

Queen to meet campus today

Suzy Tham was crowned 1962 Homecoming Queen Saturday night at the Coronation Ball.

The Queen, formerly Miss Viet Nam, was sponsored by People-to-People. She was elected one of the five finalists by student vote last week and chosen as Queen by a panel of judges at the Queen's Luncheon Saturday afternoon at the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

Miss Tham is a 21 year old blonde freshman. Her court includes Chris Catalano, Alpha Zeta Sigma; Noreen Gilman, Sigma Pi Sigma; Mrs. Holtzclaw, Alpine Club; and Janie Karsh, Gamma Tau.

Dance bids available

Bids for the Homecoming Ball, which will be held Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Grand Ballroom at the Jack Tar Hotel, are now on sale in Hut T-1 for $10 per couple.

Frank Leal will lead an eight piece band, and two female vocalists will sing. Resident and Mrs. Paul Gold will be received by a receiving line composed of the Homecoming Committee.

What exactly is the status of People-to-People on this campus?

Officially it is a branch of the department of International Students' Affairs of the Associated Students. As a matter of fact, many SF State students think it is the ISA.

Many students think that the People-to-People 'organization' sponsored the recent International Week.

That is not the case. International Week was sponsored by the Associated Students, with People-to-People, as a branch of one of the eight AS departments, participating.

Many students think that by Dr. John C. Tegnell.

After the concert, Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority, will host a reception in CA 224. Refreshments will be served, and the Queen and her court will attend.

Homecoming events will climax Saturday with the parade, the football game, and the ball at the Jack Tar Hotel.

"Sounds of the City," the 1963 Homecoming theme, will come marching Saturday morning at 10 a.m. when the SF State parade starts at West Portal and continues to the campus.

Fifteen entries and 21 units will compose the parade. Led by radio station KSFO's Jack Carney as Parade Marshal, Albert Alligator III, three bands, the San Francisco Sheriff's Posse, and an anti-aircraft missile will be included.

The San Francisco Gators will play Chico State Wildcats at 2 p.m. in Cox Stadium. Pre-game activities will begin at 1:45 p.m. with the Chico State marching band performing on the field.

Homecoming Rally Chairman Travis Key holds some of the purple and gold balloons which will be released when the Gators score their first touchdown at the Homecoming Game with Chico State Saturday.

The helium inflated balloons will be sold at the game for 25 cents. The Homecoming Committee will release larger balloons with streamers during the halftime activities.

People-to-People reorganization looms to clarify status, program on campus

Frank Conway is the local director of People-to-People. He isn't. There is no local director. Jon Lucero is the overall director of ISA. Conway is now a salaried employee of the national People-to-People organization as West Coast director.

Many students think that the local People-to-People 'organization' is directly affiliated with the parent organization in Kansas City. As a matter of fact, some of the "active members" associated with People-to-People think so.

There have been suggestions that some of the members of People-to-People subscribe to the parent organization's plan (at $2 a subscription) so that the subscribers may be eligible for reduced fares on specially chartered trips to certain countries and Europe.

There has been talk of making People-to-People a charter member of the national organization. That takes 24 members to accomplish, plus a membership fee.

AS President Jay Folberg fears such a step will make the People-to-People organization on campus "clubbish." Such an arrangement would not extend the privilege to all the members of the Associated Students of SF State.

In attempting to clarify his position on the purpose of People-to-People on the SF State campus, Folberg said, "People-to-People is a service to the ISA department to better help ISA fulfill its purpose. As such, it is responsible to the president of the Associated Students.

"The program of the national People-to-People organization has been confused with the ISA department of the AS.

"I would like to see the national organization used just as a resource—with the local organization, under the supervision of ISA, picking and choosing what it wants from the national program, and setting aside what it doesn't want."

Folberg added that the ISA department was about to be reorganized, under a more definite structure.

Folberg will propose that "ISA be reorganized under a committee structure—with a committee for each different aspect of the international program." The reorganization may begin this week.

The lid is about to blow.

