SAN JOSE
STATE COLLEGE
ESTABLISHED 1862

Dedication

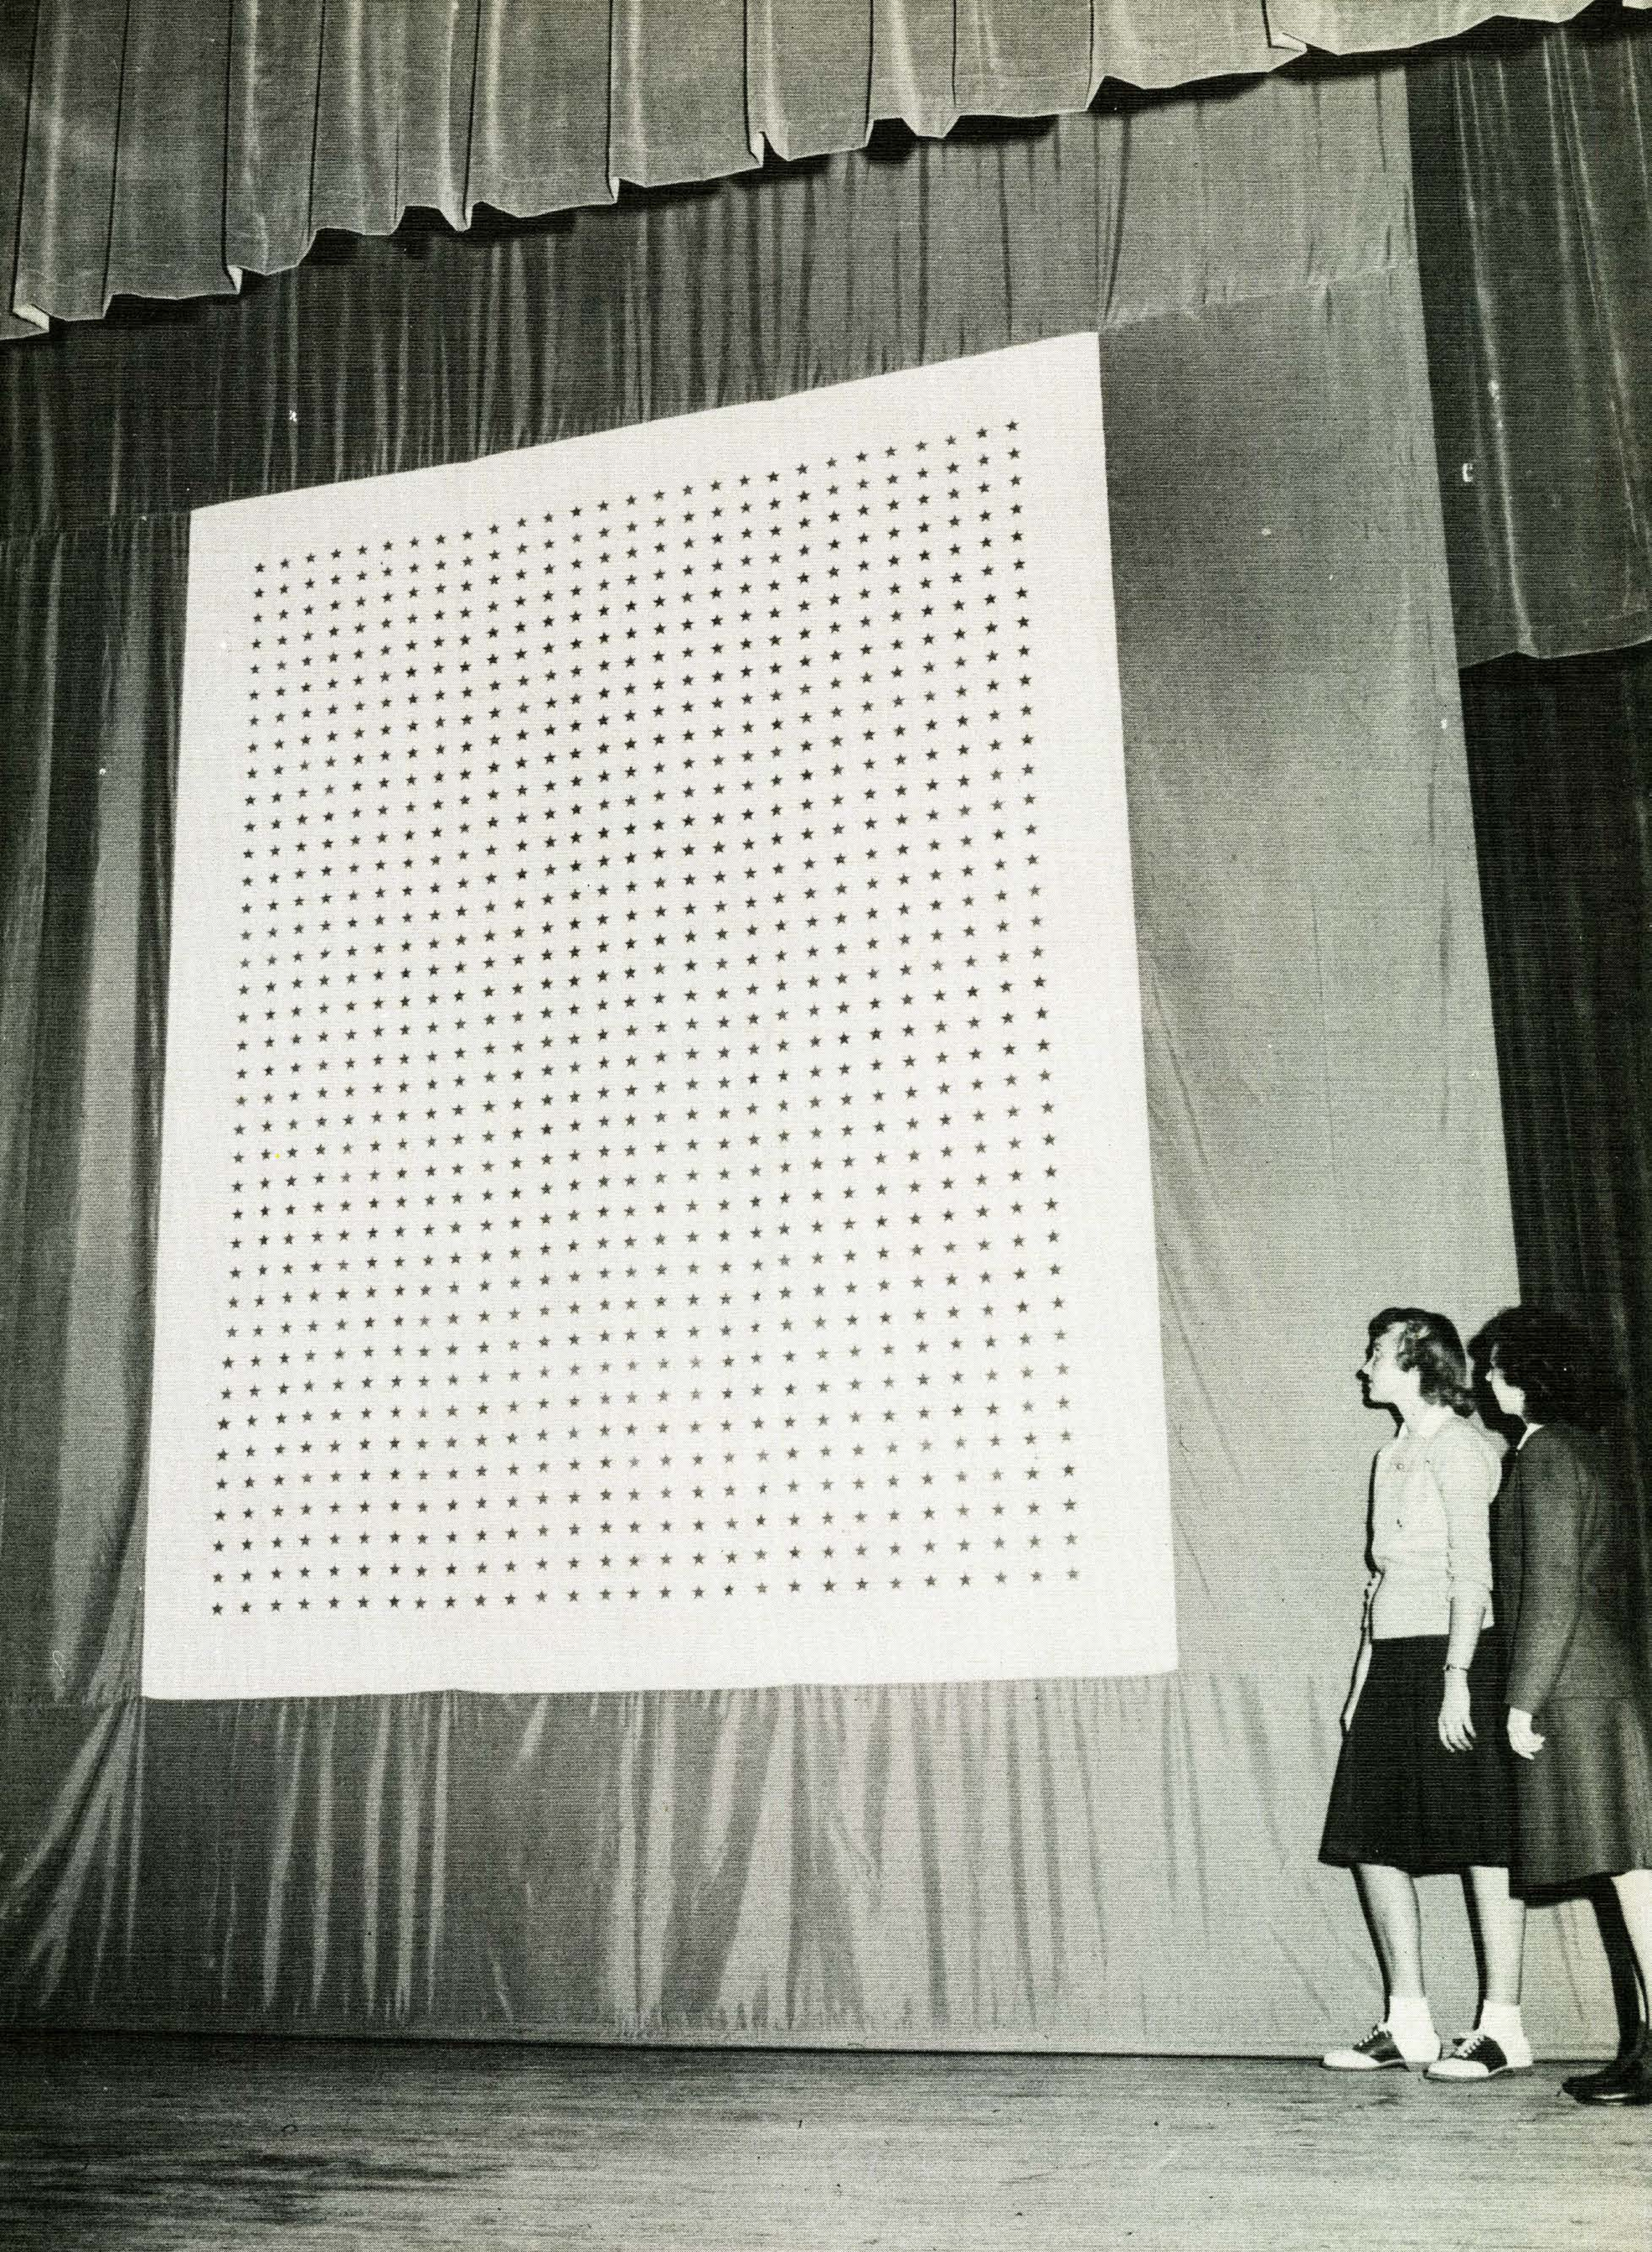

HERMAN F. MINSSEN, FRIEND

So much is implied in that word friendship—steadfastness, kindness, loyalty, unselfishness, courage and generosity. . . . No man at San Jose State College has ever exhibited those qualities more than Herman F. Minssen. Many expressions have come from those who knew him best telling what he meant to them as a friend. . . . He will live enshrined in the hearts and memories of all who have had the privilege of being his friend.

