

MacAteer, Dodd clash on discipline

By GEOFFREY LINK

State Senator J. Gene MacAteer was on campus Friday to find out, "among other things," why students who hoisted a Panamanian flag during dead week "were not expelled."

Last January, during the rioting in Panama over the raising of an American flag there by American high school students, a group of students here added a Panamanian flag to the pole in front of the school.

Only two students, Mike Sweeney, 23, English liberal art graduate student, and Robert Kuehn, 26, were clearly identified with the incident.

They were sent a letter of official warning by Ferd Reddell, dean of students, which said:

"This is not the expected behavior of college students, and any further breach of responsible conduct could result in immediate disciplinary action."

President Paul A. Dodd, with whom final say on disciplinary action rests, conferred with Sweeney and Kuehn about the incident and "closed the files" on the case.

Dodd's decision "doesn't satisfy" the Democratic senator from San Francisco. He thought the two students should be expelled, calling their act "civil disobedience."

If any student in a tax-supported institution doesn't respect the symbols of the institution, "he shouldn't be here," MacAteer said.

MacAteer said he decided the students should be expelled when he first read about the incident in the newspaper last January, but hadn't confronted Dodd with it because he believed the matter "should not be handled by letter."

MacAteer was prompted to find out why the students weren't expelled because:

"I'm an American citizen and taxpayer in San Francisco," he said. "I believe in our symbols, and if they are tampered with, this violates my concept of community living."

"I'm prepared to stand on my decision," Dodd said. "The senator could not accept my decision as a liaison."

State Leg peeved at Ad Hoc group

By JACK HUBBARD

Last week, legislators and officials in Sacramento made it clear that they were unhappy with the activities of the Ad Hoc Committee to End Discrimination.

The consensus of the officials is that the Ad Hoc demonstrations had done several things, all of them negative:

- The Rumford Fair Housing Act, already on shaky political ground, is now in further trouble because of adverse public reaction to the Sheraton-Palace demonstrations, especially when the legislature would like to get the measure on the June primary ballot to prevent it from becoming a political football in the November election.
- The Ad Hoc Committee was in clear violation of the law and doesn't "have a leg to stand on" pleading civil disobedience tactics to protest job discrimination.

- The activities of the Ad Hoc Committee could endanger any further civil rights legislation.

The legislature is especially hot under the collar about the demonstrations. One influential legislator had this to say:

"I have sworn to uphold the law. I have backed civil rights legislation, especially the Rumford Act. I polled my district and it was three to one to repeal the Act. How can I defend civil rights with this type of illegal demonstration going on?"

Several legislators who have consistently backed the state colleges were also put in an embarrassing position by the demonstrations. One observer commented that the demonstrations were a direct reflection on SF State.

In one conversation, the question of whether the Ad Hoc Committee really represented the campus arose. The general feeling was that SF State, along with UC Berkeley, was responsible for supplying personnel for the demonstrations.

No one discussed whether or not the college's academic freedom was in danger, but the general feeling was that the demonstrations by the Ad Hoc Committee continued, that a closer look at the campaign might be taken.

Direct action--pros, cons

Direct action tactics employed in the recent Sheraton-Palace demonstrations were raked over the coals in the true democratic tradition last Friday.

The tactics came up odds-on favorites to be used again.

In a Town Meeting sponsored by the Forensics Union, the techniques employed by the Ad Hoc Committee to End Discrimination were discussed by more than 16 students and faculty members before a crowd of more than 250.

The majority of speakers favored the direct action tactics if all other doors to the end of discrimination are closed.

One of the proponents of direct action tactics was Arlon Tussing, associate professor of economics. Tussing was arrested during the demonstrations at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

He favors the tactics, but when talking of the Ad Hoc Committee, he frowned and said:

"I do not support the Ad Hoc Committee. My hair stood on end when I heard Tracy Sims and Mike Myerson (leaders of the group) talking on television about Marxism and Leninism. That is just the type talk needed to turn the voters of this state against something like the Rumford Fair Housing Act."

