Spangled Banner." The American flag was also raised over the pile-driver.

Miss Elizabeth Donahue, the pretty 13-year-old daughter of Samuel J. Donahue, business agent of the Building Trades Council of Alameda county, pulled the line which freed the colors and set the Stars and Stripes flashing in the breeze. She was given the signal from the speakers' stand by Charles R. Page, a member of the United States Shipping Board, who represented the government at the ceremony.

Cordial welcome to the Aberthaw Construction Company, its officials and workmen was spoken by Mayor