HE WAS A TRUE

FRIEND.

President's Message

You know, young men, I don't feel bad when I see you going off to war . . . I envy you. . . . The opportunities you will have, the adventures, the dangers; the sights you will see, the friends you will make, the souvenirs and the stories afterwards. . . . The great majority of you will be back some day, back from the wars and ready for the future, confident that you have done your duty to your country, that you have served humanity . . . better citizens than ever. . . .

REALLY, I ENVY YOU.

Reserves

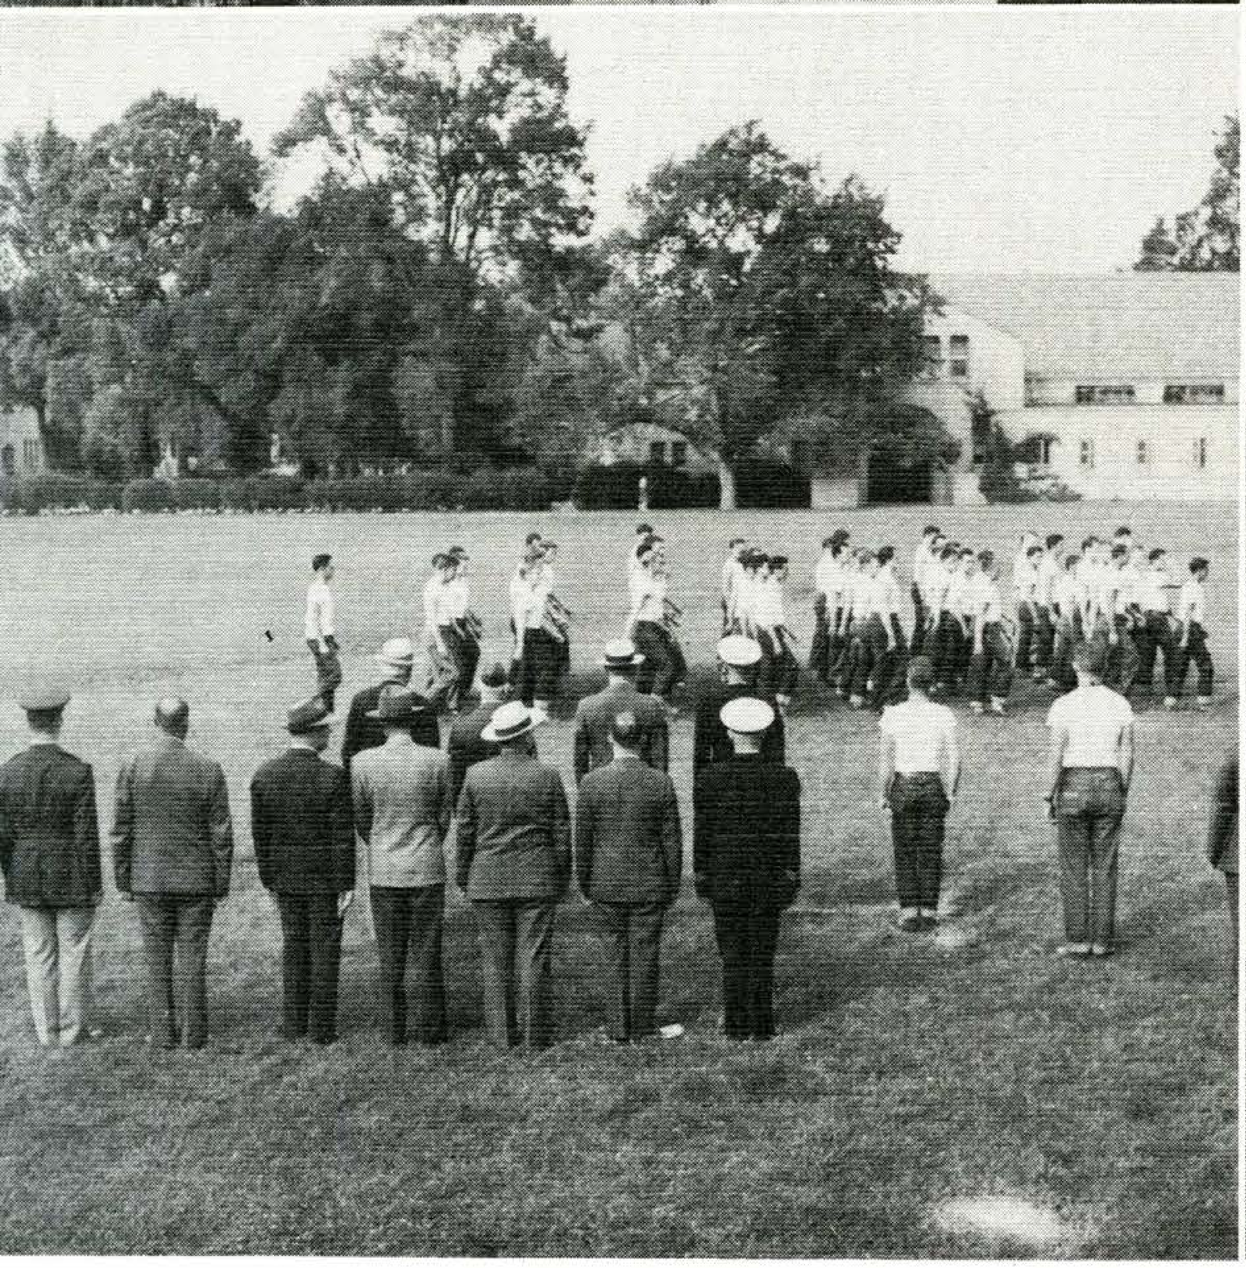

April 9 and June 8, 1943, are dates to be remembered by San Jose State College men in army, navy and marine reserves. It was on April 9 that ERC (army) men left Washington Square for the Monterey Presidio and assignment to various units. Upper scenes show them marching down San Carlos street to the station, kissing their girl friends goodbye; that's Acting Corp. Arthur Inman, center, checking out with Student Body Prexy Tom Taylor on the left, and Dean of Men Paul Pitman on the right.

Below are navy and marine reservists on battalion review June 8, when Captain D. N. Mackey, commandant of the Naval Air Station, Moffett Field, made an official inspection.

Spardi Gras

Lower left: Tom "Groucho Marx" Taylor announces Jean Fickes, the Victory Girl, as first place winner in the women's most outstanding costume group.

Lower right: These husky "babies" down their vitamins in the traditional baby bottle-feeding contest with the aid of their favorite nursemaids.

Spardi Gras

Upper left: Floro-Ero girls peek into the Gamma Phi beer garden but the sightseers up on the roof have the best view.

Center left: As long as they stuck together, the student court judges spoke for themselves.

Lower right: Everyone's friend, Mr. Frank Callahan, nightwatchman, sports the school colors.

Spardi Gras

Upper left: Though beset with many difficulties and minus many of its merrymakers, this wartime Spardi Gras was declared by all to have been one of the best ever.

Lower left: Hugh Morris, target for the A. P. O. egg-throwing concession, steadies himself for the next "omelet."

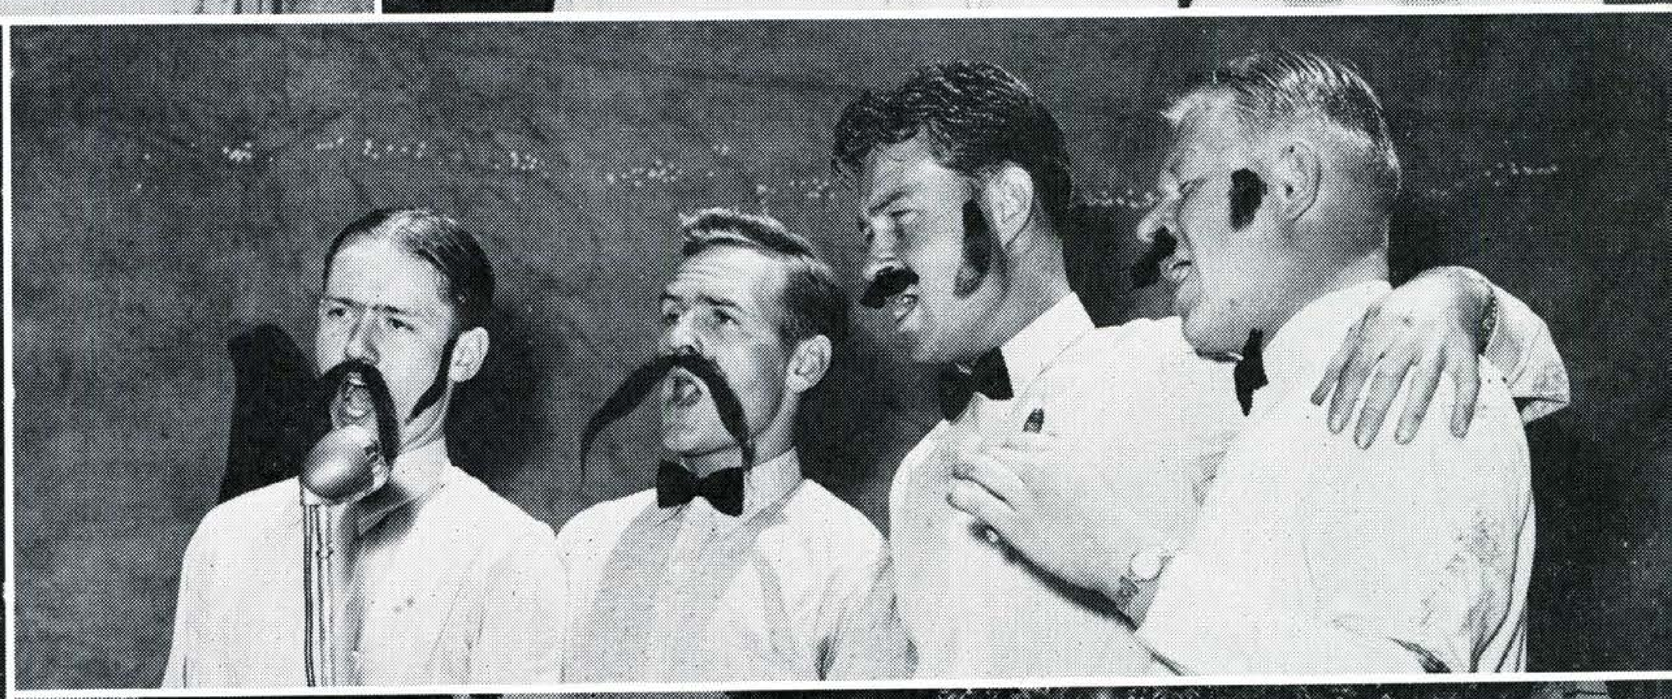

Upper right: Scrappy gets prettied up so that he can remain his usual glamorous self throughout all of the annual festival.

Revelries

Right: With rationing, butter becomes more valuable than the silverware, as defenseless Pat Alexander finds out when villain Charles Love orders her to hand it over.

Revelries

Lower left: Darrell Bond strums a hot one and hopes Petrillo won't mind.

Social Affairs

Drama

Upper: A toast! The unscrupulous Hubbards witnessed by servants, raise glasses to a new business venture which will bring them wealth and power at the expense of their factory workers.

Lower left: Prudence Steele (Esther Lacitinola) defies the Tramp (Jack Hume) who calls himself "Dust of the Road," from the play of the same name which was part of the annual Christmas gift to the community.