David Miller, a senior majoring in English literature said:

"For most of the night the demonstrations were just fine. They were beautifully organized. But then came the arrests. It wasn't for civil rights that anyone was arrested, but for violating a fire law. It makes me hurt to think the civil rights movement was damaged because some demonstrators violated a fire law," he said.

John Trevinsky, freshman representative to the AS Legislature was worried about the effect of the demonstrations on the image of SF State. He said he and other AS leaders had just returned from a visit to Sacramento.

"The attitude of all the legislators I talked to in Sacramento is that all students on this campus support and use these direct action tactics. This group (the Ad Hoc Committee) has injured the image of this campus in both city and state governments."

Ad hoc group expanding fast

The Ad Hoc Committee to End Racial Discrimination, fresh from a civil rights "victory" with the San Francisco Hotel Employers Association, is expanding their drive to insure equal hiring practices in San Francisco and the Bay Area.

Local firms scheduled by the committee for negotiations are the San Francisco Restaurant Association, Langendorf United Bakeries Inc., Bank of America, Edy's Character Candies, and Fox West Coast Theaters.

On the "tentative" list is the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., the world's largest public utility.

Less than two weeks ago a hiring agreement was negotiated with the hotel association that guarantees a 15-20 per cent non-white racial composition in 35 San Francisco hotel staffs by July 20.

However, the negotiated agreement is not legally binding and is based on the "moral" commitment of the hotel association to meet the committee's demands.

The committee plans on reaching similar agreements with the aforementioned firms. Its plan of operation is this:

A head count is taken by the committee of non-white personnel in a given firm, such as the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

The committee then asks the firm for a head count. In the case of the Sheraton-Palace, the hotel refused at first but then gave in and reported 19 non-white employees.

The committee had counted two.

Negotiations with the firm then begin if the committee believes more non-whites should be employed.

The picket demonstrations, or "direct action," is used by the committee as a last resort.

The Ad Hoc Committee was the outgrowth of picket demonstrations last fall at Mel's Drive-Ins in San Francisco.

At that demonstration, picket lines were composed of students from various clubs. It was decided that a higher degree of effectiveness would be reached by forming one central committee.

As it stands now the committee is backed by the following clubs and representatives: San Francisco W. E. B. DuBois Club, Liz Goldblatt; SF State DuBois Club, Conn Hallinan; Berkeley DuBois Club, Mike Myerson; San Francisco Youth for Jobs, Tracy Sims; Berkeley Youth for Jobs, Roy Ballard; SLATE-UC political club, no delegate; Citizens Committee for Disarmament, Norman Chastain; Direct Action Group, Art Sheridan.

In addition, the committee has received the support of CORE, regional and national; NAACP, regional; United Freedom Movement; Baptist Ministers Union on the national level, and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

Campus CORE of Berkeley and the SF State Young Democrats have applied for membership.

Editor's desk

Responsibility

REACTION TO THE VALIDITY of the Ad Hoc Committee to End Discrimination and its picketing activities in San Francisco is compounding.

LEGISLATORS AND STATE officials are finding themselves on the hotseat for supporting the Rumford Act because of the demonstrations at the Sheraton-Palace.

THE COLLEGE IS SUFFERING because it has been directly connected by many observers with the demonstrations. In Sacramento, SF State and UC Berkeley are being held responsible for supplying personnel for the Ad Hoc Committee.

THE AD HOC COMMITTEE has charged the Gater is part of a "smear" campaign. Further, say the Ad Hoc people, the Gater does not express the views of the student body because of slanted news coverage.

THE AD HOC COMMITTEE IS WRONG.

THE AD HOC COMMITTEE has broken the law.

THE AD HOC COMMITTEE does not now and never has represented SF State.

SINCE WHEN DOES A GROUP of persons pledged to deliberately violate the law if it doesn't suit their whims represent an institution of higher learning?

