al fresco

Wednesday, October 14
11:30 a.m. — 2 p.m.

Featuring music by Kaulana
Na Puo'O Hawaii Dancers

Wednesday's event marks the University's third annual al fresco
celebration. "We're looking forward to continuing campus support," says Hal Gin, chair of the al fresco
committee. "We're encouraging people to get in the spirit of the day by dressing Hawaiian."

During al fresco, Associated Students will be collecting funds to help the victims of hurricane Iniki. Checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross.

ALSS Dean Alan Smith and Athletic Director Al Mathews among sixty faculty and staff retiring between August and October

Alan Smith, who served as dean of the University's largest school, Arts, Letters and Social Sciences, retired effective October 3. Smith joined the campus in 1964 as a professor specializing in early American history. He was chair of the Academic Senate from 1974-75.
He became a dean in 1977.

A retirement dinner will be held in Smith's honor January 23.

Al Mathews, who has been with the University for twenty-nine years,
twenty-two years as athletic director, also retired effective October 3. He served as assistant basketball coach
in 1963, and was CSUH's first baseball
coach, 1964-1972

A standout pitcher at the University of California, Berkeley as an undergraduate he went on to play minor league baseball with the Detroit Tigers franchise. During 1991-92 he was chairman of the NCAA Division II
Men's Basketball Committee.

A dinner in his honor will be held on November 20 at Waterfront Restaurant, Jack London Square, Oakland.

Cullinan accepts post as interim dean of ALSS

Mary Cullinan

Mary Cullinan, who has served as chair of the English department since 1991, was named interim dean of Arts, Letters and Social Sciences. She will serve in the post until a permanent replacement for Dean Alan Smith is found.
Smith retired as of October 3.

Cullinan holds a Ph.D. in English from the University of Wisconsin. In 1992, along with Eileen Barrett of the English department, she published an anthology, American Women Writers: Diverse Voices in Prose Since 1845
with St. Martin's Press. She is also the author of the textbook Business Communication: Principles and Processes,
which was published by Holt, Rinehart, Winston. A second edition is due to be published in December.

James Murphy will serve as acting chair of the Department of English.

Volunteer Fair on October 21 will encourage students to participate in community service; public and private organizations will be at CSUH

The first Cal State Hayward Human Corps volunteer fair will be held in the University Union Mall, Wednesday, October 21 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The fair is the result of the joint efforts of the Office of Instruction Services and the Department of Human Development.

Representatives from various community organizations, both public and private, will be on campus to meet prospective volunteers. The purpose of the fair is to match community needs with the interests of students in mutually beneficial relationships. According to Sylvia Crotty, a student in human development and one of the student volunteers organizing the event, "Historically, volunteers have played an important role in community organizations, but the current recession makes the need for volunteer services even more critical." She also points out that many careers can be enhanced by community service.

Student volunteers will work as members of the California Human Corps, a program mandated by the Legislature in 1987 to encourage social and civic responsibility.

The fair is being organized under the direction of Emmack Lovett, assistant vice president of Instructional Services. In addition to Crotty, students Gretta Fernandez and Maria Mitchell have been planning the event since last spring.