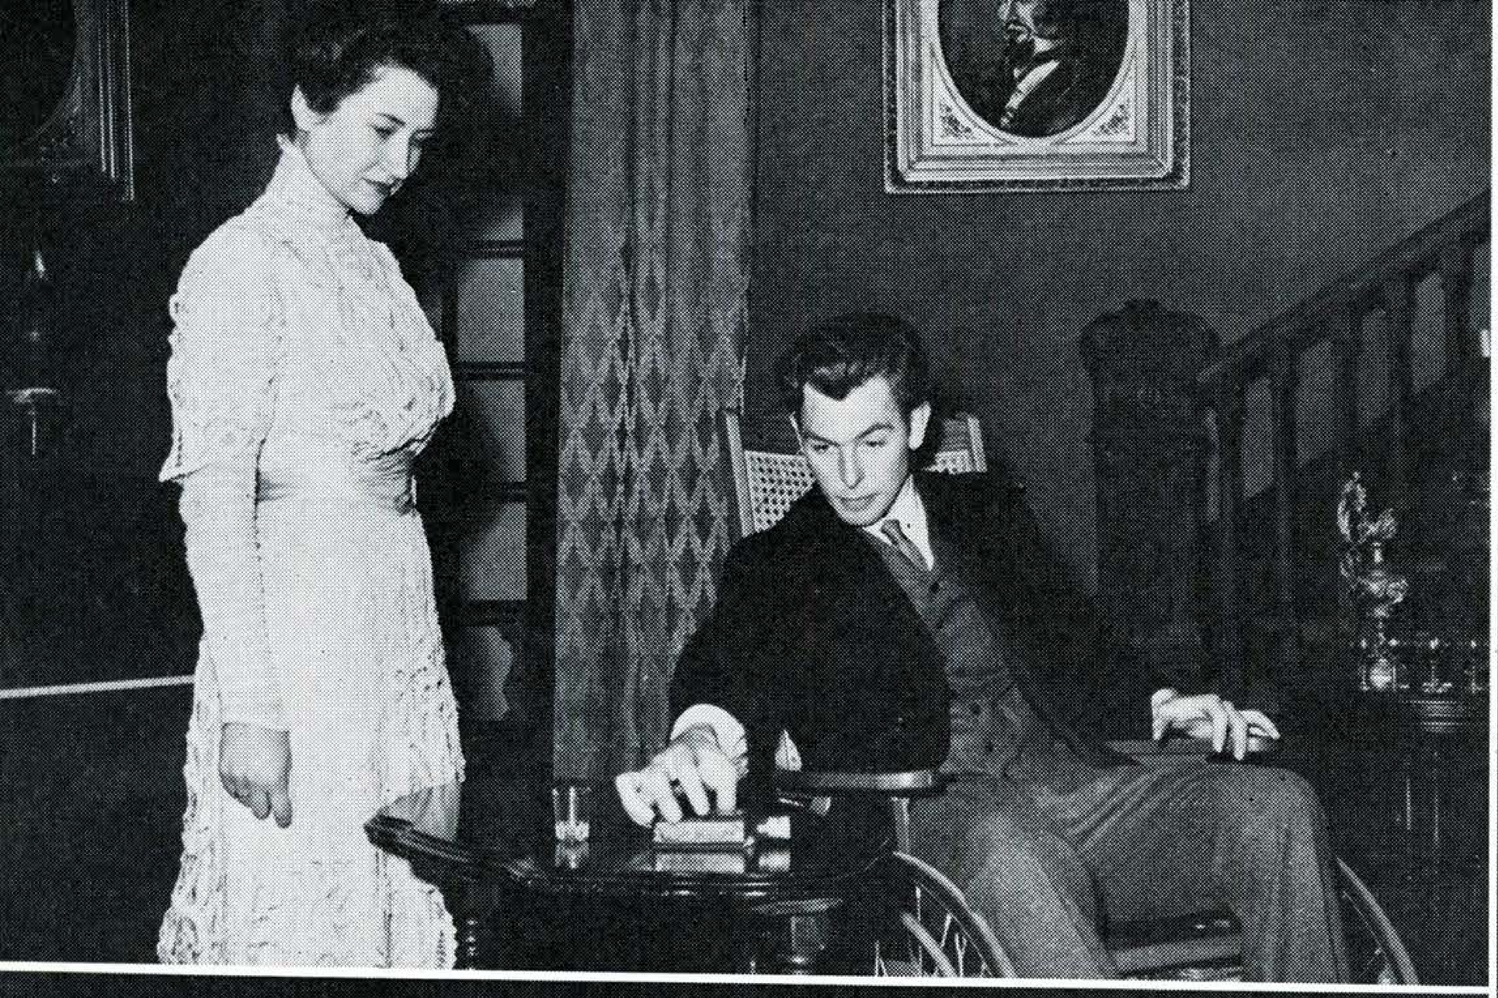

Lower right: Having to choose between husband Tommy (Tom Pagenhart), who is suffering a hangover, and former college sweetheart, Joe Ferguson (Bill Kidwell), proves too much for Ellen (Mary Kirtley), and she has a tantrum.

Drama

Upper right: Assisted by Dr. Eienstein (Milt Brietzke), Jonathan (Jack Hume) prepared to kill his brother Mortimer (Harrison McCreath), using his "two hour method" in "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Center left: K. S. J. S. stands by during their version of Orson Welles "men from Mars" thriller, "War of the Worlds." Later the group panicked the Fall War Aims class with their so-called "fake armistice." Under advisor-director Peter Mingrone, the society kept high standards of entertainment throughout the year on their weekly programs over K. Q. W. here in San Jose.

Lower left: Mild Professor Turner (Tom Pagenhart) watches his wife Ellen (Mary Kirtley) dancing with former gridiron idol, Joe Ferguson (Bill Kidwell), believing them to be in love because they do it so well, in "The Male Animal."

Lower right: Judas Iscariot in the shape of a tramp (Jack Hume), shows the marks of the hanging rope on his throat to illustrate the moral of breaking a trust to Peter Steele (Ed Ropolo), in "Dust of the Road."

Drama

Domineering Regina Giddens (Barbara Trelease) shows her disgust for her kindly husband, Horace (Jack Hume), whom she believes weak, in "The Little Foxes."

Chamber Music

The Chamber Music Division of the Music department, under the directorship of Miss Francis Robinson, presented the Eighth Annual Evening of Chamber Music on May 25 with an unusual and distinctive program before an enthusiastic audience which filled the Little Theatre. Bach's A Major Concerto for piano and strings, featuring William Erlendson, faculty pianist; Ravel's Introduction and Allegro for harp, strings, and woodwinds, featuring faculty members Lydia Boothby, harpist, and Thomas Eagan, clarinetist; and an ultra modern study in sonority for 10 violins by the American composer Wallingford Riegger, shared honors on the program.

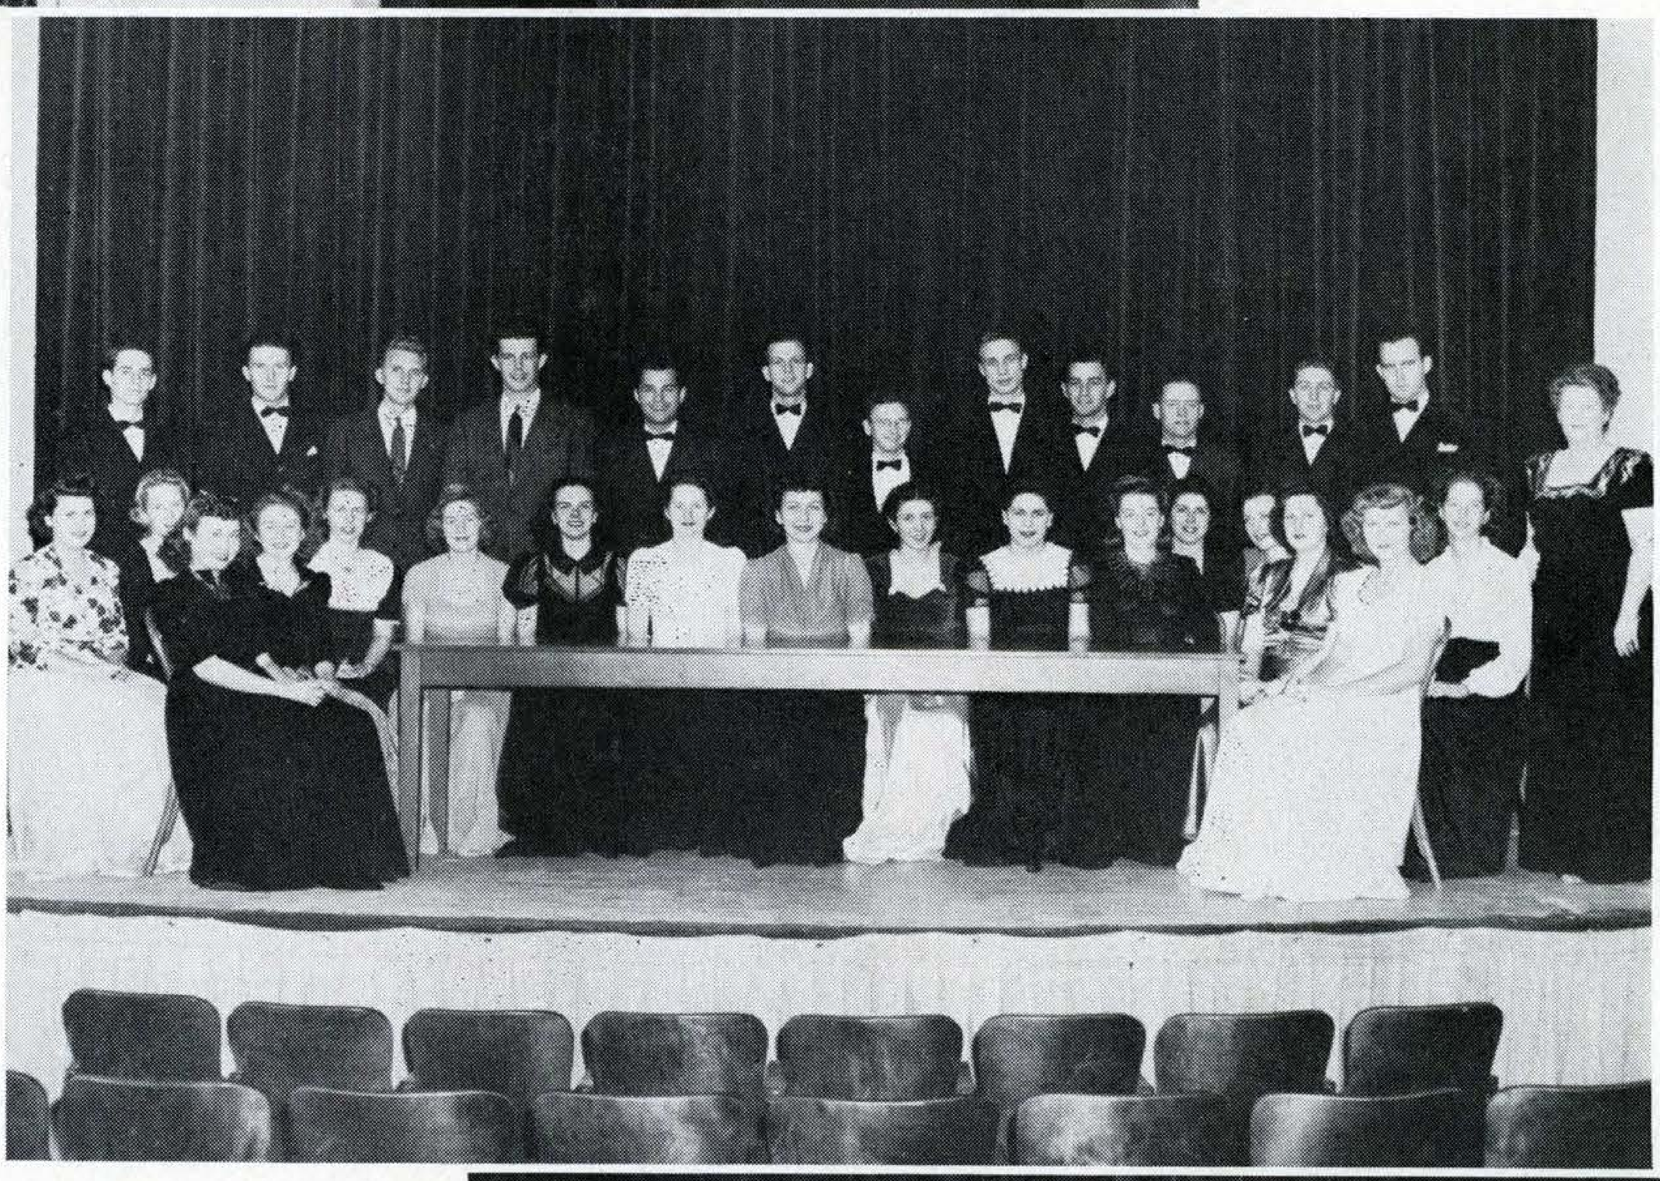

Other numbers inciuded the delightful and rarely heard Symphonie Concertante played with technical finish, zest, and vitality by Gwendolyn Thomas, violinist, and Dorisse Thomassen, violist, ably supported at the piano by Meroy Topham. Haydn's beautiful quartet in C major, Opus 76, no. 3, "The Emperor" was excellently performed by the Mu Phi Epsilon Quartet. Members of the ensemble are: Violins — Dorisse Thomassen, Gwendolyn Thomas, Helen Rees, Ethel Wulff, Fern McMillen, Raymond Van Diest, Beverly Hoppe, Carmen Fox, Myrra Mosher, Patricia Roll; Violas—Eleanor Holzwarth, Eugenia Goerling, Phyllis Roll; Violoncelli—William Harry, Peggy Airth, Hulda Porter, Maurine Cornell; Contra-Bass—Louise Brain.