Jefferson, Adams highlight college lecture series today

Dr. Adrienne Koch, professor of history, University of California, will speak on "Jefferson and Adams: The American Legacy," tomorrow in Main Auditorium at 1 p.m.

Dr. Koch, author of "The Philosophy of Thomas Jefferson" and co-editor of "The Selected Writings of John Adams" and John Quincy Adams, will be the first Academic Community lecturers of College Lecture Series chairman.

The Bay Area contains one of "The world's most important academic communities" according to Dr. Edwards.

He explained that the series within a series is an attempt to join the "impressive" community of men and women engaged in research and teaching at SF State with its sister institutions such as Stanford University, Mills College, the University of San Francisco, St. Mary's College, the University of Santa Clara and San Jose State.

Dr. F. W. Wentzlaaff-Eggebert, visiting professor at SF State, will be the second lecturer of the Academic Community Series. His talk on "Gerhart Hauptmann's Spatwerk" will be given in German Thursday, November 15 at 8 p.m. in the Gallery Lounge.

In defense of Civil Defense

THERE HAS BEEN a lot of protest against Civil Defense on the campus. We regard most of it as foolish and irresponsible.

First of all, those who are instituting these measures are doing their job. We suspect there would be equally loud grumbling if nothing were done. However, since the facilities here are obviously inadequate, as they are throughout the country, it would be out of line for the administration to obtain responsible estimates of the damage which would occur and publicly present this information to the Board of Trustees and the Governor.

WE DOUBT THAT any building on campus would afford sufficient protection against a direct hit on the city. But an authoritative public demonstration of this would focus attention not on the need for shelter, but on the need for peace. A documented report based on the results of past nuclear testing would carry much more weight than a lot of loose talk about being fried rare, medium, or well done.

The idea that Civil Defense preparations will encourage a false sense of security is nonsense. No one believes that it will do much good for the majority of the population; this is why the nationwide program has made so little headway and why shelter builders go bankrupt and why stacks of government do-it-yourself plans are untouched. The "stupidity" of the masses is vastly over-rated by individuals who forget that they are, after all, part of the "masses." It is difficult to see how one could hold such a low opinion of the people and still believe in democracy.

THE IDEA THAT Civil Defense preparations will encourage the acceptance of nuclear war is likewise nonsense simply because most people already do accept nuclear war. Anyone who bothered to observe reactions to the Cuban crisis should have seen this. People may have feared the outcome, but they supported the steps which were taken.

This rejection of Civil Defense and acceptance of nuclear war are not contradictory. On the whole, nuclear war is an abstract. Thus far, it is beyond the ken of human experience. War itself is outside of the experience of most people in this country. The leaders of the country have made no real attempt to demonstrate exactly what it would mean, nor present any alternatives. The dissenters manage to tell each other what each already believes, but prefer to hide behind their beards or signs from the rest of the population.

THE MECHANICS OF Civil Defense, however, are readily apparent to anyone caught in a traffic jam on the freeways, or who has tried to get through the week without going to the grocery store, or noticed the great precautions the SF Fire Department takes with the smallest of fires. When people are truly informed of a situation, their reaction is a sensible one.

Many persons on this campus are against dogmatic and authoritarian opinion but fail to realize that no matter how well they can prove a point to their own satisfaction, until they prove it to their audience (not necessarily with formal logic), it is still dogma. And a refusal to participate in a Civil Defense drill will not prove anything.

'TIS INDEED A NOBLE and courageous act not to participate in a Civil Defense drill; try adding to someone's knowledge of what the actual effects of a nuclear war would be. 'Tis indeed a noble and courageous act not to participate in a Civil Defense drill; try electing representatives who would seek some solution to international problems besides massive retaliation. Try implementing the alternatives to war.

Don't worry about the millions for Civil Defense; what about the billions for national defense? Don't attack symptoms, cure the cause. The fact that so few would survive should be an incentive to work harder for peace, not to protest the effort to save even those few. But if we fail in these endeavors, and the feeble efforts at Civil Defense save even a single life, they are worthwhile.

