

Patricia:

I judge that you didn't get to hear and see (interesting) Istomin. I'll have to tell you about him.

There was quite a sprinkling of empty seats. I felt as if you should have been there instead of me. Ron Stecker & his wife took me in and I sat between them. We had a most enjoyable time.

On the way out (Stecker brought me home, but I walked over) I was hailed by "an old student" & Dr. Goddard of our Modern Language Dept.

Goddard has been something of a fan of mine because of the interest I've shown in modern languages &
the encouragement I've given them - as in getting the program in Japanese started.
It now offers a minor & in a couple more years may be a major. I also "plumped" for Russian which now is a secure major.

A seemingly most unlikely person to be present was our "peculiar" physicist Dr. Mowbray. His "peculiarity" seems to be something of an act. He is a good physicist and a good teacher & seemingly,
as you get to know him, a nice guy. But he doesn't drop his "peculiarity." - Will see you - Carl.
