The CSUCI Foundation

Historically, institutionally related foundations – as those found in most universities – were created as separately incorporated, non-profit organizations with their own boards of directors. The CSUCI Foundation is this type of foundation and exists to receive gifts on behalf of the University and to manage or invest these in accordance with the wishes of the donors.

President's Circle members and invited guests enjoy presentation by noted author Anchee Min.

The foundation provides independence from the state. This is important for those donors concerned that their gift may be appropriated by a state agency or may reduce state support to the University.

Benefit to CSUCI and Selected Accomplishments of the CSUCI Foundation

The Mission

The mission of the CSUCI Foundation is to support and encourage the University's strategic agenda and institutional mission. The Foundation is the catalyst and conduit through which gifts and endowment income flow to provide immediate and long-term support of the University. The Foundation will also assist the University by creating strong relationships with alumni/ae, friends, and partners in the state of California who seek to use their good will and influence for the strengthening of CSUCI's mission and goals.

Dr. Robert Parry, first endowed professor in the Martin V. Smith School of Business and Economics addresses the President's Circle members and invited guests.