Blood donations needed by Alameda/Contra Costa Blood Bank

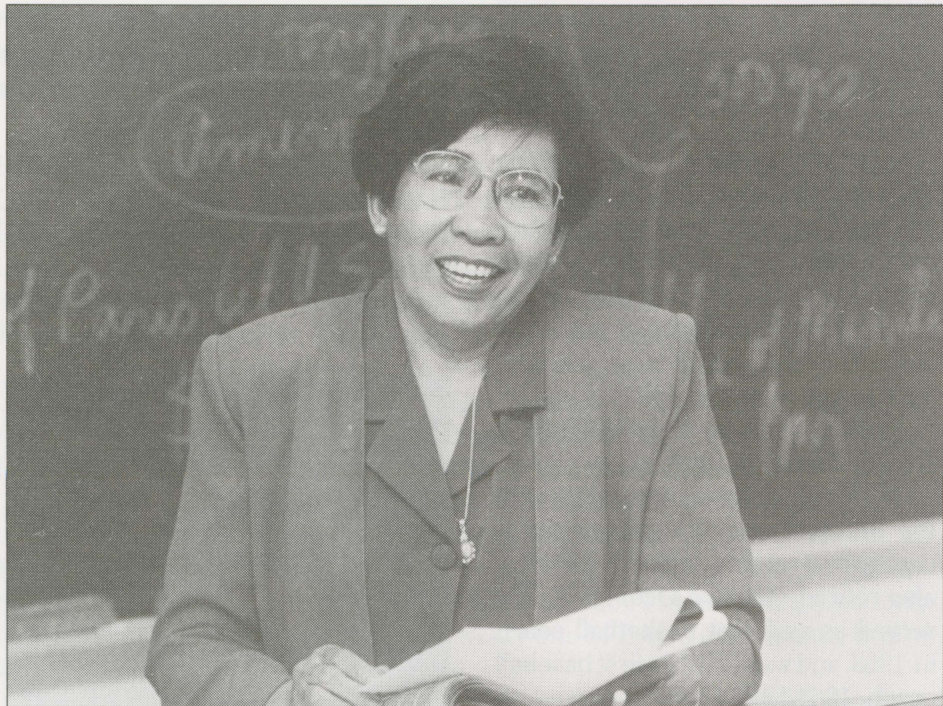

A blood drive will take place on campus, Wednesday, October 28 from 1-6:30 p.m. in University Union 101 A/B. Donors should call the Biology Office at ext. 3471 to make an appointment. Donations are down overall and the Alameda/Contra Costa Blood Bank needs more supplies to meet emergencies. The CSUH account is accessible to all students, staff, faculty and their immediate families.

University community urged to join SERVE-A-THON

Students, faculty and staff are invited to participate in the first ever East Bay Community SERVE-A-THON on Saturday, October 24 from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
to benefit the East Bay Conservation Corps.

Emmack Lovett, assistant vice president of Instructional Services, is a member of the event's steering committee. "Volunteering for SERVE-A-THON helps give Cal State Hayward visibility," he says. "It shows that we are socially conscious." For more information, call 800-59-SERVE.

Fulbright Scholar—Luzviminda Valencia of the Philippines, will be at Cal State Hayward this year as a Scholar-in-Residence under the Fulbright Program. She will be lecturing in the Department of Sociology.

CSUH graduate student will spend a year in China studying effects of sewage treatment plant on fish population

Kevin Rhodes, a Cal State Hayward student earning his graduate degree in marine sciences through Moss Landing, will spend a year studying sewage in a Chinese city known for its beer. More specifically, Rhodes will be in Qingdao, Shandon Province studying the influence of a sewage treatment plant on fish.

He is currently in China on a two-week visit previewing facilities and equipment and will bring back information so that he and his major professor Greg Cailliet can work out a sampling regime. Rhodes said his study is "very similar to what we do here when we put in a primary or tertiary sewage treatment plant." He will do a survey of the fish population prior to construction of the plant and then survey the fish community again after the plant is in operation.

His work will take place on Jiao Zhou Bay near the city of Qingdao on the central east coast of China. The Chinese government is reforming pollution standards in special economic zones. As part of this effort three treatment plants, three secondary and one primary, are being constructed for industrial and municipal sewage. According to Rhodes, at present raw sewage is being discharged directly into the bay, a semi-enclosed bay similar in size to Monterey Bay. His study will require twelve months and will begin in earnest in December.

The opportunity to work in China came about because Rhodes and his partner Kimberly Warren, a doctoral candidate in environmental engineering at Stanford, hosted three engineers from Beijing for two weeks in July. They escorted the engineers along the California coast looking at treatment facilities. Warren will also be in China. She will be based in Beijing and traveling throughout the country studying the effects of waste from textile or metal plating plants.

Rhodes says its difficult for foreign scientist to go to China, because "In China everything works through personal contacts." The engineers he met this summer arranged for Rhodes' visa, housing and the use of equipment at the university in Qingdao. He acknowledges that the bureaucracy in the country is "incredible" and dissuades a lot of Western scientists from working there. On the plus side "The Chinese are very open and friendly and they are impressed with your efforts to learn about their culture."

Rhodes, who holds an undergraduate degree in aquatic biology from the University Texas at Austin, spent the summer studying Chinese at San Francisco State. He hopes his experience in China over the next year will lead to more opportunities for work and study in that country.

Empress of China opens theater season; symposium, film series and poetry reading will complement themes

The company they keep—Appearing in Empress of China are from left, Karine Collet, as the Empress, Marco Farrell, as the Actor, and Heather Faust, as the Pearl Concubine.

The Dowager Empress Tzu-hsi ruled China from 1861-1908. A fictionalization of her life is the subject of Empress of China, a play by Ruth Wolff, which will open the University's theater season on October 30.

Born in 1835, Tzu-hsi became one of the Emperor's concubines, eventually coming closer to the throne than any man of her rank and station. As Imperial Regent, she believed China to be the greatest power on earth, but misjudged the strength of the forces against her. The play is directed by senior Justine Anabo-Zeller.

In conjunction with the production, Rhoda Helfman Kaufman of the Department of Theatre and Dance is planning a symposium to explore issues raised by the play, such as the reaction of ancient cultures to the challenge of the West, the demands of power, and gender and roles. Participants will include Lindy Li Mark (Anthropology), Colleen Fong (Ethnic Studies), and Emily Stoper (Political Science). It is hoped that playwright Ruth Wolff can be on campus for the symposium and production. Wolff lives in New York and is best known for her play about Queen Christina of Sweden entitled The Abdication.

