This year have the best costume

The Theatre and Dance Department has over 500 pieces to help individuals spice up — or come up with — their Halloween costumes. They will be sold by silent auction on Saturday, October 16 and on view Friday, October 15 from 2-6 p.m. and Saturday morning from 9 a.m.-noon in the Theatre lobby. Bids will be opened at noon. Bidders must be present.

Recycling project is cooking over at plant operations

Recycling can pay off big. A recent R-113 freon recycling project initiated on campus by Dave Cowden, engineering manager, saved over $16,500.

R-113 refrigerant will no longer be produced after 1995, but it is needed for the chiller that services the Library and Warren Hall. Long range planning is addressing the feasibility of replacing this unit, but until then, the Engineering Department needs to save as much R-113 as possible. Over the last few years, the chiller has generated ten-30 gallon drums of refrigerant and oil mixture. Cowden investigated the possibility of recycling the substance by heating the mixture and distilling the freon.

In addition to the $16,500 that would have been required to purchase unused R-113, the campus would have paid over $5,000 to dispose of the unrecycled waste substance through a hazardous waste hauler. This latter savings was offset by the cost of recycling which was $4,860.

Internship program gets to the heart of its participants

Pizza with pesto, cilantro, roasted red onions and smoked chicken or capellini with tomatoes, garlic and basil — this is a sample of the heart healthy cuisine Linda Kijanka, a Cal State Hayward intern, has put together for "Heart of Montclair Restaurant Walk," a benefit for the American Heart Association.

Kijanka is one of eleven interns who participated in the Community Scholarship Program created by an anonymous foundation through Co-operative Education. Each student received a $1,400 scholarship for working in non-profit community organizations during the summer.

She recruited seventeen restaurants to participate in the walk, which operates much like a progressive dinner with each restaurant offering a dish, drink or dessert. Tickets are $20 and come with a passbook imprinted with the Walk logo, a map and a page for each restaurant. (They can be purchased by calling 510-632-9606).

"There was so much to do.... I was out in the field a lot, pounding the pavement, checking out menus, recruiting volunteers, recruiting restaurants, designing the tickets and fliers, learning how to use the computer, selling the walk, getting people excited about it, writing news releases, and writing copy for food newshours,"

University creates information center in downtown Oakland

Open house on October 14

The distance between Oakland and Hayward just got shorter. CSUH has opened an information center at 505 14th Street in the Oakland City Center. It is open weekdays 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and is designed to give Oakland residents and individuals working downtown a head start on enrolling at the University.

Individuals in the area "who can't get to Hayward during regular office hours can stop by the information center and take care of some of the paperwork before they even set foot on campus," says President Rees.

The public is invited to an open house on October 14 from noon until 3 p.m. featuring the CSUH jazz band, a Tae Kwon Do demonstration, a dessert bar and information booths on financial aid, career development, student life, admissions and housing.

Mack Lovett, Associate Vice President, Instructional Services, who helped create the center, says it would not have been possible without the help of the City of Oakland. "Mayor Elihu Harris, who is a CSUH alum, made it possible for the University to have a presence in Oakland. The Information Center marks a new era of cooperation between the city of Oakland and CSUH."

Thirteen percent of the current student body at Cal State Hayward is from Oakland.

says Kijanka, a former accountant who decided to go to school and major in human development.

At a reception in September each intern discussed his or her placement. The interns were clearly impressed by their experiences and for some it has changed their career goals.

Christine Coy, an environmental studies major, worked at the Marine Science Institute as a group coordinator and translator. She has since been hired as a junior instructor. Meredith Madnick an anthropology graduate student specializing in cultural anthropology is now donating her time with the East Bay Agency for Children. Madnick helped immunize children from low income families in the Healthy Start Program.

Joyce Gaines, coordinator of Co-operative Education, commented, "We wanted a good marriage between the students and the agencies, and the agencies have had nothing but good things to say."

After this summer's success, the program, which was modeled after a pilot program at Cal State Fresno, is being reestablished for next summer. Students will go through an application and interview process starting in mid-winter. For more information call Joyce Gaines at (510) 881-3730.—

ViewNotes

Items in this section are printed in the order in which they are received in the Office of University Relations and Development. We receive numerous submissions each week and print them as space allows.

Evelyn Padua Andrews (Student Academic Services) was invited to serve on the CSU Asian Pacific American Education Advisory Committee, a committee that was established in 1989 to identify, prioritize and suggest ways to meet the needs of Pacific Americans in the CSU. It has been reactivated to review progress in implementing the committee's report of November, 1990 and to report to the Chancellor by May, 1994 on its findings and suggestions.

Yoshitomo Saito (Art) was selected to receive the 1993 Western States Arts Federation (WESTAF)/National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) Regional Fellowships for Visual Arts for achievement in sculpture. It carries a cash reward of $5,000 and his work will be featured in a four-color catalog to be distributed nationally by WESTAF in the fall of 1993.

Margaret Emory-Lenfestey (Disabled Student Services) was a guest panelist at the annual Statewide Training for Voter Registrars at Stanford University, July 29. The panel, Communications with the Disabled Community, addressed the need to pro-actively involve disabled citizens in both the registration and voting accessibility issues.

Jay L. Tontz (SBE) spoke to two senior classes at Bishop O'Dowd in Oakland, August 24, on "How CSUH Can Help You Prepare for the Emerging Jobs."

Emily Stopper (Political Science) presented a paper, "Women in the Transition to Democracy and Capitalism" at a conference of Russian and American political scientists sponsored by the Russian-American Center for International Education. The conference was in August in St. Petersburg, Russia.

Doris Duncan (Accounting and Computer Information Systems) was recognized for three years of dedicated service on the Board of Directors for the Institute for Certification of Computer Professionals Education Foundation. She also has been selected for inclusion in Who's Who in Science and Engineering, 2nd edition, published by Marquis Who's Who, Inc.

Matthew Evans (Office of Testing and Evaluation) was accepted as a volunteer member of the San Francisco Symphony Chorus for the Fall, 1993 season. The SFSC presented Brahms' Requiem, September 22-24 at Davies Symphony Hall and will also record the Requiem for London/Decca Records. In July, he sang with the SFSC in a performance of Borodin's Polovtsian Dances from Prince Igor. He will again join the SFSC in January, 1994.

Karl Schonborn (Sociology) moderated a panel on "Assessing the Risk of Gangs" last May at the Joint National Conference on Gangs, Schools and Community in Florida. He also presented a paper on ways of tracking and evaluating urban street gangs.

Pauline J.
