THE OUTLOOK

— Cal State Fullerton Baseball

Cal State Fullerton's baseball Titans, under the guidance of head coach Augie Garrido, have been to the NCAA playoffs three consecutive seasons.

And the prospects for a fourth straight appearance in post-season play would be considered very bright around CSF, but for the recent realignment of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association and the West Coast Athletic Conference into the Northern and Southern California Baseball Associations. The Titans, two-time defending PCAA champs, will compete in the SCBA, along with Pepperdine (winners of the past three WCAC titles), Loyola, San Diego State, Long Beach State U.C. Santa Barbara and Los Angeles State.

"We have the talent to be a good college baseball team," Garrido says. "But we need to be better to do nearly as well as we did last season because of the reorganization and our overall schedule."

The Titans finished with a school record 48 wins last season, losing only 15, and a number six national ranking.

Returning from that team are 13 lettermen, including PCAA Player of the Year and second team All-America pitcher Curt Lewis. Lewis won 11 of 13 decisions in compiling a 1.17 earned run average. Outfielder Jeff Nichols, who batted .400, and second baseman Jack Ramirez, a .318 hitter with 36 stolen bases, won all-conference honors last spring.

"We didn't lose a great deal of numbers through graduation," says Garrido. "But we did lose some quality, clutch players; namely Dan Boone, Andy Pasillas, Jody Robinson and Mike Casarez. It will be hard to replace that quality. We were able to replace those players with good athletes. Our major question right now will be our ability to play with poise and competitiveness, and finding someone to replace the leadership role that was lost by the graduation of those four."

Besides Ramirez at second base and Nichols in right field, Garrido has first baseman Andy Schardt and third baseman John Alvarez returning to start as they did last season.

Lewis was the Titans' number one starter last year, and the number three man in last season's rotation, Eric Mustad (7-3) returns, as do letter winners Tony Bonura, Greg Johnson, Lance Gore and Gregg Foster. Catcher Steve Herz, and outfielders Jeff Gibson and Rex Ives played last spring as well.

The Titans ranked second nationally last season defensively, fielding 974. Offensively the squad hit .316 and the pitching staff allowed less than three earned runs per game (2.84).

"We'll be a good defensive team again this season," Garrido states. "We have the experience and ability necessary in the infield to be a fine defensive team. We've improved ourselves defensively in the outfield — Mickey Palmer, Wayne Rudolph and Jeff Nichols are as quick an outfield as anyone has. They can fly, and are exciting to watch."

"Offensively, our running speed is something we'll have to count on, and our ability to be unselfish. We might have a little more power this season than last — Steve Herz, Steve Till, Andy Schardt and Paul Homrig can all hit for power. Finally, besides our experience, I feel a major strength of ours is we can present a more balanced lineup between right and left handers."

"Our major weakness is a lack of depth, particularly in the infield."

"We're counting on our returnees to form the nucleus of our pitching staff," says Dave Snow, Garrido's assistant in charge of the pitchers. "We're fortunate to have two of the top three starters back from last year (Lewis and Mustad). We feel Tony Bonura can replace Dan Boone as the left handed starter on our staff, and we're counting on someone to emerge as Lewis did last season (Lewis started the season as a reliever). I feel this staff is very similar to last year's in that we are an experienced group. Six of the nine pitchers on the staff were on our championship team of '76. And we're counting on the three newcomers to have a positive impact on the squad."

"The pitching staff is not overpowering, so we must throw strikes below the belt and use the fine defense we have behind us."

The following position-by-position assessment is Garrido's, as are the quotes.

CATCHERS: STEVE TILL — has been the most consistent catcher to this point. Offensively he provides some power and is a strong hitter. His best asset defensively is his throwing ability. STEVE HERZ — will catch a great deal. Very important offensively, batting fourth. GEORGE GAY — is number three right now and has to beat out the other two. He handles pitchers well and has demonstrated leadership ability. Can throw and could hit. DAN WHITMER — has had a difficult fall. He has the best arm strength and hands of any of the catchers, but has not shown any consistency on offense.

FIRST BASE: ANDY SCHARDT — was a .300 hitter last season. Has good power and has improved defensively. We need to get some RBIs out of him. PAUL HOMRIG — is a freshman who has been converted from the outfield. Has improved greatly, and is a fine hitter who drives the ball with extra base power. HERZ — is a possibility at first base, and looks as if he can handle the position. This could be his best position.

SECOND BASE: JACK RAMIREZ — is the guy. He and Frank Vilorio are as good a double-play combination as you could ask for. He handles the ball very well; you don't need anyone better to be able to win. We expect a high level of performance from him. He's an excellent second hitter, who moves runners, bunts and steals bases. REX IVES — played second base at Cerritos Junior College. He would be an adequate replacement.

