Michele.

I don't know if you remember me. We met through your cousin Andrew almost 2 years ago now, at the M.F.C.H.A. convention in San Diego. I was your "broken footed cashier" while you were signing. I have been beyond busy and haven't talked to Andrew in about a year. I hope he's well. I also moved a year ago — right across the street from Modern Times. I was in there yesterday and saw that you are coming for a reading in June. You know I'll spread the word through out my people. I have already shared your poems with so many of my ladies, but I'm sure they want their own. I will make the announcement at this month's Latina Women's Circle. I hope everything is good for you. We are looking forward to seeing you. Safe travels.
