

EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

Note: Only students enrolling in summer session or extension or as auditors are not required to meet admission standards.

EXTENSION CLASSES

The college offers off-campus extension classes in regularly listed college courses when student demand is sufficiently large to finance the instruction. These courses are arranged each year in the area served by the college. For information regarding courses, course fees, and instructional costs, write to the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions.

The college allows enrollment in 6 units of extension courses per semester as a maximum for teachers employed full time. See Program Restrictions for statement regarding extension classes. Not more than a total of 24 units by extension and correspondence can be applied toward a bachelor's degree. Not more than 12 units of extension and correspondence courses may be transferred from another college or university.

Not more than 6 units of the 30 units required for the master's degree may be earned in extension courses, student teaching, transfer credit or any combination of these. When 200 series courses are taught by extension and carry the designation E after the number, they are counted as upper division courses (100 series) in master's degree programs. Candidates for the master's degree should check with the Graduate Office or departmental graduate adviser to learn whether specific extension courses may be applied on their graduate programs.

SUMMER SESSIONS

Fresno State College conducts summer sessions on its campus in Fresno, on the Bakersfield College campus, and on the College of the Sequoias campus in Visalia. Special workshop sessions are held in other valley centers. The Fresno and Bakersfield six-week sessions follow the spring semester; the Visalia and Fresno post sessions follow the Fresno and Bakersfield sessions, offering the possibility of completing a maximum of 11 weeks in a single summer. Not more than one semester unit may be earned for each week of attendance, except that upon approval of appropriate college authorities additional semester units may be earned at the rate of one-half unit for each three units for which a student is registered in a three-week period. The offerings at these sessions include a variety of courses leading to the bachelor's and master's degrees. The program includes courses to meet the requirements for elementary, secondary, administration, supervision, and special credentials and in-service professional needs in various fields. Courses of a general cultural nature in various academic departments are also offered. A bulletin describing the offerings of all sessions is ready for distribution in March. Students who are interested in attending should write to the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions, Fresno State College, Fresno 26, California.

BAKERSFIELD CENTER

The Bakersfield Center operated by Fresno State College was established by legislative action in September 1956. The program at the center is an integral part of Fresno State College and is under the general direction of the Dean of Educational Services and Summer Sessions. It includes the recommended college program of courses leading to a bachelor's degree with a major in elementary education and
