

4 SEPT 1954

CMA Will Get New Building

The California Maritime Academy will get a new engineering building through an appropriation listed among state building projects during the current fiscal year, it was announced today in Sacramento.

The structure, according to state architect Anson Boyd, will cost ~~$5,393,500~~. 800,000

Also included in the state's construction program is a $332,400 chapel building at Napa State Hospital.