THE OUTLOOK

Cal State Fullerton Baseball

SHORT STOP: FRANK VILORIO — was the All-State JC short stop last season at Cerritos JC. He can play defensively because of his great quickness and fine athletic ability. He will leadoff, and is a good baserunner. We replaced a good player (Mike Casarez) with another who is quicker. GREG SPORRER — is a freshman (from Troy High School in Fullerton). His best skills are his defensive abilities. He has a fine arm and good hands. We look for him to be a fine short stop. His hitting is a minus at this point, but he is making progress.

THIRD BASE: JOHN ALVAREZ — played consistently last season and did so again in the fall. We'd like for him to hit more consistently. Defensively he can do the job, but offensively we need more out of him; we know he is capable of doing more with the bat. (Jack Ramirez will be the backup third baseman).

LEFT FIELD: WAYNE RUDOLPH — was a first team All-State JC player last season at Sacramento City College. He has above average running speed. He switch hits and will bat third. He led the team in RBIs in the fall, and has shown fine judgement in running bases. Hit over .400 in JC, and is a good defensive outfielder.

CENTER FIELD: MICKEY PALMER — a switch hitter with excellent speed. He'll bat ninth because I like fast players at the bottom of the lineup. He's an exciting defensive outfielder who can run down a ball and can throw. He is inexperienced, particularly on offense. JEFF GIBSON — is pushing Palmer hard. Another switch hitter, who had a good fall offensively. If he hits, he'll play. Good runner, excellent defensive outfielder and good throwing arm. An experienced, hard-nosed and aggressive player.

RIGHT FIELD: JEFF NICHOLS — hit .400 last year against right-handers only. He has fine running speed. We hope to get more out of him offensively by playing him against both right and left handers. He has shown improvement. An experienced, excellent defensive outfielder. REX IVES — his best opportunity is to move one of the left handers out of the lineup. His biggest plus is the fact he is a clutch performer offensively, who gets the big hit. Defensively, he's adequate.

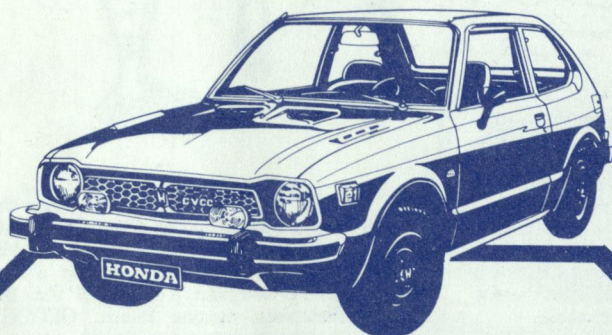

Snow's comments on the pitching staff:

RIGHT HANDED PITCHERS: CURT LEWIS — had a great deal of success last season. It's great to have someone whose had great success with which to start. His overall poise is his greatest strength, along with his consistency and competitiveness. ERIC MUSTAD — was one of our top three last season. He has the best arm on the staff, and can throw all four pitches (fastball, curve, slider and change). He needs to improve his consistency. TONY HUDSON — is a freshman, but the best freshman pitcher we've had at Cal State Fullerton in my five years here. He has a good arm and good movement on his fastball. He's shown the ability to handle difficult situations. He's not overpowering, but is mentally tough and has fine potential. Will be used in relief. GREG JOHNSON — is in his fourth year at CSF. He's had some outstanding performances, but consistency is the big question with him. He's capable of throwing an overpowering fastball. Will be used in relief.

LEFT HANDED PITCHERS: TONY BONURA — has shown the biggest improvement of any returning pitcher. He's been at CSF three years and has always been a winner. His improvement has come with the development of a curve and change. He has the physical ability to dominate a game. LANCE GORE — has shown improvement, and developed a slider. Key for Gore is control, which is the only thing that keeps him down. He has a good arm and movement on his fastball. He's much stronger than last year. Will be used in relief.

RELIEF PITCHERS: GREGG FOSTER — is not overpowering, but you can count on him in tight situations. He's improved his control, and matured over the past two years. RICH ROMMEL — has a good, live fastball. He might end up starting. His ability to hold base runners and field his position are a plus for him in relief. BILL RIDDELL — has the ability to throw a breaking ball for strikes in relief. He has good stuff, but must come in and throw strikes to be effective.

HEAD COACH AUGIE GARRIDO

Eight seasons of intercollegiate baseball at Cal State Fullerton (1966-72) failed to produce even one winning season. The Titans compiled an overall record of 145-267-2 in those eight futile years — winning just 35-percent of its games.