ON WHAT BASIS DOES the Ad Hoc Committee make their demand that they, and only they are spokesmen for 15,800 students because they think they have the only solution to a very serious problem that concerns the whole society?

Who says that the Ad Hoc Committee represents the Negro Community and SF State besides Ad Hoc?

THERE ARE OTHER WAYS of solving this problem besides manufacturing additional crises such as the Ad Hoc Committee. One is the implementation of a Human Rights Agency such as the one proposed by Mayor Shelley as soon as humanly possible.

THE GATER IS PART of a tradition of responsibility of the press. That tradition is to clarify the issues before the society and to tell the story as fairly and as accurately as possible. That tradition is to comment and to bring into focus these issues—such as what the Ad Hoc Committee is and what it is doing—that concern a society.

WE DO NOT THINK THAT a committee that operates outside the legal realm of a democratic society such as the Ad Hoc Committee represents this college.

IT IS IMPERATIVE THAT the community at large and the community of SF State are aware of this fact.

THIS GROUP HAS NO RIGHT to jeopardize the academic freedom of this college with cries of representation. Make no mistake, SF State is being jeopardized and will continue to be until the Ad Hoc Committee is clearly defined and put in its proper perspective.

MANY HOSTILE EYES VIEW SF State because of the activities of Ad Hoc. It is up to the students on this campus to clearly define where the college stands.

Letters to the Editor

All letters to the editor must be no longer than 200 words maximum. They also must be accompanied by the writer's full name and Student Body Receipt number of academic title. Anonymous letters will not be published. Letters will be accepted in the Gater office, HLL 207 or may be mailed to Editor, Golden Gater, San Francisco State College, 1600 Holloway, San Francisco, California, 94122.

Art through a daze

Editor:

I would like to comment on the letter of Roger McPherson as it appeared in last Friday's Gater (March 6).

Mr. McPherson stated that while under the influence of an "early morning daze" he saw objects of art in Stonestown that were immoral and obscene.

His daze seems to have carried on past the morning and in this case he may not have been thinking clearly when he wrote his letter. This being so I think it is only fair that he be given the chance to retract his statement honorably. It would hardly be just to allow a person to show himself the fool because of something he wrote when he wasn't functioning properly.

Control the drugs

Editor:

I am taken aback by the amount of drug traffic which is carried on this campus. The smell of maryjauna (sic) meets me in every bathroom, the hurried giggle of a freshman girl who can't control her "high," the bluish tinge of every senior psychology major who dips into the morphine supply, and the LSD stares on the "M" car crowd. There seems no end to the ever-widening circles of connectioners who make bus fare and tuition by selling the minds of our youth.

San Francisco State College must wake up to the fact that its basic foundations are being undermined, its integrity daily corrupted, its youth sent to a hell on earth.

I suggest that a patrol be made of the pine trees in the center of campus and all pipes checked for marijuana, that a door check be made for all people entering the cafeteria and any bathroom, and finally, that there be immediate control of the Psychology Dept. and its drugs.

Students take top honors in College poetry contest

Three SF State students took highest honors this week in a Northern California poetry contest offered by the College of Holy Names.

James Schevill, head of SF State's Poetry Center, was one of three judges chosen by Holy Names.

The winners were:
First place award of $100 to

SF State graduate student, Miss Shirley Kaufman.

Second place winners from SF State, Miss Dorothea Millett and Paul Pera.

Two University of California students, Florence Lowenberg and Anthony Prat, also took second place.

Miss Josephine Miles, University of California, and John Logan, Saint Mary's College, sat as judges with poet James Schevill.

Sister M. Claire Madeleine, chairman of the English department of Holy Names and poetry contest, said student participants "have talent which should be recognized and we are happy to do so through this contest."

Synanon ex-addicts talk from narcotic experience

Two members of Synanon House conducted a question and answer session with 150 SF State students in the Gallery Lounge yesterday afternoon.

Synanon is an anti-drug addiction society that was originated by Charles Dederich, a former business executive and alcoholic.

