Each year, California State University, Fresno awards over a thousand scholarships totaling more than one million dollars to incoming and continuing students. Institutional scholarships range from $100 to almost $5,000 and are awarded to both undergraduate and graduate students who have a high level of academic achievement.

Factors for Consideration Scholastic Achievement

- Academic major or career interests
- Involvement in school organizations
- Leadership and participation in community activities
- Full-time enrollment

Depending on specific donor criteria these factors can vary, so regardless of accomplishments, interests, or background, we encourage all students to apply online for consideration of general and departmental scholarships.
