

KIYOMI NAKAMURA - HD. TECHNICIAN

Industriously accomplishing his work with precision finesse, Foreman A Nakamura, 26, headed the Grapevine Technical department and turned out a tremendous amount of printing work for the entire Center. With the final tabulation, he and his five assistants had churned out 994,810 ft. or 188 miles of printed matter, which is quite a distance on the two anomic printing machines.

THE STORY OF A COLUMN... It was in the "Fresno Center News" on a cool May day that "Between the Barracks," the illegitimate brain child of Prof. Itanaga, first made its curtsy to a critical audience. Now after a five months' run in the Grapevine, this wandering column finds itself in the colorful Vignette.

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS... The sailing between the brown structures has not been smooth all the time. Syllables, hardly mentionable, have been slung at this corner from time to time... from women, the ungrateful creatures, who didn't appreciate some of the words of wisdom about their makeup, both physical and mental... from publicity-starved wolves, because this scrivener refused to glut Saturday's page 3, column 3 with names; not because he doesn't like people, but because of his patriotism--- he only wanted to conserve buttons and hat material.. and frowns from the church big-wigs who accused this scribe of trying to sabotage their program; how can they be so?--When this humble one is so religious he thinks the capital of Hawaii is Halleluiah!

COMPENSATIONS... All has not been dark, however, there have been the cutest black-wooled, stream-lined (Continued on page 30)

KIMI HIWANO - SR. TYPIST

Hailing from the city of Hanford, petite and charming Kimi Hiwano, 22, and Hoald's graduate, proved herself invaluable to the Grapevine editorial staff by hitting 70 per on the keys, taking dictation and volunteering herself to assist the City Editor until late at nights on publication eves.

SHIRO KURIHARA - CIRC., BUS. MGR.

As one of the busiest men on publication days, Shiro Kurihara, 24, formerly of Exeter, had the responsibility of distributing the 1500 copies of the Grapevine to each apartment and administrative office. His job was relieved greatly with the voluntary help of the Cub Scouts. Aside from his circulation duties, Shiro's work was to check and make all Press Room supply orders for both the editorial and the technical departments. He also served as business manager for the Vignette.

JOHN HIROHATA - REPORTER

Veteran news correspondent John Hirohata, 31, originally of Mesa, Arizona, and more recently of Florin, strengthened the news staff greatly when he joined the Press force in June. When the "Two-gun Cowboy" was proudly elected into the Center Council in August, he further aided news coverage by being able to gather first hand reports of all of the Council Meetings. Other than his love for news, Johnny's private interests are his charming wife and small daughter, Peggy. Hirohata was the writer of the "Unsung Heroes."
