

Mayor Jane M. Tolmach
City of Oxnard.
California, U.S.A.

Again has come the time that we the Ocatlanses have waited for and that is to go visit you and get together with you our brothers although it is just for a few days, but to let us stretch of fraternal bonds of friendship that unite our cities.

Under the banner of peace and friendship that unite the cities on earth fortune touches us, being with in you and together conveniently putting our small grain of sand to fortify the peaceful international co-existence and for the time to come Vehcmen the humanity.

In this epoch in which every moment the two cities are enjoying a complete liberty and soverence in all aspects we well remember the phrase of the well deserving of the Americas Don Benito Juarez the rights and respect for other is peace, phrase the served to guide our beloved Mexico and the sanction of it the committee realizes this trip of good will.

With the great Ocotlense fraternal spirit for you the committee also sends the appreciation and esteem that our city feels for that of Oxnard now that both coincide in spirit in labor and love that is felt for others.

Receive greetings and love of the City of Ocotlan for you brethern of Oxnard.