Vocal Department

Although the war created some problems in balance of musical groups, the vocal department was very active on campus and in the general community this year. Soloists and ensembles were presented for Patrons Association, Women's Clubs, Lodges, Churches, community programs, Homecoming, etc. There were smaller groups providing duets, trios, quartets, quintets, and a larger ensemble called The Madrigal Singers. The Madrigal Singers completed a group of madrigals in the fall quarter, later presented a program of Christmas music at the Berkeley Music Center, and collaborated with the Speech Department in the annual Christmas play.

The department gave its annual Recital on Tuesday evening, February 16th, with soloists and ensemble groups. Some outstanding numbers were the Beethoven Scotch Folk Songs for solo and trio, with piano, violin, and 'cello accompaniment; solos by Letha Medlin, coloratura soprano, accompanied by a string quartette, and flutist; excerpts from "Carmen" by Marjorie Miller, Frances Ebert, and others. Barbara Standring sang some charming solos with Irish harp accompaniment, and the program ended with a lovely group of madrigals.

The Spring Quarter found the group busily preparing Buch's "Coffe Cantata," and original compositions by Alice Woods and Crawford Gates. In May the annual program was presented for the Santa Clara and Mt. View High Schools.

Maurine Thompson, of the music staff, is director of the activities of the vocal department.

WILLIE WOOL

Pearl Harbor not only forced the cancellation of the final 1941 games in Honolulu but it also blew the 1942 grid preparations higher than a kite. Glenn "Tiny" Hartranft, head of the physical education department, took over the coaching reins when Ben Winkelman departed for army service, and found himself greeting a handful of veterans and a mob of freshman candidates the first day of fall football practice.

On the credit side of the ledger was the reorganized schedule that had been brought about by the war. With restrictions on travel, priorities and such, the day of the colorful intersectional combat was lost for the duration.

Missing from the schedule for the first time in many a year were the grid titans of Hardin Simmons, Utah State, Moffett Field, Fort Ord, and the always rugged Texas A. & I. In their place was found the unknown quantities of such outfits as Pomona, Whittier, McClellan Field, and Occidental.

Outside of his six returning vets, however, Hartranft was faced with approximately 75 unknown quantities—the freshman turnout. He took a long shot gamble and pieced together a makeshift team that surprised everyone by walloping Pomona 33 to 6 in the season's curtain raiser at Spartan Stadium. The rout of the Sagehens featured the brilliant scat running of halfbacks George Foote and freshman Billy Parton, subsequently dubbed "the Touchdown Twins" by city sports writers.

Foote, relegated to the role of a lowly sub the preceding year, came into his own and opened the Spartan scoring in six of the season's nine contests. The deluxe speedster, Parton, usually followed Foote's payoff gallops with another big six for the State cause.

Key man in the Spartan backfield and a steadying influence for the new men was fullback Bert Robinson. Robinson supplied the smoothness and faking ability that is such a vital cog in the Warner system.

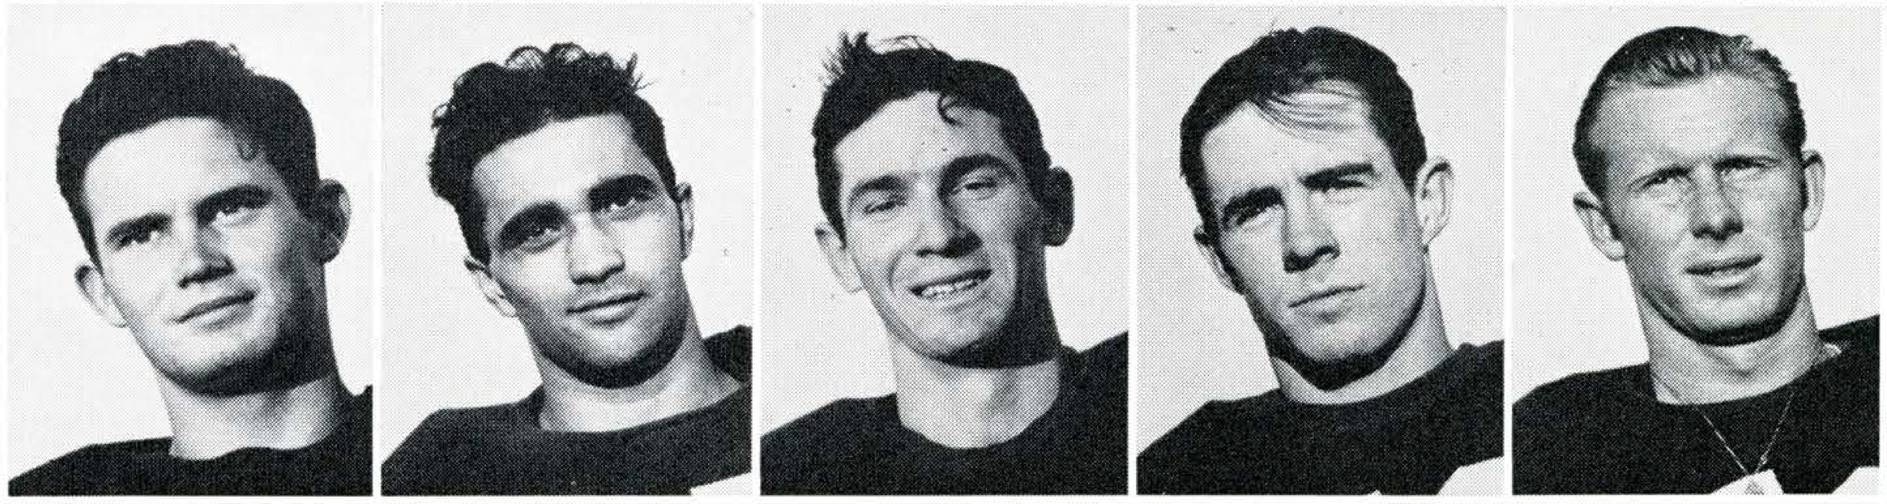

A 20 to 0 win over Whittier the following Saturday in Southern California did nothing to convince Coach Hartranft that he had a great team on his hands. Both Pomona and Whittier were decidedly weak sisters and the San Jose eleven had not shown a concerted attack except for the efforts of the first string in either contest.

The following Saturday the Spartan grid machine pulled the fangs of the Occidental Tiger, ruffled its fur and sent it sulking home the victim of a 26 to 7 whipping. Again those Touchdown Twins formed the spearhead of the big Gold attack, and frequent substitution, a policy followed all season by Hartranft, held the score down.

Convinced of the ability of his first outfit but still dubious of the reserve strength at hand, Hartranft sent a determined bunch of footballers out for another dose of Tiger, scrapping against the College of Pacific brand this time. Long a traditional foe, and holder of a moral victory over the Spartans the previous year, the C. O. P. squad was out for blood and they got it in great gobs—unfortunately for them it was their own. The final score was 29 to 0 and the Spartans were riding high on their fourth straight victory.

DON ASHBY

However, storm clouds loomed on the horizon in the person of a powerful U. S. F. eleven that was reputed to be one of the best in the Bay region. The payoff came when Bert Robinson was severely injured in practice the day before the game. Hartranft, with his fingers crossed, pressed center Charley Cook into service as a fullback and banked on freshman Danny Conforti to bolster the spot.

Packed with action from start to finish, the game started in the usual way with Billy Parton romping 60 yards to pay dirt. But the heavier, more experienced Dons were not to be denied and quickly punched over 20 points by half time. With Cook and Willie Steele in the backfield in the second half the Spartans began going to town in big way. In the shadow of his own goalposts Cook rifled a pass to Steele who dodged and twisted his way 70 yards down the field for the second State score. Late in the third quarter with Cook carrying the ball on nearly every play the big Gold machine marched from their own 10 to the Don 9 yard stripe, only to be robbed of another score when the over-anxious Cook fumbled and U. S. F. recovered.

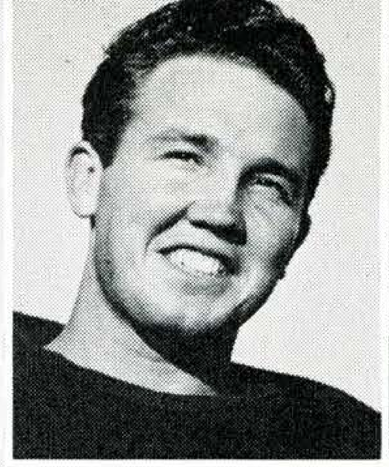

Bruised and battered the Spartans barely nosed out the Alameda Coast Guard Sea Lions 9 to 0 the following week on another pass from Cook to Steele. But the State gridders picked up speed again and walloped San Diego 26 to 0 and McClellan Field 27 to 7 on successive Saturdays. Tackle Gray McConnell, Foote, Parton and Robinson returned to action in the latter game. The first three men had all been on the sick list as a result of the U. S. F. fracas. The season's finale featured the annual big game with a once beaten Fresno State Bulldog.

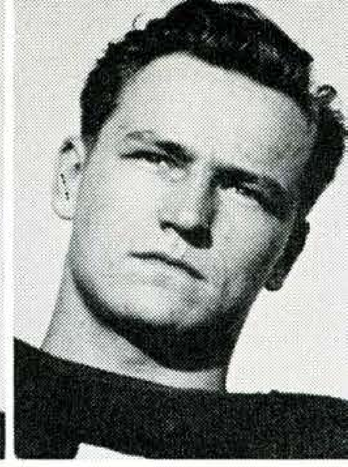

U. S. F. had been the only team to down the highly touted Fresno squad and the Bulldogs boasted the services of the ace passer, Jackie Fellow, booming fullback Mickey Masini, and fleet halfbacks Jack Kelley and Louie Futrell.

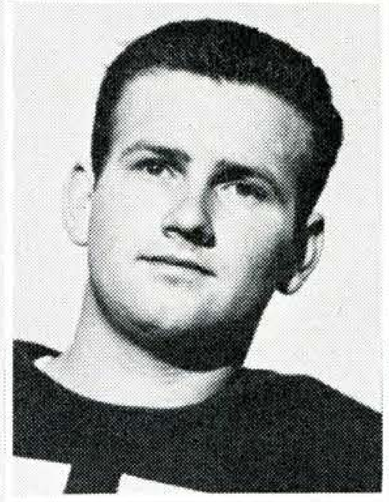

Closely fought all the way through, the game resembled a clash between two titans with Fresno finally eking out a 6 to 0 win. The Spartan line, led by Captain Wilbur Wool, held Fellows down all afternoon but the backs relaxed just once on defense and that was enough for the "Rabbit" to toss a pass to end Jim Molich for the only tally of the day.

