Bomb threat at Fresno State today unfounded

At approximately 8:30 a.m. Thursday, a bomb threat was received at the Fresno State Police Department. Police and housing officials immediately conducted a thorough assessment and check of university residence halls and grounds. Nothing suspicious was found and an evacuation was deemed unnecessary. "We take all threats seriously and put the safety of our students first, as well as the entire campus community," said Fresno State Police Chief David Huerta. "As always, we ask students and the campus community that if you see something suspicious, say something immediately to authorities."
