EVENTS

* The new Fordham University Armenian Club, under founding President Artur Sedrakyan and faculty advisor Harold Takooshian, hosted a series of six well-attended bimonthly forums in 2009, including several SAS members among 26 experts and community leaders, to address the Fordham and NYC community. The six timely topics were: (1) "Armenians in the 21st Century" (13 Jan). (2) "The future of Christians in the Middle East?" (10 March). (3) "Career resources for Armenian students and families" (12 May). (4) "Eastern Turkey today: Armenian views" (15 Sept). (5) "Americans building Armenia" (10 Nov). (6) "Armenia-Turkey Protocols: Reality and Myths" (17 Dec). This series was made possible without a single dollar from Student Activities funds, thanks to Fordham Armenian Club partnership with supportive community leaders, including Bryan Ardouny of the Armenian Assembly, Marc Mamigonian of NAASR, Natalie Gabrielian of AGBU. February 2010

* "The Life and Sacred Music of St. Nerses Shnorhali." The life and sacred music of St. Nerses Shnorhali were celebrated on Sunday, 21 February jointly by United Armenian Congregational Church and USC Institute of Armenian Studies. This memorable event, combining commentary interspersed with music, took place at the UACC Sanctuary where an audience of over 350 filled the pews. Shnorhali was an extraordinary church leader in 12th century Cilicia. After Senior Pastor Rev. Ron Tovmassian's opening message, Prof. R. Hrair Dekmejian, Director of the Institute, spoke about the challenges facing Shnorhali, his leadership style, belief system, diplomatic achievements, writings, and church music. The UACC Chancel Choir, conducted by Hovan Tajerian, magnificently performed Shnorhali's sharagans and other sacred music.

* "Légion Arménienne: The Armenian Legion and Its Heroism in the Middle East," a traveling exhibit developed and prepared by the Armenian Library and Museum of America (ALMA), was on display at the University of Michigan-Dearborn's Alfred Berkowitz Gallery from 26 February through 28 March 2010. The exhibit explores the formation, training, military action, and post-war activities of this all-volunteer force from World War I through photographs and narratives. The exhibit's display at the Alfred Berkowitz Gallery was a special project of the Armenian Research Center at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, which, together with the Arab-American Studies Program at the university, provided supplementary material for the Dearborn leg of this traveling exhibit. Among the items provided by the Armenian Research Center was a selection of primary and secondary sources on the Armenian Legion, available at its John Vigen Der Manuelian Library, plus an annotated bibliography prepared by Ara Sanjian, the Center's Director. Dr. Barbara Merguerian of ALMA presented a lecture entitled "A Struggle for Justice in the Middle East: The Story of the Armenian Legion in World War I."

The following scholars have committed themselves to presenting papers at the conference: Lerna Ekmekçioğlu (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor); Karen Khachatryan (Institute of History, National Academy of Sciences, Armenia); Amatuni Virabyan (National Archives of Armenia); Talar Chahinian (University of California, Los Angeles); Vartan Matiossian (Independent scholar, New Jersey); Taline Ter Minassian (Institut national des langues orientales, Paris); Asbed Kotchikian (Bentley University); Vicken Cheterian (CIMERA, Geneva); and Jean-Robert Raviot (University of Paris Ouest Nanterre La Défense). * 25 – 27 October 2010 (Buenos Aires, Argentina). II International Seminar on the Politics of Memory: Remembering Walter Benjamin: Justice, History and Truth. Writings on Memory. Hosting Institution: Haroldo Conti Cultural Center for Memory, National Memory Archive, Argentina's National Human Rights Secretariat. Location: Haroldo Conti Cultural Center for Memory (Place for Memory and the Promotion and Defense of Human Rights – former ESMA). The Memory of the Armenian Genocide Foundation and Luisa Hairabedian Foundation call for abstracts and papers on the panel topics of violence, state, memory, and education. The conference seeks to rethink the Armenian Genocide through the writings of Walter Benjamin. While vainly seeking refuge in a continent ravaged by war and racial hatred, Walter Benjamin foresaw like no other the extent of the catastrophe. Noting how cultural facts and barbaric facts were often confused, his "On the Concept of History" would turn out to be prophetic of the Holocaust that was perpetrated and suffered by the most developed countries on earth. Today

Benjamin's work is being increasingly visited by those who, discarding old certainties, search for a new horizon of justice. To remember Benjamin at one of the most notorious centers of torture and extermination set up by the Argentine dictatorship, in which 5,000 people were "disappeared," is to admit how fruitful his thought can be for our work about memory. In opposition to those who claim oblivion and deny justice, we continue, like Benjamin, searching our history for that spark of hope, and acknowledging our debt to a past that still awaits redemption.