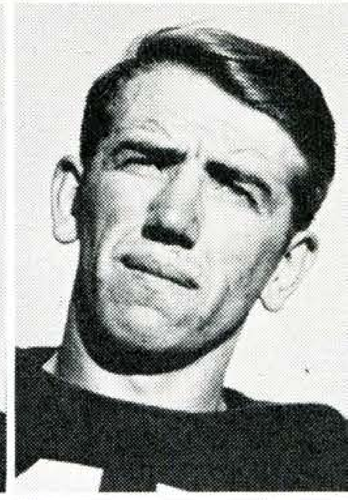

Robinson and Cook were both injured early in the game and reserve fullback Jack Porter came into his own after a season of comparative obscurity. Porter passed and ran the Spartans up and down the field with a brilliant performance but each time the San Jose gridders got within striking distance of the Fresno goal line the Bulldog defense stiffened and held.

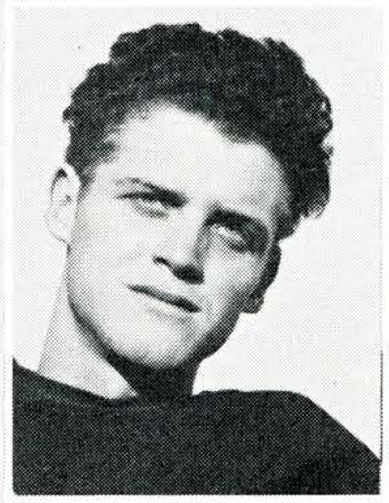

The defeat by Fresno was a bitter pill to swallow but with a season record of seven wins and two losses Coach Hartranft was well pleased. Starting out with a green, inexperienced squad he molded it into a powerful grid aggregation that lost by no more than a seven point margin in both defeats. The Spartans wound up the season with a scoring total of 150 points, as against 40 tallied by their opponents.

Basketball

Coach Ed. Blesh's high flying Spartan basketballers stepped out of their class too many times to rack up a healthy win percentage, but once in their own bracket the big gold quintet knocked over some of the classiest teams in the conference.

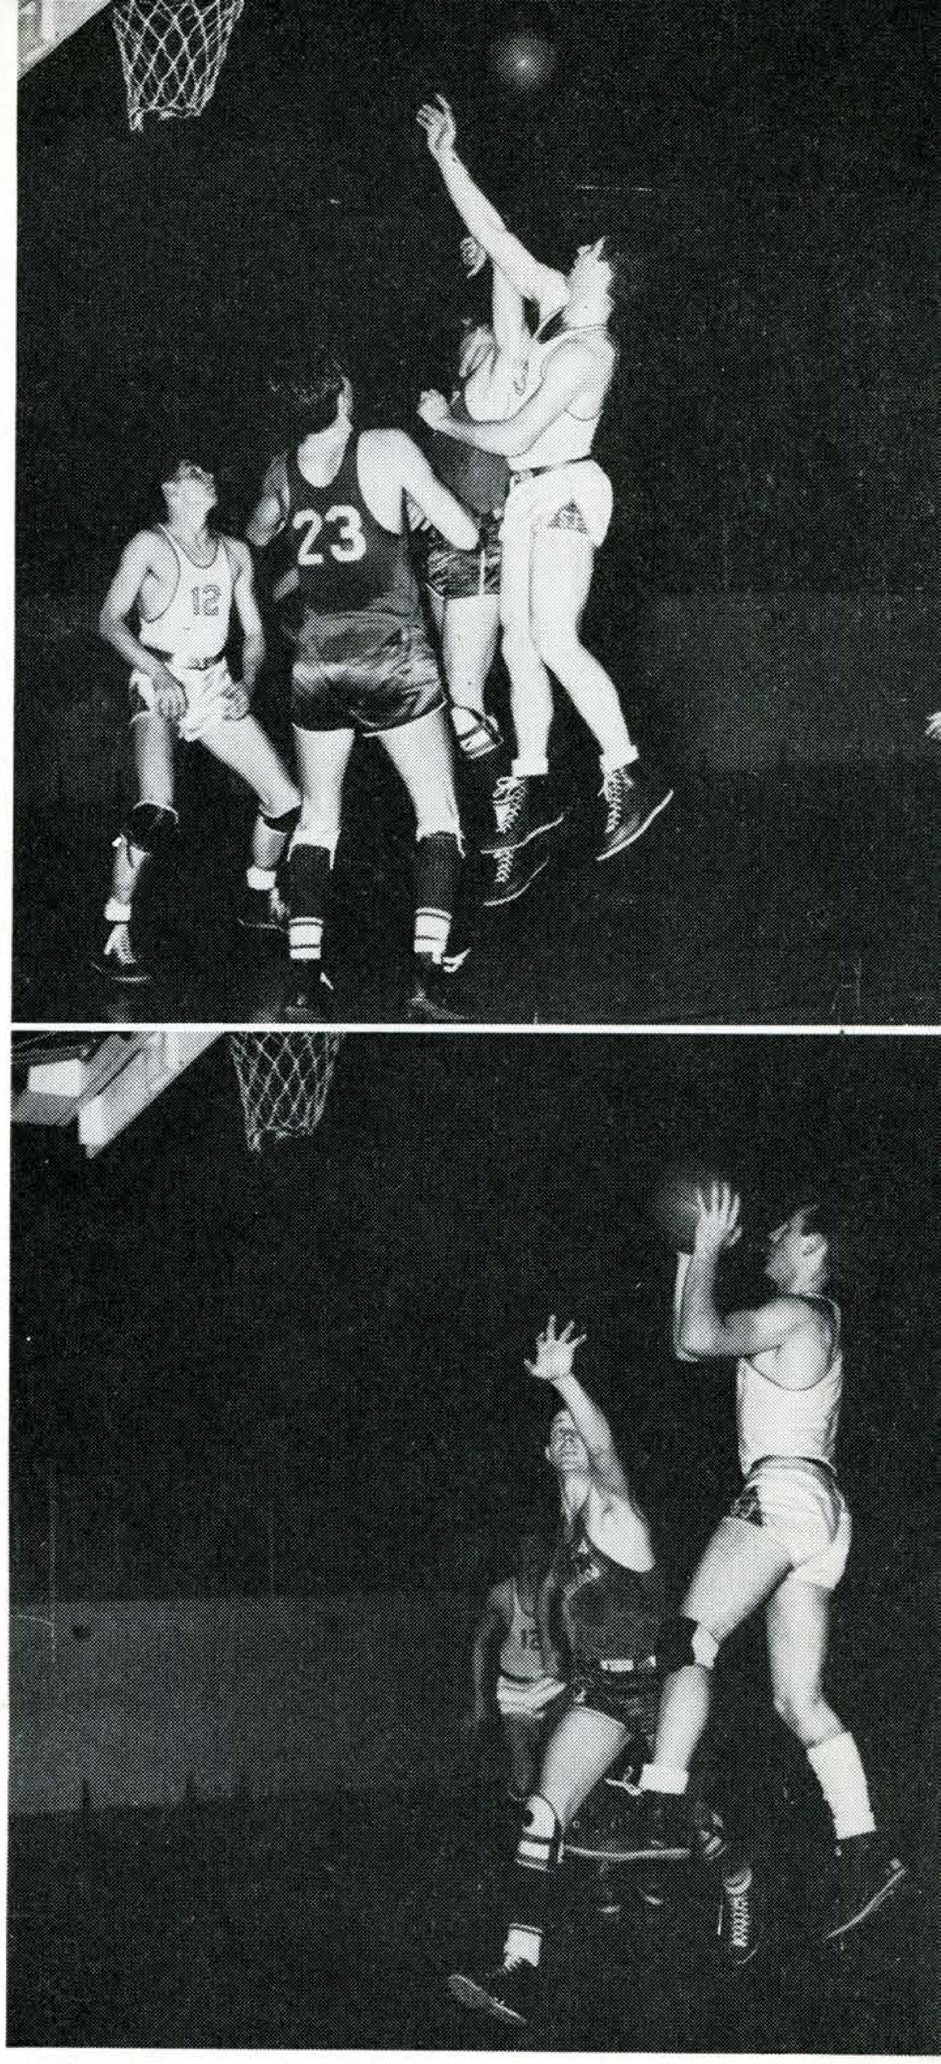

Playing in-and-out ball all season the Spartans could have fattened their win column by taking any of several one point overtime defeats that were chalked up against them. Despite the fact that they lacked a sure fire scoring punch the first of the year the Washington Square five always displayed a classy brand of ball handling and clever teamwork. Leading his mates in defense in every contest as well as being the fifth highest scorer on the squad was Captain Bert Robinson. From his guard position Robinson stayed off many opponent's rally in the closing minutes. In the concensus of coaches, players and fans alike he was judged one of the greatest casaba men in State's history.

Throughout the season the line-up remained virtually unchanged with Pete Filice as center, Robinson and Diederichsen at guards, and Willie Gamboa and Cas Breuer at forwards. These five were welded into a smooth working, snappy unit that give even the best teams plenty of court trouble.

Filice, although off to a late start, became the squad's offensive sparkplug and wound up the season right behind leader Cas Breuer in the point totals. Gamboa and Diederichsen were both team players and their steadiness salvaged many a close game.

Starting off with the toughest opponent they could schedule the Spartans dropped a close one to the Alameda Coast Guard five by All American Jim Pollard. They followed this up by trouncing a number of service teams, at the same time walloping U. S. F. on the Don home court. Hank Luisetti and his Pre-Flight squad dropped the Spartans as did C. O. P., San Francisco State, Occidental, Pepperdine and Oakland Naval Reserve.

The Bleshmen wound up the season with a record of 10 wins and 13 losses.

Spartan center, Pete Filice (13), goes skyward with a member of the Santa Barbara team in an attempt to recover a rebound.

Guard Roy Diederichsen gets up in the air, ready to dunk another two-pointer.

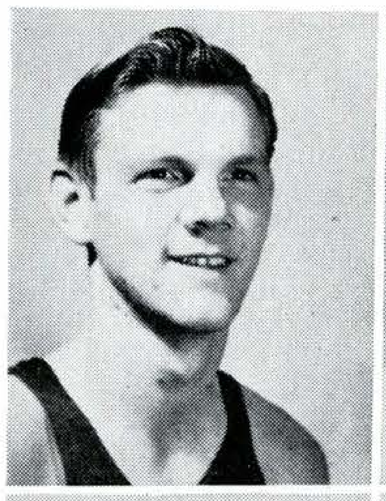

Frosh Basketball

By winning nine of the last eleven games, San Jose's 1943 frosh basketball squad finished a very successful campaign under the direction of two student mentors, Angelo Colombo and Bill Perry.

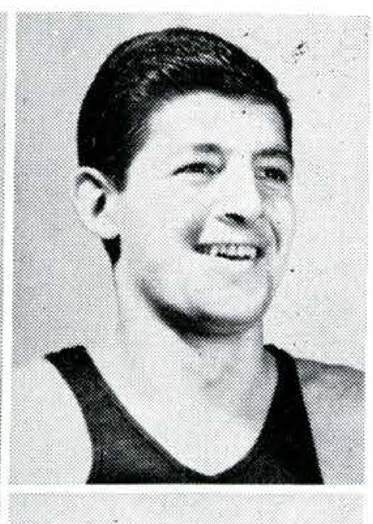

Although they suffered a lapse in the middle of the season and dropped four tilts in a row, they came back strong to wind up with a season record of 16 wins against 8 losses. All of the games were played against the neighboring high schools and junior colleges.

Jerry Vroom and Jimmy Johnson were the two individual scoring leaders as they recked up 111 and 109 points respectively in a close race. Lou Frangos, who held down a guard position, was elected captain for the season.