Enter one Augie Garrido — named CSUF head baseball coach in September 1972.

Garrido's first Titan club (1973) finished with an undistinguished 19-33-1 mark. The tide however, had been turned.

In 1974 Cal State Fullerton compiled a 37-17 record, and won its first-ever conference championship in the California Collegiate Athletic Association. Garrido was named CCAA Coach-of-the-Year for his efforts (for the second time, as he was so honored in 1971 as head coach at Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo). The 1974 team participated in the NCAA Far West Division II regionals, losing to eventual national champion UC Irvine.

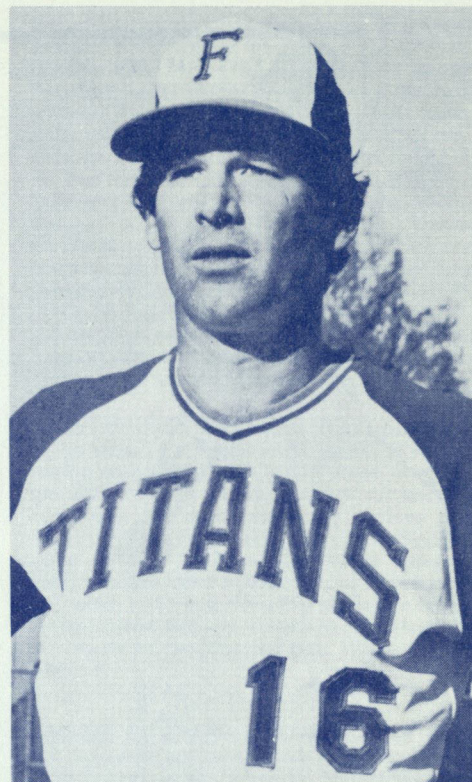

Cal State Fullerton moved to Division I of the NCAA in the summer of 1974, and switched conferences, joining the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

The Titans responded by winning the PCAA title, the NCAA West Regional (knocking off five-time NCAA champion USC along the way) and representing District 8 at the College World Series in Omaha. Garrido was again named conference Coach-of-the-Year after his squad posted a 36-16-1 record, but that was later topped by his being named NCAA Coach-of-the-Year by the Sporting News.

Last season the Titans had their best season ever, winning a school record 48 games (losing only 15), winning the PCAA championship for the second straight season, and reaching the finals of the NCAA West Regional championship.

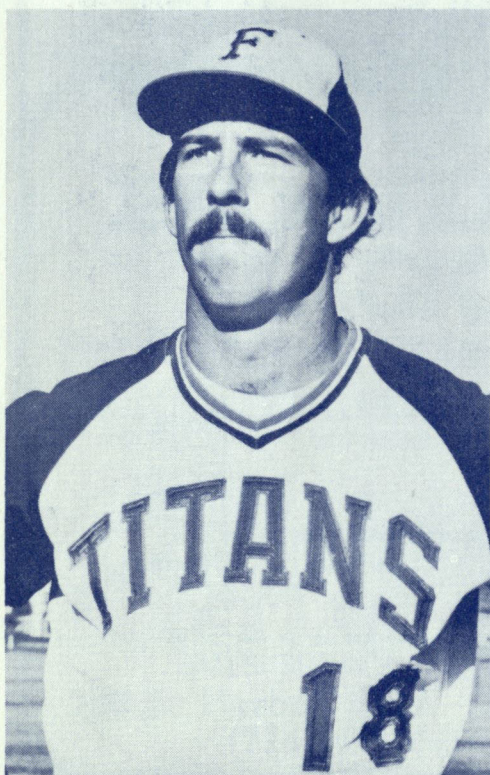

Garrido, a native of Vallejo, Calif., received his B.A. degree from Fresno State in 1961, following an all-star career with the Bulldog baseball squad. He joined the Cleveland Indian organization in '61, where he remained until 1966 when he accepted a coaching position at Sierra High School in Tollhouse, Calif. Garrido spent a year as head coach at San Francisco State (1969), then moved on to Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo, where he compiled a three-year record of 85-62.

His current overall collegiate coaching record reads 254-160-2; a winning percentage of .614. At Cal State Fullerton, Garrido has compiled a record of 140-81-2, for a winning percentage of .634. However, the past three seasons, the Titans have recorded a 121-48-1 mark for a 72-percent winning average.

Garrido is the head coach of the Anchorage, Alaska Glacier Pilots during the summer. He and his wife, Necia, reside in Fullerton.