The Synanon representatives, Zev Puttermann and Matt Notkins, came to Synanon as drug addicts believing that nothing could cure them.

Both said they found a solution to their problem at Synanon.

Puttermann was a stage director and had been a narcotics user for over 10 years until he came to Synanon two years ago.

Notkins was an addict for seven years but "kicked" the habit nine months ago when he "stumbled" into Synanon.

Synanon has been more successful with the curing of addicts than any other institution designed for this purpose.

Puttermann attributed this fact to Synanon's doing everything backward. Unlike other institutions, Synanon is dif-icult to get in but easy to get out of and get a fix.

"There is no withdrawal room at Synanon," said Notkins. "The addict kicks the habit in the middle of life."

Synanon has a three night-a-week group therapy which allows the addicts to discuss their problem among themselves and to "kick" the habit in the course of everyday living.

The two representatives were reluctant to discuss the experiences of addicts and the process of kicking the habit.

They said that Synanon is concerned with helping addicts solve problems for themselves that normal people go about solving during the course of their lives.

Synanon originated in Ocean Park, California, four years ago. It now has 400 members around the country.

The Synanon organization hopes to establish a house in San Francisco.

Institute's ten month program offers 130 courses in Madrid

A new academic-year program in Spain for American college students will be inaugurated next August by the Institute of European Studies.

Called the Hispanic Year, the 10-month program will be conducted at the University of Madrid and will offer a choice of more than 130 courses in history, political science, international relations, economics, Spanish language and literature, art history, philosophy and theology.

Other features of the program include intensive training in the Spanish language, orientation lectures on all major aspects of Spain and its culture, and two field trips in the low countries: Germany, France, Spain and Morocco.

Admission requirements are a B average, two years of college Spanish or one year of college Spanish and two in high school, approval by the applicant's college and recommendation by his dean, departmental chairman and one professor. Applicants must be aged 18 to 24 and unmarried.

The fee for the program, set at $2,610, includes tuition, room, most meals, round-trip transatlantic passage and the field trips.

Descriptive literature is available from the Institute, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago. Applications are due by June 15.

NYU offers training grants

Graduate students on a master of arts program may receive grants of $1,800 and $2,000 in the field of vocational rehabilitation counseling from New York University.

Similar training grants of $2,800 to $3,400 are offered to candidates for doctorate degrees.

The training program conducted by New York University's School of Education prepares young people for work with disabled persons who are in need of gainful employment.

For information and application forms, write to Vocational Rehabilitation, New York University, School of Education, New York, N.Y.

We like doing business with Murray Black

And he likes Standard's policy of supporting local business

If you had an oil well out in the ocean, as Standard often does, you'd find Murray Black a useful man. He helps to build, and also services, underwater oil wells and pipelines.

Murray is not a Standard employee...he's an independent contractor, with five other deep-sea divers on his payroll, and thousands of dollars of his own money tied up in equipment.

He started specifically to serve Standard's offshore drilling operations near Santa Barbara, and, from this small, local beginning, has become one of the busiest submarine contractors on the West Coast.

While his services are unique, he is only one of some 18,000 individual suppliers from whom Standard buys goods and services every year. Many are small, independent operators such as Murray Black.

Standard's purpose is to spread its purchasing as widely as possible, so that its dollars help to build many local businesses and communities.

Our annual shopping list is more than 50,000 items long. As our dollars flow into your community through local purchases, they help its whole economy. And the benefit, sooner or later, reaches out to you.

Planning ahead to serve you better

SF State swimmers win 2; Hyatt breaks school marks

The John Hyatt Swim Club, better known as the SF State Gators, swept two swim victories last week and appear well on their way to another Far Western Championship season.

Paced by Hyatt and Ken Byrne, the Gators overwhelmed University of Pacific, 60-35, Wednesday afternoon, and three hours later squeaked by the Olympic Club, 48-47.

