bill Cook, Mike Legan, Don Franke, Mike White, Bob Johns, and the relay team of Fred Carr, Sutcliffe, Johns, and Bob Burgess.