Baseball

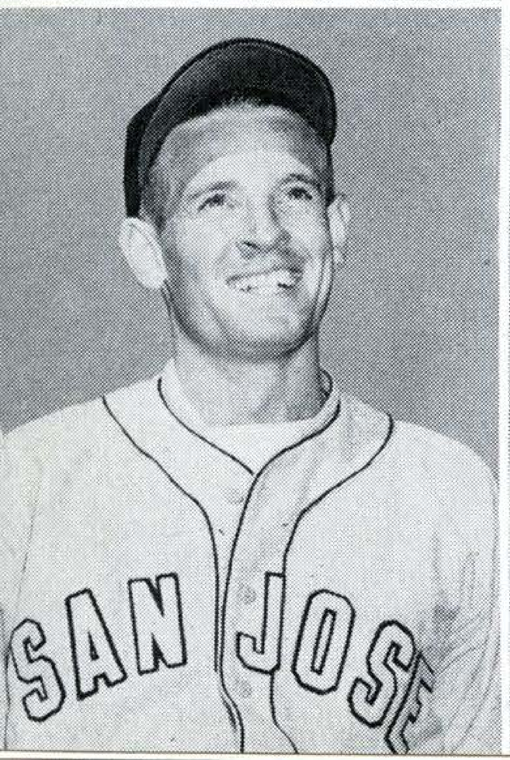

San Jose's 1943 baseball team enjoyed a mediocre season under the tutelage of Milton Lanyon, art instructor who volunteered to coach the team in the absence of Walt McPherson. Their season record was five wins against six losses, which was not so bad in view of the fact that competition was very much stronger this year than usual with the addition of the service teams. With Cyril Taylor, veteran second sacker, leading the hit parade with an average of .363, this team was one of the strongest hitting clubs in San Jose history. Five of the regulars pounded the ball at a clip better than .300. Taylor, a senior and three letterman, was unanimously elected captain for the campaign.

Track

For the track team, 1943 was a year marked by disappointments, loss of valuable men, and valiant attempts of the remainder of the team and a new coach to carry on "as usual." Only one team victory was hung up by San Jose, a win in dual meet over Fresno State. In all the rest of their attempts, the team met with failure. Losses were handed the locals by Stanford and California, and the Spartans also had to take a back seat in the multi-team meets: the Stanford Invitational, the Fresno Relays, the Modesto Invitational, and the PAA Championships. "Tiny" Hartranft took over the mentorship reins at the start of the season when incumbent coach "Bud" Winter was called into the Navy.

Dave Hines
Coach

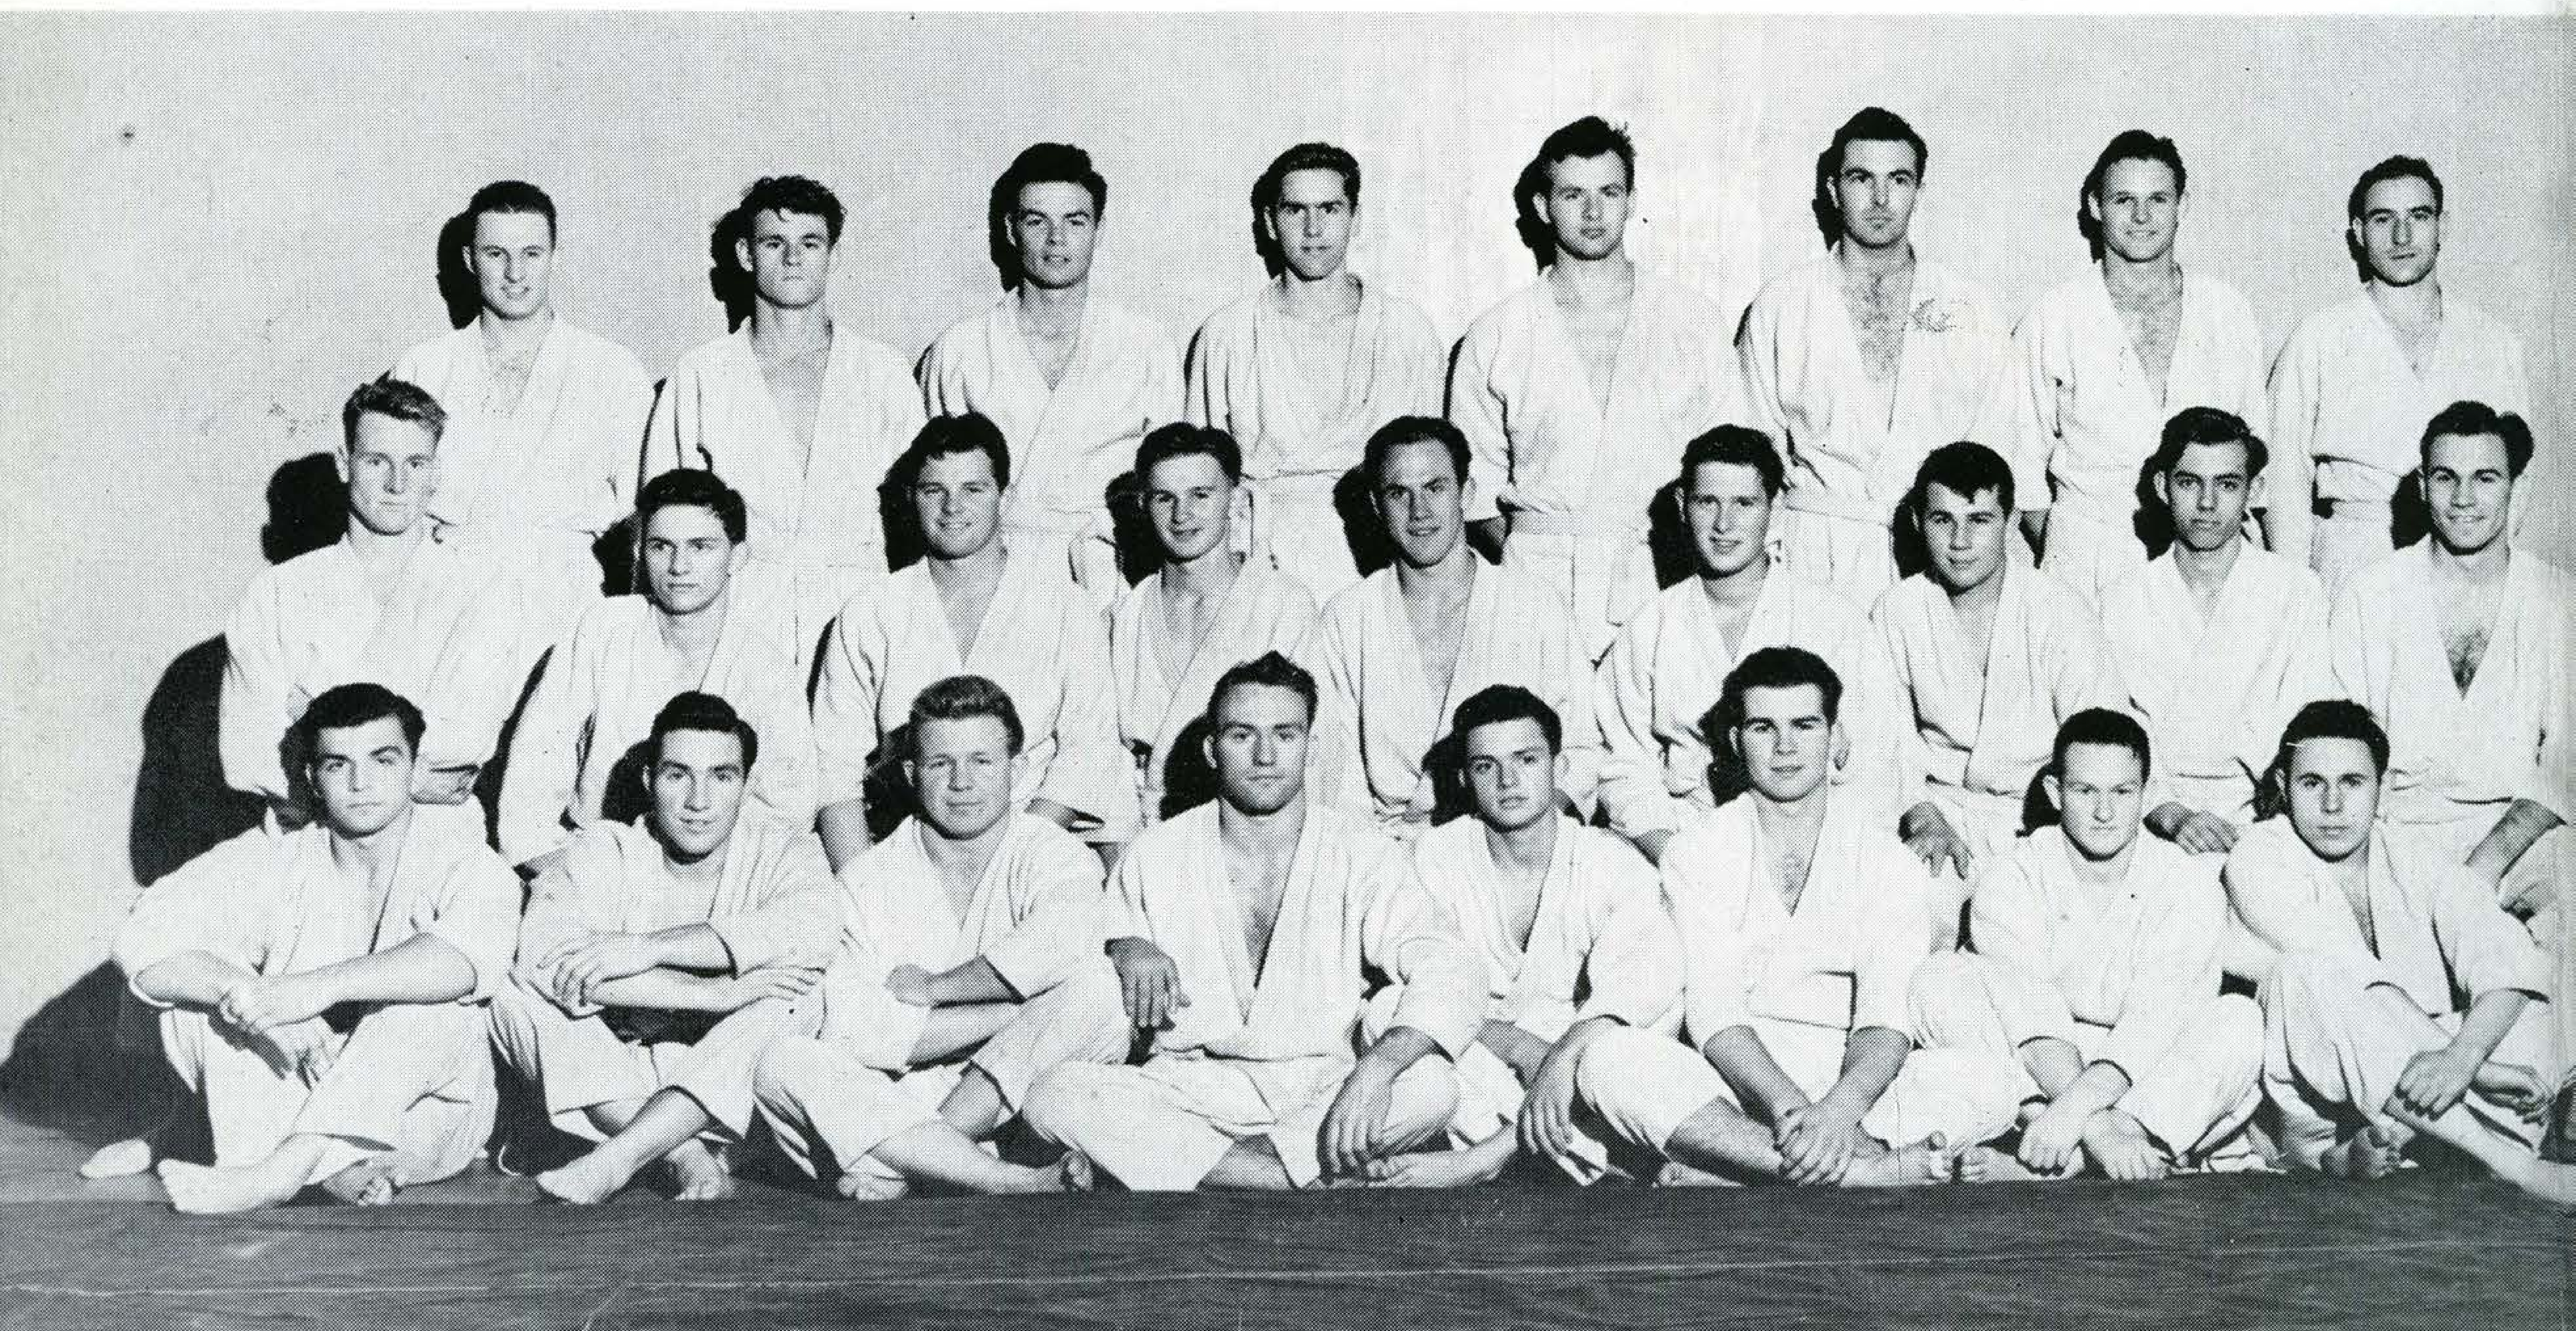

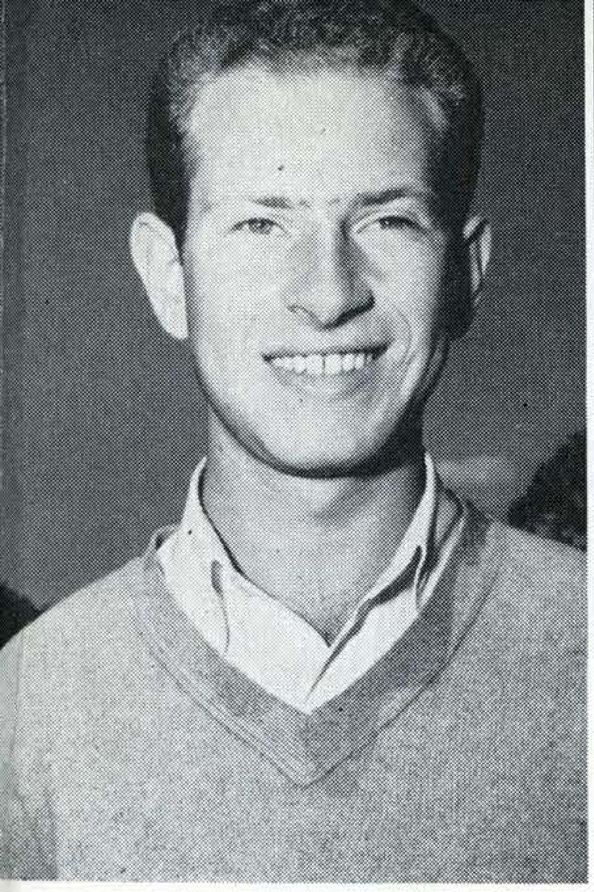

If the wrestling team was troubled with a "meet shortage" then the judo men were absolutely at a loss for opposition. They had no meets at all and were forced to give exhibitions as a preliminary to other sports events.

Captained and coached by Davey Hines, the judo team concentrated for the most part in tutoring the PEV reservists. With the Navy and Marines requiring one hour a day of physical education for each reservist, the judo men were drafted to teach the essentials of hand to hand combat.

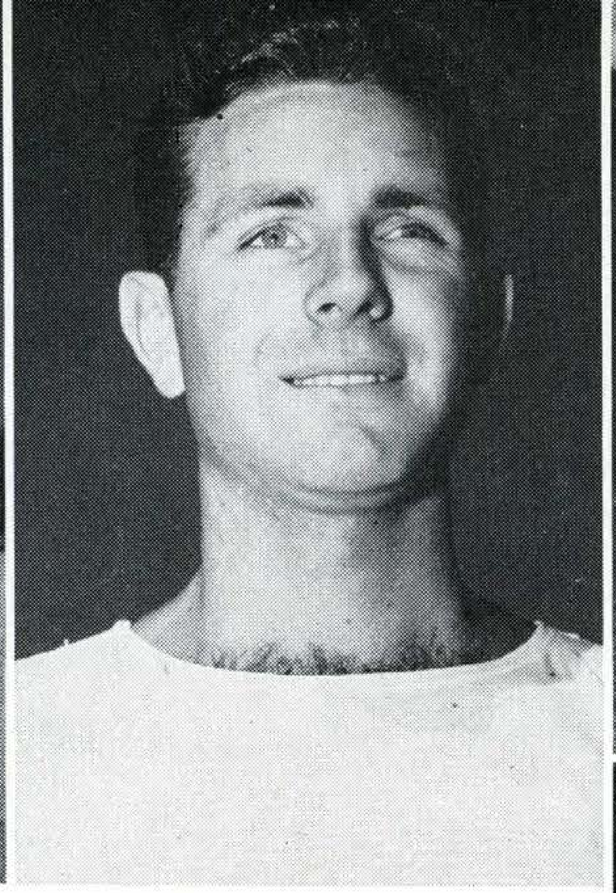

Hines and Hans Wiedenhofer gave several demonstrations of the art before local civic groups in addition to their tutoring activities.

Soccer

With an undefeated season, and the NCI title to their credit, San Jose State's soccermen rank as the most successful Spartan athletes of the year.

Under the direction of a new student-coach, Roy Diederichsen, the shinkickers notched up six successive victories during the course of the season, and by winning the NCI crown made 1943 the fourth year in a row that San Jose has been champions of the league.

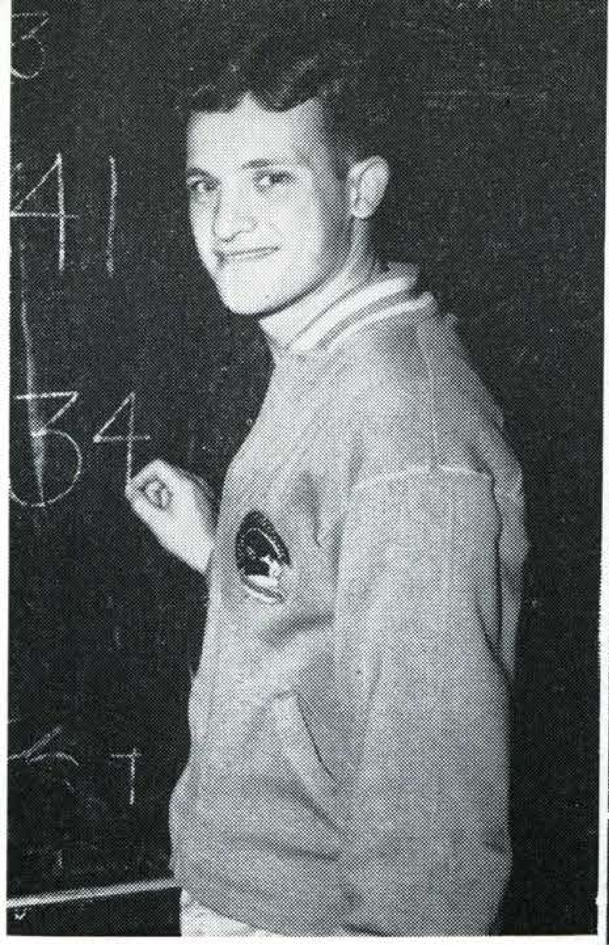

A squad, composed largely of seasoned veterans, was responsible for the outstanding performances turned in by the team. Coach Diederichsen, Bud Racoosin, Dale Nelson, Izzy Gold, Ivan Olson, Jack Breslin, Augie Avila, Bill Duran, Hugh Manley, and Stan Smith, all last-year men, were instrumental in the Spartan's victories.

Water Polo

Under the direction of a new coach, and riddled by the loss of many of its key men, San Jose's water polo team nevertheless managed to splash its way through a fairly successful season.

