NIGHT LETTER AUG 13 1929

Julia Morgan, Merchants Exchange Bdg., San Francisco, Calif.

✓ As winter house for gatemmen is only temporary proposition, I think boards, plus perhaps some plaster, would be all right.

2. A central eating house should be established on lower part of ranch and furthermore we should build bunkhouse that we have so long contemplated or something similar. Perhaps something spread out would be better than any two-story construction and this could be added to easily as required.

3. I am against gravel in poultry plant, also opposed to too much gardening. The plant should be eminently practical.
✓ I imagine either cement or emulsified asphalt would do. I assume emulsified asphalt is the kind of thing which makes the road south of Cambria.

✓ The chicken plant will probably look something like Petaluma with chicken feathers flying everywhere; and these do not look good on garden beds.

I think we should depend for decorations on the bells
and perhaps an occasional inset tile pattern if necessary.

Perhaps the emulsified asphalt being black would make ✓ pleasanter contrast with houses than to have everything cement.

4. I think Mr. Rankin better put piping in for Roman bath now.

5. I think everything should be brought up to ✓ Hill as soon as boat arrives, except the glass. I hope the glass has not been sent from San Francisco. It would better be stored there and sent down piece by piece as required. Most of it is going back to New York. How bad is the breakage?