A film series and a reading of Chinese poetry is also planned. All events will take place November 2-6. The play runs October 30-31 and November 5-8 in the Studio Theatre. Tickets are $5 for the general public and $4 for students and seniors. For more information call 881-4299.

ViewNotes

Items in this section are printed in the order in which they are received in the Office of University Relations and Development. We receive numerous submissions each week and print them as space allows.

Shyam J. Kamath (Economics) published a book entitled The Political Economy of Suppressed Markets with Oxford University Press in 1992. His earlier Cato policy analysis report entitled "Foreign Aid and India: Financing the Leviathan State" was cited extensively in a debate on foreign aid in the U.S. Congress and covered extensively in the Indian and American Press including in The Economic Times, The Financial Express, The Times of India, Hindustan Times, Sunday Magazine, The Hindu, India Abroad and India West.

David Stein (Music) presented a workshop entitled "Esoteric Music for the Church Choir: Is it for Me?" at the Western Regional Summer Conference of the Association of Lutheran Church Musicians at California Lutheran University. He also was a panelist in a discussion of changing musical styles in church music.

Harry Carter and David Stein (Music), as conductor and assistant conductor of the San Francisco Bay Area Chamber Choir (SFBACC), participated in the 16th ZIMRIYA International Choral Festival, July 27-August 6 in Jerusalem. Sponsored by Hazamir, the World Assembly of Choirs in Israel featured forty choirs from twenty countries. Of the twenty-one SFBACC participants, twelve were CSUH faculty or former students.

Patricia L. Zajac (Criminal Justice Administration) presented a paper on "Forensic Document Examinations in Investigations" at the High Technology Crime Investigation Association Symposium in Monterey, September 15.

Richard E. Bozak (Chemistry) is scheduled to present a Poster Session paper, "Exocyclic Dienones: Some Diferrocenyl Ketones" at the Pacific Conference on Chemistry & Spectroscopy, Foster City, October 20-21. Chemistry graduate student Ron Hicks is co-author.

Richard E. Bozak (Chemistry) led his traditional jazz band at the Pleasanton Pasta Festival, September 13. Side-men included former CSUH student John Soulis (Teacher Education) and Professor Emeritus Jack Lutt (Biological Sciences).

Stephen Shmanske (Economics) had his article "Price Discrimination and Monopolistic Competition," published in Studies in Economic Analysis, Vol. 14, No. 1, (Spring, 1991) pp 25-48.

John Hammerback (Speech Communication) co-authored a chapter, "Chicano Utopianism in the Southwest," in Postmodern Political Communication: The Fringe Challenges the Center, a recently published book edited by Andrew King as part of the Praeger Series in Political Communication.

Pauline J. Kelzer (Health Sciences Department) was elected to a national position in the American Public Health Association, to serve a two-year term as chair, Section on Community Health Planning and Policy Development.

Leticia Iliana Holbrook (Foreign Languages and Literatures) published an essay "Homenaje a Roman Jakobson: Arbol Adentro: 'Decir: Hacer' De Octavio Paz" in a special issue of Explicacion de texto literarios, Vol. XX-2, Numero especial 1991-92. This special issue commemorates the two most recent Hispanic Nobel Prize recipients, Camilo Jose Cela and Octavio Paz.

Frederic Palmer (Music) served on the faculty of the San Francisco Early Music Society Recorder Workshop, held at Dominican College, July 19-25.

North Indian classical flute music will be performed by G.S. Sachdev, October 17. The concert will be preceded by a dinner honoring Edward Jay, Department of Anthropology, Vincent Shaudys, Department of Geography, and Alan Smith, retired Dean of the School of Arts, Letters and Social Sciences. See page 2 for a full list of the evening's activities.

Beverly Dixon (Biological Sciences) has been awarded 400,000 Belgian francs for support of research during her sabbatical at the Aquaculture Lab of the University of Gent.

David Livesay and William Wohlmacher (Music) performed as members of the Cabrillo Music Festival Orchestra in August. Also performing were music alumni Donald Benham, Nicky Roosevelt and Ward Spangler.

Russ Merris (Mathematics) had a paper on unimodular equivalence of graphs published in Linear Algebra and Its Applications, vol. 173 (1992), 181-189. In August he was a plenary speaker at the 2nd Conference of the International Linear Algebra Society, at the University of Lisbon, Portugal. His talk was "A survey of graph laplacians."

Linda Kinrade (Nursing) spoke to the East Bay Organization of Nurse Executives in May on "Articulation: Future of nursing education."

Richard Symmons (Biological Sciences) spoke at the nine seminar series Men's Health Seminar at San Mateo County Health and Resources during May and June. He also received the Best Lecturer Award, CSUH 1992, given by Pi Kappa Delta and decided by a vote of CSUH students.

Anna Buising (Geological Sciences) co-led a field trip to the lower Colorado River region in conjunction with the 6th annual Mojave Desert Quaternary Research Symposium, sponsored by the San Bernardino County Museum in May.