Against UOP Hyatt set a school record in the 200-yard freestyle with a 1:58.0 clocking, won the 200-yard backstroke in 2:19.0, and swam the anchor leg of the 400-yard free style relay which the Gators won in 3:35.5.

Byrne set another school record when he swam the 200-yard individual medley in 2:14.2 before winning the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:31.8.

Chuck Eastman, besides swimming one leg of the 400-yard free style relay, also won the 50-yard free style sprint in 23.6.

Gymnast - turned - diver George Wilcox collected 198.65 points for six dives and a first place.

Against the Olympic Club Hyatt broke the mark set by Byrne just three hours before but it didn't count because he finished second in the individual medley with a 2:12.3.

Jm Dunn took the 200-yard free style event in 2:04.6 while Mike Doody showed 172.50 points worth of diving form.

The spectacular splashing duo of Hyatt and Byrne again placed high when Hyatt won the 200-yard backstroke in 2:18.1 and Byrne won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:33.5.

JERUSALEM: FUTURE CAPITAL CITY OF THE WORLD

The ancient city called Jerusalem was written about in manuscripts dating as far back as the second millennium before Christ. Probably more wars have been fought in and around Jerusalem than anywhere else on earth. Only when we turn to Biblical prophecy do we see that Jerusalem will one day be the "city of peace" which the Hebrew and Assyrian origins of this word imply.

In Scripture Jerusalem is also called Zion (after the name of the city's ancient citadel) and the "City of David" (after the great Jewish King and Psalmist—see II Samuel). In Matthew reference is made to Jerusalem as the city of a "great King," and indeed it is, for the city is associated with the King born of the earthly lineage of David—Jesus Christ, the Word of God made flesh.

Jerusalem will one day be the capital city of the world and the headquarters of Christ, the King, during His earthly reign.

The word that Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem. And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go and say, Come ye and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And he shall judge among the nations and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Isaiah 2:1-4.

During the present age of Messiah's absence, Jerusalem is a sign to the world that Gentile times are unfulfilled. As long as the city is under the control of foreign powers (those who are not of Jewish origin), the Gentile nations will dominate the world. When the Jews occupy the entire city, the times of the Gentiles will end.

"And they (the Jews) shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations: and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles shall be fulfilled." Luke (21:24).

The city of Jerusalem has been under foreign domination almost continuously since Nebuchadnezzar plundered it in 587 B.C. At the present time the Jews have access to only the outskirts and a small portion of the old city; the great historic sites, including the site where the temple once stood, are controlled by the Arabs.

The Jerusalem of the future will have a specific religious character: "... Ye, many people and strong nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the Lord. Thus saith the Lord of hosts: In those days it shall come to pass that ten men shall take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, we will go with you: for we have heard that God is with you." (Zech. 8:22-23).

Exciting days lie ahead for Jerusalem. The Jews will one day make a treaty with a "foreign prince," and for a space of three and a half years will regain control of Jerusalem, re-establishing their Temple (Dan. 9:25-27). The prince will break the agreement, and the following three and a half years will be a time of great testing and trial for the Jews. During this period known as the "Great Tribulation," the wrath of God will be poured out on an unbelieving and idolatrous world. Many people who are faithful to Jesus Christ will be martyred. Nations will rise against the Jews and seek to destroy the ancient city of David. But right on schedule and faithful to His Holy Word, the Lord Jesus Christ will return to establish, with headquarters in Jerusalem, the Kingdom Age of "peace on earth, goodwill to men."

How do you stand today in regard to this Jesus Christ, born King of the Jews, and sin-bearer for the entire world. Do you know Him personally? You can, for He is alive today and very much wants to be your Saviour. Christianity is not just a philosophy or a set of ideas you are asked to adopt. Christianity is belief and trusting in Jesus Christ who will one day return to rule the nations in Justice and righteousness from Jerusalem. As two former sinners who have experienced the love, forgiveness, and new life which Jesus gives to all who believe in Him, we are most anxious that you should know Him too. If we can be of any help to you, write:
