Dear Fremont-itors,

I speak for everyone here in Trinity Hall when saying the dance last Friday night was a tremendous success. Thanks to all of you, it was described as a "really swingin' affair" by all those who attended.

Your decorations were the highlight of the evening. The marriage booth created an atmosphere for a few practical jokes about the authenticity of those marriage licences.

We are glad you subpoenaed all of us and hope we may have a joint social with you again soon.

Sincerely,

Shirlee Dodgion

THINK BIG ... That was evidently the motto of the pranksters that painted the big water tower on the east hill directly below the Poly "P". Rumors have been circulated that it had been painted by Fresno just prior to the game, but so far this has not been confirmed.

1000 Students Participate In Spring Week Activities

With a college population of 4300 and a big spring weekend on the calendar, approximately a total of 1000 turned out for one event or another during the weekend. This does not include the football game. Opening event of the weekend was the Spring Sing with 600 to 700 students, faculty and towns people attending. Master of ceremonies, Roger Hille stole the show with his quick wit, guitar strumming and singing ability.

Highlights of the sing, and creating the largest audience reaction was Fremont Hall satirizing college life. "From the Swine Unit to the P in Stereo," was cleverly written and well presented. Fremont Hall won the production award for their presentation.

Wesley Fellowship singing "Go Down Moses," and winning the sweep stakes award for the evening, was quite impressive, and made an attractive appearance.

The beach party held Sunday was a success for the amount of people that attended. Not more than 100 people took part in singing, sailing and eating. Sailing was the most popular event of the day.

The music was fantastic, the decorations were good, but the attendance was poor at the first annual Spring Prom, sponsored by the Junior and Senior class. In Dave Pell's words, "It's been a great dance and a lot of fun and we enjoyed playing to this small, intimate, group." Not more than 110 couples enjoyed the great music by Pell. Out in almost full force were members of the Collegians who gathered around the musical group with their wives and dates to listen to the smooth music of the Octet.

"We felt the weekend was a success and didn't expect big attendance due to the holiday," says Arlene Vokoun, activities advisor.

600 Find Cal Poly's Spring Songfest Inaugural Pleasing

Cal Poly's Voice in Song played before a crowd of 600 last night as the first annual spring sing was "wonderful and a true display of the many fine and talented individuals that we have at the college," said college president Julian A. McPhee.

"I hope that we are not limited to only one performance a year," he added.

Over-all winner of the songfest was a 23-member choral group representing Wesley fellowship. They sang "Go Down Moses." They were also winners of the individual mixed-division trophy.

Winner of the women's division trophy were 12 members of Santa Lucia hall, singing a series of selections of advertisements from Mademoiselle magazine. The selections were entitled—after the ads—"California Girl," "Tabu," and "Skippies by Formfit."

Winner of the production division was Fremont hall which was represented by 24 residents. They did a humorous, satirical number about the college entitled "From the Swine Unit to the P in Stereo." This was the best received act of the evening with individual takeoffs on the swine unit, Duke Hill and the college bookstore, the ROTC department, college coeds, and the cafeteria.

Winner of the specialty division was a quartet representing Roger Williams fellowship. The quartet, labeled "The Kingsmen," sang two selections. One was the traditional "Joshua Fit De Battle," and the other was a mild humorous number entitled "The Animals Are Coming."

(E) There is nothing like Cal Poly
nothing in the world
There is nothing you can name
that is anything like . . .

(E) It's J--E--L--L--O
(Tune: "Too Marvelous for Words")

It's too marvelous too marvelous for words
like solidified, petrified,
and that old standby saltpeterfied.
It's all the same thing
the same thing every day
They steam the stuff
Cream the stuff
Why the hell don't they clean the stuff.

They cook enough
But we just can't eat enough

It's starch
and fats
It's all those things we love to eat

And so, I'm telling you
the food is for the birds

We'll tell you that the jello is too marvelous for words.

(F) There is nothing like Cal Poly
nothing in the world
There is nothing you can name
that is anything like . . .

(Tune: "The Wiffenpoof Song")

(F) ~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~
The swine unit down on campus to the 'P' upon the hill,
the majesty of pastures green and still,
We sing the praises of the campus that we do love so well,
With memories we'll treasure till time is through.

Textbooks, notebooks, seminars too, Homework, projects, all are due.
If our dear faculty only knew, Drink, Drink, Drink.

Our coeds here on campus, do lend a magic touch,
They brighten every moment when they're near
We look forward to our meeting them in class and El Corral,
A life without them would lack high morale.

All Poly Rats off on a spree, hoping to make it through on a one-point-three,
Dean C. have mercy on such as we, Wine, Women, Song.

Ⓐ (Tune: I've been working on the railroad)

I've been scrubbing on this damn pig all the live long day
I've been scrubbing on this damn pig just to get the smell away
Can't you smell that awful odor, stinking up the campus wide
I just love these little piggies bless their stinking hides.

Ⓑ There is nothing like Cal Poly
Nothing in the world
There is nothing you can name
That is anything like.....

Ⓑ (Tune: Sixteen tons)

I got up one morning it was drizzling rain
Got all my classes without any pain
I started for the bookstore on the run
Got through the door and then I had fun
I loaded 16 tons of old text books
The cashier said you've just been took 23% to the non profit store and when you're through the state ~~tax~~ takes more Old Duke Hill is a greedy old man
But he don't care cause he's got a big roll
Saint Peter don't you call me cause I can't go
I owe my soul to the Poly book store.

Chorus:

When Rote comes marching home again out of step, out of step
When Rote comes marching home again out of step, out of step
All day monday we prayed for rain kept our nose to the window pain;
and there we were on Drill Day out in the burning sun.

Chorus:

When Rote comes marching home again out of step, out of step
When Rote comes marching home again out of step, out of step
The men will yell and the major will shout and we're all waiting till we get out.
When the Tuesday warriors come marching home again.

Chorus:

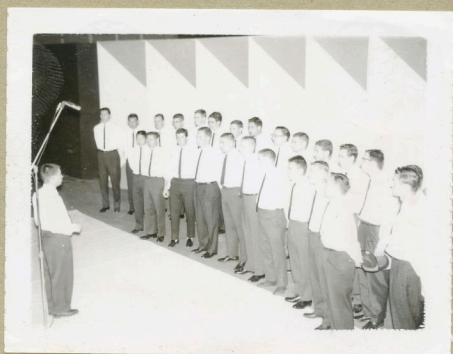

When Rote comes marching home again out of step, out of step
When Rote comes marching home again out of step, out of step Back into civies all through for the day if the rifle are dirty we'll have to stay.
When the Tuesday warriors come marching home again.

- ⑤ The girls of Poly Tech remind me of a wreck
in their levies and shirts that are checked, Onward you Poly girls even with pin curls
our praises to you will never unfurl,
We all fall for some girl that dresses neat,
One we'd be proud to escort down the street,
Good bye my Poly baby
honest you drive us crazy
We go for roses
but you're more like a daisy.

Twenty-two Floats Entered In Parade

Highlighting the Homecoming parade this year are 22 floats supported by several bands and Cal Poly's ROTC and Penguins. Reflecting a Polynesian Holiday theme, the parade will start at 2 p.m. with floats in the following appearance:

Blue Key, national honor fraternity, the "Homecoming Queen's float." It depicts an island in a sea of blue, complete with palm trees, the Queen and her court.

A float showing Hukilan celebration on a background of an ocean, beach hut, mechanical waves and fish will be presented by the Agricultural Engineers.

Air Conditioning Club's entry will show a volcano, temple and a god surrounding a Polynesian offering.

"Poly's Holiday," featured by the Mechanical Engineers, will have a large erupting South Sea Island volcano swallowing the San Diego mascot.

The Institute of Aero Space Sciences will ride the breakers high on a surf board in "Ride High You Mustangs" float complete with a beach laden with palm trees.

"Julian's Luau" will rotate as the center of attention in a South Sea setting, and lampooning a San Diego dummy.

A touch of home will be presented in "Poly's Place." The Industrial Engineering Club will show a South Sea setting with a uke player and hula dancer.

The lure of the Polynesian girl charms the surfboard-riding San Diego Marine to his destruction by the giant "Poly Wave" in the Ornamental Horticulture Club's "Polynesian Lure."

Kamehameha The Great will be the center of attention in the float of Alpha Phi Omega. A raised map

A short post-parade rally will be held this Saturday on the steps of the Court House on Monterey Street immediately following the Homecoming Parade, which begins at 2 P.M.

The band, cheer leaders, and song girls will be present to lead songs and yells for those participating in the traditional occasion.

Let's show some school spirit! Everyone is urged to attend and support the team this Saturday.

of Hawaii and three girls in Hawaiian costumes complete the picture.

Hewson House will show an original version of Paradise Lost in three stages—a raft, a man on an island paradise, capture by natives.

It's party time in the Polynesian Movement. Fremont Hall has a beach party going full swing next to a Polynesian hut.

Pineapple Princess, by Mat pica Pi, will feature a gigantic pineapple base with song girls.

"Take Me Back To My Little Grass Shack," the Los Lecheros

Dairy Club will show a wave carrying a surfboard rider back to his grass hut at the base of Hawaii's Diamondhead.

The Poultry Club will be in its element as a baby chick cracking out of its shell, fanned by two girls in "Birds in Paradise."

Eternal frustration will be depicted in the "Polynesian Fling" by the Farm Management Club. A sunken boat pulling two islands will show alluring women on one island and shipwrecked sailors on the other. The sailors are attempting to catapult one of their number to the other island.

The mighty Poly Mustang, erupting out of a fiery inferno, sends the San Diego Marine whimpering toward the sea in the American Institute of Architects' float "Mustangs at 8 O'Clock."

Boots and Spurs is having a O-a-h-u, a cow with a hula hoop. Deliberately thinking that the parade is the following day, the Crops Club will have a partially finished float.

"Lia Hona" will be Lambda Delta Sigma's theme for their car decorated with leaves and crepe paper.

The cheer leaders will ride in a car through the parade.

The Society of Automotive Engineers will have an old car in the parade.

"Drifting and Dreaming" will be Poly Phase's theme as a Cal Poly student sits at a desk and dreams of the island hut and two dancing girls behind him.

EL MUSTANG

Fireside Chat . . . Rabbi Gilbert L. Shoham is shown here leading students in one of many "bull sessions" that took place all over the campus during the annual Religion in Life Week observance, which ended last night. Sponsored by the Inter-Faith council, the week's program offered inspirational talks by religious leaders, clergymen and lay speakers, panel sessions that sometimes went far into the night, and seminars where students could express their views on a multiplicity of subjects vital to their thinking and behavior. The Week's theme was "Light in a Dark World."

Have one the sun must clock.

Cal Poly Relaxes Curfew Rules for Women's Halls

New curfew rules for Poly coeds have caused much rejoicing in the women's residence halls on campus. During previous years, all girls had to be in their dorms by 10:30 p.m. on week nights, unless signed out on a "special." "Specials" came in very limited quantities unless a girl had an exceptionally high grade point average.

However, during the fall quarter, girls in Trinity hall racked up the highest average grade point level of all the on-campus residences, thus taking an honorary plaque away from Fremont men's residence hall for the first time. In further recognition of their achievement, all girls with a C average (2.0) or better will be allowed to sign out until midnight every week night.

However, the new week night hours are in effect for the winter quarter on an experimental basis only, warned Robert Bostrom, residence hall supervisor-counselor, in a letter to head residents and students. Weekend curfew for on-campus women residents will remain 1:30 a.m.
