If I Don't Write Anything, Am I Still The Editor?

A Letter From Your Editor

Well, ladles and jellyspoons, welcome to this very special edition of Barracuda. As you regular readers will doubtlessly notice, there is, in fact very little to actually read this issue.

If you have never read this magazine before, I must caution you that the magazine is not always like this—wall-to-wall with winsome women, a plethora of pulchritude, a tumult of tantalizing toothsomeess!

Normally, this magazine has actual, for-real articles full of words sammiched in between the lovely lasses. Lo, this is a special edition, an all-Barracuda Girl edition to celebrate our gall-derned seventh anniversary.
They ain't all like this.

Doubtlessly, many of you will ask why I did this. Even more of you will ask why I did not do this sooner!

Now, I have always wanted to do a Barracuda Girl pin-up calendar. However, you have to finish the production of a calendar by the middle of the summer in order to allow time for it to be printed and shipped to stores by the beginning of November.

In spite of how business-minded as I like to believe that I am, for seven years in a row, I only remember that making a calendar would be a good idea when I see them on store shelves—in December. Hey, I said I was business-minded, I never said I was smart.

Besides that, I always thought it would be kind of a shame to put all the effort into making some kind of an all-Barracuda Girl whatnot and not have it wind up in the hands of our loyal subscribers.

So, making the seventh anniversary issue (or as I like to call it, the "seven year itch issue") also an all-girl issue seemed like a good idea. I suppose you could make a calendar out of this issue if it really seems like a must-have. Just take some post-it notes, draw the calendar on them and stick them on the various pages. It's less work for me that way.

Of course, I fear that one of two things will happen with this issue. First, a large number of subscribers will be truly miss the articles. I swear on my life that I very often have people say to me, "The Barracuda Girls—ooh la la! But I really do read all the articles!" The second thing I fear happening is that a large number of subscribers will say, "It's about time you got rid of all them words and articles and junk." So, to head off this sort of problem, for the next six months, I will be charging $80 an hour to field unsolicited criticism, with a one hour minimum charge, billed in half hour increments after the first hour. Visa, Mastercard, Discover, American Express and cash are cheerfully accepted.

Truth be told, I'm afraid that it will be hard for me to go back to the old format. Like Flowers For Algernon, I might not know what I have been missing until I have to go back.
What? Too literary of a sub-reference for the all-girl issue? Give me a break.

Another aspect of this issue that I thought would be fun is the ability to add in a whole bunch of previously unpublished photos from our photo archives. Now, with DVDs, you're expected to pay extra to see the "bonus materials," which are essentially the worst parts of the movie. It's stuff so bad that they couldn't put it in. That's like if you went to breakfast and the waitress asked you if you would like to pay $2.50 more to get the egg shells and coffee grinds thrown on top of your food.

But the Barracuda Girl shoots are a whole different magilla entirely. Each photo set uses a minimum of four and usually a maximum of eight photos. Most often, at least 40 photos are shot, sometimes close to a hundred are shot, sometimes with different outfits or in different scenarios. Unfortunately, there's a lot of great stuff left over that I just really cannot fit in the issue. However, not one to throw the baby out with the bathwater, I purposefully set kept a file of photos that just broke my heart because I couldn't run them due to space or editorial restrictions. And if this isn't the perfect opportunity to publish them, I don't know what is.

I am also very pleased that the larger quantity and variety of Barracuda Girl photos will allow us to feature photos by excellent photographers that we have not been able to accommodate previously with this very special, article-free edition. Well, gentle reader, enjoy! And let's hope I can speak in something other than bad puns and corny wordplay when this issue is done!

Classy Lassy!

