

Love: aphysical, mental, & asthetic coming together of that which finds its self expressed through the word: Feeling.

The feeling and feelings which recognize consciously and unconsciously one's self, needs, desires and abilities and unabilities

Then, upon a selfview coming unto play with another human, object, or attitude to form a vibration of harmony or a form of expression that can be given common attention enjoyed, built on or rejected.

Love is living. Living:
the formation of action, thought;
stillness, no thought.

It is the total involvement of sad moment and happy moment;
of understanding and confusion.

Involvement of all shapes and depths, of all limits and non depths.

Love.
