

No one loves restriction or containment, but perhaps no place in history has a large group of people faced imprisonment with greater courage, or more compassion for those that imprisoned them. If the men are to inherit the earth, god grant, that these people may be my land lords.

In my mind recommendations against those ^{or the developments} that caused the phenomenon of history, the restraint, incarceration and relocation under guard of ~~over~~ ^{of} 100,000, ~~and~~ ^{American} citizens is far overshadowed by my admiration for the quiet courage, the acceptance of fate without hate, the emotional control, adaptability, patience, interest and concern for the welfare of others, exhibited by these "prisoners of war" caught in the web of this nation's fear, anger and determination to retaliate for the sorrow and humiliation of "Pearl Harbor".

Rewrite this ↑ JEP.

In my mind recommendations against those, or the circumstances that caused the phenomenon. The restraint or incarceration and relocation under guard of 100,000 individuals, most of them American Citizens