Philosophy encompasses the study of fundamental questions that arise insistently in different areas of human experience, thought or practice. Whenever, for example, one reflects on the coherence of our common-sense views, or probes the standards used in some art or science, one is engaging in philosophy. The work of the Philosophy Department aims to make this natural activity of thought both richer and more systematic. Courses are offered which provide broad opportunities for self development, acquaintance with world-views of both East and West, and the building of a coherent outlook and critical reason.

Many of the courses offered will be of general interest to all students, while others are designed to explore issues that arise in selected and special areas. All courses stress the importance of dialogue and discussion as a central feature of philosophical development. The participation of students in the work of the Department is therefore always welcomed and encouraged.

The broad compass of philosophy provides a basis for many kinds of lifework, and people who have majors or minors in philosophy can be found in all areas of endeavour, from medicine, law and the ministry, to teaching, social work, and fine arts.

In addition to the regular philosophy major, the Department provides a special option of the Philosophy major in Religious Studies, and a philosophy concentration for the minor in Classical Studies (see p. 83).