Barracuda Girl

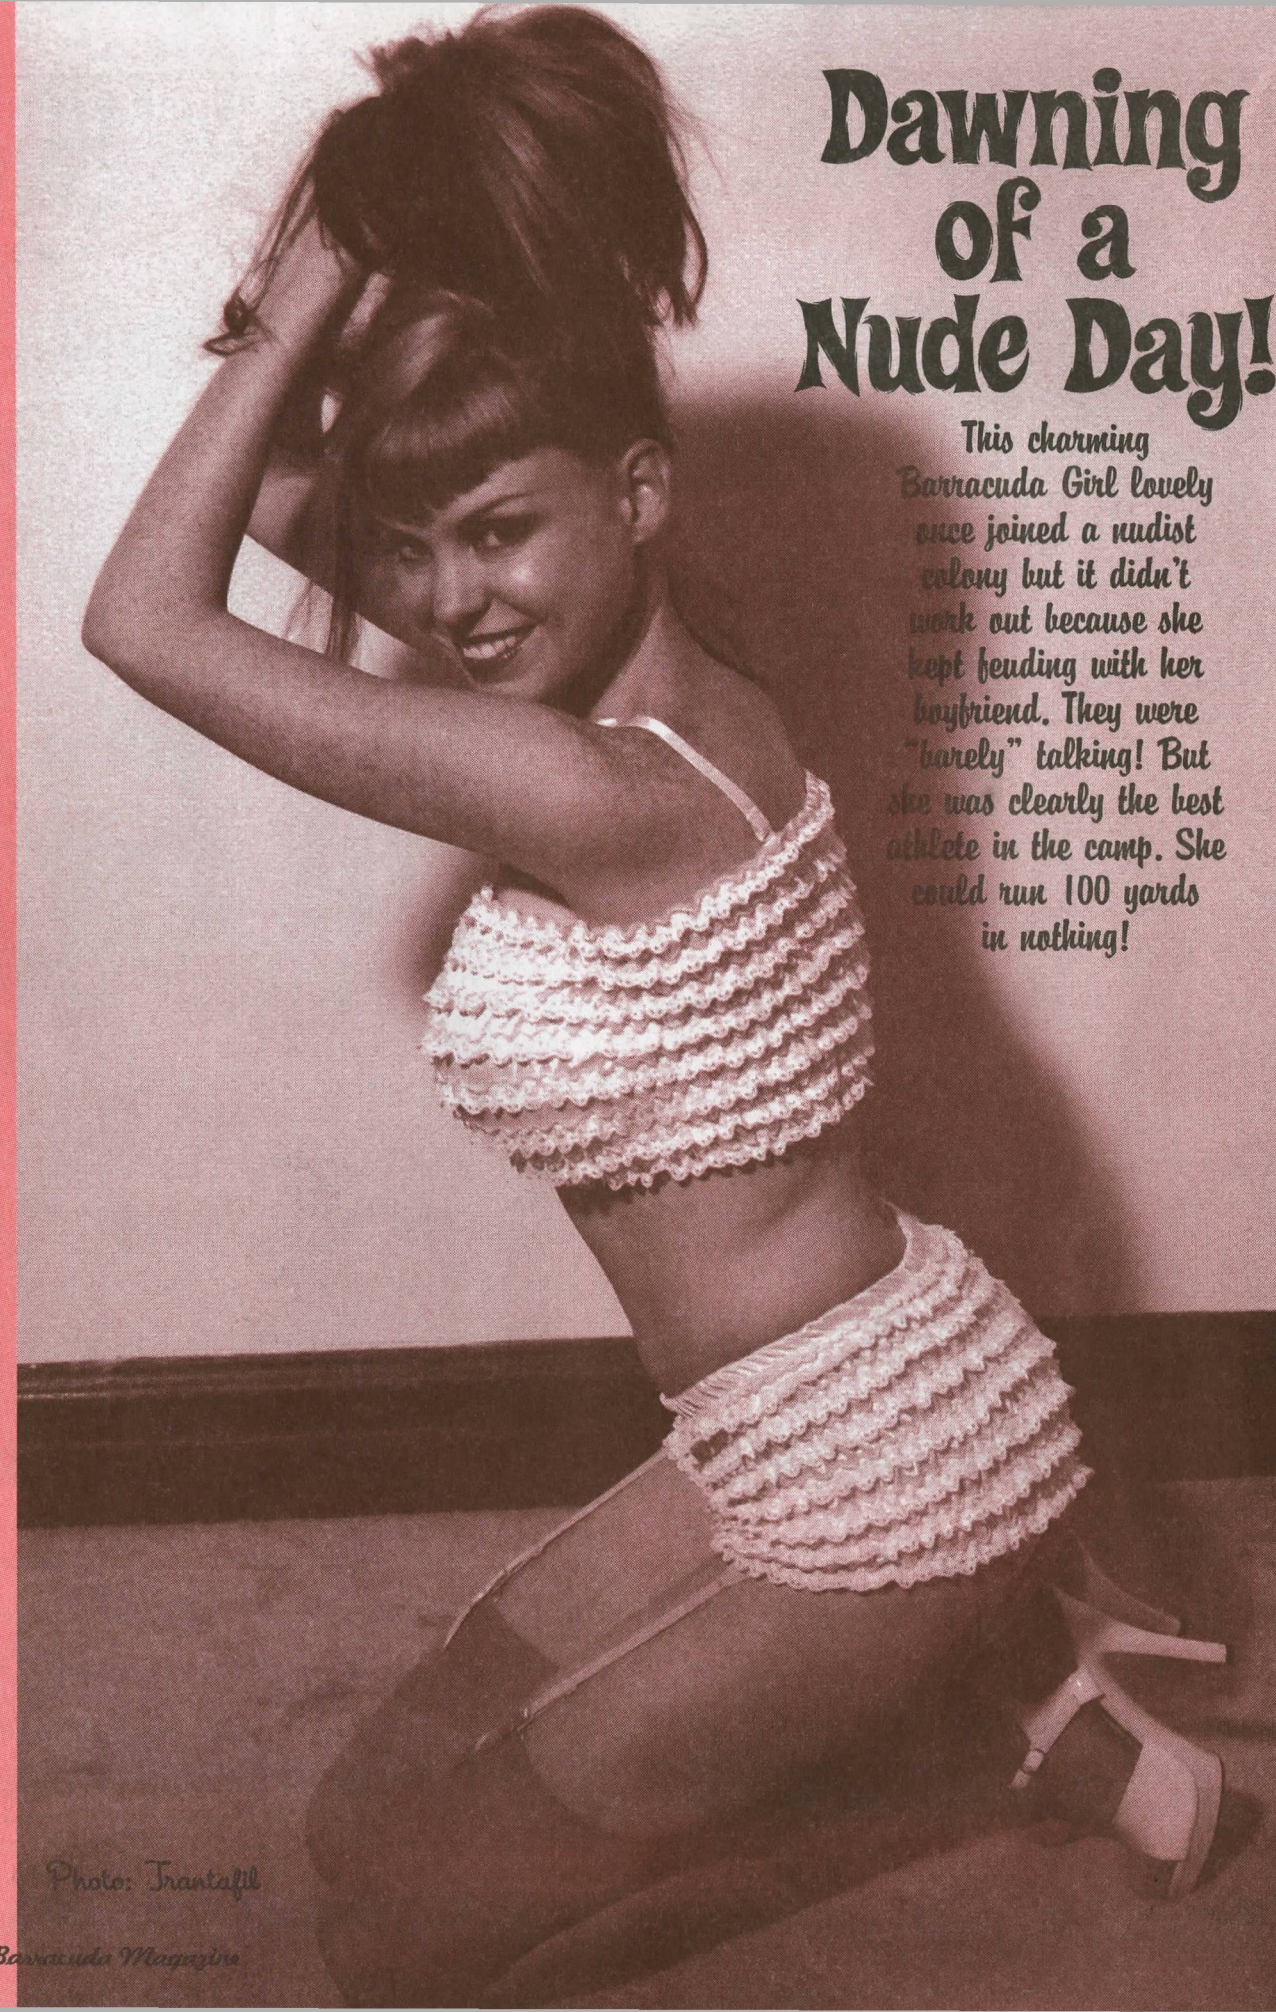

Behind The Scenes!

Wanna be transported to a tropical island paradise? It's easy! Raid the firewood pile for a log, drag it into the garage, stick an associate editor on a stool on top of it for "safety" and there you have it. The illusion is complete! What the readers and OSHA don't know won't hurt them!

We don't wanna say Smitty's a skin-flint when it comes to Barracuda Girl sets, but when he pays the model a compliment, he asks for a receipt!

A full-page photograph of a woman with dark hair and bangs, smiling and posing. She is wearing a two-piece bikini with thick, ruffled, light-colored fabric. She is leaning back slightly with one arm raised behind her head. The background is a plain, light-colored wall. The photo is framed by a red border on the left and right sides.

Dawning of a Nude Day!

This charming Barracuda Girl lovely once joined a nudist colony but it didn't work out because she kept feuding with her boyfriend. They were "barely" talking! But she was clearly the best athlete in the camp. She could run 100 yards in nothing!

These two Barracuda cover girls don't need to be competitive with each other! They know how to play nice! And why not? There's plenty of beauty to go around! Why, these two both have such shapely legs that they're proclaiming it from the hose-tops! But these are two sharp ladies. If you're a single man full of double-talk, don't try to ploy them with rum and coax! Try to feed these two chic chicks a bum-steer line and you might wind up going to the dogs!

A vintage-style photograph of a woman with dark hair and bangs, smiling and sitting on a large tiger-print rug. She is wearing a black, off-the-shoulder, ruffled bodysuit. Her legs are crossed, and she is barefoot. In the background, there is a wooden cabinet with several drawers and a framed picture on top. The entire image is framed by a green and white patterned border.

HIDDEN CHARMS!

This Barracuda Girl is looking for a real cave man—one hug and kiss and he'll cave in! She called her last date “dry cleaner” because he had a reputation for working fast and leaving no ring! Just because a fella tells her she has hidden charms, that doesn't mean he can start hunting for them!