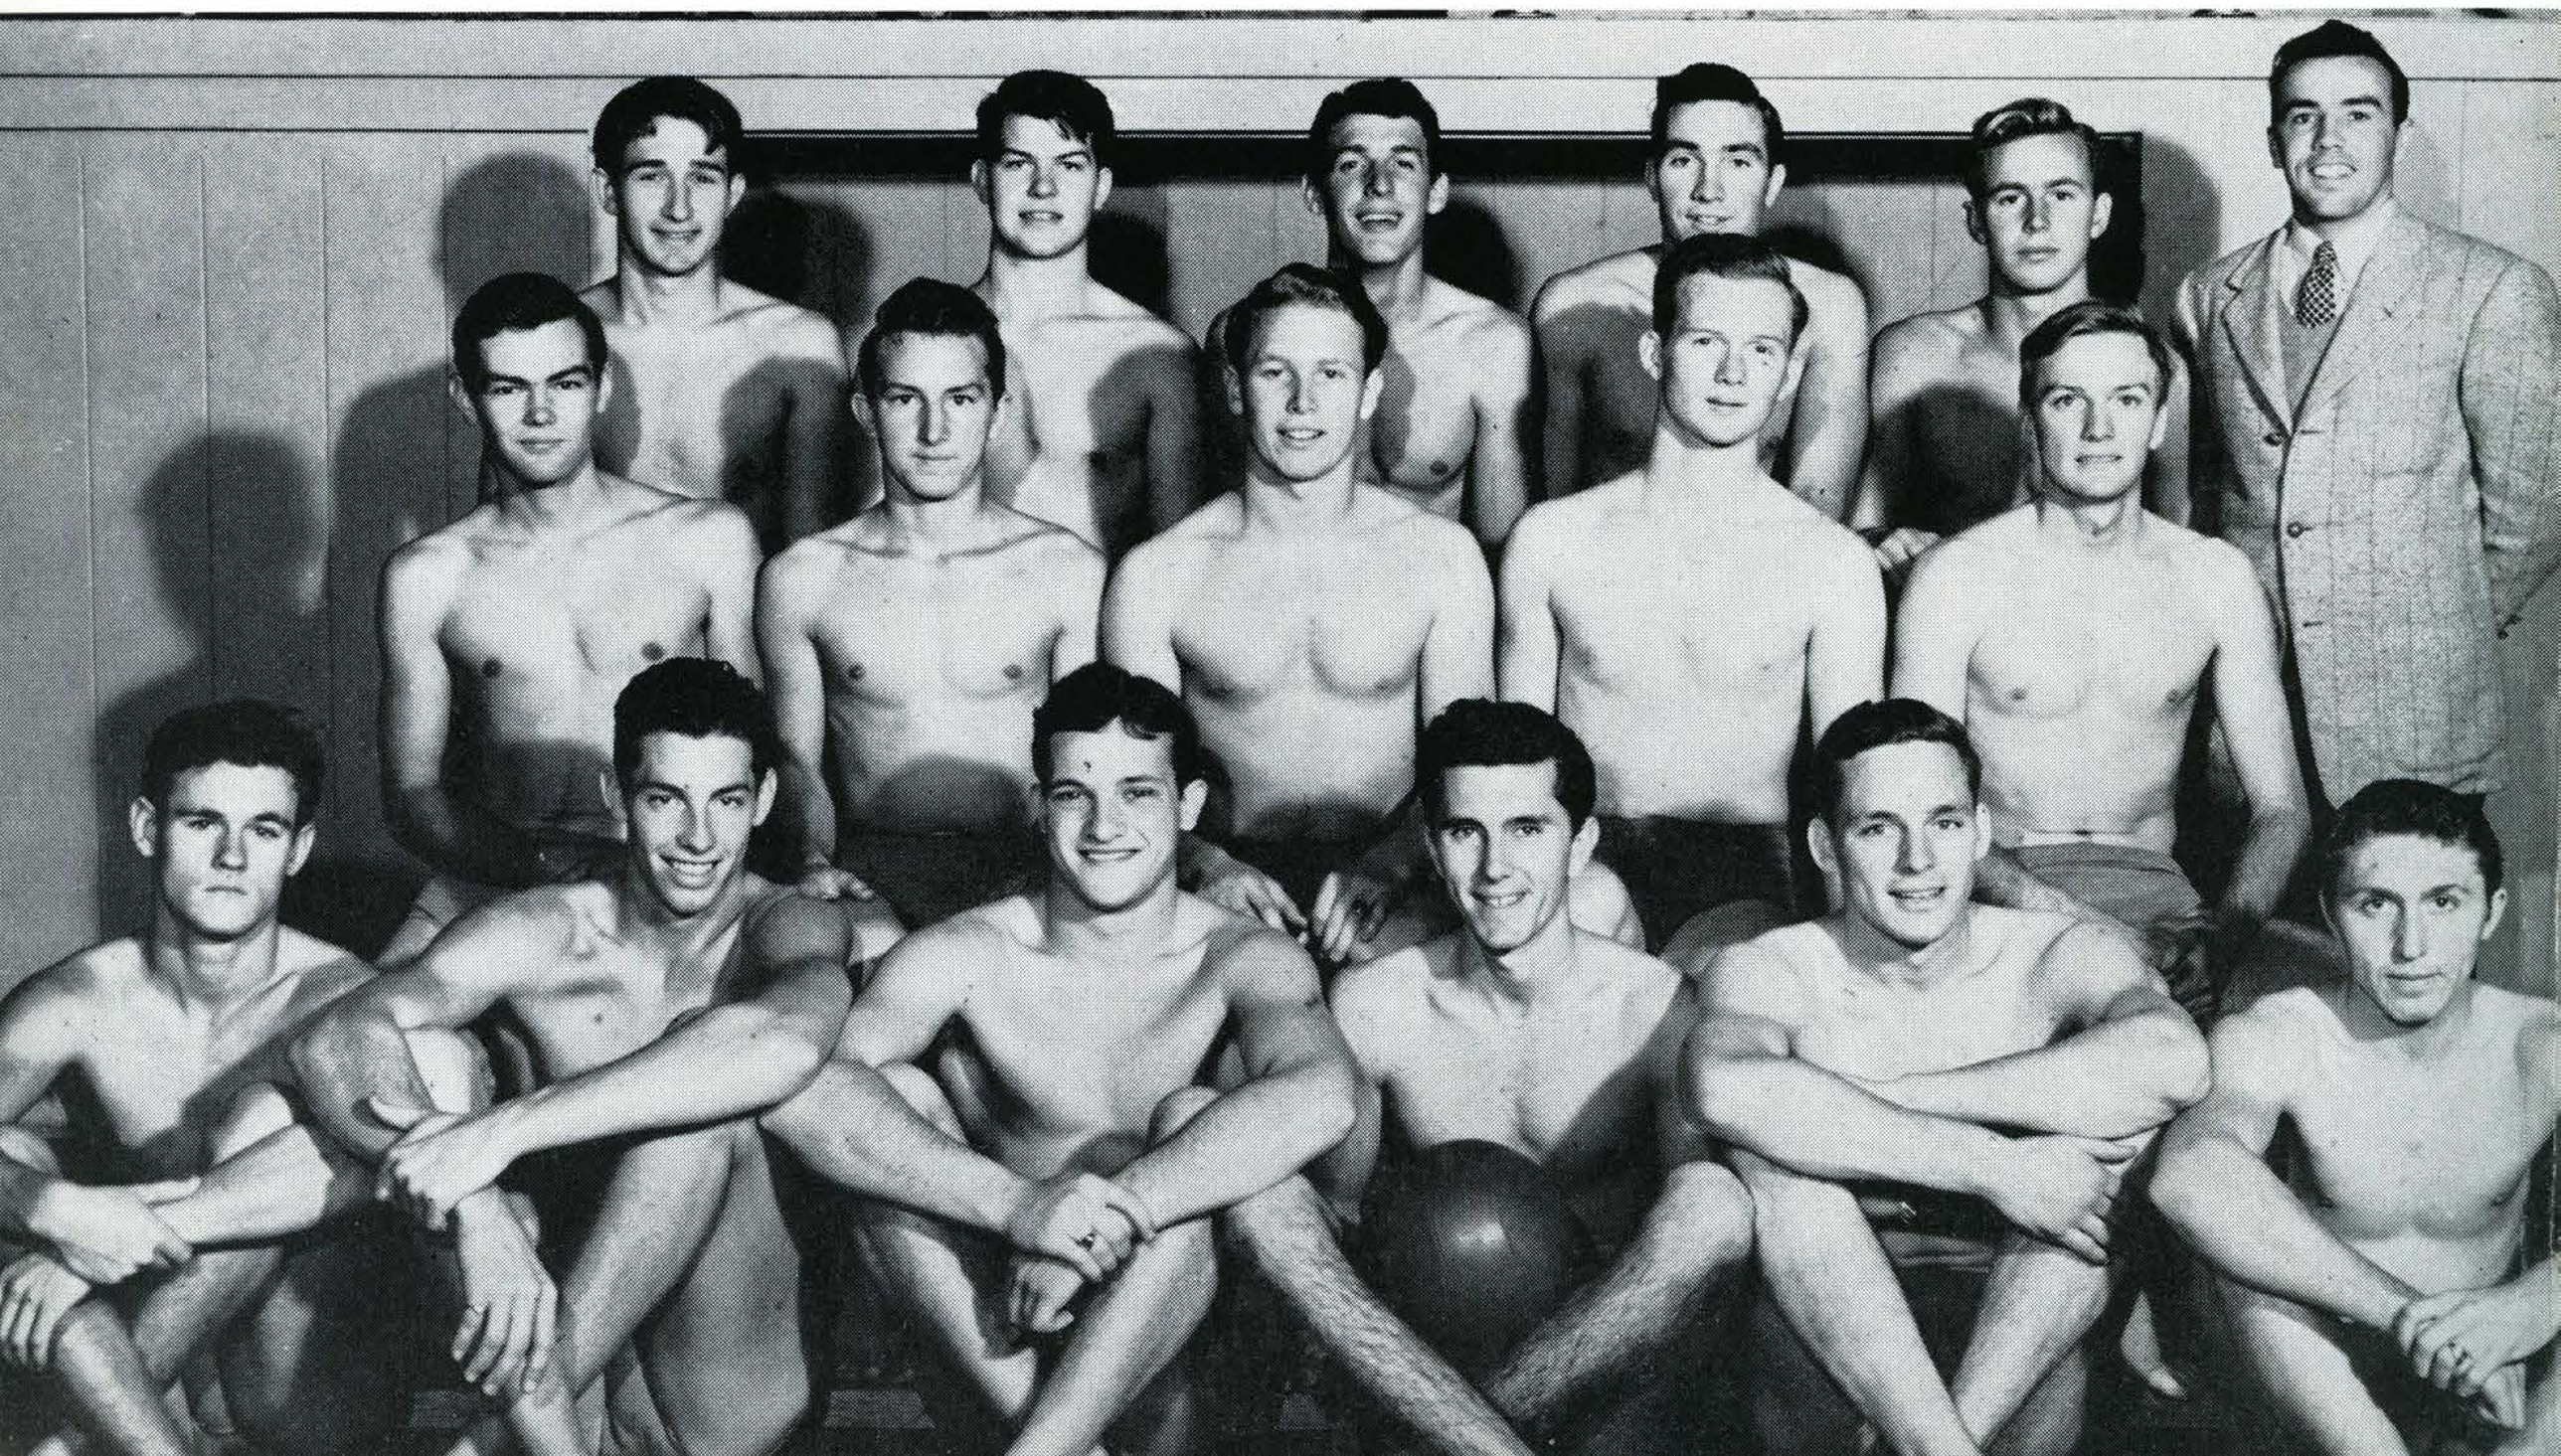

Claude Horan, who took over the mentorship reins when Charley Walker left for the Navy, did a good job with the material that was left to him, winding up the campaign with a .333 average—two wins, and four defeats.

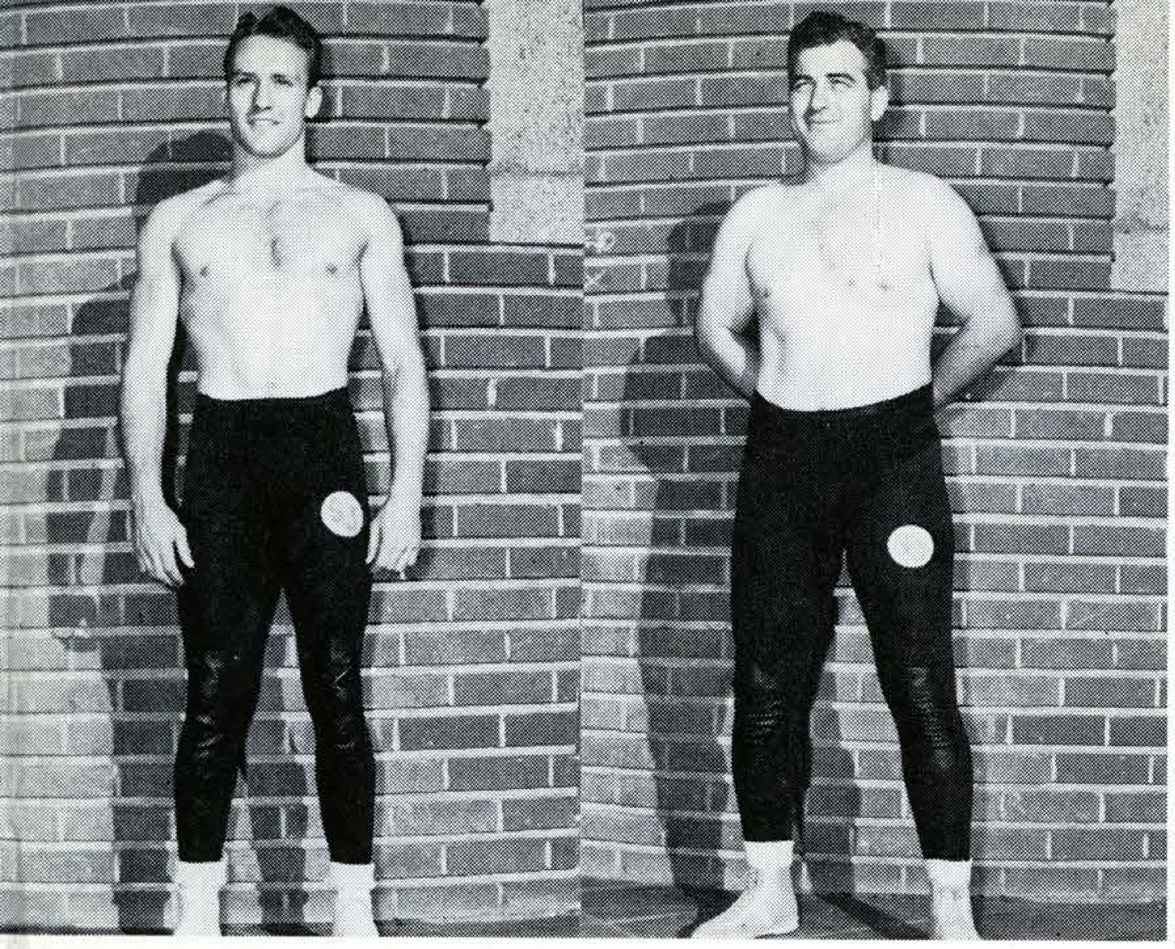

Both victories were scored over the Olympic Club, with the four losses being divided evenly between Stanford and California—two to each.

Outstanding mermen for San Jose were Danny Meehan, goalie; the sensational freshman, Ed. Rudolf; the veteran Doug Bacon; and the dependable Roger Frelier.

Game scores for the year were: Stanford 7, San Jose 5; San Jose 17, Olympic Club 6; Stanford 9, San Jose 6; San Jose 9, Olympic Club 2; California 16, San Jose 5; California 10, San Jose 5.

Wrestling

Inability to find enough meets was a big factor in the success of the wrestling squad this season. Coach Sam Della Maggiore had a well balanced, experienced team at the season's start with an ambitious schedule before him. But the drafting of several of his biggest stars and the dropping of the sport by several prospective opponents knocked the year into a cocked hat. The Spartan grapplers did manage to salvage the Far Western championships out of a jumbled year but they lacked more than one consistant winner in the remainder of their meets. Only all around man on the squad was veteran Hans Wiedenhofer, team captain and winner of the Roumasset trophy.

A green squad, a new coach joined forces with a fierce spirit of competition to chalk up one of the greatest years in Spartan boxing history. Minus the services of ex-coach Dee Portal the leather slingers were guided in an inspired manner by former boxer Brenton Riley.

Riley molded his aggregation of novice and All College champs into a formidable outfit that failed to drop a single dual meet and wound up with an unblemished record as well as a second place winner in the Nationals. Stan Smith, rugged middleweight, was the runner-up in the Nationals and was probably the key man in most of the Spartan victories.

Service teams and college squads alike fell before the hammering fists of the State men and their most satisfying triumphs were recorded over Stanford and California.