An ostrich hides

Editor:

Regarding the civil defense program at the college I would suggest that those individuals who are aware of the probable catastrophic effects of an atomic war and the absurd impotency of civil defense refrain from participating in the civil defense drill.

Walter Loveless

A hole in the ground may save the head of an ostrich but even an ostrich needs more than a head to live.

I further suggest that instead of spending futile time and effort on civil defense, attention and pressure be brought to bear on the cessation of nuclear testing and general disarmament.

Lindt talks of constant crisis

"The crisis of which I am going to talk about, is a permanent one," said Dr. August Lindt, Swiss Ambassador to the US, in his lecture Wednesday for the College Lecture Series.

Dr. Lindt related that today we live in a "funny kind of peace," a constant crisis brought about by the polarizing forces of the US and the USSR.

He then told of the crisis in Europe, an integration movement into the Common Market.

"Both Napoleon and Hitler tried to unify Europe by force. The Outer Seven of the Common Market is an attempt to find an easier economical unionization," he said.

"Perhaps in the future, we may have a third polarizing agent, a Federated Europe or United States of Europe. No doubt this will produce a fear in many people of a new attempt to form a completely autonomous economy in Europe.

According to Dr. Lindt there are some factions that would regard this as a dangerous move which could grow into a neo-colonialism."

He went on to praise the passage of President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Act, which he called a "revolutionary step for America" and a big step in world trade and in dismantling the outside tariffs of nations.

Dr. Lindt then opened the lecture to discussion of questions from the audience.

On Britain entering the Common Market:

"The Common Market will not be the same. I don't think either European or British influences will prevail, but that there will be a constant interplay between the two," he remarked.

The effect of the Common Market on African Nations:

"The nations affected will be those that don't want or can not get into the Market. This may be harmful to them because of the high common tariff," he noted.

Why Switzerland is not a UN member:

"Switzerland has a serious view of its neutrality, it is an absolute neutrality and not a "neutralist" tendency. This does not mean that we are not interested in the UN, but we feel, as Dag Hammarskjold once said, that it is useful to have a country outside the UN. I think you will remember that because of a disagreement between the powers involved in the Suez crisis, the first UN troops were brought into Egypt by a non-member nation," he explained.

On UNISCEP:

"When I first spoke in California in behalf of UNISCEP, I was confounded by the opposition to it. I think this was due partly to the UN entering into the secret language of initials," he quipped. "I believe since then it has proved its worth in the underdeveloped countries," he concluded.

Arab information official to talk

The Arab-American Association will present a coffee hour in the Gallery Lounge on Thursday, November 15, from noon to 2 p.m.

Farouk Mawlawi, new director of the Arab Information Center in downtown San Francisco, will be the guest speaker to discuss "Current Events in the Middle East." The speaker will be followed by a question and answer period.

Arab students will present live music and songs from the Middle East. Folklore dancing will be featured and interested people in the audience will be shown how to perform the "Dabkeh," folk-dance steps of the Arab World.

World champ hefts here

Ralph McCoy, an SF State physical education major and music minor, recently broke a world weightlifting record. The 5 ft. 7 in. weightman squatted 505 lbs. while capturing the 165 lb. class title in the Western America Odd Lift Championships.

In addition to McCoy's feat, Pat Warnecke, also of SF State, lifted his way to a title in the 181 lb. class.

Unknown to the campus, these two men have been among the best lifters in the nation for the past two years.

Weightlifting is not a part of State's Intercollegiate program, and though an attempt was made in the past to form a club, Gator lifters are still a faculty sponsor and platform away from sanction.

Both Warnecke and McCoy expressed their desire to represent the college in competition. "We have the personnel on campus to make up one of the strongest teams in the State," said McCoy.

Competing for State would be nothing new to either McCoy or Warnecke. McCoy was a ring specialist on the 1960 61 varsity gymnastics squad, and Warnecke earned his block in the same year as both a ring and horizontal bar standout.

McCoy and his fellow weightmen have been so unknown that to the embarrassment of the Gater, it turns out the record McCoy broke was set by himself last spring.