ASSISTANT COACH DAVE SNOW

Dave Snow is in his fifth season as assistant baseball coach at Cal State Fullerton. Snow, 27, received his B.S. degree in physical education from Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo in 1971. He played two seasons of varsity baseball for the Mustangs under then Cal Poly head coach Augie Garrido. Snow completed work on his master's degree last spring at Cal State Fullerton.

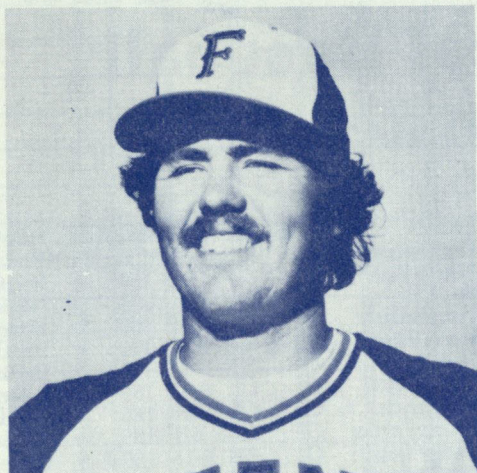

Snow transferred to Cal Poly from Cerritos Junior College, where he captained the Falcon's 1970 California State Junior College championship team. At Cal Poly he was named first team All-CCAA as a third baseman his junior year, and captained the first-ever winning team in Mustang history (39-11) in 1971. The team was ranked third nationally that season (college division).

He was drafted out of high school by the Houston Astros, but suffered an injury his senior year in college to end his playing career.

Snow's main duties include working with the pitchers, recruiting, summer placement and running a summer team for local high school and collegiate players. His first season at Cal State Fullerton he handled the outfielders and hitters, and the last three seasons he was in charge of the infielders and worked with the hitters. Snow and his wife, Linda, reside in Cerritos, with their son, Casey (2).

Graduate Assistant
Mike Wilson

Mike Wilson, 25, is in his fifth season of association with the Cal State Fullerton baseball team.

Wilson is responsible for facilities and equipment, and has won CSF's Outstanding Service Award the past two years.

He is a 1970 graduate of Troy High School in Fullerton where he was a football and baseball athlete. Wilson then attended Fullerton Junior College where he played baseball under head coach Mike Sgobba.

Wilson is a graduate of Cal State Fullerton (3.5 GPA) in physical education and is in the process of attaining his master's degree.

Jody Robinson

Jody Robinson, two-time All-PCAA performer for Cal State Fullerton, is in his first season as a graduate assistant under head coach Augie Garrido.

Robinson, 22, graduated from Cal State Fullerton last spring, after leading the Titans in hitting with a .392 average — a CSF record.

He is a native of San Diego, graduating from Morse High School in 1972, and attending Mesa Junior College. Robinson was an All-CIF athlete in the sports of baseball and gymnastics at Morse. He was named to the all-league team at San Diego Mesa, and received All-PCAA honors as an outfielder following the Titans' 1975 and '76 seasons.

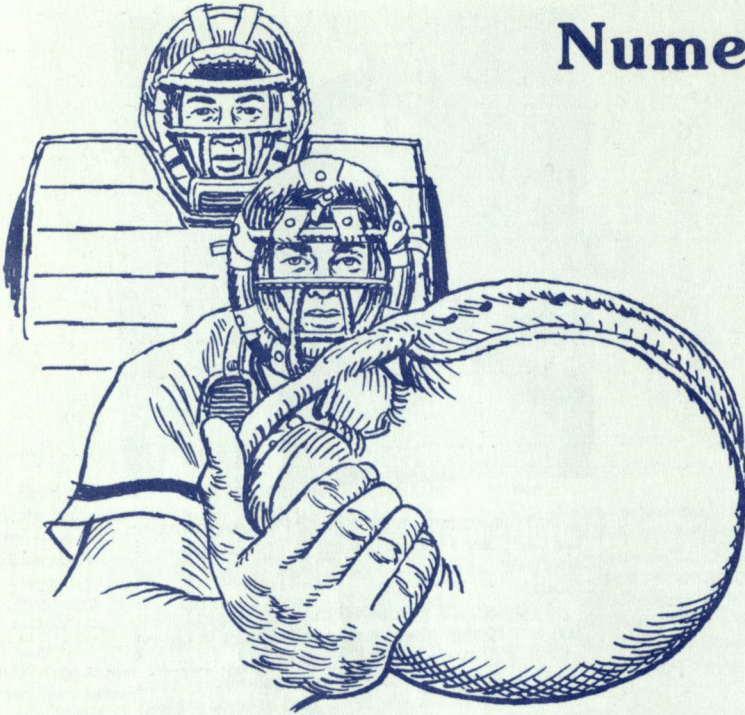

Robinson will work with the outfielders.
