

NISEI ASKED TO VOLUNTEER FOR ARMY INTELLIGENCE CORPS

Young men of draftable age who are versed in the Japanese language are being given a wonderful opportunity to serve their country by volunteering for the army Intelligence Corps. X

A recent visit of Colonel Rasmussen to this Center revealed the importance of the nisei's support and the procedure for enlistment. The Army needs men who have studied the Japanese language to work as interpreters, translators and teachers.

Young men who are able to read Kirakana, katakana and between 250 to 400 kanji are eligible to volunteer. Candidates will be given six months course at a training school in Minnesota. After completion they will be given a rating according to their efficiency. It is a type of work which is not only interesting but with a promising future.

It is disclosed that sooner or later all young men of draftable age will be inducted into the Army. This is an opportunity for those interested to join up in a division where they may be best fitted. X

The school in Minnesota today has several hundred nisei doing a commendable piece of work as their contribution toward the war effort. So far the kibe-nisei have been outstanding in the field, but more are being sought by the U.S. Army.

It is interesting to note the number of nisei who have already applied for the service at the various Centers. Interested nisei here are asked to contact Center Manager E.P. Pulliam for further information.

(This was printed as an editorial on August 14, 1942 in the "Grapevine" writer unknown.)

ACCEPTING THE CHALLENGE LEFT BY TULARE RESIDENTS

On Friday September 4, the last contingent of the Tulare Assembly Center evacuees left for the Gila River Relocation Center, leaving behind an enviable record of co-operation and harmony during their four months stay there.

Unlike the residents of this Center, the majority of whom are from a radius of 50 miles from here and thus are known to many of the local non-Japanese, the Tulare Center