HEARST.

Dear Mr Hearst.
When up at the San Dimas two weeks ago the walls were framed up to the main floor on House A & men were working on the reinforced concrete forming for the floor slabs - The opening had been left for the door in center on rear side just at the grade where the wall started up from the tanks. The terrace at that point, both the stairs down from front main floor terrace wall as you suggest will give a better line & effect than a carrying out of the unenclosed porch in front of the sitting room on acct. of the profile of the hillside ~~with~~
I am enclosing a sketch showing this approximately -
The ~~for~~ lower terrace on your house will be lovely, also on house

C as you suggest. ~~It~~ For house & the terrace will be less charming, but ^{in its setting} much more ~~aff~~ as a motif as this is the only house seen closely as a whole on side & river face. X
(I am enclosing outline sketches of House A & the tree on the ^(mount) ~~contour in flat for the maps, etc. of both~~ X lower corner of House B fits in finely. But as I wrote before, the sudden barrenness of the hillside toward the drive needs the softening X (tree) out your suggestions will give.
